BALDWIN EXPECTED TO RESIGN TUESDAY AND LABOR ASSUME POWER

Sense of Unreality Brooded Over Wednesday's Debates and the Premier Himself Appeared Weary--MacDonald and Cabinet Will Take Three Weeks to Organize and Rehearse.

Few Speeches Remain.

LONDON, Jan. 17.— A division on the Labor Party's non-confidence amendment will be taken in the House of Commons at 11 o'clock Monday night, it was practically decided yesterday. This means that the Baldwin Government will resign Tuesday. Parliament will then adjourn probably for three weeks, to allow J. Ramsay MacDonald to form a cabinet and get his ministers versed in the routine of their novel positions before they face Parliament again.

While waiting for the culmination of these developments, there is a sense of unreality and half-heartedness about the debates in the Commons. The Prime Minister himself is said to be showing signs of weariness and apathy .

Labor in a Hurry.

Some of the Labor men yesterday tried to hurry affairs, so that in the event of a railway strike materializing during the week-end the new Labor Government should be in power to deal with it. But there are a number of Liberal speakers anxious to make their case for supporting Labors' non-confidence amendment clear in the eyes of their constituents, and their speeches will occupy most of Fridays' sitting and pushing the division over to Monday.

The debate in the Commons yesterday for the most part concerned foreign affairs, especially the relations with France and Belgium in regard to reparations. When the debate was adjourned last night the way was clear for John Robert Clynes to move as the first business to-day Labor's non-confidence amendment.

Her Maiden Speech.

The first woman member to address the new House was Miss Susan Lawrence, who, in her maiden speech complained that the speech from the throne omitted any reference to the important subject of education.

Leif Jones, newly elected member for Cornwall, spoke strongly in favour of the Government taking action on this side to prevent the smuggling of liquor into the United States. He contended that cargoes should be examined here and measures taken to insure that they were delivered into the port to which they were consigned. He did not see why "get-rich-quick" men in this country should be allowed to associate with American law-breakers in breaking the laws of friendly State.

Tuesday Coldest Day in Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Jan. 17.— Intense frost gripped Western Canada Tuesday night, the lowest temperature of the winter season to date being registered in Winnipeg and at various points in the west.

The thermometer sank to 30 below in Winnipeg, two degrees colder than the lowest previous mark on January 8, when it touched 28 below.

The forecast is for fair and very cold weather. The two coldest places in Saskatchewan to report yesterday morning were Swift Current and Battleford.

BRITISH AMITY AGAIN RESUMED

Venizelos Press Gratified By Renewal of Relations and Hope United States Will Show Recognition.

ATHENS, Jan. 17—The Venizelos newspapers are jubilant over Great Britain's resumption of relations with Greece and express the hope that the United States will follow this lead. The Foreign Office said yesterday that it has instructed the Greek ambassador at Washington to sound the United States on the subject of recognition, and is hoping to receive a favorable reply before the end of the present week.

At its session Tuesday night the Greek Cabinet considered the question of removing the ban placed by the late revolutionary government against the royalist newspapers. The Cabinet decided however, that inasmuch as the ban was a revolutionary decree it would leave revocation to the constituent assembly with the recommendation that it be abolished. By also leaving the question of the amnesty or banishment of military officers or civilians imprisoned for participation in the recent counter-revolution to the assembly, the cabinet indicates a desire to respect the revolutionary decree and its unwillingness to set a precedent by abrogating them without consulting the assembly.

Although Premier Venizelos insists that the Officers' League, which forced the banishment of the king, has been dissolved, many are of the belief that General Othonaios, General Pangelos and other Republican officers are keeping the machinery intact, awaiting the outcome of the plebiscite.

SHOULD NOT KEEP GOOD TURN SECRET

When the Chamber of Commerce gives you some direct assistance in the way of information, statistics, trade advice or transportation service, do you acknowledge it, or do you keep it a secret?

Recognition of Chamber of Commerce, and a good word for the Chamber when talking to friends, serves a two-fold purpose. It encourages those performing the service, and it strengthens the Chamber's position as an organization for community service.

Do not keep it a secret when the Chamber serves you. Give the organization credit for what it does.

MOONLIGHT DANCES ARE FAVORED BY THE STUDENTS

KINGSTON, Jan. 17.—"Moonlight" dances, which were formerly given place on the programmes of all the Faculty dances at Queen's University, were barred by the University Senate this fall, but the Alma Mater Society, the self-governing student body, at its regular meeting held last night, voted in favor of the revival of these popular numbers. Just what action will be taken by the Senate is not yet known, and with the annual at-home of the Arts Faculty coming on January 30, the outcome of the discussion is being awaited with much interest.

BELIEVE SEPARATISTS MOVE IS NOT GENUINE

Opinion of British Government Is That Rhineland Agitations Have Been "Engineered" And Do Not Represent Wish of People.

LONDON, Jan. 17. — The Separatist movement in the Rhineland and Bavarian Palatinate are not spontaneous and do not represent the people, but have been "engineered," in the opinion of the British government.

This declaration was made in the House of Commons Tuesday by Ronald McNeill, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in answer to a question in regard to the situation by former Premier Lloyd George.

Terming the question delicate, Mr. McNeill said he did not want to say anything that would make matters more difficult.

The Government had taken the position that it could not sanction any separation which amounted to a declaration of independence of states forming a part of the German Reich which would take them outside the Reich. If the people of the States wanted to establish autonomous governments within the Reich, that was a matter with which Britain would not interfere.

Not Representative.

"It is quite obvious," he declared, "that in the greater part of the Rhineland, the Separatist movement is not spontaneous and that it was engineered and does not represent the people of the district, either in numbers or character."

Owing very largely to the influence which the British Government was able to bear, supported largely by Belgium, he added, the Separatist movement in the greater part of the Rhineland had come to a natural end. In the Palatinate had assumed rather graver proportions and at first it seemed that it might prove to be a genuine movement. The Government later had reached the conclusion, however, that the movement, whatever it might have been in the beginning, was not genuine.

France Objected.

Great Britain had proposed to send her representative from Cologne to the Palatinate to glean the facts and report independently, so that het British could form a better judgment as to the policy to pursue. France, for reasons which he could not understand, though he thought they were foolish, objected to Britain's sending a representative, and the latter dropped the proposal, and sent Mr. Clive, the British Consul, at Munich, to make a report, which was awaited.

Mr. McNeill said this matter had undoubtedly caused a certain amount of additional friction between Great Britain and France.

Victoria Veterans Ask About Germans

VICTORIA, B.C., Jan. 16.— The proposal to join the Regina local in its protests to the Federal government against allowing three thousand German settlers to come to Canada has failed to gain the support of the loctl Great War Veterans' Association. The Regina branch is being asked to provide statistics and information as to why German settlers were regarded as a menace to Canada.

SEES DISASTER BY SOCIALISTS

Sir Robert Horne Contends They Represent Only One-Third of the British People and Have No Right to Govern.

MONTREAL, Jan. 17 —While it seems inevitable that a Socialistic Labor Government must come into power in Great Britain Sir Robert Horne, former British Chancellor of the Exchequer in an address to the Canadian Club here yesterday urged that even if such a Government must come, the two other great parties should promptly sink their differences, and, as patriots rather than politicians should join issue to dismiss such a Government before it could do much injury to the country. He predicted that a Liberal Government would then come in, led by Asquith and Lloyd George, while the Conservatives would lend sufficient support to ensure a sane and stable Government that would preserve British credit at home and abroad. Sir Robert was especially severe in his arraignment of the idea of a capital levy, as a plan that would destroy both British business and credit.

"For my part, I see nothing but disaster from the entry of the Labor Socialists into office,' he said, "and conditions will be worse than they are to-day." He added that this was the reason why he was at odds with those who say it does not matter, and would let Labor form a Government for a while. "These Socialists," he said, "have no right to form a Government for a while. These Socialists," he said, 'have no right to form a Government since they do not represent a third of the people," and he challenged their claim to alone have the right to form a Government as a monstrous thing.

BANK FAILURES DEMAND ACTION

Bishop Fallon Writes Premier King That the People Expect Government to Exact Guarantee For Deposits.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 17.—Speaking for the "inarticulate and unorganized plain people, failing a more fitting representative," Bishop H. F. Fallon, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of London, Ont., has addressed an open letter to Premier Mackenzie King dealing with the bank mergers and failures which have occurred in Canada during the past decade, and has sent a copy to the Ottawa Journal with a request that it be published.

The failure last summer of the Home Bank of Canada, which "brought misery and suffering to hundreds of thousands of Canada's citizens," is described in the letter as "but an incident in a financial condition that calls for immediate and effective action."

Bishop Fallon, whose church suffered losses in the crash of the Home Bank, advocates that the banks be made collectively responsible for the money they accept as deposits.

"The bankers gamble with our earnings and tell us to go whistle when the crash comes," the letter continues. The people of Canada, he says, will look to the forthcoming session of Parliament to exact a guarantee for "the hard earned savings of the people," from those to whom the savings are confided.

Sir John Aird's Comment.

TORONTO, Jan. 17.— "It is a very poor cause that has to be bolstered up by repetitions of rumors and petty gossip," declared Sir John Aird, General Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and President of the Canadian Bankers' Association last night in commenting upon the letter of the Right Rev. Bishop Fallon, of London, Ont., on the suspension of the Home Bank of Canada, and the Canadian banking system in general. Sir John told a representative of the Canadian Press that he would not enter into a criticism of the bishop's letter, but preferred to quote his views on the guaranty system as expressed at the annual meeting of the Canadian Bank of Commerce on January 8 in answer to Bishop Fallons' suggestion for the enactment of "an effective guarantee" for deposits at the forthcoming session of the Federal Parliament. Sir John said that some people seemed to regard the guaranty system as the "cure all" for all banking ills, but added that the concensus of opinion among the large majority of the bankers of the dominion was against it.

In his remarks on the guaranty system before the directors of the Canadian Bank of Commerce the President of the bankers association stated that the history of plans for providing a legal guarantee of the safety of bank deposits was not very encouraging.

Surplus Broke Down.

"Various plans of the kind have been tried in a number of the States in the union," he said, "but even

Bavarian Clergy Meet Gen. Clive

SPEYER, Bavarian Palatinate, Jan. 17.— Representatives of Bavarian clergy were received Wednesday morning by Major General G. S. Clive, British Military Governor in German occupied territory, who, accompanied by M. Filhol, chief assistant of Paul Tirard, president of the Inter-Allied High Commission, continued yesterday his investigation of the situation in tht Palatinate. General Clive visited the southern Palatinate in the afternoon. The party returned to Speyer in the evening and had dinner as the guests of General Dt Metz, the French commander.

MORE BUSINESS LESS POLITICS

Premier Greenfield of Alberta Says Farmers' Government Has Not Been the Most Extravagant in History of the Province.

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 17. — Strong denial that the Alberta Government is extravagant was made by Premier Herbert Greenfield in addressing yesterday afternoon's session of the United Farmer's convention. He declared that the province was recovering itself financially and making good progress towards a sound condition.

"The U.F.A.,' said Mr. Greenfield, "has lost some of the membership, but it has not lost its spirit. It has weathered the stress."

The U.F.A. had gone into politics for what they could put into public life not for what they could get out of it. The Premier said he wanted to deal particularly with statements which were being made freely that the Government was on of the most extravagant in Alberta's history.

"We anticipate some deficit this year," said Mr. Greenfield, "but the policy of economy and retrenchment which we instituted upon taking office is at last beginning to bear fruit and we are slowly but surely working back to a sound foundation." One trouble was that they had too much politics and not enough business in Alberta. The cost of Government in this province had gone up 15 per cent. from 1914 to 1921, while the population increased only nine per cent. The province has been living beyond its means, these figures showed while school grants had been cut, inspectors decreased, and other service reduced. "We are gradually working back and making very fair progress, indeed, but it can't be done in one year or two," he said.

The Premier announced that from August 31, 1921, when he took office to December 31, 1923, the Government had effected a saving in payroll alone of $737,000. They were cutting down expenditure and the province was in a heathier state than in many years. Down east "where the money came from," he had heard no charges of extravagance in regard to the Government.

Cheaper Money

Cheaper money for Alberta farmers belonging to rural credit societies will be available through an arrangement that Premier Greenfield made while in the east. The rate of bank interest will be reduced one-half of one per cent. which will mean a corresponding reduction in the charges to the borrowing members of the several societies.

Mr. Greenfield discussed the matter with Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, who agreed in behalf of his own bank to make the reduction indicated. A considerable portion of the funds now being used by the rural credits societies comes from the Montreal bank and will therefore be affected by the reduction thus agreed to.

Hon. R. G. Reid, Provincial Treasurer says that the matter is now being taken up with other banks and it is expected that they will give a similar cut on the present rate.

GIANT AIRSHIP HAD A NARROW ESCAPE TODAY IN A TERRIFIC STORM

The "Shenandoh" Beat Her Way Back Against the Storm and Found Refuge in its Nest—Nose of Airship Was Torn Away--Worst Storm of the Winter.

CRAFT BATTLED FOR NINE HOURS

LAKEHURST, N.J., Jan. 17. —(By Frank Getty, United Press Staff Correspondent.) — Another terrible disaster of the air was averted to-day when the giant United States' naval dirigible Shenandoah, with 22 officers and men aboard, torn from her mooring mast and swept in the night by a seventy mile gale, beat her way back against the storm and nosed into the hangar at 3.53 a.m.

For nine hours the airship, partly disabled, fought the elements that threatened her destruction. The night air was alive with wireless messages as anxious officials followed the progress of her struggle. Thousands sitting safe and snug in their homes while the fury of the winter's worst storm beat outside, followed, too, with radio receivers to their ears, the plight of the gale driven dirigible. Then, after being carried as far as Newark, sometimes at a speed of more than a mile a minute, the Shenandoah proved herself mistress of the storms.

Under the guidance of Capt. Anton Heinen, a veteran German Zeppelin expert, the ship was nosed back into the teeth of the driving rain storm.

Slowly her propellers gained headway against the diminishing winds. Back at the aviation field where her commander, who had been at mess when the airship was whipped off into the night, and officials of the Naval Air Service, waited, straining their eyes into the inky darkness. The nose of the Shenandoah had been torn off completely and flapped from the mast head at the end of her mooring chair. This added tremendously to the difficulties of manoeuvring. But at 1.50 a.m. the searchlights at the airdrome picked out of the night the welcome sight of the silver Shenandoah safe home. It was the work of three hours to bring her down. The storm had abated by this time, but gusts of wind persisted in getting into the aperture where the airships nose plate had been ripped away. A ground force of 300 men was on hand to help the dirigible into its nest.

Manoeuvring with consummate skill the veteran Captain Heinen brought her gradually down, a few hundred feet at a time, cautious now the greater disaster had been avoided, of the least accident to the ship. Then the landing crew, marines and sailors, seized the trailing ropes with a cheer and walked the Shenandoah across a thousand foot span to the hangar doors.

From the Gondolas the crew that came home safely shouted cheery greetings to those below. After directing the ground crew through a megaphone, Capt. Heinen called to his brother officers below.

"You sons of guns were waiting for something to happen."

Thus the first word of mouth from the navy's daughter of the stars which had been lost and found again, was a characteristically careless jibe, covering up the sentiment behind.

But later to-day, after hot coffee and much congratulations, Captain Heinen said seriously:

"We narrowly escaped the fate of the Dixmude."

The French naval dirigible Dixmude was carried from her course by a storm on December 20 and was lost in the Mediterraneán with all hands, a crew of fifty.

The fact that the Shenandoah was filled with helium, the non-inflammable gas used by the United States' navy, alleviated somewhat the fears for her safety which would have been entertained had she been inflated with hydrogen as was the Dixmude.

ELOQUENT APPEAL FOR UNITED LOVE

Arthur Hawkes on Bonne Entente Mission in Quebec.

OTTAWA, Jan. 17. — (Canadian Press).—"There are people in my Province who consider Quebec God Almighty's great mistake and Ontario His great correction." This was the pithy sentence of Arthur Hawkes, of Toronto, in an address to the Bonne Entente League at the Chateau Laurier last night.

Mr. Hawkes made an eloquent appeal for better understanding between the two provinces and all parts of the Dominion. He thought that Canadians would not attain that intense and united love of country possessed by the English, Scots and other races until they made a sincere effort to know and understand each other.

AUTOMOBILE COLLIDED WITH GEORGE ST. CAR

An automobile driven by Oswald Lee, 275 Sherbrook street, and street car 30 driven by Lloyd Redmond, collided on George street, near Hunter last night at 10.25. The left running board of the auto was smashed and the side of the car dented. Mr. Lee's home is in Lindsay.

In view of the condition of the streets it is surprising there were not more accidents. Automobiles proceeding along George street were compelled to travel on the street car tracks, and once in the deep ruts they were unable to turn out. One car at Brock street was compelled to back almost a block to find a way out of the ruts.

GERMAN BRUNETTE IS SEEKING A HUSBAND

BERLI N,Jan. 17. — (Associated Press).—Here is an advertisement from the Munich Neueste Nachrichten: "Affectionate, sweet-tempered brunette, with her own well-furnished flat, single and independent, educated, of first social circles, of best reputation and unblemished past, youthful appearance, aged 49, wents to make the acquaintance of well-situated gentleman for the purpose of early marriage. No go-between, please. Send photo with first letter to——."

The Berlin Montag Morgen reprints this advertisement and remarks that this charming lady took a long time to think it over before she began using printer's ink.

THE WEATHER.

The snow, sleet and rain of yesterday gave a total precipitation, converted into rain, of 1.06 inches. The low point in temperature last night was 15 degrees. Some decidedly cold weather now prevails west of Lake Superior and 35 to 40 below zeor has been registered in many places.—W. P.

SUMMER LINGERED LONG IN GREECE.

ATHENS, Jan 17.— Summer has lasted in Athens this year to the middl, of December, a condition without precedent in the last 60 years. Up to within a few day before Christmas the people of the city were wearing their summer clothes.

A serious aspect of the warm weather, however, is the drouth. The water level in the municipal reservoir is very low, and the question of a sufficiency of drinking water is becoming acute.

POLICE ISSUE WAS DISCUSSED

Trades and Labour Council Approve of Legislation Restricting Expenditures.

The regular meeting of the Trades and Labour Council was held in the Labour Hall last evening and a large number of new delegates were in attendance. Owing to the absence of some of the officers a resolution was passed that the election of officers be held over until the next meeting on Wednesday, February 6, when all the officers would be present and also the books relating to the Council's business would be at hand.

After the credentials of the new delegates were received and the delegates seated, the regular business was dealt with.

A communication was received from the International Boot and Shoe Trades Union warning against an appeal that was being circulated amongst the different locals requesting funds, the circular going on to say that the appellants were not justified in seeking funds and using the name of the International Union to do it. Bro. H. Gainey presented the report of the Trustee Board, and it showed a balance of about $800.00 on the right side, although not quite as large as it was a year ago. In receiving the report Bro. Gainey was thanked by the members for the care shown in handling the trust funds and it was particularly gratifying considering the uphill battle that organized labor has had to fight for the last two or three years.

A discussion arose in regard to the Police Commission and a resolution was passed that a letter of appreciation be sent to T. Tooms, ex-M.P.P. for his work in the amending of the Police Commission Bill, and the recent justification of it.

A number of other matters were dealt with, the meeting adjourning about 10 o'clock to meet again on Feb. 6, after one of the best sessions the Council has held for some time.

PRESENTATION TO SCHOOL TEACHER

Mr. and Mrs. B. Dawson Honored By Dummer Friends.

A very pleasant and delightful evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cooper on Jan. 10th, when the trustees and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce B. Dawson gathered there in order to make them a presentation.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson were invited to come to the centre of the room, and the address which follows was read by Mr. Cephas Payne and the presentation made by Mr. John Clydsdale.

Dummer, Ont.,
Jan. 10th, 1924.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce B. Dawson:

We, the trustees and ratepayers of School Section No. 5, Dummer,feel that we cannot let the event of your marriage pass by without some slight recognition.

During your term as teacher you have conducted yourself in such a manner as to win the respects and goodwill of both parents and pupils, and established beyond a doubt your efficiency in the profession which you have chosen to follow.

Although the "Life Partner" you have chosen is a stranger to us we feel from the fact that you have chosen her as such, that she is deserving of the "heartiest welcome" we can extend to her.

We ask you to accept these presents which are composed of a pair of woollen blankets, a casserole and a safety razor, as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held, and all join in wishing you a long, prosperous and happy wedded life.

Signed on the behalf of the Section.
CEPHAS PAYNE,
JOHN CLYSDALE.

Although entirely taken by surprise Mr. Dawson made a witty little speech, thanking the trustees and friends on behalf of Mrs. Dawson amd himself for their kind thoughts and appreciation towards them.

After the presentation the evening was enthusiastically spent in cards, dancing and refreshments.

Only in the innermost pharmaceutical circles has it been known that the world's supply of insulin, the serum which is extending the life of the sufferer from diabetes, comes from Chicago's pork packing plants.

Practically the entire production of pork pancreas is being used to manufacture the insulin serum discovered by Dr. F. C. Banting of Toronto.

The utilization of the by-product, hitherto valueless except as a fertilizer, adds to the income of Chicago packers more than $600,000 a year.

ENTENTE MAY SETTLE SEPARATIST TROUBLE

PARIS, Jan. 17. — (Canadian Prsess)—In official circles last night it was said that prospects were good that France and Great Britain would be able to surmount the crisis which arose recently in connection with the separatist movement in the Bavarian Palatinate. The basis of the agreement it was asserted will be a declaration by the French Government that it does not desire in any way to draw Great Britain into a tacit recognition of the Separatist Government and a declaration, by the British Government that it does not wish to block the operation of such ordinances established by the authorities in palatinate as urgently needed for economic reasons.

"COUNT SALM" LOOKS OUT ON COLD WORLD

May Have to go to Work in Order to Supoprt His Bride.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—It begin to look as if Count Salm Von Hoogstraeten may have to seek another job in the movies as soon as the present funds of his bride, who was Millicent Rogers, are exhausted. The family jewels of Count and Countess may keep the wolf from the door for a while, but when they are gone—hope—la for the movies.

Such was the predication of persons intimately acquainted with the financial resources of Count Salm, when they learned last night from a source whose authority was indisputable, that Col. Henry H. Rogers, the Countess' father, executor and trustee and chief heir to millions of his father, the late Henry H. Rogers of Standford oil fame, had sent his daughter a financial ultimatum.

"Count Salm," it read, a conveyed to the disconsolate Countess by the private secretary of Col. Rogers on Monday afternoon, "shall never touch a penny of your grandfather's estate, nor of mine, so long as I live and control either estate."

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Fred Doxsee Died Suddenly--Was Mayor of Campbellford for Several Terms.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 16.—Fred Doxsee, second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. Doxsee of Campbellford, died very suddenly of heart failure on Monday, Jan. 14th, at his home in Oakland, California.

The late Mr. Doxsee has been living in Oaklands, and San Francisco, and it is over 30 years since he has been back to his old home here. He had planned to come last summer but when he heard that the "old boys'" reunion was going to be held in 1924, he decided to wait till then.

He was about 49 years old and was a very successful contractor. He went to work on the morning of the 14th, and at noon he went to see a doctor, as he was not feeling well. The doctor told him that his heart was slightly affected, but nothing serious. In the afternoon he worked till three o'clock, then went home as he felt worse, and died about five. He leaves a widow and one son who was married about a year ago. The late Mr. Doxsee was the only brother living of the Doxsee family. He wrote a letter to his sister, Mrs. Chas Macoun of Seymour on Sunday and his death occurred on Monday.

There are four sisters living, Mrs. Chas. Macoun, of Seymour, Mrs. Jas Jones of Meyersburg, Mrs. La Croix of British Columbia, and Mrs. John Russell of Toronto. His two brothers, the late Lieut. W. J. Doxsee, and the late Ernest Doxsee, were both in the South African war, and also in the world war. Lieut. Doxsee was killed on Nov. 8th, 1916.

The late Lieut. Doxsee was in the council for several years, being the reeve of Campbellfod in 1904 and '05. He had the honor of being the first mayor of the town in 1906. He was mayor each year up to 1911 inclusive.

FOR 15 YEARS WAS TROUBLED WITH ECZEMA

There is no other remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters that can possibly give such relief to all sufferers from eczema, salt rheum and all other diseases of the blood for the reason that this old and well tried remedy goes right to the seat of the trouble and completely and permanently drives these diseases out of the system by cleansing the blood and making it pure and rich.

Mr. F. W. H. Schultz, Pembroke, Ont., writes: "Having been troubled with eczema for fifteen years, during which time I tried everything I could think of, including doctors, but without getting anything to do me much good I finally decided to take Burdock Blood Bitters, and I was certainly surprised to find that two weeks after I had started to take it I was relieved of my trouble. That was nine months ago, and I have not had a sign of it since. I surely wish to thank you for this wonderful medicine and strongly recommend it to anyone suffering from the same trouble as I had."

GERMAN BANKER GOES TO PARIS

PARIS, Jan. 17. — Dr. Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, left Berlin last night and will reach Paris this evening, according to word received from the German Cabinet. He will appear before the first committee of experts on Friday to lay before that body the information at his disposal on the economic situation of his country.

It is understood that Dr. Schacht is to be accompanied by some of his closest advisers and experts as well as by Karl Bergmann, former Under-Secretary for the Treasury, who was a familiar figure in the reparation conferences. The committee will be glad to hear such persons as the Reeichsbank president sees fit to bring with him, to throw light on the subject in hand.

The experts will also hear the leaders of German industry, either at Paris or in Germany, and the eventuality of Hugo Stinnes coming at an early date is being discussed.

How to satisfy the press without allowing the press to dissatisfy the committee was a question which occupied the experts for a considerable time yesterday along with the German budget. General Dawes and his colleagues appear willing to satisfy the legitimate requirements of the press, but at the same time want to avoid the awkward consequence of untimely publicity, which negotiators have frequently suffered from in the course of numerous European conferences since the war. No definite action has been taken as yet.

The apparent inclination shown by part of the French press to find possible indications of discord in insignificant facts has attracted the attention of the experts, who, as business man, dislike to be treated as ordinary diplomats and subjected to the usual diplomatic deductions.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odour, smoke, or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% kerosene (coil oil).

The inventor, F. S. Johnson, 246 Craig Street W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

GIANT AIRSHIP LANDED SAFELY

Was Returned to Station This Morning After Trying Experience.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Jan. 16.—The "Shenandoah," the largest air ship in the United States navy, was placed in her hangar at the naval air station shortly before 5 o'clock this morning after she had broken away and fought her way back to "port" against a wind that blew at 72 miles an hour at times.

The gale twisted the giant craft from her towering mooring mast at 6:30 last night and swept her on a mad chase up the Atlantic coast to Staten Island, New York City, where Captain Heinen, in command when she broke away, turned her nose into the teeth of the storm and manoeuvred her back to Lakehurst.

None of the crew of the 25 were injured. Men took it as a joke. The ship itself was damaged. Her front castelle, or gas bags, had collapsed when she was torn away by the wind. The covering of her upper fin had been stripped off and wrapped around the rudder, making the craft exceedingly difficult to steer, while there was slight damage to her outer covering.

Captain Heinen stated that he did not believe that any other ship in which he had flown would have successfully gone through the gale. There was not a bit of doubt that the ship would successfully complete her polar region flight planned for next month.

MABEL'S ILLNESS IS BRANDED AS A GIGANTIC FAKE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—(Special..)— Information gleaned from confidential sources and exhaustively investigated, yields the conclusion that Mabel Normand's illness is one gigantic fake out of the whole cloth.

Startling as this statement may appear, it is authentic.

After the Dines shooting, when the Norman managers realized what the certain publicity would mean in view of what had transpired in former film scandals, the slick idea was formulated of having Mabel rushed to a hosptial. There interviewrs would be barred, and the reports of her serious illness would get her that gallant sympathy which might save the situation.

Has Not Had Attack.

There are a hundred people here who know authoritatively that Miss Normand has not suffered any appendicitis attack.

There had been no advance suspicion of any appendicitis attack.

Any reasonable person, putting two and two together, will at least surmise that the sudden attack, occurring immediately after the Dines scandal, was a remarkable coincidence.

The facts are that it was no coincidence at all. Miss Normand is healthy in every respect except in spirit. She is heartsick only.

Under Agent's Orders.

The opinion of those who should be "in the know" is that Dines was more closely associated with Edna Purviance than with Mabel. But it was Mabel's chauffeur who fired the shots, and therefore the burden of the publicity was doomed to fall on her.

In prospect of her booked releases, it was deemed good film politics to hide Miss Normand behind the sort of barriers that cannot ordinarily be violated even by reporters, and to surround her with that cloak of seclusion which even newspapers recognise, serious illness.

It may be stated beyond cavil that Miss Normand is in no danger and is ready to leave her hospital bed as soon as her press agent (rather than her phyician) so instructs her.

NATIONAL UNITY LAUDED BY BYNG

Twenty - Fifth Anniversary of Canadian Club of Toronto Was Occasion of Speech.

TORONTO, January 17 (Canadian Press). — Outstanding among the notes touched upon by Governor-General Byng, Premier King, Sir Arthur Currie, and Sir Edmund Walker at last night's twenty-fifth anniversary banquet of the Canadian Club of Toronto, was that of Canadian national unity.

It was held up by the Prime Minister as the ideal to which Canada must attain if she is to make the great forward strides her resources and position promise, and by Sir Arthur Currie as the goal to which she must win if she is not to risk a breaking asunder at the centre.

It was an historic occasion for the Canadian Club movement of Canada, marking the passage of 25 years since the first Canadian Club was launched, with a membership of but one hundred.

Seated at the head table were twenty-two of the men who have occupied the Toronto Canadian Club presidency in a quarter of a century, one having passed away and the others being unavoidably absent.

President E. G. Long, K.C., after a few remarks, turned over the chairmanship to John A. Cooper, first president of the Toronto Canadian Club, who presided during the balance of the evening.

His Excellency threw out a suggestion to the club members that they vary their year's programme at intervals by meeting to discuss some of the matters that were presented to them by statesmen, travellers, and experts on various subjects.

Co-operation Needed.

"Co-operation," he declared, "is everything in a young nation like Canada. This is a young country, a country for young men, a country where young men, I think, and I would like to say ought to, make their presence felt."

The Prime Minister made a touching and eloquent survey of Canadian history in his appeal for a united Canada, recalling that for 150 years Canada was a French possession, and visualising the heroism of the early French pioneers who, like Champlain, ascended the Ottawa, and first among white men, saw the then wilds just as they were when the pyramids were young and Nineveh a mushroom.

KLAN CLEANS UP TOWN.

Mount Clemens, Mich., Jail Filled After Liquor and Vice Raids.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Jan. 17.—The Macomb County jail today was filled to capacity as the result of a sweeping drive against alleged bootleggers, gamblers and keepers of disorderly houses following, it is said, a secret invasion of the county by agents of the Ku Klux Klan. While city and State police were bringing prisoners to the jail Sunday morning, 1,500 members of the Klan gathered in the First Persbyterian church and held ceremonies.

Thomas P. Sykes, pastor of the church, visited the jail following the meeting and looked over the prisoners. He has been active several months urging a clean-up in the county. Evidence for the raids, it is said, was obtained by the Klan.

DEATH YESTERDAY SEYMOUR PIONEER

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17.—Another gap was made in the ranks of the pioneers of Seymour township when Frederick Peake died suddenly at 2.30 Wednesday morning at his home on the English Line. Eleven years ago the deceased suffered a paralytic stroke and had been partially crippled ever since. On Tuesday evening he retired in his usual health. At 2.30 he was found lying helpless across the bed.

The late Frederick Peake was born 68 years ago in the township of Rawdon, the son of the late Patrick Peake, who came from Ireland to this country. When Ferd was four years old the family moved from Rawdon to Seymour, taking up on the English Line, on which the deceased resided up to the time of his death, and on which his son, Russell Peake, still lives.

When the late Mr. Peake was only 18 years old he entered the farm implement business, which he followed for years, but he always maintained his connection with the family homestead. For a number of years he travelled a portion of Ontario for George White and Son, of London, manufacturers of threshing machines.

The deceased was a man who evidently found his role early in life. In the year 1881, when he was only 25 years old, he was elected deputy reeve of Seymour and when he went to Cobourg was one of the youngest members who ever sat in the Council of Northumberland and Durham. Business, however, demanded his entire attention and he dropped out of municipal life for a number of years. In 1906 he was elected reeve and two years later was selected as Warden by acclamation, this being the first time in over 30 years that any member had been placed in that position without a contest. In politics he was a staunch Conservative, remaining with the faith during the bolt of so many of the farmers from both old line parties in 1919. He attended the English Line Methodist church, as it was the only place of worship in the neighborhood. His ancestors in Ireland, however, had been Anglicans for generations.

When he was 22 years old Mr. Peake was married to Priscilla Jane Davidson, who died in 1901. He was married again, his second wife being Mrs. McHay, who surives him.

By his first marriage the deceased had seven children, four daughters and three sons. The former are: Miss Minnie of Chicago, the late Mrs. Ernest Cassau, who passed away in 1907, Mrs. Fred Gillett of Toronto and Mrs. A. J. McKay, of Pope, Man.

Russell Peake, the eldest son, who resides on the homestead, is following in the municipal footsteps of his father, being at present on his second term as member of the Seymour Council, having been twice elected by acclamation. Another son, George, resides in Minneapolis, and a third, Fred, lives in Toronto. The latter arrived at the homestead on Wednesday in response to a message informing him of the death of his father.

There was only one child by the second marriage, Samuel Alexander, aged 15, who is a student at the Campbellford High school.

Funeral arrangements were delayed in order that absent members of the family might be heard from.

At the Regent.

A Harold Lloyd comedy, Clara Kimball Young in "The Bronze Woman," and another episode of the serial "The Timber Queen," with Ruth Roland as the star, formed the bill ast night at the Regent Theatre. In spite of the inclement weather, the attendance was fair. The feature picture is admirably filmed and the thrill in the serial comes from an exciting race between two locomotives on parallel roads with an auto as an understudy, when one of the engines is sidetracked. The bill will be repeated tonight.

A PECULIAR TWIST.

Man Becomes a Borther-in-law to His Own Son.

LANCASTER, Jan. 17.—Wellington M. P. Pfautz, Lititz leaf tobacco dealer, has become a brother-in-law to his own son. The peculiar twist in relationship results from Mr. Pfautz's marriage to Miss Bertha Diehm, his son's sister-in-law.

The wedding added other complications, for it made the bridegroom an uncle to his grandchildren, and his bride becomes a mother-in-law to her sister. The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's brother-in-law, the Rev. Paul Shultz, at the latters' home in Emaus, this county.

DANGEROUS COASTING.

Several narrow escapes from serious accidents as a result of children coasting on the roads, and in some cases on the sidewalks, have been reported, and in the interests of the children themselves and of pedestrians whose safety is threatened some safer coasting facilities will have to be provided or the pastime will have to be stopped.

In the old days coasting on the roadways was not a particularly dangerous sport, although it had its element of risk, too.

Today, however, with the fast moving motor car to contend with there is an ever present chance of a fatal accident.

Obviously, unless the system of cutting off traffic from certain streets in order to establish a coasting zone is followed, something will have to be done to stop the youngsters from using the roads.

The sidewalks cannot be turned into slides without endangering pedestrians, which means that unless coasting facilities are set up elsewhere the children will have to abandon their bob-sleighs for some other amusement that is less perilous.

Coasting is such a healthful, invigorating, muscle-building, appetite-producing and typical Canadian pastime that it is unfortunate that it cannot be indulged in with safety.

THE COST OF GARBAGE COLLECTION.

The City Council, the Examiner believes, would not be wasting time in investigating the suggestion offered by Mr. George Leader in regard to the advisability of having the garbage collection done by the city instead of by the contract system.

There is no fault to be found with the contractors at present responsible for the garbage collection. Their work seems to be well done and there are few complaints from the citizens.

The whole thing centres around the question of cost, and with a general cry for economy coming from the ratepayers and with such a large proportion of the expenditure beyond the control of the Council, the Aldermen cannot afford to neglect any avenue that promises to lead to saving.

Many cities have their own garbage collection department, and it might be good business to secure figures from such centres as to the cost of the service for comparison with the cost to Peterborough under the present contract system.

If taxation is to be reduced there is little hope of accomplishing this happy result by any spectacular stroke of financing.

It can only be brought about by businesslike attention to details, to stopping the small leaks, none of which is serious in itself, but which in the aggregate represent a heavy drain upon by the public purse.

Systematic purchasing of civic supplies rather than a haphazard method by which different departments do their own buying and often pay different prices for the same commodities, having the city do its own work where the figures show that a substantial saving can be effected by the dropping of the contract system, utilizing same methods of saving money that a wise business man adopts when the signs point to the necessary of economy, in these things rest the only hope that exists for the Council to accomplish the professed aim of all its members.

THE AMERICAN TAX SLASH.

Has the Canadian taxpayer, looking across the line into the neighboring Republic and studying the proposal to scale down the income tax in the United States, any reason to hope that the American reduction will be followed by a cut in the Canadian tax?

It has been the theory of many Canadian political leaders that it would be impossible for Canada to maintain a higher income tax than the United States, as such a policy would drive Canadian capital and Canadians themselves across the line.

The exodus already has been on such a large scale that anything that would contribute towards the lure of the Republic would be decidedly detrimental to Canadian interests.

The tax reduction proposed in the United States, it is prophesied, will pass Congress.

In that case there will be a very striking difference between the income tax of the two countries, that may be illustrated by a comparison between the cases of a married man here and across the line.

On an income of $3,000 the Canadian scale is $40, the American under the proposed reduction nothing.

On a $4,000 income the Canadian scale calls for $80, while the American citizen of the same income will only have to pay $15.75.

On $5,000 the Canadian pays $120, his United States cousin will be called upon for $38.25.

Six thousand will call for $160 tax here and only $72.00 in the United States, while the figure on $7,000 will be $270 and $99, respectively.

THE PUBLIC SHOULD HELP.

At the inaugural meeting of the Peterborough Council on Monday morning the public was represented by an attendance of actually one citizen.

This lack of interest is in glaring contrast to the inaugural ceremonies in a number of other Ontario cities where the first meeting of the Council was made the occasion for public gatherings on a scale large enough to tax the accomodation provided for visitors.

It cannot be claimed that the Peterborough method is the ideal one inasmuch as the absence of citizens from the inaugural session cannot fail to leave an impression in the minds of the Aldermen that the people are utterly indifferent to civic problems and are simply taking the attitude that the whole responsibility for civic government rests upon the Council.

In a technical sense it does, but there is much that can be done by the public along the line of moral support, in showing the members of the Council that their problems and difficulties are appreciated and that the people are pulling for their representatives in Council to win through to success.

It should not be forgotten that the Aldermen are shouldering the burdens of civic government for the benefit of the rest of the community.

They receive nothing for their services, they have to give up a lot of their time that they might be using for their own recreation or in their own business, and at the end of their term they face the chance of being turned out of office.

In view of these things the least the public can do is to show some interest in municipal affairs and to encourage the Council in their labours.

A good way to start the year is the policy followed in other cities of having the inaugural meeting take the nature of a community function.

A TRIBUTE TO THE MAYOR.

Ald. J. J. Turner, President of J. J. Turner & Sons, tent and awning manufacturers, Peterborough, Ont., was elected Mayor of that city recently by a majority of 1,468 in a field of three contestants. The result was a complete turnover from 1921 when Mr. Turner was defeated by the narrow majority of thirty-three votes. The honor, which has come to the head of the firm, is this year particularly gratifying in view of the fact that J. J. Turner & Sons are celebrating their fiftieth year in business, catering to the requirements of the lumber trade in tents, tarpaulins, horse blankets, grey blankets, bags, etc.

Mayor-elect Turner has always been a public-spirited resident of Peterborough and has rendered faithful and efficient service in several capacities. His elevation to the civic chair is a well-deserved promotion at the hands of his fellow-citizens.—Canadian Lumberman.

THE ALBERTA FUEL PROBLEM.

That the people of Western Ontario regard the fuel question as one of their most vital problems was evidenced by the applause which greeted the remarks of Hon. Hugh Guthrie on the subject at the Meighen banquet, says the London Fress Press. Mr. Guthrie stressed the economic advantages to Canada of our buying our fuel in the Dominion. Today our fuel bill to the United States is $100,000,000 per annum. If this amount could be kept in Canada it would almost balance our trade with the Republic.

We have been fortunate this year, as there have been no mining troubles and the winter has been mild, but the people of Western Ontario live continually with the fear hanging over them of a shortage of fuel, which may tie up industrially and freeze us out from a domestic standpoint.

Not only is there the danger of a shortage from strikes, but the supply of American anthracite coal is running short. It is only a matter of time until the demand in the United States will be so great that Canada will be unable to secure American hard coal at any price.

The sooner Canada becomes independent of American sources for our fuel supply the better. No one wants to have the Canadian railways haul coal at a loss, but the public in Ontario has never been able to understand why wheat can be brought from Alberta to Ontario points at a much cheaper rate than coal. It would even pay to subsidize the railways in order to get from Canadian sources a sure supply of fuel.

That Alberta coal is satisfactory for Ontario has been demonstrated by the experiments conducted by The Free Press and other parties. The problem is now entirely a transportation one, and surely that is not insurmountable.

FRENCH INVESTOR AFRAID OF FRANCS.

Gerbault, the French tennis player, who made a voyage from France to New York alone in a thirty-foot boat last year, has just received the grand prize of 10,000 francs annually awarded by the Academy of Sports.

Normally his prize would have been wotrh $1,930. Today it is worth $428. If he does not hurry and spend it, it will be worth $400.

The descent of the franc, which has been continuous the last two months, became a catastrophe yesterday, when it closed at 4.28 cents, compared with a closing of 4.68 on Saturday.

The fatal thing is that the value of the franc has gone down in France, just as it has abroad. That is, the Franc purchases fewer and fewer goods every month.

The thrifty Frenchman is growing unwilling to invest in any more French Government bonds. The reason is obvious. He gives the Government a thousand francs today and gets his interest in francs whose purchasing power drops with each passing week. Heaven only knows what his principal will be worth to him when he finally gets it back in paper francs.

The important thing for the French investor to do is to get his money out of the country, transform it into a currency which is stable. He is doing it, buying dollars and sterling, and this forces the value of the franc still further down.

Now, the extravagant French Government doesn't come within twenty thousand million francs of meeting its annual budget. It expects to borrow this sum from French investors, meeting current expenses out of the loans.

As these loans fail to come in, the French Government will be obliged to either print paper francs to meet expenses, as Germany did, or borrow credit through the Bank of France. Either procedure means inflation, further flight of investors' money abroad, further hesitation to subscribe to Government loans, and the whole familiar round of German paper finance.—New York American.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It seems to be about the same kind of winter as usual in other respects. Lindsay curlers beat Peterborough in the Tankard games.

BANK FAILURES

their advocates are forced to admit that they have failed to fulfill the expectations formed of them. In most cases the systems have completely broken down, the State of Oklahoma providing one of the worst examples. In only one state has such a plan managed up to the present to avoid failure .A recent commentator states:

"In general, the system has not prevented failures; the failures in adjoining states which have not the guaranty system have been fewer in proportion, and so with the failures of National banks in the states concerned."

"National banks are not chartered under state laws and therefore do not share in such guarantees," continued Sir John. "The record shows that under such plans a premium is placed on bad banking. The incentive to watch over the security of loans is taken away when the safety of deposits is supposed to be beyond question. As has been well said by a recent Comptroller of the Currency, the most practical approach to an effective and safe guarantee of bank deposits would be found in such a system as would come nearest to eliminating the danger of bad loans; in other words, if some plan of insurance against losses could be devised that would not operate as an incentive to carelessness in lending.

"Parliament has shown signs of opposition to inside reserves, but it is certain that some provision for setting aside a certain percentage of earnings as a protection against prospective losses, in addition to providing for losses actually ascertained ,is only a prudent step. It would, however, be a difficult matter to regulate by legislation, as the losses sustained by individual institutions must vary because of dissimilar policies and management."

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—With this mornings' deliveries over 7,700 cattle were received at the Union Stock Yards for the three days of this week. The receipts were altogether too heavy and there was a general disposition to blame the U.F.O., who had 30 cars in this morning for the temporary congestion. Buyers decided to take advantage of the situation and bids on most butchers were 25 cents a cwt. lower than Tuesday and half a dollar a cwt. down from last week. Many shippers are faced with losses which will have to be taken if sales are to be made.

Lighter heifers with less finish were priced by the packers at 5¼ cents a pound and this will in all probability have to be taken. Butchers' cows were not quite as easy as others. Medium cows sold at 3¾ cents and good cows at 4¾ cents. A few choice heavy steers sold at 7¼ and 7¾ cents and odd choice medium weights at $6.75 and $7 a cwt.

The calves are of a less desirable quality and they have been and this, with an easier market has weakened prices to a dollar a cwt. The best calves today only made 12 cents and good mediums were not above 10 cents, with commons about 7½ cents.

The lamb market was also weaker and prices here were off a dollar a cwt. from the recent top. There were no really light choice lambs on sale and the price held from 12 to 12½ cents on good ewe lambs and bucks $1.50 a cwt. lower. Handyweight sheep, with a few offerings are somewhat easier at 6½ to 7¼ cents.

Packers are determined to break the hog price to $7.25 a cwt. fo.ob. and to-day's heavier shipments favored the movement. Except for some going to outside packers the uniform bid was $7.25 a cwt. this morning.

CROP REPORTS

The following is a summary of returns made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture.—

There is a remarkable agreement in the reports regarding the present satisfactory condition of live stock, and the encouraging prospect for winter maintenance. Supplies of grain and roughage on hand assure full rations for all classes of farm animals, the quantity of hay in store being unusually large and of very good quality.

Leeds.—A great deal of grain is being fed in the sheaf, as many did not thresh much of their grain last year. Most everyone has some hay for sale.

Huron.—A good deal of hay is finding its way to maket at present at $8 per ton. The dealers are very particular though, and will not take anything but No. 1 hay.

Middlesex.—Some wheat has been sold during the past week, bringing 75c. and $1.00 per bushel. Considerable hay has been marketed at around $13.00 and $14.00 per ton delivered.

Peel.—Alfalfa seed understood to be for the American Trade has been purchased recently at $10.00 to $10.50 a bushel in the rough. Inquiry for hardy alfalfa seed is very active. Re-cleaned variegated is moving out at from $12.00 to $15.00 a bushel depending on quality and record of performance.

Tamiskaming.—A number of farmers are still complaining that they cannot find a market for farm produce, particularly hay. Many farmers have as high as 100 tons on hand, with no immediate prospect for getting rid of same. Farmers in the vicinity of Belle Vallee and Pearson, in the White River Falts, next to the Quebec Boundary, have had their hay market cut off to some extent, by the extension of the C.P.R. to the Quinze Lake, in Northern Quebec. Quebec farmers are now shipping north on this extension to construction camps, lumber camps, etc., and I understand are landing hay at these different points at $14.00 per ton. Belle Vallee farmers would have to carry their hay a distance of 25 or 30 miles to reach the construction and lumber camps at the Quinze.

Huron.—A carload of honey is being shipped from Goderich to the Old Country this week. This is being sold through the Ontario Honey Producers' Association and is the second carload to find its way from this district to the Old Country market.

Carleton.—Considerable stove wood is being sold, running from $6.00 for light wood to $12.00 for hard wood per cord.

South Simcoe.—Moderately heavy shipments of livestock were made from the county during the past week. Considerably better roads of butcher cattle were sent out than has been the case for sometime, and for which as high as from $5.50 to $6.00 per cwt. was paid. Hogs brought $8.00 per cwt. on the thick smooth basis.

Huron.—After inspecting quite a large number of herds in the county the past week, we have come to the conclusion that cattle are in fair to good condition. A large number of cattle have been marketed the past week, owing to the strength of prices of late. Considerable number of hogs have also been marketed, although considerable amount of dissatisfaction is heard as some shipped large numbers, securing $8.50 for select hogs and are being bid seven cents this week. Two decks of hogs shipped from the local station here this week graded around 50% select.

Bruce.—The shipment of hogs has increased. The grading for the various points varies all the way from 25 to 70%. We are informed that during the past five weeks the farmers in the vicinity of The Eden Grove who have shipped on graded basis have benefited to the extent of $180.00 over the amount which they would have received had they sold them on flat rate.

Wellington.—Two carloads of horses averaging 1,700 pounds were shipped out of Arthur recently at an average price of $175 each. All went north to the woods.

Lincoln.—There are not a large number of cattle going to market, but there are quite a few hogs being shipped. There have been four carloads of handy butcher weight cattle brought in for slaughter purposes the last month.

Hastings.—Livestock are wintering well. Dairy cattle in particular are in a more thrifty condition than last year. Some farmers are feeding considerable quantity of molasses.

Carleton.—The milk supply is above normal. The dairies in the City getting more than they require for their whole milk trade. Prices for January are $2.40 per cwt.

Prescott and Russell.—More farmers are getting rid of their surplus of livestock, there being as a consequence fewer wintered than usual.

Victoria.—The drop in price has considerably reduced the weekly run of hogs. About the usual number of cattle is being marketed, most of them in an unfinished condition.

South Simcoe.—A few applications for farm help are being filled for fully experienced men at $350.00 per year.

WOODSTOCK COUNCIL FACES AN OVERDRAFT

Some Receipts Did Not Reach Expectations — Defunct Company a Liability.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., January 17 (Canadian Press). — The financial statement of ahe City of Woodstock for the year 1923 shows an overdraft of $7,669.80, and the stated sum must be made up by the Council now in power.

Receipts from all sources amounted to $816,701.94, and the expenditures were $760,451.18, leaving a balance of $56,250.76.

However, the additions to Central School and Woodstock General Hospital have created heavy liabilities. Many of the receipts anticipated did not materialise, and $3,982 was lost through non-payment of account of the defunct worsted spinning company.

CHICK'S CADDY CORRECTS REPORT

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17. — The sports desk 'phone broke out in a hysteria of chimes.

A voice demanded to know if this was the sports editor talking.

By a strange turn of circumstances it was.

"Say, this is Marty Morrison of the Midland Bank talking. I used to caddy for Chick Evans when I was a kid in Chicago. I see you fellows are saying that Chick just made a hole in one and that it is the first one he ever made.

"Well now that isn't so, and Chick will tell you I'm right if you ask him. I was caddying for Crick when he made his first hole in one. It was back in 1913 and he made it at the tenth hole at the Chicago Golf Club, a peach of a cleek shot to a green 21 yards away. So get your records straight. Chick's made two holes in one."

The wires announced erroneously some days ago that Evans, in bagging an "ace" at the Edgewater links in Chicago ,had scored his first hole in one. Hence young Morrison's complaint. Incidentally, Chick's former caddy is one of the city's rising bankers at present.

Have you heard about Peps? Peps is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles.

Peps contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commence healing.

Clavering expecting to find her dissolved in tears, and, violent as his sympathy for her was, rejoicing that his was the part to comfort her, followed her precipitately. But she was standing by the table with scornful lips and eyes.

"I thought you'd be all broken up," he stammered. Tears of disappointment almost rose to his own eyes.

She laughed shortly. "I? Do you suppose I would pay them so great a compliment? But what a ridiculous exhibition they made of themselves. It seems incredible."

"But surely you must have been hurt—and stabbed. It isn't possible that you weren't!"

"Oh, yes, I was stabbed, but I think I was even more amused. I felt sorry for the poor things. I certainly never saw a more comically naked exhibition of human nature. It was worth coming to America for. Nor do I blame them. No doubt I should have felt the same at their age—although I hope I should even then have expressed myself in a fashion a trifle more

"'Can't you imagine what it meant to me to have you there?' she asked softly."

"Good God! Are you always so—so rational?"

She smiled slightly. "If I deliberately unlearned the more valuable things a long life taught me there would be no object beyond vanity in being young again. And don't you suppose I was grateful tonight for my years—those years so crowded with training and experience? Who better prepared than I to hold my own against a lot of raw Americans?"

"That is the first human thing you've said. Raw? Wasn't it Darwin who said that we are all such a short distance, in time, removed from our common savage ancestors that it is a wonder we don't revert oftener than we do? They were plain unadulterated females. I believe men are more civilized than women."

"Oh, no, but they revert on the grand scale. . . . I cannot say I was totally unprepared—not for such a concerted and shocking exhibition, of course; but I've felt their antagonism and expected to be dropped gradually from their set. Of course, this is the end, definitely. However," she shrugged her shoulders again, "I have enjoyed the New York which seems to have changed in so many ways since my day, and all dramas should have a proper 'curtain,' should they not? Is your own play finished, by the way?"

"Oh!" He turned his back on her and leaned on the mantelpiece, dropping his head on his arms. He had never felt as far away from her when he had been unable to learn even her name. What need had she of him or any man?

Mary gave him a quick comprehending glance, and came out of her isolation. She went over to him, turned him around, and took his face between her hands.

"Can't you imagine what it meant to me to have you there?" she asked softly. "It seemed to me that nothing else mattered. We two are in a world of our own. How could they seem more to me than the buzzing of so many brainless insects? Forget it, and I shall."

But although he was consoled, he wondered, as he left the house, if he would ever feel more depressed in his life. She might love him, but what else could he ever be to her but a lover? His manhood rebelled. If she had only flung herself weeping into his arms. If for once he could have felt himself stronger than she—indispensable.

XXXIX.

The dinner was on Monday. On Wednesday morning she met him at the Fort Lee Ferry at seven o'clock for one of their rare tramps. She wore high-laced boots of soft leather, a short skirt and jersey and a soft hat; and if she had met any of her guests of that memorable dinner they would have looked profoundly thoughtful, and renounced whatever hope of having seared her to the bone they may have cherished. She strode through the woods above the Palisades beside Clavering with high head and sparkling eyes, her arms swinging like a schoolboy's. It was evident even to him, who had waited for her so anxiously, that she had rubbed a sponge over her memory. She was in high spirits and looked as if she had not a care in the world.

There was a soft mist of green on the trees of the wood, a few birds had already migrated northward, their own world-old wireless having warned them of the early awakening of spring after an unusually mild winter, and they were singing their matins.

She did not seem inclined for more than desultory conversation, but she had the gift of making silence eloquent, and Clavering, his fears banished, although by no means at peace, gave himself up to the pleasure of the moment. They walked briskly for several miles, then had their breakfast at a roadside inn; and both were so hungry that they talked even less than before. But there was little need for words between them; the current was too strong, and both were merely vital beings to whom companionship and healthy exercise were the highest good at the moment.

During the long walk back to the ferry she talked with a certain excitement. But it was all of the woods of Austria, the carefully tented woods with their leaping stags, their winding paths where no trolley-cars overladen with commuters rushed shrieking by, their enchanting vistas with a green lake at the end, or a monastery, or a castle on a lofty rock. She told him of the river Inn roaring through its gorges, with its solitary mills, its clustered old villages huddled at the foot of the heavy silent woods and forgotten by the world. The millers were all old men now, no doubt, and the poor villages inhabited only by women and children. Or blinded and broken men who had dragged themselves back from the war to exist where they once had given life and energy to that quiet valley of the Inn. If this made her sad for a moment it was purely an impersonal sadness, and then they parted on the New York side of the ferry Clavering had forgotten his doubts and went back to his work with a light heart and an untroubled mind.

The play was almost finished, and its chances for swift production were far greater than is usually the case with the new adventurer into the most inhospitable of all fields of artistic endeavor. Adrian Hogarth, who had a play on Broadway every year, and Edwin Scores, who had recently exchanged the esteem of the few for the enthusiasm of The Public, had read it act by act and given him the practical advice he needed. A dramatic critic always believes he knows more about plays than any one else until he attempts to write one, but Clavering, at least, if not unduly modest, was too anxious to succeed not to welcome all the help he could get.

They even "sat in" with him during the final revision, and the dispute was hot over the last act, an act so daring in technique they were loath to believe that even Clavering, whose striking gifts they had always recognized, could "put it over." Moreover, there was only one woman on the American stage who could act it and that was Margaret Anglin. If it didn't appeal to her he might as well dock it. The younger actresses, clever as some of them were, had no far given no evidence of sustained emotional power.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

There is no royal road to prosperity. The first and hardest step of all is to save the first thousand dollars.

In talking over old times with successful self-made men, there is one point of similarity which stands out in the experience of all of them.

Almost without exception the hardest pull in their lives was to save the first thousand dollars. It meant more to them in self-sacrifice and denial than any other achievement in their lives.

Saving that first thousand dollars taught these men how to save and developed strength of character which led to success later. Furthermore, after accumulating that thousand by hard work and self-denial, they were mighty careful how they invested it.

If you want to get ahead, start the saving habit and get that first thousand dollars accumulated.

The sea horse rapidly is becoming extinct.

COMBAT TUBERCULOSIS WITH NEW DISCOVERY

TOTNES, Devonshire, Jan. 17. — Referring to Dr. Dreyer's discovery of a method of combatting tubercle bacilli in man and beast, Lord Milday of Flete said "the really effective vaccine is in view." He added that there had been astonishing results with selected cases.

It is stated that the effect of Dr. Dreyer's discovery is to strip the coating of protective fat from certain bacilli and thus lay them open to attack of blood cells into which vaccine has been injected. The entire aspect of mankind's war on consumption, it is claimed, has been changed by Dr. Dreyer's discovery.

COINS A NEW WORD.

BERLIN, Jan. 17. — (Associated Press).—A cartoonist in Berlin not long since created in his pictures a family of profiteers and named them "Raffkes." Bediamoned, overfed and overdressed, he pictured their doings, and the music halls were not slow to take up the idea. Then a play was written about the 'Raffkes' and duly presented on the stage, and to-day the name is used all over Germany to designate those who are believed to profit unduly.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

A TRIP ON THE MAGIC DUSTPAN

The sun was shining right on them.

Nancy and Nick and Tom Tucker and the balloon-man all went to hunt for the lost Tweedles, Dum and Dee.

They looked all over the circus grounds, where men were busy getting things ready for the big show in the afternoon.

They looked around the pop-corn stands and lemonade stands and all the side-shows. And they looked around the fortune-teller's tent and everywhere. But no Tweedles could they see.

"My goodness! It looks as though some big elephant had run off with them or some big lion had swallowed them up," laughed the balloon-man, who was very good natured. "I just got some brand-new balloons from Balloon-Land and I'd certainly like to find them, for time is flying and I should be out selling this very minute."

Balloon Land! Flying!

The words made Nancy uneasy. And without knowing just why, she looked up.

And what she saw surprised her so that she couldn't speak for a moment. All she could do was to point. Nick and Tom looked up and the balloon-man looked up and then the circus people looked up—clowns and everybody.

For there, up in the sky, sailed Tweedle Dum, hanging onto one bunch of balloons, and beside him was Dee, hanging onto another bunch of balloons. The sun was shining right on them and there was no mistaking who it was—Dum, in his red stocking-cap, and Dee, in his blue. The balloons shone with every color like big bunches of fancy grapes.

"Come down! Come down out of that!" called the balloon-man.

But he might as well have called to the clouds of stars or moon to come down from their places. The balloons went right on up—up and up and up! Indeed, they were getting so small that it was impossible to tell by this time which was Dum and which was Dee.

"Dear! Dear! This is dreadful," said the balloon-man. "What can we do about it? Has anybody an airplane?"

But nobody had.

"I know where they are going!" said Nick. "They're going to the Land of Lost Balloons, up in the sky. Nancy and I were there once."

Fortunately, Daddy Gander came along just then. As luck would have it he had his magic dustpan with him.

"Please, Daddy Gander, ask your magic dustpan to take us after the Tweedle twins!" cried Nancy. "There they are, away up in the sky. The balloons ran off with them."

"How dreadful!" exclaimed poor Daddy Gander. "What if they should happen to meet Mother Goose? I'd never hear the end of it. Hop on!"

For the dustpan had begun to grow and by this time was large enough to hold them all. Away it went skyward in the direction the poor Tweedles had taken.

GANNA SANG, HAROLD PAID THEN THE VILLAIN ENTERED

Star Refused to Appear and the Audience Was Given Rain Checks.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Out of the tangled maze of the Wagnerian Opera Co., now in the hands of a receiver, emerged the fact today that while Ganna Walska, strictly incognito, was pouring out more or less golden notes in four or five cities, her husband, Harold F. McCormick, was pouring out real Treasury notes to the total of $106,000.

The fair Ganna, always as a substitute for a regular performer, sang in Indianapolis, Louisville, Albany and New London, Conn. She was to have sung in Buffalo but stage fright overtook her and she didn't.

Nine weeks in all the company traveled, with Ganna with them part of the time and Harold also—Harold, the paymaster, for unless he opened his purse the company was flat broke.

A Psychologist

On the payroll of Mr. McCormick and a part of the company was something new for opera—a Parisian psychologist. He advised Ganna when she was fit to sing and he advised her when she wasn't.

She is suffering from aphobia, he declared, a fear of adverse criticism caused by the attacks of critics and hostile audiences.

That fear removed by submerging her identity behind that of another, she did so well that the critics out in the provinces gave her a square deal and said she did well.

All this, of course, was just leading up to the great triumph—the triumph that was to lead to the metropolis itself.

At Buffalo, Ganna's condition was such that she couldn't go on the stage for the first act. The psychologist made suggestions to her and she was ready for the second act, but the management, fearing she would break, refused to allow her to sing.

Over in New London, Conn., where she was to have sung the role of the countess in "The Marriage of Figaro," her psychic condition was such that she didn't go on. The audience was given rain checks and the next day she sang—in Italian, while the remainder of the company sang in German.

She was ready for New York.

The company opened in New York Christmas night. The operas were favorably received. Ganna was rehearsing industriously. She was to have made her debut in "Tannhauser." On Monday the company went into the hands of the receiver, but it was decided to carry on. Tuesday afternoon Ganna was rehearsing. In walked the sheriff and tied up the box office. On to the stage came a grim individual—a U. S. marshal.

He took charge, the singing ceased. The company had neglected to pay the duties imposed by the Government.

Up Goes the Sponge

It was at that point Mr. McCormick threw up the sponge. He had made certain investigations having to do with the receipts. Previously he had indicated that he was willing to buy the entire company and act as impressario. Then it looked like all the troubles were over. But with this declaration the clouds grew blacker than ever.

Harold has gone. Whether Ganna is still here or not is not revealed. But it is believed she is in Chicago. The stage is dark, with the United States on guard. Edwin T. Murdock, the receiver, doesn't know whether the tangle will be straightened out or not.

Mr. McCormick is out $106,000. But his wife has some favorable notices for her scrap book. True, they refer to "Miss Apel," "Louise Perard" and others, but she sang the parts.

STREET TRADING UPSETS LEIPZIG FOR BUSINESS

LEIPZIG, Jan. 17.— Fur dealing in reliable shops has been succeeded almost entirely by trading in the streets, the latter involving a large amount of stolen furs. Street traders are said to have enlisted the aid of employes and pass them along to the traders.

Fur pieces are said to change hands as many as 20 times a day and the local market, one of the greatest fur markets in the world, is in a state of confusion. Street dealers are not particular where or from whom they get their furs and some are reported to be making as high as $1,00 a day in commissions.

Digestion Perfect Says Mrs. Clark

Chronic Stomach Sourness and Sickness Relieved By Dreco. Thanks to This Grand Remedy, Lakefield Lady Now Enjoys and Digests Every Meal She Eats.

"During the past few years I have suffered constantly from stomach trouble, says Mrs. Margaret Clark, of Lakefield, Ont. "I had a very poor appetite, and what little food I did eat would lie heavy on my stomach, giving me a distressing feeling that lasted from one meal to another. Food would sour, and I would get terrible spells of heartburn that almost took my breath away. My kidneys were also out of order and caused severe pains across my back.

"I tried many kinds of medicines, and would go on diet for weeks at a time, but to no avail. I simply could not seem to improve. I heard a lot about Dreco and the wonderful work it was doing before I decided to give it a trial. Have just finished my second bottle, and can truthfully say that it has made a new woman of me altogether.

"I can eat things now that I haven't touched for months, and my digestion is perfect. I scarcely ever have any trouble in any way, and my kidneys are in splendid order. Constipation, with which I have been chronically troubled for many years, is much relieved, and my whole system is feeling the benefit of the thorough cleansing and regulating Dreco is giving it."

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterborough by Bond's Drug Store. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you.

Dreco is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, in Campbellford by J. E. Birks, and by a good druggist everywhere.

Better than Riches

UNDER the dome of the Board of Trade in Manchester, England, is this inscription: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." The thought is considerably more than mere sentiment. It is good business.

A good name is recognized as the biggest individual asset a business can have. It is the very keystone of modern industry. Business to-day is done on such a broad scale—every merchant and every manufacturer has such a long list of customers—that it would not do to have a reputation for "slipping something over."

Advertising has standardized almost every article you can buy. You don't have to bargain and dicker and haggle to know that you are getting as good as you give.

That's why it pays to read the advertisments and to buy advertised goods. A product's advertising is the best guarantee of its faithful performance and lasting usefulness or of its definite value. The advertiser would not dare to risk his good name by advertising an unworthy product.

PARLIAMENT WAITS VOTING ON MONDAY

Apathy General as House Hears Amendment Introduced by Labor--Government Criticized

LONDON, Jan. 17. — The Labor amendment introduced in Parliament to-day reads: "But it is our duty respectfully to submit to Your Majesty that Your Majesty's present advisors have not confidence in the House." Mr. Clines in moving the amendment declared the promises put into the King's speech were a mixture of make-believe and contrition. He proceeded to criticize in detail what the government had done.

Mr. Asquith and former Premier Lloyd George were seated next to Ramsay MacDonald, the parliamentary Labor leader, and prospective Prime Minister on the front Opposition benches.

There was no sign of party feeling at the outset of the momentous debate. The House had the air of being stone cold, waiting for the vote on the amendment, which is planned for Monday night, and which is expected to spell the end of the Baldwin government. A large portion of Mr. Clyne's indictment passed without a single Labor cheer.

MALE VOICE CHOIR DECIDES TO COMPETE

The holidays are now over, and it needs steady and careful study for the remainder of the season to bring about that success so much desired for the 1924 annual concert.

The enthusiasm shown last night, coupled with the earnest and diligent manner the men displayed, in rehearsing new selections, gives great promise.

The musical director Mr. M. B. Chenhall is sparing no efforts to bring the organization up to a high standard of efficiency, in view of the choir deciding to compete in the Male Voice Choir section at the forthcoming Ontario Musical Festival to be held at Toronto about the end of March.

ASQUITH IN FAVOR LABOUR AMENDMENT

LONDON, Jan. 17. — Former Premier Asquith, leader of the reunited Liberal party, announced in the House of Commons to-day that he would vote in favor of Labor amendment expressing "no confidence" in the Baldwin Government, and would advise all his friends to do the same. The Labor amendment was introduced by John R. Clynes, deputy leader of the parliamentary labor party, at the resumption of the debate on an address in reply to the speech from the throne.

The Prince of Wales and the Duke of York, entered the Press Gallery as Mr. Clynes was speaking. Laborites heartily cheered the reading of the proposed amendment.

AT THE GRAND.

Dante, the noted European magician, who will appear under the management of Thurston, the famous American magician, at the Grand Opera House for three days beginning today is very fond of animals. In his travels about the world he has managed to pick up a parrot, three parrakeets, two monkeys, seven or eight rabbits, four dogs, two cats and three deers. These are his constant companions and he uses some of them most effectively in the presentation of his Thurston-Kellar mysteries.

Dante has just completed a most successful tour of European capitals. He is a great favorite in Copenhagen, and has recently been appointed court magician by King Christian of Denmark, who is an ardent lover of magic. The King a short time ago invited him to the royal palace to spend several days Dante set forth with three of his dogs and his two monkeys. When he arrived at the gates of the palace, notwithstanding his unimpeachable credentials, the guard refused him admittance. The man explained that no one—no mater who he might be—could enter the sacred precincts of the palace and bring with them animals, however harmless and domesticated. Crestfallen, but resolute, Dante returned to his hotel in Copenhagen.

An hour late he was visited by the Court Chamberlain, to whom he explained the situation. The official declared that the rule had been in force for centuries and begged the magician to leave his pets behind and pay his royal host the visit as arranged. Dante pleasantly, but firmly, explained that he never went anywhere without the animals, and had he had an inkling that he would not be allowed to enter the royal palace with them he would have declined the invitation. The Chamberlain was dismayed. The upshot of the matter was that he communicated with King Christian, who immediately revoked the century-old rule, and Dante and his monkeys and dogs spent a most enjoyable weekend at the royal palace.

Featured among his own marvelous European creations and the Thurston-Kellar mysteries and illusions which Dante presents are, "The Ghost Woman," psychic phenomena of the age. You may question her any questions. She is to be unequalled as an exponent of mental telepathy.

The mysterious Chinese Fountain of myriad streams, a spectacle of ancient splendor. Also such enthralling wonders as Creation, the Phantom Woman, the Miracle, the Great East Indian Rope Trick, the Vanishing Piano, the lady and the Lion, the Spirit Cabinet, and a score of other weird, mystical effects, bordering on the supernatural.

FALLING FRANC

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. — (United Press.)— The falling franc is carrying down with it the last glimmering hope for settlement of the French war debt of four billion dollars, in the next few years or perhaps longer.

Members of the Debt Commission and leaders in Congress have become alarmed at the sure prospect of indefinite delay brought about by the critical financial situation in France.

As the Franc tumbles, the reaction is breaking out in Congress. Senator Borah, of Idaho, demanded yesterday that foreign governments be compelled to pay what they owe, declaring that the money was necessary for practical tax reduction in this country.

NORWOOD WON NEILL TROPHY

In Largest Field in History of Curling Club--Norwood Took Honors From 25 Rinks.

Yesterday was strong man's day at the curling rink, full strength being needed behind the stones and in wielding the broom to make the mark over the soft ice. The battle ground was in good shape for the early rinks, but the continuous rain throught the day had its effect in making it anything but an ideal sheet of ice for the later rinks.

The Robert Neill trophy, presented to encourage curling in the smaller towns never aroused so much enthusiasm as yesterday, when the coveted prize was taken by Norwood in a 14 to 2 round with Lakefield.

Twenty-six rinks competed, including twelve from the district, the largest entry in the history of the club.

From 3.30 yesterday afternoon the results were:

SAYS CANADA IS MISREPRESENTED

Alleges British Press Ignores Canadian Immigration Problem -- Advises Investigation.

TORONTO, Jan. 17. — Canadian Press. — That the withdrawals of large deposits by the Provincial government prior to the suspension of the Home Bank of Canada, had a tendency to contribute to the failure of that institution, as suggested in some circles, was vigorously denied by Colonel W. H. Price, the provincial treasurer, to-day.

According to Mr. Price the heavy withdrawals were made in the usual course of government busienss and, as is the custom, when heavy withdrawals are to be made, the Home Bank had been notified two days previous to the date upon which the cheques were presented for payment.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Many people imagine they have Bright's disease if any trouble develops in the back or region of the kidneys. The fear is often groundless. In fact more people have probably developed the Bright's disease habit, through reading patent medicine advertisements which try to make you believe there is something wrong, than in any other way.

The only sure way to convince yourself and be sure you are on the right track is to have a health examination, at least once a year, by a real physician.

Bright's disease, sometimes termed nephritis, may have its grip on you, and yet for years you may go along wondering what is the trouble.

If you have severe attacks of what is generally termed nervousness, during which you may have "dizzy spells" or sick headaches, have an examination at once. Don't blunder along trying to diagnose your condition.

Preventing Bright's disease is comparatively easy. The records of many states show a decrease during the past six years. Drinking alcoholic liquors and improper foods may be said to cause 85 per cent of this trouble. Over-eating of proteins in meats should be avoided. A vegetable diet is always a great check in warding off Bright's disease.

Some time ago I wrote of the help a fasting program would bring about. If you have any doubts about your kidney condition, try the rest or fasting program. It relieves the work of the kidneys and sets up a renewal of workable reserve strength.

Prevention of this trouble is greatly aided by being a good water drinker. If the kidneys are kept active and not overloaded with waste, your chance of escaping this disease is good.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Jan. 16.—The Bay of Quinte Winter School opened yesterday morning promptly at nine o'clock, with a half-hour devoted to morning worship led by the President of the School, Rev. E. Harston, and Rev. Harold Young, pastor of George street Methodist church, Peterborough. Mr. Young led the young Leaguers to a helpful conception of what true worship and communion with God means. His talk was inspiring and earnest and should be productive of much good.

After this period forty minutes was devoted to Bible Study, the members of the school being divided according to their ages, into classes for this. The general subject was "Jesus of Nazareth, How He Thought, Lived, Worked and Achieved." The leaders of the different groups were Rev. Roy Rickard, B.A., M.R.E., Northport; Rev. J. S. J. Wilson, B.A., B.D., Brighton; Rev. Manson Doyle, B.A., Toronto; Rev. S. T. Tucker, B.A., B.D., Millbrook; Rev. J. W. Baird, B.A., Port Hope; Rev. F. J. Horwood, Mus. Bac., Camborne; Miss Mary Allison, B.A., Toronto. Mr. Rickard and Mr. Wilson each had a class of young men. These Bible Study groups proved a source of inspiration and profit to all who took up this phase of the Winter School activities.

This was followed by a virile, strong treatment of the theme of Religious Education by Rev. Prof. Waine, of Albert College, Belleville, who was present in a similar capacity at the school last winter also. Prof. Waine carried out his work not as a lecturer, but more as a teacher, strongly emphasizing the vital points and giving his large class valuable data to jot down and ponder afterwards. His expositions of a vital theme are among the really good things of the convention week here.

After a musical selection, Rev. Manson Doyle, B.A., Associate Secretary of Young People's work, took up the topic "Young People's Leagues, dwelling upon the activities of these organizations, their aim, scope and power to achieve in a very interesting, practical way.

The convention then closed for the noon hour. The delegates are all billeted in the homes of the people of Cobourg, where they also get their meals. They pay a uniform price of $7.00 a week for this to the Committee of Management, who settle with the hostesses at whose homes they are being entertained.

This places the School upon a self-supporting basis. A registration fee of $2.00 is also paid by each delegate. In consideration of this the delegates are admitted to the evening entertainments free of charge (with the exception of Monday night) while others who attend must pay a nominal charge of 25c.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon session was opened by the President, Rev. E. Harston, who has always a message of inspiration and helpfulness for the members of the school.

Following this Rev. Mr. Albertson, a returned missionary from China, gave an illuminative address upon the work in China, where he has zealously labored, being now home on a well-earned furlough. Mr. Albertson illustrated his address by the use of appropriate charts and gave to those who listened to him valuable first-hand knowledge of those important countries and peoples of the East, so much in the public eye at the present time.

The Rest Period

For ten minutes a rest period attended by much helpful social converse was enjoyed, before the next period was entered upon.

Boys' and Girls' Work

Upon resuming the convention was divided into two big classes for C.S.E.T. and C.G.I.T. work. Mr. Taylor Statten, who is to lead the former, was unable to be present today because of family bereavement. His place was ably supplied.

Miss Allison, B.A., Secretary of the Girls' Work Board, proved to be the right person in the right place in demonstration and practical exposition of C.G.I.T. work.

Miss Allison is highly regarded by her class, and her work in this connection bids fair to be far-reaching in its power for good. The remainder of the afternoon, up to 5.30, was devoted to recreation.

The Evening Session

Last night the members of the Cobourg Young People's League entertained the delegates. The provided an enjoyable program after which refreshments were served and a social hour happily spent. Miss Joy Nichols is president of the Cobourg Young People's League.

Convention Notes

An unusual phase of the convention is that the number of young men attending exceeds that of the young ladies. It is a pleasing sign of a tendency upon the part of the Canadian boys to prepare themselves to make the best investment of life.

Rev. A. McLaughlin, Keene, book steward, is unable to stay throughout the convention owing to revival services being in progress at one of the appointments in his circuit.

Rev. C. C. Washington, B.A., B.D., Courtice, historian and reporter, was unable to be present today also.

With Rev. Roy Rickard as song leader and Rev. F. J. Horwood, Mus. Bac., Camborne, as musical director, the service of praise is by no means the least enjoyable phase of the convention's activities.

DUBLIN, Jan. 17—Ireland is as yet without established radio broadcasting, and all listening-in is done against the prohibition of the government. But this condition soon will be changed, for the postmaster-general has decided upon a method of broadcasting control and a group of Irish firms have agreed to work the scheme together.

There is to be a main station at Dublin. Radio sets will be imported, and manufactured locally. The license for an amateur will cost $5.00; hotels and restaurants will pay $25.00 News, music and advertising will be distributed.

OPENED SESSIONS OF WINTER SCHOOL

Delegates Present From All Parts of the District

COBOURG, Jan. 16.—The third Bay of Quinte Winter School opened here last night with about ninety delegates in attendance, and more are expected to-day. In addition, many of the young people from the surrounding district who have not registered are in attendance at the school, coming in each day. Yesterday afternoon many of the delegates arrived and after registering were taken to their billets. The school was opened at 7 p.m. by the President, Rev. E. Harston, Woodville, after which Rev. Harold Young, Peterborough, addressed the young people at the vesper service, which is one of the most inspiring services of the day. Mr. Young outlined also a programme for the week, at these meetings and at the morning devotions.

Rev. W. R. McWilliams, returned missionary from Japan, is unable to be present and Rev. Mr. Albertson has taken his place and will conduct each day a study on foreign missions.

Concert Last Night

Last night after the vesper service a very enjoyable concert was given. Miss Jessie Tuite, teacher of elocution and expression at Albert College Belleville, delighted the large audience, which filled the hall to capacity, with selections both grave and gay and received unstinted applause, which conveyed thorough appreciation of her efforts. Miss Tuite will always be assured a hearty welcome in Cobourg. The chairman of the evening was Rev. R. F. Stillman, pastor of the convention church, and one of the Honorary Presidents of the school. The Methodist Sunday School orchestra consisting of about thirty instruments, and under the direction of Mr. M. E. Hall, rendered a musical programme that was very greatly enjoyed. Appreciation of their efforts and of the kindness of Miss Tuite in coming to Cobourg at considerable inconvenience, was given expression to by hearty applause.

Three sessions of the School are held each day. In the morning, after the devotional period, there is Bible Study, Mission Study classes, and addresses on Religious Education. In the afternoon the work of the Young People's Leagues and C.G.I.T. and C.S.E.T. work are to be taken up. In the evenings there are concerts and other social gatherings. Miss Mary Allison is in charge of the girl's work and Mr. Taylor Statten of the boy's work.

At last night's session Rev. Roy Rickard, Northport, was the leader of the community singing, with Rev. F. J. Horwood, Camborne, as accompanist. The officers of the school are:

Hon. Presidents—Rev. R. A. Whattam, Colborne, President of Bay of Quinte conference, and Rev. R. F. Stillman, Cobourg.

Farm Hints

LUBRICANTS FOR FARM MACHINERY

Heavy oils and greases are used on all bearings where the pressure is great and the movement slow, as on axles and slow turning shafts. Generally speaking, the greater the speed of the turning part the lighter the lubricant used. No oil should be used that has not sufficient body to remain on the surface of shaft and bearing for a reasonable length of time. All farm machines, excepting engines and cream separators, can be kept well lubricated with the heavier oils and greases. Cream separators running at high speed require a light high grade oil, while gasoline engines require an oil of medium body and capable of standing a high temperature. Grease or hard oil cups should be attached to all bearings where practicable.

OLD-STYLE HATS.

The black satin hat, turned up from the face and draped into a bicorne or tricorne, is very popular now.

RAILWAY STRIKE SUNDAY MIDNIGHT

FARM KITCHEN SINK SERVICE

Generous Size And Good Location Should Be Considerations — The How And Where.

The simplest arrangement for a kitchen sink service that supplies cold water only is a small pitcher pump mounted at the edge of a sink. This is the first step in improvement over the outdoor pump and cistern. For the hot water service at the sink, it is necessary to have a heating arrangement which is best supplied by a water front in the range, a water reservoir and a supply of cold water under pressure. The water under pressure may be furnished through the use of a pressure tank system, an attic tank or a gravity supply.

Place the Sink at the Proper Height

The height of the kitchen sink is of great importance. The location of the most flexible joint in one person's backbone is not a standard for all. The correct height of the sink is a matter that must be determined by the person who is required to work over that particular sink. Every woman knows that working over a low sink is anything but pleasant.

Watch the man who installs the sink, and see that the height is satisfactory. The bottom of the sink should be just six inches below the point of your elbow. Such little attention to detail while the work is being done may save you many a backache. If you do not issue any instructions to those installing the sink, it will, in all probability, be installed at a height of thirty inches, which is correct for a woman only four feet, eight inches tall. You may be taller than that.

Generous Propositions

Considerable choice can be had in size, design and material in kitchen sinks—the shape, weight of metal and quality of enamel largely determine the price. If the size of the kitchen will permit it, a sink of generous proportions is to be recommended. The drain board is important and generally desirable, but sometimes a movable flat wire basket or rack suspended over the sink is more desirable. Taps, faucets, or bibcocks of various types and quality are offered by the trade. The ordinary brass or nickel finish compression faucet is generally satisfactory. These may be had in either screw joint or solder joint.

Location Is Important

The kitchen sink should be located at a convenient point beneath a window or on a wall opposite a large window, so that the lighting may be good. Do not build the sink in with shelving, cupboards or closets unless you are prepared to cover all woodwork that is likely to be splashed with greasy water with copper sheeting. Open plumbing for the sink is to be preferred on the score of accessibility and cleanliness. The cockroach loves wet woodwork and grease. So try to avoid conditions that attract such insects. Locate the sink, if possible, on a wall on which there are no cupboards or cabinets, and do not consider anything but a high back type of sink. It may cost a little more but it is worth it when we consider the added service that such will give.—L. Stevenson, Dept. Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

TAX INCREASE WAS ACCEPTED

French Cabinet Adopted Government's Program of Fiscal Reform--Confidence Expressed.

PARIS, Jan. 17. — (Canadian Press).—The French Cabinet this morning adopted, without important changes, the final draft of the Government's programme of fiscal reform, including a measure providing a twenty per cent. increase in taxation. The legislation will be presented to the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon by Minister of Finance De Lasteyrie.

The Government will insist that the Financial Committee of the Chamber report on bills immediately so that they can be brought before Parliament for discussion next Tuesday.

Confidence Expressed.

The Chamber of Deputies to-day expressed confidence in the Government by a vote of 394 to 180, refusing the immediate discussion of an interpellation on the subject of pensions.

EAST SIDE IS CALLED GREAT UNWASHED BUT TAKES 10,000,000 FREE BATHS YEAR

Hell's Kitchen Had Only One Tub to Seventy-Nine Families When Dr. Baruch Started Ten-Year Battle for Public Bathouses—New York Has Thirteen.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. — "The great unwashed" is the way purse-proud Riverside Drive, on the upper West Side, speaks of humble Rivington street, on the lower East Side. Base libel. Last year 797,053 free baths were taken in the Dr. Simon Baruch Public Bath, at 326 Rivington street, the first interior free public bath to be opened in New York City. It was established in 1901.

Manhattan now maintains thirteen free open-all-year interior baths (six of them in buildings on streets of the lower East Side and seven scattered through the other overcrowded districts), and eight free floating baths located during the summer months along the water fronts.

The patronage of all the interior baths last year was 8,528,049. That of the floating baths was 1,366,556. The grand total was approximately 10,000,000 baths distributed gratis.

That represents a substantial elimination of the dirt accumulated through toil upon the bodies of humans who literally "eat their bread by the sweat of their brow."

The late Dr. Baruch did this. He was white-haired and white-bearded, a patriarchal-looking veteran surgeon of the Confederate Army, who came to New York with his family from the South at the close of the Civil War.

He began his great fight for free public baths in 1889. For nearly ten years he labored incessantly, devoting time, money, energies of persuasion, threats, prayers and sarcasm and power of a trenchant pen toward the accomplishment of transforming "the great unwashed" into "the great washed."

"The people won't bathe," said one Mayor.

"They can't without the facilities," retorted Dr. Baruch, who canvassed the section of the middle West Side known as "Hell's Kitchen," and revealed an average of one bathtub to every seventy-nine families, while in some blocks the proportion was as low as one bathtub to each 440 families. He also demonstrated that those who had bathtubs were not disposed to lend them to their neighbors.

His fight for free public baths was a single-handed crusade. He kept after Mayors, Aldermen and members of the Legislature until they were as familiar with his features as those of Santa Claus, and there was a resemblance at that.

In 1895 the Legislature capitulated and passed a law providing for the establishment and maintenance of "such number of free public baths as the local Board of Health may deem necessary."

Even then he was confronted by every obstacle that the private owners of public baths could devise, and it took six months more of persuasion and battle to get the first free shower baths opened in the metropolis—those in Rivington street.

Dr. Baruch died in 1921 bearing the name "Father of Public Baths in New York." He was a noted authority on the curative power of water, both external and internal. He contended that money spent by a municipality for public baths, where people could go and get clean, would do more toward raising the standard of health and morality than a much larger sum spent in any other way.

One of Dr. Baruch's sons is Bernard M. Baruch, the Wall Street financier, who became chairman of the War Industries Board, and since the armistice thinks, writes, talks, lives and works in the "fifties" on Manhattan Island. He left the coupon district when his country called, and he has never gone back.

As a young man "B. M."—a nickname he likes better than "Bernie"—after graduation from the College of the City of New York, took up boxing as a fine art. He was one of the star amateurs turned out of the John Woods gymnasium in Twenty-eighth street.

His father not only encouraged him in athletics but insisted that it was his duty to put his knowledge to work. Accordingly the son became an athletic instructor in a boys' club on West Sixty-ninth street. They were poor boys who could not afford to pay the fancy prices charged by Woods and other private institutions.

"I remember him as a boxer with an extraordinary reach and a good, fast punch," today declared one of his pupils, a successful contractor. "He went over and under the parallel bars like an English greyhound, and at sprinting he was a streak of flying youth."

Mr. Baruch, at fifty-three, plays a wicked game of golf and can hold his own at tennis.

Bathing as service both for pleasure and cleanliness has been almost instinctively practiced by nearly all peoples, and the amazing thing is that New York, embracing all peoples, should have run along for 125 years as an American city before accepting the doctrine of public baths and their necessity.

The most ancient records tell of public bathing in the Nile and the Ganges Rivers. The Jews, from their earliest history, bathed in running water and used both hot and cold baths. Homer relates how the Greeks used warm baths after fatigue or exercise, and they invented the hot-air bath, the modern steamroom being its foster-child.

But it remained for the Romans to popularize bathing with the masses. That was made possible when ample supplies of water were brought by aqueduct to the Eternal City. Huge public baths were built in Rome, and the fad spread to other Italian cities. Each Emperor, as he wished to ingratiate himself with the people, lavished money in the construction of great buildings which not only included suites of bathing apartments and plunges, but contained gymnasiums and sometimes theatres and libraries.

Colonel Frank H. Hines, formerly an army officer, now superintendent of public buildings and offices for Manhattan Borough, is the individual upon whom the public-bath mantle of Dr. Baruch has fallen. He has dedicated his official life to "carrying-on" for the hydrotherapy ideals of the physician who died in his eighty-second year.

"The education of the American people," said Colonel Hines, "is not finished, because baths exist today as do butcher shops; rather it is a fact as a result of this education people believe that baths for the people should exist as plentifully as do butcher shops, or rather that the opportunity to bathe should be as convenient to the community life of a neighborhood as do the other items of everyday life.

"The people themselves are talking of Baltimore, with its portable baths and washhouses; Boston, with its beach baths; Chicago, with its moderate-cost baths; Detroit, with its shower baths; and we find that minds are being convinced that the great American public have 'learned something.' The masses now want bathing facilities for the greatest number in the largest number of places; and that, like schools, firehouses and police stations, public baths have become a necessity and must be in the same manner provided as a part of the municipal expense of government."

Colonel Hines is the new champion of "more free municipal baths, and then more of them."—Raymond G. Carroll.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain—How To Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

FERGUSON HAS GIVEN DISPUTE NO THOUGHT

OTTAWA, Jan. 17. — (Canadian Press).—Premier Ferguson, when asked to-day what action would likely be taken with regard to the voiding of the election of Karl K. Homuth, U.F.O.-Labor candidate in South Waterloo, he replied that while he had seen the result of the announcement of the petition in the newspapers, as yet he had given no thought to the matter.

Reminded that a Toronto news despatch had stated that the opinion was general that the seat will be left vacant until after the first session of the new Legislature, when the Government will contest the riding on its record, Premier Ferguson simply commented: "They have a lot of enterprising fellows in Toronto.

THREAT TO SMASH STATUE PUT GUARD OVER ALLWARD

Most of the Sculptor's Work Was Done Under Hard Eye of the Mortgagee's Agent

WHEN Walter S. Allward who is now engaged in finishing on Vimy Ridge, Canada's magnificent memorial to her fallen soldiers of the great war, was a young chap of nineteen and just starting on his life work as a sculptor he had a hard time with the tombstone builder to whom he owed his first contract.

Walter Allward

This man had taken on a big commission to build a memorial shaft, and needed a sculptured figure to complete it. Allward, who up to this time had had no training except a year or so spent in an architect's office, but who was filled with a mighty determination to become a sculptor, sent in a design. He got the shock of his life when it was selected and he was asked to go on with the work. Up to this time, as he says himself, his most ambitious work had consisted in "punching holes in an alleged Romanesque facade on Queen street Methodist church", Toronto, and, though he had the will to be a sculptor, he had almost nothing else. No studio, no tools, and no experience.

The tombstone builder agreed to stake him to the studio and equipment. So the job was started. But it was slow. The young artist—this was twenty-five years ago—had to make most of his own tools; he was never satisfied with poor work; and his model was not all that might be expected of a solid steady going citizen. So there was delay about completion. Finally ne of the tombstones got impatient and wrathy. Worn to exasperation, Allward threatened to "destroy the figure" if any more was said. The man of monuments shut up and went away, but next morning there was a guard standing over the figure, and the rest of Allward's work was done under the hard eye of this agent of the mortgagee. Eventually the work was completed, the guard was relieved, the figure was delivered and the price paid in money and stake. It was just a few hundred dollars all told, but from this small beginning Allward took heart of grace, and pressed on up Parnassus.

His next experience was scarcely less ludicrous or discouraging. A certain large corporation wished to commemorate their founder by a bust of him which was to be installed in their "new and palatial quarters." Allward was awarded the job and completed the work to their satisfaction. Its price was another few hundreds and some of this had already been doled out to the sculptor as the work progressed. But this was regarded by the committee as very poor business indeed. Artists ought to be able to live on expectations and glory. Their principle in business was no completed work, no money. So, in view of their previous generosity, they decided when the work was finished that it would be most unwise to have so young a man "handle so much money." So they continued to dole it out in safe quantities until it was all paid. Needless to say, all of it was owed by the artist to his own debtors. Now he has a million dollar contract, and even hard business men realize that he can be trusted with not alone money, but to augment Canada's glory in Europe.

No Hair Brush for Guest, "Smiling Joe" Uses Comb

Well-Known Canadian Recruiter Has Tender Heart as Well as Bald Head

"SMILING JOE" LAWSON, ex-paymaster of the 204th Battalion, has a heart as tender as it is big. The well-known recruiter and Victory bond salesman once met a British newcomer on the street who was down—but not out, for "Joe" put out his warm hand and asked the lad to his home for supper.

Joe Lawson

"I took him upstairs," Joe tells the story, "to let him wash himself, while I went down to have another plate set. My wife and I waited one minute, two minutes, three minutes, and still our guest did not appear. I went upstairs to see what the difficulty was.

"'What's the matter, laddie? Aren't you ready yet?'

"You see," smiled "Joe"—everybody calls him "Joe"—passing his hand over his bald head, "no wonder he couldn't find a hairbrush . . . . because I don't use one. But I found a comb for him, and he was soon happy."

WHY RODOLPH VALENTINO LEARNT BULL FIGHTING

IT was in the screen version of the stage play, Blood and Sand, that I realized I must find out how to be a genuine bull fighter, for the scene in the bull ring is the crucial point in the story.

Now films are shown all over the world; and Ibanez, author of the play, is a national hero in Spain, where the screen version would be sure to appear. So a bull with a pedigree yards long was imported from Mexico, and with him came a famous bull fighter.

He took us in hand, and every day for two months I trained just as though I intended to make bull fighting my profession. Being a dancer, I found the side-to-side dodging fairly easy, and the cape-play intrigued me. But it was the hardest training of my life.

Carrie Jacobs-Bond Has Known Sorrow, Has Written Her Life Into Her Songs

"When You Come to the End of a Perfect Day" Has Been Sung, Literally, Around the World—Result of Years of Struggle with Poverty, Sickness and Grief.

"IN an upper room of the Glenwood Mission Inn, at Riverside, California, a woman paused as she was dressing for dinner, to watch from her window the fading of day into night. Since early morning, as the guest of friends, she had been shown one lovely scene after another. The hours had been filled with delight. And now, as she watched the night coming on, she said, with a sigh of pure happiness:

"It has truly been a perfect day!"

Acting on a sudden impulse, she began to write; and, in the intervals of dressing, hurrying from dresser to table and back again, she set down two stanzas.

Later, when she and her friends were dining in the patio of the hotel under the starlit sky, she read the verses to them—then tucked the slip of paper away and promptly forgot about it.

But the words remained in her subconscious memory; and months afterward, on another starlit night, they came again to the surface of her mind. With other friends she was driving across the Mojave Desert, after another wonderful day, when she suddenly began to sing softly the words she had written that evening in Riverside. The melody seemed to come spontaneously, without thought or effort.

Surprised at the realization, she answered, "Why—I guess I have!"

She certainly had. When she had perfected the melody, that song, "A Perfect Day," was published; and the woman who was its author and composer, Mrs. Carrie Jacobs-Bond, found to her amazement that she had written the most popular of all modern songs.

Many fanciful stories have been told about how it came to be written, but the above is the true story. Every night the orchestra of the Mission Inn plays "A Perfect Day" in the very setting where Mrs. Bond read aloud the stanzas less than an hour after she had put them on paper.

"But great songs do not spring out of empty lives. To appreciate, at its full value, the healing happiness of a perfect day, one must have known sorrow and hardships, discouragements and loneliness. Carrie Jacobs-Bond has known all of these," says Neil M. Clark in an article in the American Magazine.

To Mr. Clark, who interviewed her in the music-room of her home high on a hill overlooking Hollywood, she was "one of the most extraordinary persons, man or woman, I have ever known."

She was an invalid when circumstances came that forced her to make her own way in the world. But she had a will that would not be defeated. Time after time she seemed utterly conquered, beaten by life. But she did not know it—would not have it so—and it turned out that it was not so.

The sudden death of Dr. Frank Lewis Bond, her second husband, in an accident left her without means of support, for times had been hard where the doctor practiced, and he had not entered up his fees in his books. Almost at the same time his capital was lost in a mining company that went into bankruptcy.

In a big Chicago house they weathered the first year by renting rooms to students. To pay for the advertising of her songs—for she had been writing these occasionally for several years—she made dresses for the woman editor of a music magazine.

"I found my chief consolation in those dreary days," she says, "in the lives of people even worse off than we were. My son and I moved into a little apartment of five rooms, taking the furniture we had used in the rooming-house, and storing the extra things in the basement. When winter came, the wind from Lake Michigan blew its icy blast into the house, and for warmth I closed off the biggest front rooms, and kept a tiny fire—all we could afford—burning in the one room which served us as both living-room and studio.

Carrie Jacobs-Bond

"I painted china; but that's a precarious way of making a living, and had it not been for my brave little son's assistance—he was delivering envelopes for a firm, and later became special delivery boy for the Chicago postoffice, I would have fared worse.

"As it was, I would paint china until my trembling hands became too cold; then I would stop, and in my 'spare time' work at the copying of my music manuscripts.

"One day a knock brought me to the door, and I found a man who asked to be allowed to sweep the snow from the porch and steps—that last resort of the workseeker! I told him that I had no money to pay him, but that he might come in and get warm. He hovered over my little fire, while I went on copying manuscripts. Finally he said:

"'Madam, I could copy that for you. Yes,' he continued, for he saw my involuntary astonishment, 'I used to sing in the glee club at college. I can copy music.' And, taking it from my hand, he set to work.

"The poor derelict remained with us, and we took some of the stored furniture and fixed a place for him in the basement. There he stayed, trying to help me with the music, and listening raptly to the strains from the piano, my husband's gift to me, remembering heaven knows what hours from his past!

"One evening he came to me in genuine distress. A poor family had been dispossessed—turned out into the snow.

"'Mrs. Bond,' he said, 'they're worse off than I am, because there's a woman, and children, too. So, if you will let me, I'll give them my place.'

"Poor wreck that he was, he found it in his heart to help them; and with my permission he brought them to occupy the place where he had found a little haven. It was just a day or so after I had an attack of rheumatism which confined me to my bed for three months, and the woman nursed me faithfully during those weary days.

"It was my hope and my dream which made me different from the other unfortunate people whom I met daily, having the same struggle with circumstances that I was having. I was always expecting something to turn up—and invariably it did. It is that faith that keeps one buoyant and happy."

It is almost like a fairy story the way things did turn up. An extra five dollar bill for singing fluttered from an envelope just in the nick of time. "Sing them to me," said Jessie Bartlett Davis, then famous as a contralto, to Mrs Bond who had taken her songs and her publishing problem to this comparative stranger. Without a word the singer wrote out a cheque for three hundred dollars, the amount needed by Mrs. Bond to make headway. Elbert Hubbard paid her for singing at East Aurora. Other invitations followed. When she was $1,500 in debt, Walter Gale, an old friend, took a fifteen hundred dollar interest in her publishing business. The second year it payed him ninety-five per cent. Shortly after a Perfect Day was published another share was bought by Walter Gale for $8,500.

"I'll buy a house and take a trip round the world,' said Mrs. Bond, and she did. Belief in a happy outcome finally transformed the first little hall-bedroom shop into a beautiful store on Michigan avenue.

"It's my idea that God hasn't done much without purpose," is Mrs. Bond's philosophy. "He has given everybody something. That something a person can use; and to the degree that he does use it he can succeed. Perhaps he won't get just the thing he wants, but he will get near enough to it for it to be a satisfaction to him. But he must use his gift to the utmost.

"It must be a conscious effort, also, to keep out of our lives what is evil, or less than our best. I think my songs are successful because they are simple heart songs I don't allow anything suggestive of evil to creep into them. And I try to keep all such things out of my own life. At the entrance to my home is this motto:

"'Bring here no tattle in, nor take none out—so may the Love of God dwell in this house.'"

BRITISH ENCYCLOPEDIA LIBELS CANADIAN GENIUS

Ridiculous Mistakes Show Surprising Ignorance of Editors About Canadian Men of Letters and Science

HAVE the writers of modern British encyclopedias developed a grudge against Canadian genius; or is it just pure cussedness? Recently my spare time has been devoted to a search through these storehouses of knowledge and some of the tempting bypaths have been rich in revelations about Canadians that were hitherto unknown to me. While many were but mere slips of the pen, and might be found within the binding of the most severely edited volume, others are so ridiculous that it is difficult to understand how they were passed.

Canadians recall with pride the magnificent work conducted for the British government by Professor John Cunningham MacLennan, of Toronto University. He it was who commercialized the production of helium and opened the field of aeronautics to the use of this wonderful gas. He, and the governors of Toronto University were thanked by the British government for the work which had been conducted. His name and efforts are well known in England and there is no possible excuse for the brilliant (?) record of his work which appears in the latest Britannica.

The pamphlets issued by the Federal government, at Ottawa, clearly point out that Prof. MacLennan and his associates centred their work near the city of Hamilton, Ont., and near Calgary, Alt., the latter place receiving much more attention.

The professor is given no direct mention in the latest Britannica, published in 1922 but under aeronautics, the following interesting information is given—(Page 60. column two, volume thirty.)

"Helium.... The main supplies are, however, in the natural gas in Texas, and in Canada, near Ontario."

But the richest yet discovered by the writer is in the third volume of the latest Everyman Encyclopedia. It is hard to think that modern British men of letters would be unaware of the delightful poems by our fellow Canadian, Robert W. Service. He, like Professor MacLennan, is given no item in either the Britannica or the Everyman, but on page 257, at the end of a fourteen column article on Canada, the writer is informed that:

"There is no doubt that a great future awaits Canada. Consult the poems of Messrs. Bliss Carman and Robert Surface."

READ IT IN HIS FACE

"THAT boy will one day be a judge," was the declaration of a gipsy woman to the mother of Sir Ernest Pollock, when he was a little fellow. When asked why, she said: "I can see it in his face."

The gipsy's prophecy has been more than fulfilled, for now Sir Ernest has been appointed Master of the Rolls in succession to Lord Sterndale. Sir Ernest is Conservative member for Warwick and Leamington, and comes of a great legal family, his grandfather, who had twenty-four children, having been Chief Baron Pollock. Sir Ernest's first big criminal case was that of Armstrong.

He tells the story of a "difficult" witness who, when asked if he knew any of the jury, replied: "More than half of them."

"Are you willing to swear that you know more than half of them?"

"Yes; I'm willing to swear that I know more than the whole lot put together!"

Girls Make No Dead Set For Leverhulme's Title

Soap King Doesn't Think American or Canadian Girls Marry Just for Titles or Property

LORD LEVERHULME, the well-known soap baron who controls 200 factories and 100,000 employes, does not believe that American or Canadian girls are anxious to marry for title or money, and gives as a reason that he has wholly escaped them.

Lord Leverhulme

While visiting Calgary lately the viscount got into conversation with a writer on the subject of titles. Lord Leverhulme deprecated the fact that the Canadian parliament had asked that no more titles be conferred on Canadians and suggested that the legislators were influenced in their legislation by the proximity of the republic to the south of us.

The writer then said: "The Americans may talk against titles, but they seem pleased enough to get them for their sisters and daughters by marriage."

"I don't think the American girls marry for titles or property," replied Lord Leverhulme.

At this his lordship shook his head and replied: "You cannot convince me that either Canadian or American girls are anxious to marry for either wealth or titles. I know, for you see I have been a widower for some years and this is my second visit to this country; yet I have never been accepted. I have been said to have money and title. I have nothing to say about the money, but I have a title right enough, and I have not been accepted." Then in a rather reminiscent mood, Lord Leverhulme concluded: "I was only accepted once in my life, and that was when I was plain Willie Lever."

ZAHAROFFS HUMAN SIDE; COOKERY, GREEN CIGARS

Has Only Complete Dinner Set of Pure Gold in the World

SIR BASIL ZAHAROFF, who is mentioned in some quarters as a possible president of Greece, numbers the art of cookery among his other accomplishments. After a visit paid him in Paris Colonel Repington wrote in his "diary": "Zaharoff fancies himself as a cook, and is often in his kitchen. He had made a special little dish of transversely-sliced bananas, cooked inside a bain-marie and kept constantly soaked by melted sugar poured over them. I hate bananas, but he made me try them. They were quite excellent. . . Zaharoff has some wonderful gold plate. He told me that he picked up ten pieces at a sale some fourteen years ago, and Boucheron had every year made him a few more to match. So now he has a complete dinner service of pure gold (not silver-gilt) for thirty-six people, the only one in the world, he said. The pieces are fearfully heavy." Another peculiarity of Sir Basil's is his liking for green cigars. "His cigars are sent every month from Cuba," the colonel notes. "He opened a box dated three weeks previously. They were quite soft. He says that fresh cigars, or green cigars, as he calls them, are to old cigars like grapes to raisins."

THE famous Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts is the author of more than forty books, and in consequence receives many books from authors. Not long ago somebody was with him in his library and saw a great many new books, some of them obviously of no account.

"Do you read all the new books you receive?" the visitor asked.

"That reminds me of my favorite story," the veteran chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee declared.

"It is told of the great Disraeli. One day he received a book the receipt of which he acknowledged with a note that read:

"'You may be assured that I will lose no time in reading your book.'"

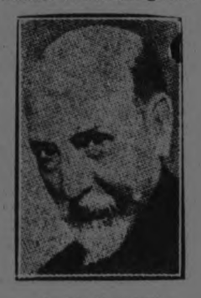
MAN WITH RADIUM EYES IS LUIGI PIRANDELLO

Looks Like a Steel Gimlet or a Diamond Drill—the World's Greatest Dramatist

LUIGI PIRANDELLO, the famous Italian dramatist, who has created an entirely new technique for the drama, the author of "Six Characters in Search of an Author," which Bernard Shaw declared the best play ever written, is on his first visit to America.

He does not look like Bernard Shaw. He avoids publicity. His manner is mild and gentle. He is a little old man with a grey-fringed bald head and a little pointed beard. You would think that he was a shrinking violet until you looked at his eyes.



Luigi Pirandello

He has radium eyes. When he turns them on you, you feel that he is reading your subconscious mind like the headlines in today's newspaper. Everything about him except his tongue is sharp and penetrating. He carries a cane as if it were a surgeon's lancet. In fact, he looks like a steel gimlet or a diamond drill.

The French dramatists used to talk about taking a slice from life. That skin-deep method is not Pirandello's. He does not slice. He probes. He has put his drill deep into crumbling truth as a dentist puts his into a crumbling tooth.

All his life he has been bringing up cores from the core of human consciousness. In thirty years he took out sixty-five novels and 300 short stories from the bed rock of human nature. Then his drill suddenly slipped through into greater depths. Six years ago he began writing plays. Now he is known as the world's greatest dramatist.

He was like a dentist plunging his drill into the very bottom of a cavity. When he produced his first play, the Italian public gave a great yell of rage and pain. He had caught his fellow-countrymen at a sensitive moment in the midst of the war. They found his technique excruciating. He had reached the nerve.

In a recent interview in New York he described very amusingly these yells in Rome and Milan. After Rome had seen for the first time the six characters in search of an author, the audience also started to look for the author, with stilettoes in their hands and blood in their eyes.

"There was constant hissing as the play progressed," says he. "The audience took sides for and against me. Between the acts there were fights between the rival factions. When the curtain fell at the end and I came out on the stage there was a terrific uproar. Spectators shrieked out again and again: 'Buffoon! Buffoon!' Seven or eight hundred people were waiting for me outside and followed me to my hotel, hooting and threatening me."

In Milan there was worse disorder. At times the actors stopped playing while the audience fought. A well-known Milanese journalist climbed on the stage to make a speech defending Pirandello. An army officer jumped out from one of the boxes and slapped his face. Afterwards there was a duel—in fact an epidemic of duels.

Curiously, this author so fought over, who throws out scorching dramatic lava, is not a volcano, but the mildest and most peaceful of men. But he comes by race from a lava country. His mother is a pure Sicilian from Girgente. And his name is of Greek origin and means "the announcer of fire."

He is a dramatic salamander who is making a bonfire of all the old rubbish of the old drama and feels perfectly at home in the flames. "Europe," he has said, "is now in a state of revolt against stage sentimentality. We want new ideas and new technique. People are sick of the old conventions."

His favorite picture is one in which he is seen looking down quizzically on a poor patient donkey that has collapsed at his feet. Perhaps that symbolizes his attitude toward the old drama.

He is certainly all for what is new. He admires Mussolini, Coue and Eugene O'Neill's "The Hairy Ape." "Everything," says he, "is in a state of flux. That is what I try to express in all my works."

He has written the most fantastic plays the world has ever seen, yet, strange to say, his first look at New York's flux and madness quite took his breath away. He held up his hands and cried: "How utterly fantastic." And that was before he had seen Greenwich Village, where his plays are to be produced.

Eleanora Duse already gave New York a taste of them last fall, but when New York sees his latest play it is safe to say it will see something more fantastic than itself. It is called "Each In His Own Way." It is a satire on playwrights. It is Pirandello making mock of himself.

PEDALS, LEVERS, SIGNALS, NEW CHARACTER TESTS

BY watching hands and feet and the face, a professor in a middle-western university reads the character of persons sitting at an apparatus he devised to classify students.

Seated at a bench, the subject is required to work a series of pedals and levers in response to signals.

The idea is to act quickly. It is a test against time. The student who becomes nervous might not be a steady hand at the wheel of an automobile or as a motorman or engineer, the inventor thinks. When a person goes to the machine and sits down quickly, studies it out, and then works it right and fast, and smiles and is eager, the inventor believes such a man or woman is aggressive and is to be trusted. Some come to the machine feeling that it is silly. They perhaps make mistakes. They do not act quickly. They frown. They grit their teeth. They give up soon. Such persons, the professor says, are easily discouraged.

"How on earth do you know me?" asked the author.

"Your appearance is English," said the driver. "The paper reported that you were arriving here, and your name is on your luggage."

It was generally expected that the Petes would give the local lads a strong tussle, but no one anticipated that they would put up the game they did on Lindsay ice, says the Lindsay Post. It was a gruelling from the first gong and the close score and fast play kept the crowd on edge right through the game.

Taking the game as a whole the two teams were well-matched in every way. Peterboro was perhaps, a little the faster team, but were unable to get away quickly. After the first period neither team made any great attempt at combination, but during the first period the Lindsay juniors showed that they could soon develop a combination that would be hard to beat. Their strong point, however, was backchecking, where the Petes were rather weak. Peterboro observed the rules and played clean hockey, only drawing two penalties. Lindsay will have to clean up their game as they had six trips to the box and deserved more.

Fortier, Mills and Piercey showed up particularly well for Lindsay and Mulholland, N. Collins, Holland and Cheu divided the honors for Peterboro.

Last night's junior game was one of the best seen on the Lindsay street rink in years. Both teams put up a good argument, especially the Midgets who were midgets in every sense of the word, as compared with the Petes. If size counts for anything some of the Petes are surely over age.

The return game will be played in Peterboro on Friday night. On the larger ice it is expected that the Midgets will show their speed and ability.

Billy Evans Says

Last spring when I dropped into St. Petersburg, Fla., to look over the Boston Braves in training there, the first fellow I bumped into was the veteran Charley Fagrell, one of the greatest catcher the game has ever produced. Farrel was acting as coach to Manager Mitchell, confining his activities to developing the young pitchers. He was just the man I wanted to see as I was more concerned about the promising youngsters, being familiar with the ability of the regulars.

"You better get your dope from Mitchell, Billy, he is manager, I am only the coach," was Farrell's characteristic reply. "However, when you got out to the park this afternoon take a look at Pitcher Genewich, I like his chances." That was all Charley would say.

That afternoon I watched Joe Genewich pitch to Farrell for a half hour. He looked rather slight to men to stand the big league strain. I also wondered if his fast ball would prove good enough to trouble the major league hitters. When I pressed Farrell for an opinion, he expressed the belief that Genewich would prove a winner if he developed a good slow ball. When I asked for dope on Genewich's past performances I learned that he had come to Boston without any minor league experience, in reality a sandlotter.

Last season Joe Genewich was the pitching sensation of the National League. It is an interesting fact that George Uhle, who was the big noise in the American, also came to Cleveland from the sandlots.

Genewich apparently is a very unusual young man. He was dug up by George Grant, former owner of the Boston Braves. Pitching for a small town team Genewich won 27 out of 30 games. Grant tried to sign him, but Genewich insisted he wasn't ready for the big show. He assured Mr. Grant that when he was ready to do business with any big league club Boston would get first chance at his services. Those facts were related to me by Mr. Grant. A year later Pittsburgh made him a much better offer than Bostons terms. He got in touch with Grant who immediately signed him. He appreciated the fact that Grant first talked a big league trial to him.

Coach Farrell knew what he was talking about when he told me to watch Genewich. In developing Genewich, Farrell has earned his salary for years. How does Genewich regard Farrell? Listen.

"Whatever success I have had, I owe to Charley Farrell," he says. "I have only fair speed and curves, but have always been blessed with good control. Farrell insisted I could win in the National League if I developed a good slow ball. I had none then. He never lost patience with me and when I started north I had learned a change of pace. My slow ball has made possible my success. I take my hat off to my coach, Charley Farrell." Unusual young man, Joe Genewich.

HOCKEY LEAGUE FOR LAKEFIELD

Six Teams From Village and District Entered and Schedule Drafted—Warsaw Hold League Trophy

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 17.—A meeting was held on Monday evening in the rink to re-organize the Lakefield and District Hockey League. There was a good attendance, with representation from Warsaw and Young's Point, and the enthusiasm indicates that the second season will be even better than the first. Dr. M. P. Kennedy was elected President and R. H. Graham, Secretary-Treasurer. Six teams will enter, viz.: Warsaw, Young's Point, Trude's team (former U.F.O.), The Grove, Hull's team and Northey's team. This season Selwyn and Buckhorn will not enter teams. The first game will be played on Friday, January 25th, between Warsaw and Hull's team.

The games will be played on each succeeding Friday evening and promise plenty of live sport.

Games following are:
Northey vs. Young's Point.
Warsaw vs. The Grove.
Trude vs. Young's Point.
Hull vs. The Grove.
Trude vs. Northey.

The trophy is a handsome one, presented last year by W. H. Casement, and won by the Warsaw team after a hard fight with Blewett's team. All the teams are stronger this season, and no team is going to have an easy victory.

BASEBALL STOCK SHOWS BIG GAIN

BY BILLY EVANS

How things have changed in baseball.

Back in years when Connie Mack's Athletics were winning pennants and world series, his great infield was the talk of the baseball world.

No four players under Mack played a greater part in the team's success than Eddie Collins at second, Jack Barry at short, Frank Baker at third and "Stuffy" McInnis at first. It was a great infield, if not the greatest of all time.

These four stellar performers cost Connie Mack practically nothing. He recruited Eddie Collins from Columbia and Jack Barry from Holy Cross and developed them. "Stuffy" McInnis was a high school boy when he came to Mack from Haverhill, Mass. He was tutored in the art of playing first by Harry Davis, then guardian of that bag for the Athletics. Frank Baker was secured from the Reading team for a very nominal sum, perhaps $1,000.

When these four players reached the ranks of stardom, rated as leaders at their position, the quartet was referred to as the $100,000 infield. The inference being that they would bring that much in the open market if Connie Mack cared to dispose of them.

The so-called $100,000 infield was given much publicity because so great a sum was placed on their services.

Eddie Collins at the time was the leading second sacker of the majors, Jack Barry was not far behind as a shortstop, McInnis was second to the great Hal Chase and Frank Baker held a position much like that of Babe Ruth, he was the home run king of the majors.

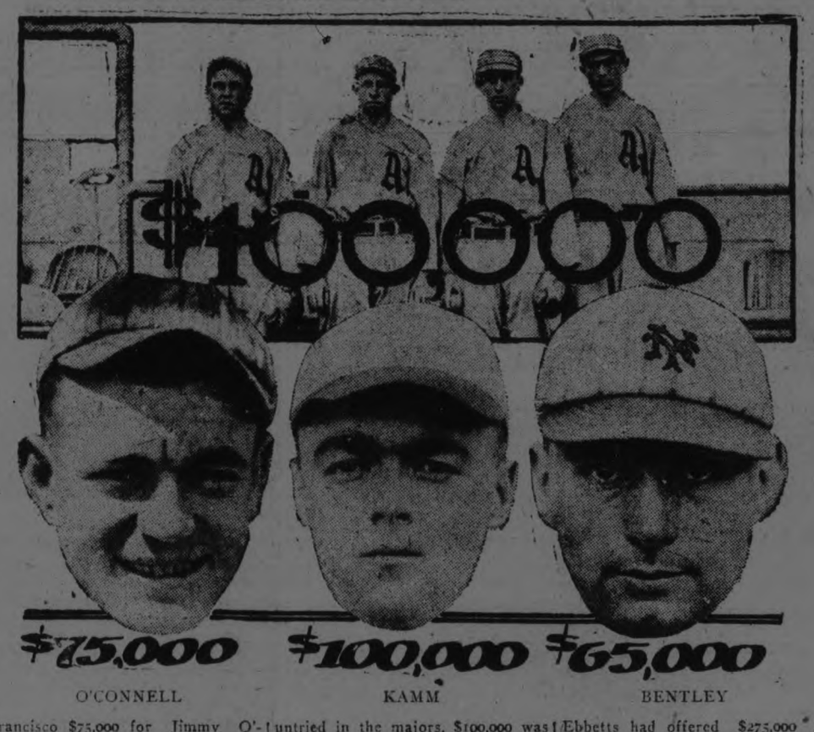
How things have changed in baseball.

Last season the Giants paid San Francisco $75,000 for Jimmy O'Connell, a minor league star. The same club turned over $65,000 to Baltimore for Jack Bentley, while the Chicago White Sox passed along $100,000 to San Francisco for Bill Kamm.



For a minor league third sacker, untried in the majors, $100,000 was handed over. Ten years ago the baseball scribes believed that one of the greatest infields in the history of the game was worth that amount.

At the recent major league meeting the report was that Charley Ebbetts had offered $275,000 for Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals. That certainly is a lot of money unless it's counterfeit, but the Brooklyn magnate says it was no bluff with him.

KEENE STARTED STRONG BUT WERE OVERTAKEN

Lost to Campbellford By 9-3 in Opening Game of the Western Section of Trent Valley League — Fletcher Performed Well

KEENE, Jan. 17.—In the first game of section "B" of the Trent Valley League played here Tuesday night Campbellford's good little team defeated the locals by a score of 9 to 3. As Manager Davidson was unable to accompany the team, U. Sanders and H. Atkinson had charge of them, and they trotted out a nifty bunch of stick-handlers with speed to burn.

Keene started off well by scoring the first two goals, both from the stick of Fletcher, the clever Keene centre. It didn't take Ayrhart long to get one of them back, when he slipped down the side and planted the puck behind Renwick from ten feet out. Just before the period ended Archer went through the centre alone to even the count.

Play was pretty even in this period, although the Campbellford kids' speed was beginning to tell, and when they came out for the second period they threw the throttle wide open and ran in six goals, while the Inlanders failed to register a single counter.

Combined Well.

This period produced some of the best hockey of the night, and Campbellford dished up some nice two-man combinations. The Keene rink is narrow and two men going down together need all the available room.

With a comfortable lead to start the last period, Campbellford dropped an extra man back on the defence and held the homsters out till half way through the period, when a Keene player batted the puck in from a scramble in front of the Campbellford net.

Just to show the fans of Keene they had a little in reserve, the visitors scored the last goal of the game. The game was not any too well handled by Referee Wellman and there was a lot of kicking from both teams. Penalties were not handed out where they should have been and the offsides were seldom caught.

Fletcher Starred.

Fletcher was the outstanding star for Keene, but Archer, after he settled down at the start of the second period, looked after the Keene bright light, and he did not shine as brilliantly from then on. Bowie showed flashes of good hockey for Keene. Russell Ayrhart played one of the best games of his career. Always a good back-checker and hard worker, he starred in a new role last night, scoring four of his team's nine goals. Tommy Stuart played his usual good game in goal and saved many shots that were dead on. If they display the same brand of hockey against Hastings at Campbellford next Friday night they will make "Dad" Clapper's stars travel to win.

Party of Golfers Will Test Balls

NEW YORK, January 17 (Canadian Press). — Cornelius S. Lee, secretary of the United States Golf Association, and 35 amateur golfers left yesterday for Jekyl Island, 18 miles off the coast of Georgia, where with golf balls of varying size and weight, they will experiment for ten days in an effort to determine the standardised golf ball of the future.

Careful tests to learn how balls of varying conditions will made.

British golf authorities have cabled approval of the test.

GOALS COUNT IN JUNIOR ROUND

A typographical error in the Examiner last night made it appear that games counted in deciding the Peterboro-Lindsay junior series. The article should have read "goals to count," the rules providing that in a two-club group the team scoring the most goals in the series is the winner. —Lindsay and the Petes are playing a four game series and Tuesday's win gives the Scugog team a lead of one goal, which the Petes have to wipe out, when the two teams tie into each other at the Brock street rink to-morrow night. There is every reason to expect a lightning fast game of hockey for there was not a let up in Tuesday's battle and with fast ice assured for to-morrow the big ice surface will provide the speed merchants with the chance they have been looking for. The Petes looked mighty good in their first battle and were a bit unlucky in having even a one goal defeat. To-morrow night they will be in mid-season form and the Lindsay youngsters will have to step to it to hold their narrow margin. A big bunch of Lindsay rooters will be here.

Eddie Collins Stays With Sox Until Fall.

CHICAGO, January 17 (Canadian Press). — All specualtion as to whether Eddie Collins, captain and second baseman of the White Sox, would play with Chicago next season was ended last night with the announcement that the star second baseman is signed to a two-year contract, which does not expire until next fall.

Collins will fill his position in the White Sox infield despite rumours that he was to be traded to Washington, or to the New York Yankees.

GIANTS SIGN UP.

NEW YORK, January 17 (Canadian Press).—The New York Giants yesterday announced the receipts of signed contracts from Hank Gowdy, catheer; Heinie Groh, third baseman; Fred Maguire, infielder; and Pitchers Dennis Guerin, Walter Huntzinger, and A. C. Stoner.

Huntzinger formerly played with the University of PJennsylvania, and Stoner is a recruit from Knoxville, Tennessee.

PUNCH WINNING FACTOR IN BASEBALL

By HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(United Press).—"Inside baseball will not do it all," Connie Mack said recently, "the punch is more necessary."

The tall leader of the Philadelphia Athletics was explaining the reasons that prompted him to start buying all the young minor league stars he could afford to acquire.

Mack is one of the smartest of all baseball men, and when he admits that the sock is more to be desired than brain, it is a striking indication of what Babe Ruth and the lively ball have done to the game.

Mack has had a smart baseball team for two years, and last season he started out with the Athletics as if his long-expected arrival had arrived. But the team slumped in mid-season, dropped twelve games in a row and was out for the year.

Hitting, as Hans Wagner pointed out, has almost entirely changed baseball. It has developed new ideas of fielding, rendered base stealing almost obsolute and removed pitching from the list of fine arts.

Still, with all the slugging, poor pitching and spotty fielding, it is a good old game. The fans like hitting and it is the business of the magnates to furnish, as near as possible, the kind of baseball that is most desired.

While the value of hitting has become exaggerated, it is no theory that a team needs a certain amount of slugging or consistent hitting to win a championship.

It has been a good many years since a team went through to a pennant without hitting strength. The factor that hitting has become in the modern game was demonstrated last season when the Giants clubbed their way through to a pennant with a most miserable staff of pitchers.

* * *

Out west, for good reasons, the fans are already building up the hope that one end of the world's series will be played in that section. With the Cincinnati Reds in the National League pennant race, the wish is not father to the thought that Ohio will have a part of the world's series.

All the Reds need to win the pennant is a little of what Connie Mack, and all the other managers, as far as that goes, is seeking—a little more punch.

The Reds have a good pitching staff. It ought to be the best in the league, if Luque does not overdo himself during the winter in Havana.

Carl Mays will win at least ten games for Pat Moran. Donohue should have a better season. Sheehan ought to deliver. Rixey is not through and Moran might be able to bring out some of his other young pitchers.

To win the pennant next year, the Reds necessarily do not have to be improved greatly over the team that did the running up in the National League pennant race last season.

Even if they are no stronger than they were in 1923, the Reds ought to make a better showing, because the Giants will not be as strong as they were last year.

Jake Daubert ought to have a better year and Pinelli and Bohne should be of more value to the team. The outfield is about the best in the league and the catching department is in good shape.

"Bubbles" Hargrave, in the opinion of John McGraw, is the best young catcher in the league, and Wingo is a good, steady, smart catcher.

* * *

The Giants will have more competition than they had last year and they have not been improved to meet stronger resistance.

McGraw's most vital need is for pitchers, and he will have a tough time getting any major league club to give him the best of a trade for a good pitcher.

Heinie Groh has been slowed up almost to a walk, although he can play third with the best in the business in a short series. No third baseman of any day could have done better than Groh did in the last world's series, but he can't do that through an entire season.

George Kelly will be no better than he was last year. He is a good, steady fielder and a great hitter with two down and none on, but McGraw doesn't think so much of him that he wouldn't consider him as trading material.

Meusel is all slowed up in the field, but he is still a dangerous hitter. Jackson is the most promising young player in baseball, but regardless of how good he plays, the Giants will miss Dave Bancroft at shortstop.

The Giant catching staff is nothing to rave about, although it is not the worst in the league. Snyder had a good year last year, but he is slowing up and the work is telling on him.

The greatest asset of the Giants is John McGraw, but the Reds have a great asset in Pat Moran, a manager who may no be as good as McGraw, but who is one of the smartest men in baseball.

The Pirates will be in the race again, but they are a funny outfit that persists in falling short of expectations.

If there is to be a dark horse in the pennant race, t may be the Chicago Cubs. Bill Killifer has been building strong and building well. He had a good ball club last season, and there is no reason why it should not be a better club next season.

"It will aid Mrs. Miske more than us," was the comment of Joseph T. Riley, president.

JUST HIT THE BALL.

Stewart Maiden, Atlanta golf professional, who made national champions of Bobby Jones and Alexa Stirling, says golf beginner would get along a whole lot better if they disregarded all they ever heard of golf technique and concentrated on hiting the ball. "Get a feeling of mastery over the ball in the beginning and then the technical features come easier," he explains.

CUTT DEFEATS LOCAL BOY IN FEATURE BOUT

Williams Injured in Last Round and is Unable to Continue -- P. A. A. A. Show Delights Fans.

SOME LIVELY MILLING

Billy Cutt, former Peterboro boy who started his boxing career with the P.A.A.A. squad two years ago, and has since been making a reputation for himself in the squared circle in Rochester, N.Y., won the main bout at the P.A.A.A. show in the G.W.V.A. Hall last night when he secured a technical knockout in the third round over Al. Williams, of Peterboro. In the midst of a spirited rally early in the third session, Williams was knocked down and struck his side against one of the wooden supports of the ring post, injuring himself so much that he was unable to go on.

It was a fine bout up to that stage. Cutt, a two-handed sturdy little fighting machine, was stacked up against a long rangy boy in Williams, the latter having the advantage in height and reach, and on the other hand giving away something in weight. The style of the two varied as much as their physical qualities. Williams, clever and fast, depended upon long range tactics to give him enough points to win, while Cutt, on the other hand, wanted to do all his fighting at close quarters, and carried the battle to Williams all the way, handing out the most damage in the close-in stuff. Cutt, a promising youngster when he left here, has developed into a formidable battler, and would likely have earned the decision even without the help of the accident that put Williams out of business.

The semi-final bout between Lorne Combe and Jack McDonough, was the hardest and most exciting battle of the night, and the judges' decision of a draw was satisfactory to the fans. Combe, a clever boy, who can both hit and take it, was faster than his opponent, but McDonough, with the advantage in weight and strength, was an awkward proposition, especially at close quarters. He managed his work somewhat by his tendency to hold Combes' head in Chancery with one hand while he hammered him with the other. Both boys deserve credit for the battle they fought. It was their third meeting, each having beaten the other once, while last night's decision leaves the honors still even.

The whole show last night was a success, with not a poor bout in the six that were offered, and the big crowd got its money's worth, going away delighted with the programme.

Mike Murray and Daniels, 105 pounders, opened the list with a rattling good bout, in which both boys showed gameness and a willingness to mix it. Daniels had a shade the better of it in the first round, but Murray came strong in the second and third rounds, and earned the decision by his aggressiveness and superior hitting.

In the 125-pound class, Art Johnston hammered a decision out of Desmond Hunt, after a hard fought bout that the fans enjoyed. Johnston has a punch in both hands, and showed great promise, while Hunt earned brackets by his gameness and his willingness to stand up under fire. Both boys got a big hand from the crowd.

Woodgate and Lynch boxed a draw in the novice class after an extra round. Woodgate did most of the leading, but did little damage while his taller opponent did not attack very often, but registered points when he did cut loose. The judges' ordered an extra round, in which honors were still even.

Ray Millard stopped Wes. Johns in two rounds in their special bout. Millard, a sturdy hard-hitting youngster, took the steam out of Johns' big body blows, and the loser, who showed speed at the go-in, soon slowed down, although he tried hard. Two rounds were enough to give Millard the victory.

Wilfred Jones, P.A.A.A. boxing instructor, refereed the preliminary and semi-final bouts, while the main bout was in charge of Geo. N. Graham. Willie Buff, American 133-pound amateur champion, who is training Cutt, was in his protege's corner, and was introduced to the crowd. It is likely that Buff himself will be seen in action here in two or three weeks. He is anxious to take on a couple of local boys in one night.

CANADIENS AND OTTAWA PLAYED OVERTIME GAME

GAME WAS SLOW

MONTREAL, Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press).—The Canadiens last night defeated Ottawa in the first overtime game of the N. H. L. season here this year by 2 to 1. Sprague Cleghorn, the sturdy Canadien defence man, skated through the Ottawa defence, and when Benedict stopped the puck, he took it on the rebound to give his team its first win over the Senators this season. The goal came after 4.10 minutes in the overtime period.

It was a slow game, due to soft ice. It was nip and tuck in the overtime. First Broadbent rushed and tested Vezina with a hard shot, and Joliat returned an attempt at the other end. Both sides adopted canny tactics. No sustained attacks were maintained, and with the puck going from end to end, it was a question of the best individual effort to win the battle. Captain Boucher had clipped Broadbent over the head, and when the latter remonstrated, Referee Rodden chased the pair. Sprague Cleghorn saved the rush by Hitchman and started down the ice on the wing, from which two men had been penalized. Meeting no opposition, he found Hitchman had not got back to his position and drove the puck when Clancy rushed over to block. Cleghorn followed through and flipped the disc into the net.

OSHAWA WON FAST GAME FROM BOWMANVILLE

OSHAWA, Jan. 17. — (Canadian Press).—Oshawa defeated Bowmanville 1 to 0 in a Group No. 4 Junior O. H. A. game here last night and created a triple tie for the leadership, Oshawa, Bowmanville and Cobourg each having won two games and lost one. The contest was a very strenuous affair from gong to gong, and threatened at times to get out of the referee's control, but it was also a most interesting exhibition, with the result always in doubt. The only goal of the game was scored by Pat Moran on a pass from Stephens, nine minutes after the play got under way.

HAMILTON LOST A GAME LAST NIGHT

St. Patricks Trailing the League Leaders Now

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press)—St. Patrick's defeated Hamilton at the Arena last evening by a score of 3 to 1, and are now closely trailing the League leaders. The game was full of thrills, and at times was rather war-like, especially in the second period, when a free-for-all was staged near the Hamilton goal, in which four or five players were using both sticks and fists.

Several times the penalty box held three players, and the clubs divided these trips evenly, each team receiving six penalties.

The real battle of the evening drew no penalties, although sticks and fists landed heavily on some players on both teams. It was, in fact, a general argument, but it was hard to tell who was really to blame for the affair, and the offenders went free.

"Red" Green, Corbeau and Dye were the principals, but no penalties were handed. The affair started in a scrimmage in front of the locals' net, and Corbeau, while trying to grab the rubber with his hand while lying on the ice, was hit by Green, who was trying to slap it into the net a few feet away. Corbeau finally secured and then rushed at Green, who used his stick as a weapon of defence, but was knocked to the ice by Dye, and continued to keep his body protected by the constant use of his feet. Referee Ross was on top of the argument, but calmed things down by ringing his bell and facing off the rubber with six men of each team on the ice, much to the surprise of almost every one.

HOCKEY NEWS.

Last night the Bank of Montreal hockey team trimmed an aggregation that stepped out from the Dominion Bank, Bank of Nova Scotia and Union Bank to the tune of 9-2. The game was fast, and notwithstanding the condition of the ice, the pen-pushers showed class. For the winners, Pete Mulholland and Alderman Nagle Phelan were on the puck all the time, Phelan's rushes being a feature of the game. For the vanquished, Black of the Nova Scotia, and Payne, of the Dominion Bank, made things lively.

SOO SENIORS WALKED AWAY WITH EVELETH

SAULT STE. MARIE, Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press.)—The Soo seniors showed a complete reversal of form last night, and with "Flat" Walsh, invincible as a net guardian, completely whitewashed Eveleth 6 to 0. The only penalty was meted out by Referee Pitrie and that was to Freddie Cook when he charged Desjardines in centre ice with a nasty body check.

WOODSTOCK FELL DOWN TO A KITCHENER TEAM

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press).—The Kitchener Green Shirts defeated Woodstock Intermediates here last night in a fast game of hockey by the score of 4 to 3. The Red and White had a big slice of the play, and in fact led the procession for the first fifty minutes of play, showing some very nifty combination, especially in the second period, when they scored the first two goals of the game.

DANTE, AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE, TONIGHT, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

DANTE AT THE GRAND TONIGHT

The London, Ontario Free Press, has the following to say of Dante, who appears at the Grand this evening:

Entertainment superior to any other of its kind that has been offered London theatregoers in the past is afforded patrons of the Grand Theatre, where Dante, the greatest of all magicians that have performed before London audiences, opened a three-day engagement last night. His performance will be presented again this evening and twice to-morrow.

Under the direction of Dante, the stage becomes a storehouse of magic marvels ,outrivaling anything seen before, and illusion follows illusion in rapid succession. As heralded in pre-performance announcements, Dante presents a series of Thurston-Kellar mysteries. He also has many of his own. The general consensus of opinion of those who were present at the performance last night is that Dante is superior to Thurston, who has entertained London audiences previously and under whose auspices Dante's show is presented.

Among the most mystifying of the mysteries performed is an unusual exposition of ancient Oriental necromancy, in which Dante impersonates the Chinese court magicians. This illusion is staged in pure Oriental splendor, and a myriad of streams of water are produced, culminating in a minature waterfall. There is also the great triple mystery, in which a young woman is caused to disappear on the stage, only to be transported from the second balcony in a trunk descending over the heads of the audience back to the footlights.

The ghost woman, who, seated on a chair under white robes, freely and quickly answers any question which may be asked by members of the audience, and who is caused to disappear when the magic hand of Dante withdraws the robes, is also one of the outstanding mysteries of the performance.

Dante causes spirits to perform for the enterainment of the audience in a spirit cabinet. The features of some deceased notable personage or of a famous painting are produced by unseen hands, and birds and fowl are caught in the thinness of the atmosphere, where but a moment before no birds or fowl existed.

There are card tricks galore, tricks with coins, handkerchiefs and flags that defy detection or the closest scrutiny. The bust of a wax model is transformed into a live human being, who dances and performs.

The rapidity with which the numerous illusions and mysteries are carried out leave one utterly amazed. Cards changed suit and color, coins were made to disappear when but a few inches away from the eye.

The now famous trick of sawing a woman in two is performed by Dante, who prefaces the illusion by a declaration that imitators and magazine writers who have claimed to have solved the secret for the benefit of the public are utterly wrong. When the trick has been performed little doubt as to the veracity of his statement remains. In this and in several other of the mysteries persons are invited on to the stage so as to satisfy the audience that a real illusion is being shown. Combination with the other merits is the spleendid stage presence of the performers, which aids materially in the entertainment.

"THE GUNFIGHTER" WITH FARNUM PULLS BIG HOUSES

With Story of California Feud of Bitterness.

A Farnum picture is never a disappointment. His product for the past five years has convinced us of that. Antoher conviction long with us is that no two Farnum pictures are alike. Al of which are borne out out by his latest production, "The Gunfighter," just opened at the Regent Theatre for a three day engagement.

Taking the title role, William Farnum has essayed something for which he will always be remembered, a character, which for brilliant lines and memorable characteristics will overshadow all those for which he is now acclaimed.

A tower of strength and goodness is a sufficient attribute to place any man among the immortals. Such was Billy Buell, the character interpreted by Wiliam Farnum. We are told the story is based on obscure Californian saga, and contrary to custom we believe it.

Billy Buell interrupted a seventeen year feud between two rival families by marrying the girl for whom it was fought. An idea that pleases the fancy is the one introduced by the action of the simple marriage, terminating a horrible period of bloodshed.

The question of the girl's parentage caused the rife in the two families that hitherto had been dearly beloved by each other. The marriage, in taking her out of both hands, left nothing to quarrel about. A more intriguing solution this reviewer has never encountered. Doris May enacts the part of Nell, over whom the feud was fought.

AT THE ROYAL.

DANNY SIMONS HELD OVER OVER FOR BALANCE OF WEEK

The recognized stage favorite and Peterboro old boy has been held over for the balance of the week to satisfy public demand. Danny has a "way with him" and puts his stories over the footlights in a manner all his own. It is not only the fact that he was born here that is responsible for the large crowds nightly at the Royal, but he is really a clever comedian as anyone will vouch for who has heard him, also Manager McGeachie seems to know how to arrange a vaudeville bill as the whole program is properly balanced, each act of an entirely different type and up to the quality mark. The act arranged for for the balance of the week include Myers and Sterling, comedy act, "Different things and stuff" and Bandy, Fields and Bandy Trio, vaudeville's dancing peers The feature photoplay is a story of the prize ring featuring Herbert Rawlinson entitled "The Victor."

THREE NEW VAUDEVILLE ACTS AT ROYAL TO-NIGHT

Vaudeville's Dancing Peers, Bandy, Fields and Bandy is the feature act at the Royal tonight, Friday and Saturday. Myers and Sterling, a different comedy act and Danny Simon in a new collection of stories and songs comprise the vaudeville en of the program.

WORLD HONORS WINNER; FORGETS

The world has funny ideas about trades and professions. It may scorn thousands in a profession and applaud one. The one who gets the hand is the one who reposes, as it were, on the top rung of that particular ladder.

Those who scorn the lowly will acclaim with great gusto the star. Those who "hoot" the 'ham-and-egg'er" will loudly cheer the champion.

Thus it was that when The Hon. Cecil Fitzhugh Waring, late of England, donned the fighting trunks to enter an American prize ring he drew a laugh. Imagine fighting a lantern jawed veteran of America's ristic realm with a moniker like that!

But when he whipped Porky Schaup and won the middleweight crown the lads who had grinned at the titled Britisher roared their delight at his display of fighting ability

Herbert Rawlinson appears in one of the most entertaining pictures of his sceren career as 'The Hon. Fitz" in the Universal sport play, "The Victor," which to-day at the Royal theatre. It is the role of a young Englishman who forsakes the monocle and the spats for the rink togs when hunger forces him to go to work. It is comedy, but well balanced with real human interest drama.

PREMIER KING LEAVES LETTER TO THE BISHOP

OTTAWA, Jan. 17. — (Canadian Press).—Upon his return to Ottawa this morning, Premier King declined to discuss the letter in which Bishop Fallon gave his views upon the Canadian banking situation. Canadian Stock Exchange —And Mines— | New York Stock Exchange —and Curb Prices—

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

New York, Jan. 17. — The stock market displayed a healthy undertone at the opening to-day. Republic Steel responde to the action of the directors Wednesday in wiping out back dividends on preferred and to its chairman's statement that "business was satisfactory and improving" and opened up 7-8 at 53½.

The other steels were strong. Bethlehem at 55 was up 1-8 and United States Steel at the opening was unchanged at par but quickly advanced to 100¼. The oils for the most part were fractionally higher as were the rails. The foreign exchange market opened irregularly but the French franc was holding well.

Industrials swung into a renewal of the forward movement in the first hour under the leadership of Steel common which reached its best price on the current upswing at 101¼—fulfilling the promise of constructive interests to make it the feature of this week's phase of the current bullish demonstrations.

Stimulus was imparted to the advance by the action of money, which renewed 4 1-4 per cent. and dropped immediately to 4 per cent.

The independents followed the lead of Steel common, with Bethlehem and Gulf States displaying special strength.

YOUNG MAN HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Overalls Which He Was Washing in Gasoline Caught Fire and Caused Exciting Moment.

Last evening at about seven o'clock, Harold Lancaster, an employee of the Herbert McGee garage, Hunter street, had a narrow escape from burning.

While washing his overalls in gasoline the fumes reach an open fire and exploded. A sheet of fire shot across the room and set fire to the overalls in the man's hands. They blazed up in his face and burned his hands. He managed to smother out the fire, which caught his clothes but the fire department had to be called to extinguish the overalls which were saturated with gasoline. The only loss was his overalls which were completely destroyed and a few holes burned in his clothes.

DOUBLE CROSS WAS DOUBLED

Bootlegger Sold Moonshine for Real Whiskey —Received Bad Money.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17—With the removal of Edward C. Bronson to Kansas City, Mo., where he is to stand trial for circulating $20,000 worth of forged $20 bills a remarkable story of a double "double cross" came to light. Bronson, who confessed to circulating the spurious notes said that several months ago he entered into negotiations with a group of Chicago saloon men. Bronson said he could deliver a large amount of "pre-war" Kentucky liquor, and the former dispensers agreed to take $20,000 worth, C.O.D. Bronson admits that he delivered raw moonshine but that he received his money in cash and thought he had got away with the "double-cross." Soon after however, he discovered the money was counterfeit, and he then bought an automobile and with four companions passed the money in several Western States.

A COMPLAINT

MONTREAL, Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press).—A despatch to Montreal from London complains that the British press, or a section of it, in its eagerness to champion the cause of the underdog in the case of the British emigrant to Canada, ignores the fact that Canadian immigration officials are bending all their energies to secure farmers and farm laborers.

A campaign of half truths, it is said, is being carried on, and it is urged that the Canadian Government would be well advised to trace the antecedents of writers of "grousing" letters and place the facts before the British public, even if stronger action is not taken.

EDMONTON CONVENTION COLDLY REJECTED IDEA OF INDEPENDENT WEST

Only Few United Farmer Delegates Supported the Proposal For Self-Determination and Setting Up Separate British Colony West of the Great Lakes.

Sponsored By Veterans.

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 18.—(Canadian Press).—The United Farmers of Alberta declared yesterday that they do not desire to set up in the Western Provinces a separate British Dominion. A resolution which asked the Provincial Government to approach the other Western Provinces with a view "to setting up a British colony independent of the Eastern Provinces," found support from only five or six delegates.

A sub-motion which reminded members of Parliament that unless the West had relief in matters of resources, tariff, freight rates, etc., there was a possibility "that we may demand establishment as independent dominion under the British crown," was voted for by a score or so in the hall. Both resolutions were declared defeated in the midst of applause.

Moved By Veterans.

The resolutions, it was pointed out by speakers, were moved by returned soldiers. H. McKenzie, of Sedgewick, sponsored the original motion, and he claimed for Canada "the right of self-determination". He denied any motive of joining the United States. The substitute was moved by Col. C. W. Robinson, of Munson, who declared that the west was being discriminated and that "this is no bluff."

"Let us preserve our unity and secure by co-operation the things we need," urged R. J. Metcalfe, of Vegreville, in opposing the motion.

"It's only a matter of time until we are the big end of Canada, and the east will be begging for our favors," said G. H. Connor, of Innisfail, and another delegate compared the proposed action to that of a "fifteen year old boy whose daddy doesn't give him his own way."

Appeal to League.

A. L. Blue of Rosyth, said the resolution could not be put into effect, anyway, because Canada's "King Tut' 'Senate would repect it.

One delegate on the other hand compared the position of western farmers with that of southern negroes before the Civil War. "We get our board and clothes," he said, "justice is what we are after and I claim for us the right to appeal to the League of Nations as a minority, as Ireland did."

Explosion of Oil Can Proves Fatal

SASKATOON, Sask., Jan. 18.—Robert Putning was burned to death and Mrs. John Kalning, so seriously injured that her recovery is doubtful in a fire which broke out yesterday morning from the explosion of a coal oil can in Kalning's farmhouse, four miles northwest of Eldersley, Sask.

Putning, a Latvian, was married just one month ago when his bride came out from Europe to join him. Mr. Putning was badly cut and bruised while escaping through an upstairs window and Kalning was painfully burned. They are expected to recover.

QUEBEC PREMIER EXPLAINS DEAL TO UNITE BANKS

Rescues Depositors and Shareholders of the La Banque Nationale and Protects French - Canadian Industrial and Commercial Interests.

REPLIES TO CRITICS.

QUEBEC, January 18. — Speaking on the resolutions on the bill regarding the merger of La Banque Nationale and La Banque Hochelaga and the Government bond issue of $15,000,000 to aid the bank that is to be, Premier Tachereau in the House yesterday afternoon made an exhaustive speech in which he dealt with the varied problems that had confronted the Government, and the reasons which had animated himself and his colleagues in going to the rescue of the depositors and shareholders of La Banque Nationale, and especially of what he frankly called French-Canadian industrial and commercial interests. He talked of the war, and what had come in its train, first the days of easy money, when the banks were flooded with depositors' funds, and had to dispose of them, and then the depression which had followed, and made it impossible for the new board of directors of La Banque Nationale headed by Hon George Amyot to continue to carry on as they had hoped to do.

He outlined the contract between La Banque Nationale and the Hochelaga Bank, which contract forms the preamble to the Government Bill, and the subject of the resolutions. The province turns over the bonds to the new bank, the first charge on profits is interest on any bonds negotiated, the second charge is a ten per cent. dividend and the third charge the sinking fund of $124,300.

No Profiteering.

Speaking of the fact that the contract calls for the reimbursement of holders of the $880,000 of bonds plus one year's interest of La Cie Machine Agricoles de Montmagny, the Premier announced that it was intended that those who had speculated on the misfortunes of the holders and bought the bonds at bargain counter prices should not thereby profit and that only the original bondholders would get full payment, and others, the speculators, would receive only what they had paid, and the balance would go to the original holders.

However, La Banque d'Hochelaga may make these payments only on authorization of the Quebec Public Service Commission given after the fulfillment of the formalities prescribed, he said.

Mr. Taschereau pointed out that the old management of La Banque Nationale, which had loaned the Mountmagny Co., five million dollars on security of five million of its bonds, had sold through its branches the $680,000 of bonds to the public, its own depositors, and consequently had benefitted. Furthermore, the bonds in the hands of the public constitute a first mortgage on the property at Montmagny and must be settled before the bank could dispose of this property.

Results of Merger.

The following consequences will arise from the project before the House, said Premier Taschereau:

Meighen Says Liberal Program of 1921 Was Quack Remedy

POINCARE APPEALS TO FRANCE IN FINANCIAL CRISIS

SIR HENRY PELLET'S DREAM CASTLE A BURDEN

CASA LOMA, the magnificent castle built by Sir Henry Pellatt, at Toronto, loses its tremendous bulk when viewed from the air. This big pile represents the dream of a country estate, commenced beyond the city limits, but well within the bounds of greater Toronto by the time it was finished. Castles, alas, are anachronistic in these days of democracy, and their magnificence requires millions. Casa Loma has never been entirely occupied, and it is understood that its owner is not in residence. In fact, it has been variously reported on the market, and there has been some speculation as to whether it will eventually be a home for royalty or vice-royalty or for disabled soldiers.

ASQUITH SUBSCRIBING TO LABOR AMENDMENT SEALS BALDWIN'S DOOM

MR. CLYNE'S SPEECH.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(Canadian Pres).—Premier Baldwin's Conservative Government last evening received its death sentence at the hands of the Opposition in the House of Commons, as had been anticipated.

This came when former Premier Asquith arose, and amid the cheers of his Liberal followers and the Laborites, announced that he would vote for the Labor motion of "no confidence" in the Government presented by John R. Clynes, and would advise all his friends to do likewise.

Nothing short of a political upheaval, namely the wholly improbable desertion of a large number of the Opposition to the Conservative flag, can save the Government, which will go to the guillotine Monday evening, according to the present program.

Criticises Address.

After introducing the "no confidence" motion in the form of an amendment to the address in reply to the King's speech, Mr. Clynes scored the Tory regime both for what it had done and what it did not do during the last twelve months.

The Speech from the Throne, he declared, was inaccurate in stating that Great Britain's relations with foreign powers remained friendly. If the relations with Russia were friendly, he asked, why had not Russia been recognized? Was it because Russia had not undertaken to pay her debts? If that was to

Governments Pay Migrant's Fares

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The high commissioner for Australia has signed a new passage-money agreement with the British Government providing for continuation of co-operation in aiding emigration to the Commonwealth until March 1925, each government bearing half the cost of the passage for assisted migrants. All migrants so assisted are subject to the final approval of the Australian director of migration.

The fares of adults remain the same but an important modification is made in the rates for children with the object of encouraging the migration of families. Children under 12 years will be carried free and those between 12 and 16 at half fare.

Estimate of Argentine Wheat Crop Is Reduced.

OTTAWA, Jan. 17.—A cablegram received to-day from the International Institute of Agriculture, Rome, states that the wheat crop of Argentina is now estimated at 259,000,000 bushels compared with the earlier estimates of 34,000,,00 and with 189,047,000 bushels last year and 192,752,000 the average of the five years 1917-21.

The production of oats in Argentina is 77,327,000 bushels against 51,742,000 last year and 40,424,000 the five years 'average; flaxseed, 63,225,000 bushels against 44,280,000 last year, and the average of 39,262,000.

FOUND FROZEN BODY ON TRAIL

Lone Lumberjack Was Beaten Down By Raging Snowstorm in Bush Near Sudbury.

SUDBURY, Jan. 18.—(Canadian Press).—The frozen body of Samuel Lacasse, lumberjack, aged about 45, has been found in the snow 20 miles back of the village of Nairn. Lacasse had started out on Jan. 10th with a crew going to a Graves-Bigwood camp. He had not been employed, but was going to another camp where the superintendent was a friend, and left the party at "The Forks," 19 miles from Nairn, though urged by others in the party not to attempt the trip to camp 35 alone in the severe snow storm which raged that afternoon. Lacasse never reached the camp and a supply party found his frozen body on the trail and bought it into Sudbury yesterday.

There was a cabin less than a quarter of a mile from where the body was found and where Lacasse could have obtained help, but it is doubtful if he really knew the trail.

TAX SCHEME TO SUPPORT FRANC IS INTRODUCED

French Premier Sounds Rallying Call to Countrymen For Spirit of Sacrifice Under Difficulties of Peace—Wins First Brush in Legislative Assembly.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—(Canadian Press). — Premier Poincare, with an impassioned appeal to the patriotism of all Frenchmen, urging them to present the same solid and united front against the difficulties of peace as they did in war, carried the day in the preliminary encounter with the Legislative Assembly yesterday in his efforts to improve France's impaired financial position and renovate the standing of the franc on international exchange.

First, the Cabinet adopted the final draft of the Government's program of fiscal reform, including the measure providing for a 20 per cent. increase in taxation.

Next, the Minister of Finance, M. De Lasteyrie, introduced the measures in the Chamber which was crowded with excited deputies. Then followed two votes of confidence in the Government, the Chamber supporting the Premier, 394 to 180 in his refusal of immediate discussion of an interpellation on pensions, and by a vote of 360 to 215 his refusal to agree to a discussion of interpellations on the subject of exchange.

Showed Courage

Showing as undaunted courage in dealing with troubled internal situation by the application of drastic remedies as he displayed in taking momentous decisions in matters of foreign policy, the Premier, placing the common good above personal political interests and without fear of damaging his popularity and prestige among his countrymen, got the most formidably organized opposition onslaught the Cabinet has suffered since it came into existence in January, 1922.

Edouard Herriot, leader of the Radical Party, in subtley prepared pitfalls Deputies Blum and Moutet and other Socialists, charging the Government with being responsible for the present predicament of France through its Ruhr policy, and M. Cachin, in enraged accusations against the Government because of the high cost of living, all assailed M. Poincare during the long debate but the Premier was adamant and stood his ground to the motto "France First," forcing the bitter draught upon his reluctant followers

Scorned the Socialists

"You Radicals always applaud economies in general but vote them down as regular in particular," he informed M. Herriot. The Socialists and Communists he treated with a scornful "I address myself only to members of this House who do not rejoice at calamities which strike our country."

M. Poincare will stand or fall upon the acceptance by the Chamber of the bills introduced yesterday; he plainly showed his determination not to weaken.

At the end of the stormy session Deputy Charles Bernard said to a correspondent: "If M. Poincare brings the present crisis to a successful conclusion he will have done as much to save France in peace as Clemenceau did in war."

Government's Plans

The remedies presented by the Government for balancing the French budget and funding the so-called recoverable expenses from Germany into one single, ordinary budget, were the following:

First, the increase, to take effect immediately upon passage of 20 per cent. in all taxes direct and indirect taking the 1923 figures as the standard;

Second, economies in the public services amounting to one billion francs, enforced through administrative reorganization wherever necessary by simple decree:

Third, the immediate revision of

Deputy Reeve Out on Technicality

CHATHAM, Ont., Jan. 18.—(Canadian Press. — Matthew Rankin yesterday disclaimed the deputy-reeveship of Dover township as a result of legal proceedings commenced Wednesday by Otto Brown. Rankin's disclaimer automatically elected S. R. Montgomery deputy reeve of Dover by acclamation.

At the recent elections Rankin deefated Montgomery by a margin of twenty-one votes. Brown claimed that Rankin had not qualified within the required time. Misunderstanding of the amendments to the Municipal Act is said to have created the peculiar situation in Dover township.

LABOR LAWS ADD TO FARM COSTS

WINNIPEG, Jan. 18.— Charges that fully one-third of the increases in the cost of what the farmer buys is the direct result of the so-called Labor laws on the statute books of Manitoba are contained in a special memorandum just submitted to the Provincial Cabinet by the Legislation committee of the Employers' Association of Manitoba.

The report condemns the Workmens' Compensation Act, and calls upon the Legislature to amend it in important particulars which are calculated to reduce the present cost of its administration.

In addition to the amendment of the compensation act, the memorandum includes another bit of recommended legislation, called "An Act to promote industrial peace."

This Act provides for registration of unincorporated associations, prohibition of strikes on public utilities, regulation of procedure in industrial disputes, protection in contracts of employment, forbidding affiliation of provincial and municipal employes with industrial trade unions and the repealing of the Fair Wage Act.

History in grain trade, statistical and technological grain geography, condition of grain, elevators, transportation, credit and bank operations, trade laws, bookkeeping for the grain trade and similar items concerned with the grain trade.

Fewer Immigrants From Across Line

WINNIPEG, Jan. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Immigrants arriving in Western Canada through ports between Port Arthur and Kingsgate, B.C., during the year 1923, totalled 8,702 as compared with 9,595 in 1922, according to figures just issued by the Immigration officer here. The bulk of these settlers were farmers and their families. They brought in actual wealth totalling $2,026,654, while their effects were valued at $579,318.

CANADA DEFIES GOVERNMENT TO APPLY PROGRAM

Conservative Leader Says Liberals and Progressives Have Power to Put Tariff Policy Into Effect If They Dare.

Without Leadership.

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—(Canadian Press).—"The Progressive leaders and the Liberal leaders now command more than two-thirds of the House of Commons, and on fiscal policy they cannot be defeated in the Senate. They have the situation in their hands. I defy them to put their program into effect," said the Hon. Arthur Meighen, addressing the Eastern Ontario Conservative Association meeting here last night.

The Government, declared Mr. Meighen, had made absolutely no progress in the solution of a single one of the major problems confronting this country.

The weight of taxation, adding to the burden of the consumer had increased the economic strain on agriculture. He demanded immediate action by the Government to bring relief. In some branches of agriculture, the margin between the cost of production of farm products and their sale price had been wiped out altogether. Progressive and Liberal leaders declared that the cure was to be found in wiping out the tariff on foodstuffs, farm implements, and other important classes of commodities.

Hurls Defiance.

"The whole of Canada defies them. Their vaunted remedy of 1921 was a quack remedy. It was a false and perilous remedy and every man in the present Government knew it was. And to-day though on this question they have absolute command and an overwhelming majority they dare not apply that remedy. The country watches them to-day looking on in pallid helplessness, prostrate before the problem that they cannot cope with, wearing the uniform of office but without leadership, without command, without policy, feebly fumbling with the task they courted."

Says Employment Less .

"The cold, unhappy truth," he said, "is that we have less employment in Canada to-day than we have had for years back. Surely the duty of the state and the object of public policy should be to foster productive occupations for our people, but instead of gaining ground in this direction the fact is our productive occupations are contracting. Exports, it is true, as a matter of mere volume, are holding their own but home consumption is decreasing and as well the output of finished goods entailing labor and thus inducing prosperity, is diminishing too. The trouble with too much of the trade of to-day is that it is an unprofitable trade and this applies to agriculture, to manufacturing and many other industries as well. Expansion of Canadian plans has ceas-

EXPECT 70 OF MAJORITY FOR AMENDMENT

Some Liberals Will Refuse to Support Labor's Resolution of No Confidence — Speeches Yesterday Stronger.

ROYALTY PRESENT.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Political interest in the debate in the House of Commons, which is the death-knell of the Baldwin Administration, warmed up considerably yesterday with the introduction by John Robert Clynes, Deputy Labor Leader, of a non-confidence amendment to the reply to the address from the throne. Mr. Clynes had an unusually distinguished audience for a Labor representative; not only the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York, but many peers assembled in the galleries.

The speeches to-day took on a stronger flavor, being addressed more particularly to the members' constituents, with a view to possibly not distant election, than to the actual business in hand in the House, the end of which is a foregone conclusion. The only question is by how large a vote the Labor amendment will be carried.

Denounce Liberals.

The business of the Conservative speakers was, by throwing ridicule on Liberal support of the Labor movement, to try to detach as many Liberal members as possible from supporting the non-confidence amendment. In this respect Sir William Joynson-Hicks, speaking for the Government side, made a notable contribution, denouncing the Liberals headed by Mr. Asquith, for joining with the Laborites. It is known that some few Liberals will refuse to support the Clynes amendment, but the general belief is that the amendment will be carried by a majority of about 70.

On the other hand, the aim of the Liberal speakers was to prove to their constituents that by helping Labor into power they were in no way identifying themselves with the socialist tenets of that party.

Slashing Attack.

As the evening progressed, the debate became exceedingly lively, Oswald H. Moseley, an Independent, who is the son-in-law of Marquis Curzon, the Foreign Secretary, and has been mentioned as likely to take office in the Labor Government, made a slashing attack on the Government, charging the members with lavishing money on wild-cat schemes all around the world, and with having economized on health, and social reform to pay for these expenditures, of remitting taxes of the rich, and squeezing the poor; of pursuing "a foreign policy of drift followed by drivel and sanctimonious sermons."

Viscount Curzon, (Captain Francis R. Curzon), followed with an equally violent attack on the Labor Party, which he accused of sheltering communism. Both speeches provoked strong exclamations.

That not all the Liberals are satisfied at the prospect of assisting Labor into office was seen when Major General J. E. B. Seeley argued that the real question was not whether the Socialist Party should accede to power, but whether the present government, committed to a protectionist policy, retained the confidence of the House. He advocated calling a conference of the leaders of the three parties, together with a high judicial representative, to examine and report on the best means of securing a stable government.

Frank Hodges, Secretary of the Miners' Union, devoted himself in his maiden speech solely to an exposition of the trade union side of Labor policy and better organization of the nation's productive capacity.

Carried.

Robson-Fallis: That the Collector be granted an extension of one month in which to collect the balance of the 1923 taxes. Carried.

PROBLEMS OF LIVING

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18 (United Press).—"The greatest human problem in the world today is the problem of living together," Dr. Walter F. Dexter, president of Whittier college, declared here before several thousand teachers. People have developed everything but the one thing that can eradicate or alleviate war, pain, misery and discontent, and that thing is the science of living together, Dr. Dexter said. "The task of the teachers," he said, "is to build a philosophy of friendship which will grow with the students and which will be handed down from parent to child."

Tenders will be received up to and including the 24th day of January, 1924, for leases of certain parcels of marsh land, described as follows:

Parcel One—Lots 4 and 5, Con. 6 Lot 5, Con. 7, Township of Fenelon, in the County of Victoria. Comprising approximately 600 acres more or less.

Parcel Two—Lots 2 and 3, Cons. 5 and 6, Township of Fenelon, in the County of Victoria. Comprising approximately 597 acres more or less.

Tenderers must state the lump sum as annual rental they are prepared to pay in advance and each parcel must be tendered for separately.

Copies of conditions may on request be secured from the Minister or Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

BANK PROPOSAL WOULD REFLECT ON GOVERNMENT

Alberta Farmers Defeated Resolution For Bank Under Government Control — Government Had Rejected Scheme.

INVITED DISASTER.

EDMONTON, Jan. 18.—(Canadian Press).—The proposal that the Alberta Government take steps to secure a federal charter for a bank and proceed with its organization under Government control was emphatically rejected late yesterday by the United Farmers of Alberta after President H. W. Wood had described the scheme as "dangerous", and as "very liable to lead to disaster." Mr. Wood made a vigorous attack on the proposal and declared that, as the Government had pronounced definitely against it, considered passing of the resolution would be a direct vote of lack of confidence in the Greenfield administration and they would be taking a "desperate chance of wrecking the Government."

"This organization," said Mr. Wood, "has survived a period of stress and now we see daylight. For God's sake don't run it blindly headlong on the rocks of destruction."

Previously Adopted.

The resolution was similar to one which the conventions of 1922 and 1923 adopted, and sought the establishment of a bank which would be under Government-ownership and control but would exercise all the functions of the ordinary chartered banks, including the issues of currency. The Government, through a statement presented to the convention Tuesday night declared the plan impracticable and declined to go ahead with it.

The debate on the subject occupied parts of three dayss Advocate. of the bank were led by George Bevington, a member of the executive, and at the close of the debate he offered a substitute resolution which declared that in the interests of unity and co-operation action should be deferred while a committee of the association worked with a Government committee to get further information and to report at the next convention.

Mr. Wood urged that the main proposal come to a vote and opposed the sub-motion which was lost on a vote of probably two to one. The original motion found not more than twenty or thirty supporters.

Senate Censured.

A resolution was adopted censuring the Senate for its rejection of the railway branch lines bill which, it was said, was justification for its immediate reform.

The Government was asked to do away with the sales tax which was called an injustice to the consumer.

Amazing Age Credited to Fossilized Plants.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(Associated Press).—Traces of flowers that may have bloomed millions of years ago have been discovered in the petrified forest of the Southern Black Hills of South Dakota, according to D. C. Davies, director of the Field Museum of Natural History. The age of the formation in which they are found, as estimated on the basis of active disintegration, exceeds a hundred million years.

One of these flowers has been reconstructed here in the museum in co-operation with their discoverer, Professor Wieland of Yale, an authority on these plants.

"These flowers belong to an extinct group of 'non-flowering' plants, an apparent contradiction in terms," said Mr. Davies. "Their nearest living relation are the so-called sago-palms, the plants that furnish the 'palm leaves' used by florists. The sago-palms of Cycads are flowerless plants in the same sense as pine trees are flowerless. Their extinct relatives, however, bore perfect flowers in great number, large, very elaborate and strikingly unlike any other flowers known. So abundant were these plants in their time that the era when they flourished is called the Age Cycads.

"This flower greeted the eyes of its antediluvian contemporaries, the long-necked Brontosaurns and the horned Trcieratops, both of them and all their kind, according to geological science, turned to dust or stone long before Noah gathered his zoo for the ark.' "

Europe's Planting of Winter Grains Is Less.

OTTAWA, Jan. 17.— The latest crop reports from Europe as summarized by the United States Department of Commerce has follows:

Final effects of the unseasonable fall weather in Europe are mainly confined to the curtailing of the acreage planted to winter grains according to a cable received from special representative Smith of the Department of Commerce. The acreage of Northern Europe was effected by the excessive moisture, while the southern countries were affected adversely by the dry weather. Early reports except those from Czecho-Slovakia indicate that generally a smaller fall area was planted in Europe.

MINING DEVELOPMENTS.

The best news that Ontario has had in the new year is furnished by the predictions that there is every prospect of a big mining boom during 1924.

Activity is reported from Northern Ontario, and this, in addition to the growth of the camps in the year that has just closed and the resumption of production in older properties, can be taken to indicate that the present year will be a boom one.

Examiner readers will hope that these prophecies are accurate, for a development in the mining field means an influx of new capital, new railway construction in Northern Ontario, traffic for the older lines and the establishment of new communities who will offer the agriculturists of the North a market close at hand.

A Government bounty on iron ore mined in the Province has been suggested. The importance of such a policy in its effect upon the little industry will be readily recognized.

Altogether the reports from the mining district are encouraging, and if the hopes are realized the effect on business throughout the Province generally will be quickly felt.

PROTECTING THE FISH.

The Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association will endeavour to have the Ontario Government appoint temporary overseers during the spawning season in the spring to check the operations of the poachers whose raids each year do much to deplete the fishing resources of the district.

The Examiner has for several years urged that this step be taken as absolutely necessary if anything like adequate protection is to be given during the most vital season of the year.

The permanent staff of overseers, no matter how energetic or efficient they may be, cannot be expected to be everywhere at once, and in numbers they are powerless to prevent poaching on a large scale during the spawning season.

The only solution is the hiring of a large number of additional inspectors for the short spawning period, providing a temporary force big enough to effectively patrol the district.

Appeals to the sportsmanship of the individuals who indulge in this illegal fishing have proven useless, a sheer waste of time, and the only thing that remains is the apprehension of some of the offenders and the infliction of a fine severe enough to make them realize that it is much less expensive as well as much better sportsmanship to postpone their fishing operations until the fish can be taken legally.

The local association should enlist the services of other organizations in the Province in a campaign to convince the Ontario Government of the necessity of paying some attention to the question.

THE LEGISLATURE SHOULD ACT.

The Belleville Ontario and the London Advertiser are two Ontario papers who agree with the Examiner that the decision in the police controversy case does not clear up the matter, and that the Legislature will have to deal with the situation before all points in doubt are satisfactorily established.

"Does not the new statute leave the Police Commission in a rather awkward position? Will not, as a matter of fact, the whole matter have to be revised by the Legislature?" are two questions asked by the Ontario.

The London daily urges speedy action by the Legislature. It says:

"Court opinions based on the present law will not be of much benefit. The Legislature should act quickly and make the statutes so plain that a dual interpretation will be out of the question."

The situation cannot be left as it is without leaving every Ontario city open to the development of a controversy between its Police Commission and its Council, and only through action by the Legislature can a proper working basis between the two bodies be arranged.

If the commission has the last word as to the number of police and the Council the last word as to how much money shall be paid for police protection, the elements are all there for a first-class row in every city in the Province.

LABOR AND THE SENATE.

A deputation appearing at Ottawa from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada urged a curbing of the power of the Senate to veto legislation passed by the Commons, says the London Advertiser.

If it is the intention to have a Senate with its sting drawn, then why have a Senate at all?

If it is necessary—and we doubt it—to have a second body to look over legislation passed by the elected representatives of the people of Canada, that body should be much smaller than at present constituted.

There are 95 Senators at present, and there is no good reason for any such number. There is nothing for most of them to do.

The logical thing is to move toward the abolition of the Senate in its entirety. It has been made the reward for political service and political contribution for years. Both of the political parties in Canada have made their appointments to the Senate according to political stripe.

At present we have a tremendous amount of Governmental machinery of one kind and another in Canada, all the way from township, village, county, town and city councils to Provincial and Federal Parliaments. It is time we started to simplify matters and shake off some of the attendant cost, and the Senate seems to be the logical place to start in the process of elimination.

THE PLIGHT OF THE FARMERS.

Figures issued in a recent report of the United States Department of Agriculture as to the financial condition of farmers in the corn and wheat-growing States across the line should be of interest to Examiner readers in the light they throw upon farming conditions generally and because they indicate that the Canadian farmers, bad as has been their lot in the past two or three years, are not in as sorry a plight as many of their American cousins.

The report deals with statistic from fifteen States, covering the years 1920 and 1921.

It has been established that out of 69,000 farmers who owned their farms 5,800, or 8½ per cent., lost their farms, and 10,400 more, although actually insolvent, were enabled to hold on through the leniency of their creditors.

Thus nearly one-quarter of all the owning farmers reported upon came into serious financial straits during the slump years.

Tenant farmers, as might be expected, were even more unsuccessful.

Twenty-six thousand tenants were reported upon, revealing the fact that 14 per cent. lost their farms and 21 per cent. were insolvent, but were leniently treated by their creditors, a total of 35 per cent. in financial distress.

The Department of Agriculture considers these returns accurate enough to portray the general condition in the territory under investigation, which means that if these percentages are applied to the number of farmers in the fifteen States in question it will be found that of a total of 2,289,000 owner and tenant farmers 220,000 lost their holdings and nearly 400,000 more experienced acute financial losses that left them at the mercy of their creditors.

It has been found that about one-fifth of those who lost their farms did so primarily because they bought land at inflated prices during the land boom period, while 5 per cent. more had to surrender their holdings because they made unwise investments in enterprises other than farming.

Eliminating these two classes, it will be seen that about 175,000 farmers, either legally or practically bankrupt, had to leave the scene of their labours in spite of the fact that they had not been speculating either in land or non-agricultural ventures.

SIR HENRY THORNTON'S FEARS.

In his Monday night address before the Brockville Board of Trade Sir Henry Thornton made an arresting statement. He said:

"The Canadian National Railways I regard as a child brought into the world by one Government and fostered by another. As far as I am concerned I regard myself as merely the nurse to that child. I am quite indifferent to its parentage. The successes or failures of this railway system should not be the sport of politicians or the football of politics. It belongs to the people and to no political party, and that party which plays with it will be playing false to the mandate of the people. Irrespective of criticism or of assault, the present administration hopes to run the railway for the benefit of all the people and for no particular section whatsoever. When the day comes that this cannot be done I will have nothing further to do with the property. Any other policy would be one of suicide. Perhaps it may be just as well for me to refer to this in view of events that may come upon us before the year is out."

The "events" which Sir Henry fears, and which he tells us would end his connection with the Canadian National Railways are undoubtedly proposed further reductions of rates both East and West. Last year certain important concessions were made to the West; an inspired statement the other day forecast important rate cuts for the East.

It is difficult not to have sympathy with Sir Henry Thornton's position. He was employed to produce Canadian National surpluses where there had been nothing but deficits; by his capacity to work that change his success will be judged. But just at the point where he stands upon the threshold of achievement, it is proposed to rob him of the one essential to complete success. To the obstacle of overbuilt and overlapping lines, and to a capitalization that all but prohibits a fair showing, he is to be confronted with the additional handicap of unprofitable rates.

Now there is much to be said on the side of using a National railway for purposes of national development. Geographically, this Confederation presents a difficult problem. It is the problem of Provinces which although federated politically are separated by thousands of miles, with great wedges of sparsely settled country between, providing and multiplying the difficulty of transportation, distribution, and of commercial hegemony. The statesmen of Confederation discerned clearly the magnitude of the difficulty, but while they planned for its effacement, and while the past fifty years have seen constant endeavors to perpetuate their vision, it still stands as perhaps the major problem before this Dominion. Today, indeed, more than at any time since 1867, the problem of making East meet West, of overcoming geographical barriers to the rearing of a great commercial entity in Canada, challenges our gravest thought. Beyond any question the solution of the difficulty must be found in a cheapening of the cost of bringing eastern products to the West and of western products to the East; in a word, of making all of our Provinces depend upon and develop through each other, instead of depending upon or wanting to develop through a foreign land. Therefore, no one who wants Confederation to stand can argue against the principle of using a nationally-owned railway, whether through reduced freight rates or in other ways, to promote the development of the Dominion as a whole.

The question is, how can this be done? In The Journal's judgment, whatever is done should not be done in such a way as to leave any doubt in the public mind as to the capacity of public ownership to succeed under ordinary conditions. If coal is to be brought from Alberta to Ontario, or wheat from Saskatchewan to Halifax and St. John, or Maritime products brought to Ontario, at rates below actual transportation costs, then the loss should be a direct charge against Parliament, in the form of a subsidy, rather than a charge against the National Railways.—Ottawa Journal.

State Helps Australians Own Their Own Homes.

MELBOURNE, Jn. 18.—(Associated Press).—Accepting the ownership of a house as evidence of individual prosperity, Australians can claim to rank among the most prosperous people in the world. Probably in no other country does such a large proportion of the population own their homes.

Mainly as the result of the activities of the state governments in providing facilities for persons of limited means to acquire their own homes, the number of private dwellings purchased by instalments, total 441,025 and 137,983 respectively. The commonwealth statistician has recorded that the percentage proportion of owners and prospective owners to the total vary among the states in the following order: Queensland 56.41 percent; Western Australia, 63.05; South Australia, 59.33; Victoria, 57.54; Tasmania, 52.70; and New South Wales, 50.28. Therefore, more than half the people of Australia live in self-owned houses.

A MASON HELPED PRISONER'S BREAK.

LISBON, Jan. 18.— Associated Press).—So many political prisoners have escaped recently from the fortress of St. Julian, on the Tagus river, that the place impresses a visitor as being deserted. Eleven men made a successful exit a few days ago, whereupon an investigation was made to find out why those who thought prison life irksome found it so easy to slip away.

Outside of the fact that guards probably were bribed, the authorities learned that some years ago a prisoner escaped by cuting a hole in a wall and digging a tunnel to a point outside the prison. The wall was filled up by a bricklayer among the prisoners. This man, possessed of imagination, stopped the hole with thin boards which he covered with plaster, and announced a finished job. Subsequently he was freed, but he waited until certain of his friends were in confinement, and then smuggled in a letter telling them the secret of the thin boards which he alone knew.

"You Can Get Strong and Well Just as I Did by Using Dr CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

QUEBEC PREMIER

1. The capital of the merged bank will be $5,500,000 with a reserve fund of $4,000,000 absolutely intact.

2. There will be a considerable saving in the cost of administration not only at the head office but as to the 700 branches and agencies which are now in competition.

3. A powerful French-Canadian bank will be created, which can effectively aid French-Canadian industry and commerce not only in the cities, but above all, in our rural centres, among the farmers and colonists.

4. The Government it is true, ties up its grant with the fate of the bank, but everything indicates that this bank will be prosperous. Furthermore, the government will not be called upon to spend a single cent because the bank had no interest in negotiating these $15,000,000 of bonds which means a loan of five per cent. which no bank would find profitable.

5. The banks (merged) will have to meet the $680,000 of bonds of "La Machine Agricole de Montmagny."

Sinking Fund Secondary.

Mr. Taschereau explained that there were various reasons why the sinking fund had to come after the ten per cent. dividend. One was that the shareholders of the Hochelaga Bank would not go into a deal otherwise, and quite properly so, since they are now getting ten per cent.; secondly, the $15,000,000 would not be a liquid asset, and it was liquid assets which were needed, but would be a mere loan, and thus add to the liability of the bank, and Otatwa would not have approved of the merger if the sinking fund were to come before the dividend.

The Premier said that there had been criticism that he was going to the aid of the Banque Nationale to save his relations and his friends. As to this he said that one very near to him owned one share of La Banque Nationale stock, left to her by her mother; his son owned five shares, bought by him two years ago, when an effort had been made to save the situation by issuing the third million of capital, and his brother, a director of the bank, had 125 shares.

Charities Involved.

"I will not sully my name, nor tarnish the reputation which I have sought to keep honorable, for so little," he said. His colleague, Mr. Nicol, was interested, having gone in like Hon. Mr. Amyot, two years ago to try to save the bank, something for which the Premier thanked both Mr. Amyot and Mr. Nicol in the name of the province. The Premier read a list of thirty French-Canadian institutions, all of charity and educational nature, except the city of Quebec, which had shares in La Banque Nationale, and who would lose with the double liability, a total of $483,800 if the bank went to the wall. Those were the kind of shareholders he did like to see saved. The Premier concluded:

"It may well be believed that the Government does no wish to secure any glory nor any political advantage from this legislation. In this matter it has risked its political life. If all goes well all will soon be forgotten, but if our anticipations are not realized we will soon have to pay the consequences.

"I close with a message to the shareholders and depositors of La Banque Nationale. I say to them: 'Have confidence in your institution, and in grace, do not withdraw either your deposits or your aid. The new bank will have need for them. In virtue of the present legislation your money runs no risk of danger. The Legislature of Quebec has done its part in a large way; do your part, and this mutual aid will assure the salvation of all."

TAX SCHEME

the valuation of all property in France upon which taxes are assessed;

Fourth, intensification of the process of collecting taxes throughout the creation of books of tickets to be bought by all holders of securities, the tickets to be payable to bearer. Immediately upon payment by the banks of coupons from securities the tax on the coupons will be paid by delivery of tickets from the books.

The increase of twenty per cent. in taxes does not apply to customs duties covering commodities for which the present French customs tariffs have a protective effect for French manufactures.

Reinforce the Franc

The measures proposed for improving the position of the franc in foreign exchange and prevent illicit speculation are:

First, reinforcement in the control of exchange operations by making prospective purchasers of foreign currency obtain from the respective Chambers of Commerce a certificate of authorization showing that the foreign funds are needed for commercial purposes.

Second, providing that a special permit from the Ministry of Finance must be obtained before a broker is permitted to operate as an exchange broker.

The Government also is authorized to suspend by simple decree all imports, from whatever source, not considered necessary to national well-being.

Concerning the administrative reform and suspension of importation the Government asks a blanket authority to proceed by the mere issuance of decree, with reference to parliament for ratification within six months. This is interpreted as practically giving the Government dictatorial powers in these questions. Certain quarters in the Chamber are reported as intending to offer strenuous opposition to this feature

Calm and Confident

Replying to accusations yesterday afternoon in the course of his speech to the Chamber of having acted precipitately, Premier Poincare said:

"We decided to act calmly and with confidence. We had known during the war hours as grave, in a different manner, but the nation, by its judicious conduct sustained the morale of the soldiers and France issued victorious from the difficulties. France will overcome the present situation also."

It was necessary, continued the Premier, to take energetic measures against the offensive which was being conducted against the franc.

Driven to Extremes

"Some of our Allies," resumed the Premier, "have failed to grasp the profoundly pacific policy of France, and the hateful campaign against our franc has driven us to radical measures. We shall take them, and we are resolved to engage the responsibility of the Government.

CANADA DEFIES

ed and unless a change comes soon I fear we are going to lose some of the ground we have gained."

Exodus Disastrous.

"The third problem that calls for attention is really the product of the other two, but it is the most serious of all; it is the loss of our people," said the speaker. "Unless a country goes ahead it goes back. Emigration is the outward evidence of industrial stale-mate. In point of national strength the exodus of last year alone has been more disastrous to Canada than the war. The figures are distressing. If the drift of to-day is not to be checked the wave of discouragement will become serious indeed. There are those who cry aloud for immigration, and everyone knows good immigration is excellent, but it is excellent only if it stays. The sons and daughters of Canada are better than any immigration. Good British immigrants are the best immigrants, and good British immigrants we can get in plenty as soon as we are able to hold the people we have. We don't worry over a certain amount of interchange of population; this is inevitable, but to-day the balance is sadly against us and it ought to be strongly in our favor. The way things are going now a large share of the money spent on education, millions and millions a year, turns out really to have been spent for the benefit of the United States. The trained and cultured sons of Canada are attracted over there.

Maritime Discontent.

"Then too, and last of all, a measure of discontent greater than for many years gone by, exists in the Maritime provinces and in the Prairie west. These great sections of our country feel, each of them, that they have not been treated as equal partners in Confederation. I am quite aware that some feeling of this kind has subsisted for many years, but it was never so acute as now. The Maritime provinces believe that their access to the central markets of Canada is too burdensome, and as well they believe that a greater effort should be made by the rest of the Dominion to divert export traffic through their ports. The west has been taught without the least sincerity, that the tariff was the cause of their trouble. Other grievances they complain of, too. Generally, the state of mind both in the Atlantic provinces and in the Prairies, is far from being healthful and wholesome as respects the entire Dominion.

Ill and cross last night— DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN brought vigor by morning

How to Keep a Child Healthy

A GENERATION ago parents thought that sickness was a part of a child's life, but we know better now. The secret is in the food the mother allows the child to eat, and in watching that elimination occurs regularly two or three times a day. Mrs. W. E. Margeson, Centreville, N. S., and Mrs. Pratt, 45 Gillson Ave., Runnymede, Toronto, always keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin in the house, ready for use, and avoid many of the ills to which children are subject.

A Substitute for Physics

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a scientific compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and suitable aromatics. The formula is on every package. You will find you do not have to force children to take it, and it is much better for them than castor oil, calomel or coal-tar drugs like phenolphthalein even if covered with sugar or chocolate. Laxative Syrup Pepsin is mild and gentle in action and your child will have an easy passage without griping or strain. It does not contain narcotics, and you can give it with absolute safety to an infant at the breast.

"Magic" in a Teaspoonful

Every store that sells medicines sells Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give half a teaspoonful to any ailing baby or child at night when you put it to bed and you will find a happy, laughing youngster in the morning. Take Laxative Syrup Pepsin yourself when constipated, and give it to any member of the family young or old, for any ailment due to constipation, such as biliousness, headache, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, bad breath, cankers, fever sores, indigestion, and to break up fevers and colds. Stop first sneeze or sniffle and you will have a healthy winter.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 18.—The exporters took about 900 in all this week for overseas, and on Wednesday afternoon secured some steers as low as 6½ cents a lb., but a few choice ones cost $7.45 a cwt. For medium to good cows, the Canadian Packing Co., paid 4¼ cents and 4½ cents yesterday. This week's wind up to the market will be slow, and it is not improbable that a number of cattle will have to be held over till next Monday.

Lambs are closing the week $1 off from last week. One bunch of 90-lb. black faced lambs sold yesterday morning at 12½ cents a lb. and on Wednesday afternoon 200 good heavy lambs sold at 11½ cents.

Choice calves are quoted fairly steady, but only extra choice ones will bring 13 cents. Good calves 180 to 200 lbs. each will fetch 12 cents and medium calves around 9 cents to 10 cents.

Most of this week's hogs were contracted for not lower than $8 a cwt. fed and watered, and no sales were reported lower than $7.50 a cwt. f.o.b. The packers think there are lots of hogs in the country, and are trying out the bid of $7.25 a cwt. f.o.b. over the week-end.

ASQUITH

be a bar to recognition, how was it that France had a representative in London?

"Our position abroad is weaker than ever before," he asserted. "Our influence in foreign affairs has almost disappeared. When France needed our aid it was given without stint against Germany. Our claim now to influence the peace policy is justified by the sacrifices we made and by our genuine desire for the future security of France herself.

Friendship Needed.

"The Great War must be made a means to a great end—enduring friendship in Europe. This is only possible if Germany and France are at peace. To treat Germany now worse than Germany treated France fifty years ago is to make monstrous preparation for the next great war. Therefore we cannot longer merely watch and wait; our acts must be governed by the urgency for a real settlement in Europe, built upon due regard for Great Britain's economic rights and necessities.

"We are paying our debts. We fought and sacrificed. Yet we are suffering more than the countries we defended and rescued. The limits have been reached to the price Great Britain can afford to pay. There are glimmerings of hope from the American participation in the reparation question. American co-operation is not merely welcome; it is essential."

During the speech Mr. Clynes gave further inklings of Labor's intentions. Referring to the dominion trade, he said Ramsay MacDonald, who as head of the Parliamentary Labor Party is the prospective Prime Minister, had given assurance that so far as pledges had been made they would be carried out, and the House would be given full opportunity to decide on a number of important issues raised.

Dominion Trade.

Mr. Clynes' own view was that the dominion trade showed substantial opportunities and prospects for improvement. He also emphasized the necessity for not neglecting the European market. Of immigration he said: "We must seriously consider the problem of voluntary transferrence of population on agreed terms, for mutual benefit. I am satisfied that if these agreed terms can be arranged it will be better for Labor in this country."

To stimulate the dominion trade without altering Great Britain's fiscal policy, he declared, offered avenues which ought to be explored by conferences on broader non-party lines than had taken place previously.

Mr. Asquith, summarizing the position of himself and the Liberal Party, contended that the Laborites were the natural inheritors of the power when the Baldwin Government was defeated and that it was the duty of every patriotic man and woman to do his or her best, without sacrificing principles or honor, to facilitate Labor's task.

In a House constituted like the present Commons it was idle to talk of the imminent danger of a socialistic regime. The Laborites possessed no free license to do as they liked; they were not their own masters, but like the other parties in the House, were limited by parliamentary conditions. While stating these views Mr. Asquith was emphatic in pointing out that the Liberal party was deeply and sincerely pledged to give no countenance to socialistic experiments.

Attacks Liberals.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, president of the Ministry of Health, who followed Mr. Asquith, made a most effective onslaught against the Liberals for helping the Laborites into power. He was emphatic in declaring that there had been no official overtures from the Conservative Party to the Liberals for any fusion against Labor.

After generally defending the policy of the Baldwin Government he proceeded to read, from a number of addresses made by prominent Liberal candidates in the recent elections, statements denouncing the Laborites' socialistic programme as disastrous for the country. Then, pointing to the benches where Asquith, Lloyd George and other Liberal leaders sat, he exclaimed:

"What are you going to do about it?——Are you going to put into power the very party whose programme you thus denounced?"

This evoked boisterous cheers from the Conservative benches. Sir William then rapped out: "I'm ashamed of the Socialist Party for taking office only by the help of men holding such views of their policy."

He predicted that, while the Liberals would do Labor no good by their action, they would effectually prevent the Liberals from taking office for another hundred years.

The Conservatives were so delighted with Sir William's performance that, as the members trooped out for the tea interval, many of them made a point of stopping to shake his hand and congratulate him on his brilliant effort.

ENGINEER MAKES RECORD

NEW BERN, N.C., Jan. 18.—(United Press.)—William Pettetway, Norfolk Southern Railroad engineer, has begun the 38th years of his career as a locomotive driver. No person who has ever ridden behind Petteway has been injured and the veteran railroader has never received a scratch in the service. He has served on four roads, the Atlantic Coast Line, Southern, the Plant System, now a part of the "Coast Line," and the Norfolk Southern.

Oak timbers in the roof or a London building are in as good condition today as they were when put in place five centuries ago, recent tests reveal.

XXXIX. (Continued)

During the entire act no one was on the stage but the woman and she sat at a telephone talking with the man who controlled her destiny. Now only must that one-sided dialogue give as sharp and clear an idea of what the man was saying as if he had been present, with the vivid personality, the gestures and the mobile face he must have for the part, but the conversation, beginning in happy confidence, ran the gamut of the emotions, portraying a war of wills and souls, and rising to inexorable spiritual tragedy. It was a scene whose like had never before been attempted without both protagonists on the stage, and it lasted twenty-five minutes; a scene as difficult to write as to act; but the two playwrights admitted that in the deft use of words which, without repetitions by the woman, left the audience in no doubt what the man was saying, made it almost possible to see him, and in the rising scale of emotion, the act was a surpassingly brilliant piece of work. Clavering rewrote it fourteen times and Hogarth and Scores were finally almost as excited as himself, although it was the last sort of thing either would have "tackled." Whatever the originality of their own ideas they were careful to stick to the orthodox in treatment, knowing the striking lack of originality in audiences.

Gora Dwight was more enthusiastic than he had ever known her to be over anything, and one night he read the play to a select few at her house. Abbott was there and two other critics, as well as Suzan Forbes and her distinguished consort, De Witt Turner.

The critics preserved their ferocious and frozen demeanor common to first-nights and less common where cocktails were plentiful. Not for them to encourage a tyro and a confrere, as if they were mere friends and well-wishers. They left that to the others, but after the last act had been discussed with fury, Abbott arose and saic with a yawn:

"Oh, well, what's the use? It's about the hardest play for actors ever written and the audience will either crack on that last act or pass away of their own emotions. It would be the former if any one else had written the damn thing, but I'll go because it isn't time yet for the Clavering luck to break. You'll get it in the neck, old man, one of these days, and when you least expect it. You're one of Fate's pets, her pampered pup, and she'll purr over you until she has you besotted, and then she'll give you such a skinning that you'll wish you were little Jimmy Jones, cub reporter, with a snub nose and freckles. I only hope to be in at the death to gloat." Then he shot out his hand. "Good stuff, Clavey. Congratulate you. Count on me."

And he drank a highball and waddled out.

The others, expressing their congratulations in various keys, soon followed, and Clavering was left alone with Gora. He was flushed and restless, but he doubted if he would feel happier on the first-night with the entire Sophisticate body howling for "author." He had been more afraid of Abbott and the two other critics than he, a hardened critic himself, had dared admit.

Gora watched him from her ottoman, where she sat stark upright, as usual, and smoking calmly. But her cold gray eyes were softer than usual. She knew exactly how he felt and rejoiced with him, but her expression in the long silence grew more and more thoughtful. Finally she threw away her cigarette and said abruptly:

"Clavey."

"Yes, Gora." He had been wandering about the room, but he halted in front of her, smiling.

She smiled also. "You do look so happy. But you're such a mercurial creature that you'll probably wake up to-morrow morning with your soul steeped in indigo."

"Oh, no, I won't. It isn't as if I had nothing else in my life." Gora alone knew of his engagement to Mary Zattiany.

"That is it. I want to say something. I know you'll be angry with me, but just remember that I am not speaking as a friend, merely as an artist."

Clavering stared, then laughed. "Little you know about it."

"I know more about it than you think. Remember it is my business to know people's mental insides down to the roots——"

"Not such a good metaphor, that."

"Let it pass. I'm not to be diverted. I've seen her several times alone, you know. She lunched here the other day, and I purposely asked no one else. I believe I know her well enough to put her in a book, complex, both naturally and artificially, as she is. Maybe I shall some day. You once told me that she had a character of formidable strength and the "will to power'—something like that. Well, I agree with you, and I don't think you'd stand a chance of becoming a great artist if you married her."

"You're talking utter rot."

"Am I? Tell me that a year hence—if you marry her."

"If? I'd tear the artist in me out by the roots before I'd give her up."

"You think so. I don't doubt it. But have you really projected your imagination into the future? I mean beyond the honeymoon? She tells me that she intends to live in Europe—that she has a great work to accomplish——"

"Yes, and she needs my help."

"She doesn't need your help, nor anybody's help. For that matter she'd be better off alone, for I don't doubt she would be in love with you longer than might be convenient. She has formidable powers of concentration. . . . But you—what would become of your own career? You'd be absorbed, devoured, annihilated by that woman. You're no weakling, but you're an artist and an artist's strength is not like the ordinary male's. It's too messed up with temperament and imagination. You are strong enough to impress your personality on her, win her, make her love you to the exclusion of everything else for the moment, and possibly hold her for a time. But you never could dominate her. What she needs is a statesman, if she must have marital partnership at all. Possibly not even a great executive brain could dominate her either, but at least it could force upon her a certain equality in personality, and that you never could do. Not only would your own career be wrecked, but you'd end by being wretched and resentful—quite apart from your forfeited right to express your genius in your own way—because you've been accustomed all your life yourself to the dominating act. You've always been a star of some sort, and you've never discouraged yourself—except when in the dumps—out of the belief that a fixed position was waiting for you in the stellar firmament. To vary the metaphor, you've always been in the crack regiment, even when the regiment was composed of cub reporters. . . . And you'll find yourself shrinking—shrinking—nothing but a famous woman's husband—lover, would be perhaps more like it——"

Here Clavering swore and started down the room again. That interview in the library two weeks ago tonight came back to him. He had banished its memory and she had been feminine and exquisite, and young, ever since. But that sudden vision of her standing by the table as he had rushed to her succor, calm and contemptuous in her indomitable powers, weakened his muscles and he walked unsteadily.

Miss Dwight went on calmly. "For she's going to be a very famous woman, make no doubt about that. It's quite on the cards that she may have a niche in history. You might be useful to her in many ways, with that brain of yours, but it was given you for another purpose, and you'd end by leaving her. You'd come home like a sick dog to its kennel—and become a hack. Your genius would have shriveled to the roots. If you give her up now your very unhappiness and baffled longings will make you do greater and greater things. Talent needs the pleasant pastures of content to browse on but they sicken genius. If you married her you wouldn't even have the pastures after the first dream was over and you certainly would have neither the independence of action nor the background of tragedy so necessary to your genius. That needs stones to bite on, not husks. . . . Believe me, I know what I am talking about. I have been through worse. If personal happiness were brought to me on a gold platter with Divine assurance that it would last—which it never does—remember that, Clavey—I should laugh in its face. And if you let her go now you will one day say the same thing yourself."

But Clavering had made a violent rebound. He threw himself into a chair and lit a cigarette, smiling at her indulgently. "The trouble with you, Gora," he said, "is that you are—and probably always were—artist first and woman last. If you'd got the man you thought you wanted you'd have chucked him in about six months. But I happen to be a man first and artist next."

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at elast twice a year.

FOOTLIGHTS

Are you satisfied with movies as they are, or do you want "better stuff?" In New York state, various prominent organizations band together, urging "non-theatrical movies." By this they apparently mean educational movies.

That will come by evolution, can't be rushed. Day may come when educational movies will be more popular than fictional movies—but not in our generation. The moving picture is destined to be the second-greatest educational force. Radio will be first. Maybe they'll be used together. Right now, both are toys. So was the airplane in its early days.

TALE OF THE RISE OF TWO SWITCHMEN UNCOVERED IN MNST FASCINATING HUNT

Sir Eric Began His Career in America and Reached a British Cabinet Seat--His Biographer, Henri Klein, Shunted Trains in London--Now Literary Worker in New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—This is a tale of the trail of a casual remark which led all over Lower Manhattan, leaped to Baltimore by telephone and back by telegraph, thence into the New York Public Library and finally to the "den" of an erudite historiographer on the top floor of an old building in Greenwich Village.

It might well be titled "The rise of two switchmen—Sir Eric Campbell Geddes, British statesman and man of business, and Henri F. Klein, American citizen.

Mr. Klein's career of letters started as "shunter" (English for switchman) in the Paddington yard, London, covering in that early experience the identical period when Sir Eric was switching trains in the State of West Virginia.

A leading financier of New York a few days ago, a propos of the retirement of Sir Auckland Campbell Geddes as British Ambassador to America, remarked: "Did you ever hear that his famous brother, Sir Eric, worked in a minor capacity on the Baltimore and Ohio when L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, was with the Baltimore and Ohio, and that Loree was then his boss?"

That was the casual remark.

It caused a most fascinating hunt for the facts.

President Loree at his office, at 32 Nassua street, was equally puzzled, to the extent that previously he had drawn forth a letter from A. W. Thompson, who operated the Pittburgh division of the Baltimore and Ohio under him, in effect, that Thompson could not recall Geddes as a former Baltimore and Ohio employe. Mr. Thompson now heads the Philadelphia Company operating the gas and electric utilities of Pittsburgh.

From 1889-96 Mr. Loree was superintendent of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania lines, and he did not become president of the Baltimore and Ohio until 1901-04. His secretary thought President Frederick D. Underwood, of the Erie, who had been general manager of the Baltimore and Ohio from 1889 until 1901, might throw some light on the matter.

At Mr. Underwood's office, 50 Church street, search was made, but nothing was uncovered relating to Sir Eric.

By long-distance telephone to Baltimore an appeal was made to President Daniel Willard, of the Baltimore and Ohio. Came by telegraph from his assistant, James S. Murray, this baffling reply:

"Impossible to confirm Geddes' connection with Baltimore and Ohio. However, certain literature here states he worked for Baltimore and Ohio around early nineties during the presidency of Charles F. Mayer as switchman, section hand and laborer and later as station agent."

When in doubt and all else fails, go to the Public Library, is an old newspaper maxim. Hence our visit to the New York Public Library.

The very first encyclopedia, a British work, hauled down from the shelves contained this sentence: "Geddes was connected with the railways—first the Baltimore and Ohio system in the United States and then—"

The second reference book, an American work, held the following paragraph: "Working his passage to America, Geddes found employment in the Carnegie Steel Works at Homestead, Pa. Afterward he drifted to Nicolette, near Parkersburg, W. Va., and worked for awhile in a lumber camp. He was then (1895) twenty years old. A young woman telegraph operator at a station taught him the Morse code. Geddes' next undertaking was that of switchman on the Baltimore and Ohio. He rose to stationmaster at a small place, remained there three years and then returned to England."

The name of the bigrgapher under the article was Henri F. Klein. From the New York office of the publishers Mr. Klein's address was secured.

On the second climb of four sets of stairs at 67 West Eleventh street we were this morning rewarded by the beaming personality of Mr. Klein, a man with a cursory knowledge of twenty-two languages, but perfect in seven of them.

"Yes, I wrote that paragraph, and it is absolutely correct," he said, and added: "I started as a switchman myself over in England; that is, it was my last bit of manual labor before taking up the profession of letters. Moberly Bell, the great manager of the London Times, hearing of my linguistic ability shown as interpreter for 'lost aliens' in the Paddington station, sent for me, and I traded a thirty-five-shilling-a-week job for one that paid four pounds. As I have been a full-fledged American citizen since last Monday, when I received my final papers, I will put that into United States currency—an advance from $9 to $20 a week."

Here we shall part company with Sir Eric, who may have worked for both the Baltimore and Ohio and the Cleveland and Pittsburgh branch of the Pennsylvania lines when Loree was superintendent of the latter, for in Mr. Klein, the biographer, we had discovered a personality fully as interesting as Sir Eric.

We chatted as he brewed for himself a pot of tea, the breakfast beverage of Old Blighty. He had been with the London Times from 1898 for seven years and ten years afterward with the London Standard. Then in 1915 he came to America to stay—in his youth he had made nine trips across the Atlantic as a "cattle-pusher," stopping for short spells in New York, Boston and Providence, R. I.

For the last nine years he has been writing articles for encyclopedias, histories and other standard works. His mind is a vast storehouse of knowledge and his conversation on demand a babel of languages.

From an old dusty drawer he produced a clipping from the London Times of February 2, 1901, the account of the funeral train carrying the remains of Queen Victoria. "Sir Donald MacKenzie Wallace, head of the foreign department of the paper and my chief, spared me to write that," he commented. "I was the proper man to do it. I had been shunting, I mean switching, the royal train in and out of Paddington station for the eight years I was there."

As a boy with his father, a theatrical manager, Klein had visited the Near East and all Europe. The thirst for books and their contents was whetted by fleeting impressions then gained when his mind was in the plastic period. His closest friend in England is the venerable Sir Edward Clarke, England's greatest lawyer in Victoria's time.

"It is hard for an Englishman to expatriate," he concluded, "but I belong over here—where they welcome a self-taught man. The United States is a fine country and its people have been very good to me. So I have joined up with them, and on New Year's Day, at the mellow age of fifty-one, stepped forth in the flesh as my heart had been feeling for a long time, an American citizen."

How singular—this exchange of switchmen: Sir Eric to go home rich in American experience to become Minister of Transport and Post-War Budget Cutter and one Kleen, of Paddington station, his biographer, to come here to act as index for Old World book-lore and to vote with us for our next President.

CROWN PRINCE GAVE HIS SERVANTS WINE.

Chauffeurs Who Took Him to His Home Were Rewarded.

OELS, Silesia, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—Several bottles of French wine of an old vintage were among the gifts presented by former Crown Prince William to the two chauffeurs who accompanied him on his trip from Wieringen, Holland, to his castle at Oels in November.

The prince's wine cellar is said to be one of the finest in Germany, having been stocked with rare native and foreign wines years ago when Germans annually bought nearly a third of the French red wine output. Other members of the party were presented with stick pins, cuff links, cigarette cases and other souvenirs in appreciation of their services in aiding the prince to return to his home after an absence of nine years.

NOT DEAD BUT WRITTEN

FIRMS IN TOKIO ALL REBUILDING

TOKIO, Jan. 18—Americans were the heaviest losers and British the second hardest hit among the foreign firms in Tokio whose headquarters were either totally or partially destroyed in the earthquakes and fires of Sept. 1. According to official figures a total of 173 foreign establishments in the Japanese capital either were destroyed or badly damaged. The report, given out by the Foreign Affairs Section of the Metropolitan Police Board, lists the foreign firms suffering through the disaster as follows:

American, 79; British, 34; Brazilian, 3; German, 17; French, 13; Italian, 3; Dutch 2; Austrian, 1; Swedish, 2; Persian ,1; Belgian, 1; Russian, 16; Polish, 1.

While some of these firms have not yet resumed operations and most likely never will reopen as a result of their heavy losses, the great majority have temporary offices in the Marunouchi District, and are carrying on as best they can.

Many Are Rebuilding

Many of the firms have already started rebuilding on their old sites, most of these structures being of temporary nature in keeping with the edict permitting the use of temporary buildings not complying with the building regulations of the municipality for five years.

Among the more prominent firms in Tokio suffering heaviest through the destruction of their headquarters are the Standard Oil Co., Andrew & George, the Horne Co., Arthur Balfour & Co., China Mutual Insurance Co. and Illies & Co. The total losses of the foreign business interests in Tokio and Yokohama most likely never will be known, but conservative estimates place it at $250,000,000 or more.

Help In Long Run

Indications that Tokio will profit industrially and commercially in the long run through the disaster are seen in the fact that many prominent foreign firms formerly located in Yokohama have permanently moved to the capital. These include business houses, manufacturing plants and banks. One of the most surprising developments since the disaster is the increasing belief of foreign interest in the future greatness of Tkio firms.

This attitude can be largely accounted for when one knows that the big business of Japan is closely connected with the government through subsidies, hence the advisability of remaining near the seat of authority.

A tour of Tokio today gives one the impression that he is in a frontier settlement or one of the western cities of mushroom growth that attended the discovery of gold in the early days of America.

BERLIN BABIES GET QUEER NAMES

BERLIN, Jan. 18 (Associated Press)—Berlin's crop of foundlings, particularly plentiful now, will have a strange lot of names when they grow up.

At a loss for names for the youngsters and desiring to show some originality, the heads of Berlin's largest orphan asylum revived the old idea of naming foundlings for the street or the district in which they were abandoned. A baby boy discovered recently tucked into a basket in Alexander Platz was given that name exactly, and a baby girl picked up on a door step in Charlotten Street was christened Charlotte Strasse. One boy inherited the name of Unter den Linden, Berlin's best known thoroughfare, and another that of Koenigs Allee, allee being the German for a wide street or avenue.

MORE SPEED FROM GAS THIS SEASON

The year 1924 will witness the spread of a more powerful and more efficient motor fuel than has heretofore been in use.

This prediction is made on the basis of tests now being conducted, and uses already being made, of new automobile fuels.

Large oil companies, here and there, are trying out a new form of gasoline in which some ethyl fluid is injected. In the south, a similar fuel is being used. In the gas-well regions of Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, a process by which gasoline can be extracted from gas is being tested.

Other compounds are introduced at regular intervals. All promising to reduce the cost of fuel for motor cars, produce more mileage and cause less carbonization.

Yet, from the Bureau of Mines comes the assertion that coarse gasoline isn't any worse than the refined or "high test" variety, that it works as well as any cleaner fuel. But the advantage of the costlier fuel lies in its capacity to start a cold motor sooner than the other, and to keep the cylinders comparatively frees from carbon. So far as mileage is concerned, there seems to be no advantage.

More Mileage

It is on the matter of mileage however, that the motorist will profit this year, if the inventions and discoveries of chemists are commercialized. There is, for instance, the ethyl gas produced in the General Motors Research Laboratories in Dayton, last year. Greater mileage, greater power, greater economy are claimed for this fuel. And all it consists of, say the chemists responsible for its discovery, is a small portion of ethyl fluid to ordinary gasoline.

In the south, a fuel, similar in accomplishment to the ethyl gas, is now in use.

Better Engines

At the same time, automobile engines are being perfected to the point of assisting the fuel in bringing about more mileage, at less cost, and in reducing the carbonization and knocking that motorists now have to tolerate. All indications seem to point toward adoption of certain advantageous features of the Diesel engine to produce this result.

Inventors have been working on the high-compression principle, with view of incorporating it in an automobile engine.

Between this and progress toward a better, cheaper fuel, there is hope this year for greater mileage, more economy and less engine trouble for motorists.

QUICK

The most terrific experience you ever had probably was tame compared with Ruth Craycraft's, of Greenup, Ky. Trapped on a railroad track, she had enough presence of mind to lie down quickly and hug the ties between the steel rails. This saved her life, though a locomotive and 85 freight cars passed over her, tearing off her clothes.

Ruth's experience will please those educators whose "intelligence tests" are based on fast thinking.

Fast thinking is fine for emergency. But slow thinking, with its deliberate decisions, is usually better. Catastrophes like the World War are the result of fast thinking—snap-judgment.

However, on perusing the details, we learn that the teeth in question were wisdom teeth.

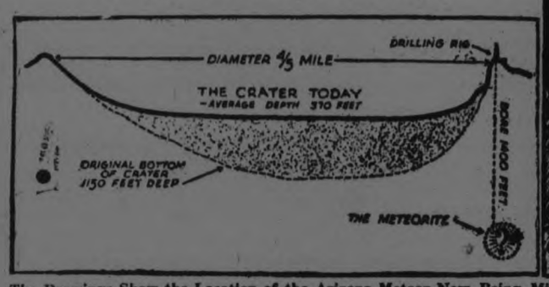
How a Meteor Is Mined



Scientists Are Now SEEKING a FORTUNE That FELL from the SKY

The Drawings Show the Location of the Arizona Meteor Now Being Mined. Its Estimated Weight Is 1,000,000 Tons and It Is Thought to Consist of 90 Per Cent Pure Iron Ore.

OUT in the Arizona Desert, midway between the Grand Canyon and the Petrified Forest, scientists are engaged in a most unheard of pursuit. They are doing nothing less than seeking to unearth a vast treasure that fell from the sky—a buried mass of mineral valued at $15,000,000 at the lowest possible estimate. The object in this strange search is not precious jewels, gold or silver, but iron—metal 90 to 91 per cent pure.

These scientists are actually mining a meteor, a huge, once whitehot projectile estimated to weigh 1,000,000 tons, which embedded itself in the desert a dozen to thirty centuries ago.

Science first took notice of this nomad from the skies in 1891, when Dr. A. E. Foote, the mineralogist, made a survey of the region. Some idea of the cataclysmic force of the impact can be had from the extent of the scar left—a crater-like depression 600 feet deep and 4,000 feet in diameter, with a rim raised up 160 feet above the plain.

The meteor itself is thought to be at least 300 feet in diameter, although some experts believe it would even quadruple this figure.

Diagram of a Meteor Stream That Descends Upon and Crosses the Path of the Earth.

That the search for this mass of mineral is more than a scientific undertaking is indicated by the fact that a large and wealthy mining corporation has financed the project. Expert drillers from the California oil fields were set to work and, after more than a year of driving, it is now probable that the objective has been reached at a depth of 1,400 feet. At this level the drill recoiled with a loud clang and came up worn smooth by a substance no man-forged metal can match.

If this is the "parent" meteorite, and it corresponds in composition with those heretofore analyzed, it contains, according to the estimate of a contributor of Current Opinion, 90 to 91 per cent of fine iron, not ore, but pure; 8 per cent nickel, worth 30 cents per pound, and not now produced in the United States; one-fifth ounce of platinum, worth approximately $110 per ounce, to each ton; a small percentage of iridium, even more valuable, and microscopic diamonds. Roughly speaking, the content is counted as worth $50 per ton. Should it weigh but a thousandth of the 300,000,000 tons of rock it scattered, its value would be $15,000,000, a sum to tempt the most cautious speculator.

It was once thought that the pit in which the boring is being made was of volcanic origin, and the meteoric fragments that lay about it and lent color to the meteor theory merely a coincidence. Modern science, however, has caused this theory to seem quite untenable, since in no part of the surrounding region—or in the great pit itself—is there any mark of volcanic action.

For a long time it has been regarded as the handiwork of a monster meteorite. However, it is believed that the vast object is not embedded in the centre of the pit, but to one side of it, this latter circumstance being due to the fact that the mass of mineral fell obliquely through space and continued its slanting path after it had struck the earth.

The crater has a form that resembles on a giant scale a lump of mud or soft plaster into which a ball has been thrown. Much of the interior of the bowl is composed of white "rock flour," believed to be pulverized sandstone that was ground beneath the meteorite in its fall. Layers of gray sandstone, and, below the "rock flour," red sandstone that was not disturbed by the falling body, compose the rest of the crater.

The site of this celestial visitor has long been known to the Navajo Indians, who to this day use this "rock flour" in the ritual of certain of their sacred dances.

Like many legends of the savages, the Navajo legend regarding this meteor parallels with uncanny accuracy the scientific explanation of a weird phenomenon of nature.

Ages and ages ago, according to the Navajos, three of their gods, seeking eternal rest, rode to the earth on flaming blue thunderbolts that cleaved for them a deep and wide-mouthed grave and where those gods still lie, in their endless sleep, covered with rocks and iron and a pure white dust that is fine as flour.

And terrible will be the fate of those who dare to desecrate their slumber, say the Navajos, as they knowingly nod their heads and declare that their gods can protect themselves, even in death.

Will This New Serum Prevent Pneumonia?

HAS science at last found a cure for pneumonia in a new serum solution that sets up a fighting force in the blood that destroys the germs of this dread disease that annually claims more victims than cancer, Bright's disease and tuberculosis?

During the past two years Dr. Lewis A. Connor, in co-operation with other famous physicians, has been conducting a series of experiments with pneumonia antibody solution, a new agency for fighting the disease, the development of Dr. F. M. Hunton, formerly assistant professor of bacteriology at Cornell University. Dr. Connor's experiments with the antibody solution were made over a period of twenty-four consecutive months, when he took personal charge of all cases of lobar pneumonia admitted to the adult wards of the first medical division of the New York Hospital. At the same time Dr. Connor was making his experiments at New York Hospital similar tests were being made at the Second Medical Division of Bellevue Hospital by Dr. Russell L. Cecil, of the Cornell University staff, and Dr. Nils P. Larson.

Dr. Huntoon perfected his discovery at the Mulford Biological Laboratories, at Glenolden, Pa., the company giving him free rein and all the funds he required to complete his work.

As Dr. Connor explained, what is generally known as pneumonia is caused by the pneumococcus bacteria and comprises about 85 per cent of the total cases. The other fifteen have their origin in the streptococcus germ and other infectious agents. The chances are in favor of the new antibody treatment working toward or effecting a full cure in the pneumococcus cases, but the other cases are not amenable to this treatment.

What is recognized in the medical profession as "antibody" is a mysterious something, so indefinite that it cannot be definitely defined even by scientists and physicians, which is created in a living body, human or animal, as a destroying agent against invading disease germs. Antibody cannot be seen, even with the most powerful microscope, and if it has chemical substance that fact has not been established. There is much about life that is unexplainable, and antibody may always remain one of the things beyond accurate definition. But, despite their elusiveness, there is not the slightest doubt concerning the existence of antibodies, and it is equally certain that they are tireless, relentless and powerful in their fight against their natural enemies, disease. However, one particular class of antibodies can operate only against invading infection of its own kind.

As one writer on the subject of the pneumonia antibody solution stated, it long has been known that a person who recovers from an infectious disease, such as typhoid fever, smallpox or yellow fever, acquires immunity against subsequent attacks for a greater or lesser period, depending upon the disease. Some are immune through life, others for shorter periods. This meant much to the medical profession, and after long study the scientists discovered the reason—that the tissue cells of a patient are endowed with the power to defend themselves against disease germs by the formation of these antibodies. If the antibodies are sufficiently powerful to destroy the germs of disease the patient gets well.

And the recovery increases the power of the tissue cells to create antibodies and the next time the patient is attacked by the same disease germs the tissue cells respond very quickly and destroy their enemies before they are seated.

For a long period pneumonia antibodies have been cultivated artificially in animals, usually in horses. This was accomplished by injecting pneumococcus germs into the animals, thereby causing the healthy tissues to turn out anti-pneumonia germs until the blood became saturated.

Finally, some of the blood of the inoculated animals was drawn off, the part containing the antibodies separated from the remainder of the blood and used as a serum to be injected under the skin or directly into the blood of those suffering with pneumonia.

In the case of the patient into whose veins the antibody solution is injected about one and one-half ounce is used, and this treatment is required three, four, five or more times.

In the case of the patient into whose body the solution is injected beneath the skin six or eight times as much fluid must be used as when introduced directly into the veins, and this makes the safer treatment decidedly costly.

Dr. Connor says that the routine practice has been to give the first intravenous injection of the solution just as soon as the diagnosis could be definitely established, without waiting for the report of the sputum typing, and to repeat the injection daily thereafter until the temperature showed no further disposition to rise materially or until it was obvious from other indications that the patient was out of danger. One patient received nine injections, several received six, a majority of the patients received either two or three and thirty-four patients were given but a single dose. After some experimentation the routine dosage decided upon was 55 cc of the solution for men and 25 cc for women. Occasionally smaller doses were given when the general condition of the patient seemed to demand caution.

The immediate effects of the injection are very similar to those frequently seen, especially in febrile cases, after the intravenous injection of any foreign protein. After an interval varying from twenty-five to forty-five minutes there is usually a sharp rigor lasting from twenty to thirty mintues, with a rapid rise of temperature of from 2 to 4 degrees. Temperatures of 106 or 107 degrees F. are not very uncommon. During the chill the pulse becomes rapid and small, the color dusky and cyanotic and, if the reaction is severe, there may be a transient mild delirium. The rise of temperature is promptly followed by a sharp drop, which in the course of a few hours may amount to 6 or 7 degrees. This fall in temperature is usually accompanied by profuse sweating, marked slowing of the pulse and a striking improvement in all the subjective symptoms.

In favorable cases this drop in temperature may mark the end of the febrile stage and the beginning of convalescence. In most cases, however, the fever begins to rise again within twelve hours and within twenty-four hours may reach its former level. Very often, however, the temperature does not go quite so high and the patient's general condition will have changed so much for the better that a second injection may seem unnecessary. The response to a second injection is usually quite similar to that of the first. Occasionally the reaction is less pronounced, and in a few instances a second or third injection has been followed by a more severe reaction than the first. Rarely a case is met with in which no distinct reaction occurs and no fall of temperature results.

DISCOVERY of "odic rays" of high penetration produced simply by the electric current drawn from an ordinary light socket, and yet with the curative and medicinal value of X-rays, is claimed by Dr. Edgar L. Hollingshead, of Pasadena, Cal.

With simple, inexpensive apparatus he is reported to have passed rays through 11½ inches of lead and 4½ inches of steel, at such strength as to sear dental X-ray films encased in tinfoil.

Such an achievement appears impossible; yet X-rays seemed equally impossible when Roentgen first announced their discovery. Dr. Hollingshead's claims are based on tests made in the presence of eyewitnesses who selected at random the films exposed to the rays, retained the duplicates, and developed the two simultaneously in the presence of an unprejudiced committee. After exposure, these films were found to be perceptibly darkened.

Dr. Hollingshead declares, according to Popular Science Monthly, that the rays produced by his apparatus are of greater intensity and penetration than any previously known to science. The rate of vibration of the "odic rays" can be controlled by the operator, it is asserted.

If these claims are substantiated, the value of the discovery to the world will be enormous. The medical profession will have an unlimited supply of curative rays. The X-ray diagnosis can be utilized by every doctor in the country, since the apparatus can readily be carried from house to house.

The doctor has given a partial explanation of his ray.

He has found, he says, that electricity is not simply a force, but a substance. Amperage, he adds, is the substance part of electricity and voltage the speed. Like any other substance, electricity is composed of vibrating molecules, atoms, electrons, and other infinitesimal units, and the form that the substance takes is due to the rates of atomic speed.

The only difference between one ray of light and another is in wave length or vibration, speed of discharge and polarity. Assuming that electricity is like water flowing through a pipe, and that its voltage is the speed with which it travels, he first intensifies its atomic speed, then he breaks it up, releasing a force or ray of great speed and power.

The CAUSE of "JAW WINKING"

"JAW-WINKING" is the term applied to involuntary movements of one or both eyelids that are occasionally associated with movements of the jaw, as in chewing, speaking or crying. The cause of the condition is obscure. Sometimes it is congenital, when it has been called an "atavistic anomaly." It is frequently associated with ptosis, or there may be ptosis in one eye and jaw-winking movements in the other.

In a contribution to the London Lancet Dr. J. Alexander Wilson, of Glasgow, reports his observations of a child, obviously a case of ptosis, who was admitted to a hospital for operation, crying vigorously while it was being prepared for operation. As it cried Dr. Wilson observed that the ptosis had disappeared; the lid was drawn right up, exposing the white sclerotic above the cornea. When the child ceased to cry the lid drooped again. This is a condition of paralysis alternating with extreme contraction.

One case was reported to have followed injury to the child's head—"skull dented in"—and another as being associated with "paresis of the left side of face and body."

In all cases of jaw-winking a voluntary impulse from the cortex cerebri to the fifth nerve initiates an involuntary impulse in a section of the third nerve.

The following case is worthy of record:

The patient is a man aged fifty. When he is not speaking or eating his eyes seem exactly alike. The vision in each is good. When he speaks the right upper eyelid falls and covers the eyeball, and when he stops speaking the eyelid is raised into its normal position. When he speaks suddenly or energetically the fall of the lid seems of greater range and is more obvious. When he speaks quietly or languidly the range of movement is less and the abnormality is less obvious. The lid also droops when he eats.

This is an ordinary case of jaw-winking, but the interesting point is its aetiology. Twenty years ago this man was in a railway collision and suffered from shock which kept him in bed for several weeks. He had no obvious injury. Shortly thereafter he noticed this peculiarity of his right eye. He is an intelligent business man, and Dr. Wilson says that he has no hesitation in accepting his statement that the collision was in some way responsible for the disordered muscle activity. If this aetiology is accepted the case is interesting from a medico-legal point of view.

The Lowest Temperature Yet Reached

THE Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C., recently announced that the nearest approach to the absolute zero temperaure which has yet been attained has been recently achieved by Professor H. Kamerlingh Onnes, of the University of Leyden, Holland. The record temperature of 272.18 below zero centigrade, or, as the physicists express it .82 degrees absolute, was reached by the Dutch scientist in an unsuccessful attempt to solidify liquid helium. The temperature is equal to approximately 458 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. At this temperature the liquid helium showed absolutely no tendency to solidify, according to the report of Dr. Onnes, who expresses the opinion that helium may remain a liquid even at the absolute zero.

This temperature, 278 degrees zero centigrade, denotes the entire absence of heat, or, expressed in more scientific language, the entire absence of atomic or molecular action.

Every gas has been both liquefied and solidified except helium, which has never been reduced to the solid state in spite of years of effort. Dr. Onnes in his recent attempt evaporated the liquid helium in the most perfect vacuum attainable, the pressure at the surface of the liquid being only thirteen thousandths of a millimeter of mercury.

A battery of twelve glass and six iron Langmuir vacuum pumps connected in parallel was used to obtain this result. The previous attempts to solidify helium having produced a temperature of 1.05 degrees absolute, Dr. Onnes undertook his latest attempt with the utmost refinement of technique and he was successful in getting the lowest temperature ever produced by man.

BIRDS That ONCE HAD TEETH

BIRDS once had teeth, but it was a long, long time ago. In fact, it was fifty million years ago, during the Cretaceous or Chalk period of the earth's history, when much of North America was covered by broad, shallow seas that were dotted with low and almost barren islands. And upon these islands rested some of the strangest of all the thousands of odd creatures that have lived in past ages—birds that could not walk, and that had long beaks armed with sharp teeth.

These birds, which are described in Science and Invention by Carroll Lane Fenton, Department Paleontology, University of Michigan, are known from their skeletons, which have been preserved and turned into stone in the chalk beds of Western Kansas. These chalks once were muddy oozes lying at the bottom of the old sea. Whenever one of the birds died, and its bones sank to the bottom, they were covered by the ooze, and so preserved from destruction. They lay there for millions of years, while the sea disappeared, and the mud became solid rock. To-day they are dug up by the collectors in the service of museums and universities, shipped hundreds or thousands of miles, and carefully taken from the rock which surrounds them. Then they are studied by paleontologists, and finally the bones are set up in as nearly as possible the attitude which they had during life.

Hesperornis, the Western bird, as this ancient dweller of Kansas has been called, measured nearly five feet from the tip of his beak to the tip of his toes. In shape he was a good deal like the black and white loon, or hell diver of modern rivers and lakes, but unlike that bird, he swam by means of his legs and feet alone, never trying to use wings. Indeed, he could hardly have done so, for after ages of disuse, his wings had disappeared entirely, and there remained but a few bones to show where they once had been.

But Hesperornis did not suffer any on this account, at least while he was in the water. His stout legs and paddle-like feet were all he needed to get about, either on the surface or below. Probably he swam lazily along until he saw a fish, and then, with a turn of his powerful feet, dived after it like an arrow. His body was shaped like a submarine, while his neck had the driving force of a heron's. Once a fish was caught in the bird's long beak, with its backwardly directed teeth, it had no chance to escape. It was swallowed promptly and Hesperornis went back to search for other victims.

However, the speed and grace of this toothed fisherman deserted him when he went ashore. His body was so long, his legs were placed so near his tail, and his feet were so perfectly fitted for swimming that he was out of place except in the water. Probably he could sit erect, even though with some difficulty.

How to Buy Oranges

WHEN you buy a box of oranges do you get more fruit if they are large or small? If it were not for the peel there would be no difference, but the smaller the oranges the greater the combined surface of the peels. Therefore it is best to buy the larger sizes if you do not care to eat the peel.

To illustrate this Youth's Companion gives the following example: A cubical box measuring 12 inches each way inside snugly contains a ball; another box of similar dimensions contains eight six-inch balls; another box contains 27 four-inch balls; another 64 three-inch balls and another 1,728 one-inch balls. If the balls were all solid gold, which box would you select? Nine persons out of ten would take the box with the 1,728 one-inch balls, because the smaller the balls, the say, the nearer they will come to filling the box.

But there is really no difference. If there were 1,728,000,000,000,000,000,000 balls in the second box the combined volume would be equal to the volume of the 12-inch ball in the first box. However, if all the balls had a cover on them then the box containing the largest ball would contain more gold, as there would be less cover on it. So it is with oranges.

Why a Violin Has Two "S" Shaped Slits Cut in Its Body

THE S-shaped sound-holes are of the greatest importance in regulating the tone of a violin. Sound depends upon vibrations of the air, and if the air in the body of a fiddle had no way of escape the tone would have a weak and muffled effect.

In the long history of the instrument various types of sound-holes have been tried, but after long and laborious experiment Stradivarius (the greatest violin maker in history) proved this particular shape best, and for the last couple of centuries the shape has been universally adopted.

KODAK

Listen!

Have you heard about Peps? Peps is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles.

Peps contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commence healing.

THE REFEREE

(By ALBERT APPLE)

We still maintain that the quickest way to bring eternal peace is this plan: Pass a law in every important country, by which every politician, diplomat, office-holder, editor, orator or clergyman who voted for war or stirred up war sentiment would have to join the army as a private and go to the front in the first ranks.

It is not human nature for a man to vote to send himself to battle. The system is to vote to send others, with rare exceptions. This is why field glasses were invented.

Unfortunately, this plan is impossible. Politicians never would stand for it. So let's get down to earth and study the Bok peace plan carefull'.

MARVEL

Talk about turning night into day: A tremendously powerful Sperry arc light is successfully tried out at Mitchel Field, Long Island. This light has five million candle power and is so bright in a dark night that houses a mile and a half away are clearly visible.

New York reporters watched this phenomenal exhibition, then went back to their offices and seemed most impressed with the fact that it makes night baseball possible.

The notion, that Americans take things too seriously, is one of the original jokes. Too bad, Pharaoh couldn't have heard it along with the famous seven invented by his jester.

CURE?

Two eastern medical experts, of high standing, claim they have discovered a way to inject a mercury compound into the blood and thereby double the number of white corpuscles which fight disease bacterial

We hope this is true. But we're increasingly impressed with the vast number of marvelous medical discoveries that never are heard of again. When an engineer or scientist promises something, he generally delivers the goods.

MATCH

Every day the people of the world light nearly 13 billion matches, or seven for every man, woman and child. We'd always had a hazy notion that match-making was a small industry, compared with the major activities. So it surprised us to learn that the world's people pay 200 million dollars a year for matches, and that here in the United States alone 30 million dollars is invested in match-making equipment.

Oh, well, nearly every man is an ignoramus outside his own business.

RATTLERS

To disprove a generally accepted idea, some people would be willing to travel to the "ends of the earth" and devote a whole lifetime to it. We live in an age of iconoclasts—and a good thing, for much of our knowledge is inherited and false, high time to revise.

A museum official has just disproved the ancient line about a rattlesnake always giving warning before it strikes. The museum man collected 45 desert diamond rattlers near Tuscon, Arizona, and only two of them rattled a warning when approached.

QUADS

William Maheny is the papa of quadruplets, three girls and a boy. He already has five other children. If you want to send him a postcard, his address is St. John, N. B., Canada.

And if conversation is dull this evening, just mention Bill and his quads. It'll get more attention than anything else in today's news.

TELL THE WORLD

John Wanamaker said, "To discontinue advertising is like taking down your sign. If you want to do business, you must let people know it. I would as soon think of doing business without clerks as without advertising." And Wanamaker knew what he was talking about. The enormous business he has built up is ample evidence of the correctness of his principles.

It is just as important for you to advertise as it is for him. Size has nothing to do with it. The mere fact that you may be a neighborhood retailer of no great size does not signify you have not something in the way of service or convenience or price that your neighborhood should be told about. In fact, such a location makes advertising of some sort all the more essential.

"No big business was ever built by hiding its light under a bushel." Your competition is keen. You may not have a newspaper in which to tell your story. Then you will have to devise some other means to keep your story going the rounds. No set rule or method can be set down—you've got to work it out to meet your own particular competition. Letters, circulars, telephone calls, personal visits, movie slides, sample distribution, store newspaper are but a few mediums possible. You may be able to think up something much better.

And don't think you have nothing interesting to talk about. Look around and you will find any number of things you do that your competitor does not, and in doing so you will find lots of other things you might do that will bring customers to you. Then tell them, and tell them again.

PHONOGRAPH SOCIETIES FLOURISH IN OLD LAND.

Here in Canada there are thousands and thousands of phonograph fans who take keen enjoyment from playing their favorite instrument. Many even think so much of their phonograph that whenever any new accessory comes out, such as a new needle, a new sound-box, a new automatic stop or some similar contrivance, they lose no time in adding it to their equipment. But often the interest displayed is confined to the individual himself or herself. It is more or less a personal hobby.

In many places in England, however, the interest shown in sound-boxes, motors, needles, diaphragms, attachments, etc., is not only confined to the individual, but extends to large groups of people interested in the phonograph. For instance, there are phonograph societies spread over the whole of the United Kingdom—societies comprising groups of folks interested in matters phonographic.

These societies have their officers, and constitutions and meet regularly, usually monthly. The meeting may take the form of a lecture by one of the members; it may take the form of a study of the new monthly record releases; it may deal with new inventions relative to the phonograph; it may take the form of a general discussion along musical lines. In any case, the meetings are very interesting indeed.

Such centres as London, Sheffield, Leeds, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Liverpool, Preston, Tyneside, etc., boast of these societies. The writer has in his hand at the present time a report of a recent meeting of the City of London Phonograph Society. It reads as follows:

"Our September meeting proved to be one of the best we have had this year, the programme being provided by four of the lady members, who had chosen wisely and well from their husbands', collections. Soprano records were rather in evidence, but we were fortunate in having an extremely good reproducer. From the point of view of volume, tone and absolute fidelity to the original, almost every record would have given a distinct cause to wonder. A few gems are appended: 'Cavatina La Sommanbula,' 'Jewel Song' ('Faust'), 'Si Perkins Barn Dance,' 'Every Valley,' 'Are You Going to Dance?' 'Orpheus Overture,' 'Onway Awake,' 'The Hoffmann Barcarolle,' 'Vilanelle,' 'Gloria Mozart's 'XII. Mass,' 'Ballet Music,' Wm. Tell, 'Where the Edelweiss is Blooming,' duet, etc. It is hoped to provide another interesting evening for the October programme."

FIVE PAIRS OF TWINS—COUNT 'EM

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

The seasoning of foods often determines their palatableness. A little bit different seasoning will change an unappetizing but wholesome dish that is unpopular into one that finds favor with the family.

Too many housewives fail in this respect of using a variety of condiments. Salt, pepper, onion and paprika is about the extent of the seasonings at the average woman's hand. She shudders at the thought of "garlic in things," but it is just the faint touch of garlic that makes the club chef so popular with her husband. A "bouquet garni" means nothing to her and the contents of the American "soup bag" are more or less vague in her mind.

Shallots, chives and chervil are but little more than names to many women. Parsley and celery are familiar to most of us, but we never seem to have them when we want them most.

Window Garden

A pot of parsley and one of chives growing in the kitchen window will mean much to any woman. The tender shoots of chives, minced and added to a salad impart a taste quite different from the ordinary minced onion. Chives are rather stronger than onions and must be used sparingly and with discretion.

A clove of garlic rubbed over the surface of the salad bowl before mixing the ingredients gives that indefinable something to the finished salad that every cook strives for, the pep that lifts the salad from the commonplace.

If the leaves of celery are saved when the celery is dressed for the table and later dried the cook is sure of a delicious flavoring for soups and stews.

Soup Flavoring

The "bouquet garni" and "soup bag" are much the same. The first is a little bunch or "fagot" of herbs consisting of two or three sprigs of parsley, a sprig of thyme and bay leaf, majoram, celery leaves, basil and other herbs particularly fancied.

The soup bag is a collection of spices, sweet herbs and seeds tied in a tiny cheesecloth bag. Three cloves, six peppercorns, six mustard seeds, three sprigs each of dried parsley, basil, summer savory and thyme and one-quarter teaspoon of celery seed make a good bag. Since these seasonings are all dried, is there any reason why every woman can't add to the savoriness of her soups and stews and sauces by the use of the extremely simple "soup bag"?

The judicious use of carrots and turnips add much to a soup. They should be used with a sparing hand and the carrots should outnumber the turnips.

Delicate Tastes

Sage is not liked by many persons, but if used carefully it gives an elusive flavor that adds much to stuffings and sausage.

The shallot is the most delicately flavored of the onion tastes. While stronger in taste than the onion it does not leave the odor that is so objectionable in the common garden variety of onion.

And for the use of the woman who has little room and less inclination to experiment with seasonings, there are many excellent sauces and mixtures on the market that will make her soups and stews more appetizing.

Just as a bit of salt is needed to bring out the best of any sweet, so a bit of sugar will bring out the flavors and juices of meats and vegetables.

It should not be considered an extravagance to have a variety of seasonings on hand, for a little goes a long way and makes it possible to use many foods that otherwise might be uninteresting.

THIS LITTLE WORLD

(By GEORGE BRITT)

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—For crime, for mystery and perhaps for shady romance, the most favorable appearing spot in Chicago to a non-professional observer, is the gloomy lower level of the double-decked Michigan avenue bridge and its approaches.

Even on sunshiny days the light is subdued on the heavy-traffic level and on the roofed-over street. And at night when truck traffic is stopped, while the speedway above increased in brightness and gaiety, belowdecks is a cavern of dim lights and dense shadows. The region is Chicago's catacombs.

The catacombs during non-business hours show only dusty and deserted spaces, with a glimpse at the river and docks and a few parked automobiles or unhitched wagons. The side walls, which are the basements of buildings, show only modest brick as compared with the stone facing on the street above. On the older walls are saloon signs and ancient playbills, relics of the days before the street was rebuilt.

Here is a tragic setting gone to waste.

A pullman porter was called on the carpet for failing to use proper tact. His superintendent, to be sure the man understood, demanded that he give a definition of tact.

"It's something," answered George, "that if a man ain't got you misses it, but if he is got it you never notices it."

A suburbanite awoke from a dream the other night to hear a rasping voice in his room. He was a man of action, so he shot first, telephoned the police and turned on the lights. Then he discovered he had riddled his new $15 radio loud speaker. He had gone to sleep leaving the radio connected.

The financial rating of Chicago flat janitors received an unconscious testimonial in the advertising circulars of a brokerage house. In the vestibule of each apartment building in an affluent neighborhood the postman left a batch of investment advice addressed simply to "The Janitor."

THE VALUE OF SERVICE

(By F. M. DELA FOSSE)

The death of the Reverend Sabine Baring-Gould, who died recently at the advanced age of ninety, brings to one's recollection certain things concerning him. Mention has already been made of the fact that he was the author of some of the finest hymns in our language, but it is not so well known that he was also a writer of fiction, a philologian and an antiquarian. His was a most prolific brain and even a cursory glance over the record of his published works leaves one amazed at his industry and versatility. There are few men who have had the same peculiar experience as he of reading, on two separate occasions, obituary notices of himself in the daily papers. Like Mark Twain, he had to inform the public that the report of his demise was very much exaggerated.

Away back in what almost appears now as a dark and misty period of existence a band of young fellows, connected by family ties, on the eve of their departure to try their luck in various parts of the world, agreed to send home accounts of their experiences in the countries to which they were bound. Year after year, a small and compact volume of manuscript, neatly packed in a stout leather case, used to make its journey around the world. It was entitled "The Craigfoot Family Papers" and in its travels it visited Egypt, India, Africa, Australia, the United States of America and Canada. As each volume, contributed to by the various members of this coterie, returned from its long journey it was duly bound and placed amongst the archives of the family in England. In course of time it contained accounts of many of the little frontier wars in India; of the Zulu War, of the campaign against Arabi Pasha, descriptions of life in the newly-founded Rugby colony in Texas, and of life in Canada. One of the contributors to that journal was a son of the late Sabine Baring-Gould.

There is a reason for mentioning this, apart from the desire of showing how valuable such an agency may be in maintaining the bonds of relationship. It lies in the fact that if such a method was to be widely adopted it might quite conceivably be of the greatest service to the economist or historian of the future. The world owes an enormous debt to its diarists and letter-writers. The Paston Letters, for instance, give a fine insight into the life of England during the Wars of the Roses, and, of course, there is no need to enlarge on the historical value of the diaries of Pepys and Evelyn and Farington and of the well-known Creevey Papers. The list could be easily extended, for, as one writes, the letters of Horace Walpole and of Lady Mary Wortley Montague occur to one's mind. In whatever humble position our lots may be cast, there can be no knowing how much good even our crudest efforts may accomplish in helping some writer who may have the good fortune to rescue them from some musty bookshelf or uninviting dustheap.

The Public Library is in itself an example of the spirit of service. It was brought into being by those who recognized the value of service and was aided very materially along the path of success by one who probably, as much as anyone who ever lived, endeavored by precept and example to set its importance before the world. But the object of this article is not so much to show what the Library does for the public as what the public can do for the Library.

It is within the power of very many among us to help the Library and by so doing to help ourselves One way is by presenting to it superfluous reading matter, whether in book form or magazines or pamphlets for which we have no further use. One does not need to have a very observant eye to notice in many homes bookcases laden with volumes of good fiction for which the owners have no sentiment, utilitarian or otherwise. There are many books wasting away in damp cellars and basements which might, with whatever life they still possess, prove a benefit to the community. There are pictures stored away in attics which could be given to the Children's department and prove of the greatest service to them.

It has to be remembered that the resources of any library are limited and anything that anyone can do in the way of extending those resources cannot but redound to the profit of the community.—F.M.D.

MOUTH ORGAN TAKES ITS PLACE IN ORCHESTRA.

We are so accustomed to seeing the boys and girls in our streets playing (or at least trying to play) the mouth organ, that it perhaps does not occur to us that this musical instrument can takes its place alongside the other instruments in a symphony orchestra. That this possible, however, has been proven beyond all question or shadow of doubt.

Only recently in one of the big New York theatres, the mouth organ was utilized by the conductor of the orchestra to take the solo in an important work. Needless to say, the effect was marvellous. The volume of applause which greeted the efforts of the player of the mouth organ was such as to indicate the popularity of the instrument.

The question now arises—why shouldn't the mouth organ be capable of a leading part in a symphony orchestra? The music it produces (when played properly is surely sweet and pure and melodious. Moreover, the mouth organ is perhaps the one instrument more than another that has given children a splendid start on a musical career. It is quite safe indeed to say that hundreds of musicians have gotten their musical inspiration from the harmonica, humble though it may be.

If, then, the mouth organ is good enough to create in folks the desire to play some musical instrument, surely it is good enough to take its place anywhere—even in a symphony orchestra. Canada requires more musicians who are willing to concede the mouth organ a rightful place in the family of musical instruments.

QUITE DIPLOMATIC.

"That's a tactful waitress. Yesterday she said to me as I was leaving: 'Please remind me tomorrow that you didn't pay your bill today.'"—Der Brummer (Berlin).

TO AN ANXIOUS FRIEND.

You tell me that law is above freedom of utterance. And I reply that you can have no wise laws nor free enforcement of wise laws unless there is free expression of the wisdom of the people—and, alas, their folly with it. But if there is freedom, folly will die of its own poison, and wisdom will survive. That is the history of the race. It is the proof of man's kinship with God. You say that freedom of utterance is not for time of stress, and I reply with the sad truth that only in time of stress is freedom of utterance in danger. No one questions it in calm days, because it is not needed. And the reverse is true also; only when free utterance is suppressed is it needed, and when it is needed, it is most vital to justice. Peace is good. But if you are interested in peace through force and without free discussion, that is to say, free utterance decently and in order—your interest in justice is slight. And peace without justice is tyranny, no matter how you may sugar coat it with expediency. This state today is in more danger from suppression than from violence. Violence, indeed, is the child of suppression. Whoever pleads for justice helps to keep the peace; and whoever tramples upon the plea for justice, temperately made in the name of peace, only outrages peace and kills something fine in the heart of man which God put there when we got our manhood. When that is killed, brute meets brute on each side of the line.

So, dear friend, put fear out of your heart. This nation will survive, this state will prosper, the orderly business of life will go forward if only men can speak in whatever may given them to utter what their hearts hold—by voice, by posted card, by letter or by press. Reason never has failed men. Only force and repression have made the wrecks in the world.

"X marks the spot," is a saying you're doubtless familiar with. But you'd be surprised to learn what the cross marks mean in this picture. It seems that the first thing a new prohibition agent is taught is where to look for liquor on cafe diners. And the crosses show the likeliest places, according to latest instructions from San Francisco dry authorities.

Better than Riches

UNDER the dome of the Board of Trade in Manchester, England, is this inscription: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." The thought is considerably more than mere sentiment. It is good business.

A good name is recognized as the biggest individual asset a business can have. It is the very keystone of modern industry. Business to-day is done on such a broad scale—every merchant and every manufacturer has such a long list of customers—that it would not do to have a reputation for "slipping something over."

Advertising has standardized almost every article you can buy. You don't have to bargain and dicker and haggle to know that you are getting as good as you give.

That's why it pays to read the advertisments and to buy advertised goods. A product's advertising is the best guarantee of its faithful performance and lasting usefulness or of its definite value. The advertiser would not dare to risk his good name by advertising an unworthy product.

If you value constant satisfaction—if you want to get your full money's worth every time—read the advertisements and buy advertised merchandise.

EARTHQUAKE IN JAPAN

565 Taisho Dori, Minami Takeya Cho, Hiroshima, Japan, Sept. 9th, 1923

My Dear Mother,—

Back home! Praise God! Oh, what an awful time we have had! Thanks be to our Heavenly Father that we have been spared. Oh, I am sure it was the prayers of you dear ones at home that brought us out of that terrible earthquake. May I never live to witness another of its kind.

We were all gathered in the parlour of our house when it happened. Suddenly at 12 o'clock noon, on Saturday, Sept. the first, we felt the house commencing to shake. In Hiroshima we often get a few little shakes so thought that it was nothing. Mr. Shaver looked out of the window from where he was sitting and had only time to say, "Huh!" when it became violent. The house commenced to rock like a ship in a storm. Grace screamed for me to get the baby, but we couldn't cross the floor by that time, except in a drunken-like condition. Somehow I staggered over to the stairs amid the crashing of glass, dishes, doors, etc., and endeavored to get up the stairs but the house was rocking so violently by that time that Grace following me fell flat on the stairs unable to move, and I missing my step again and again tried to get up. The bannister had broken and I literally crawled up on my hands and knees. All the doors were down so I ran without any hindrance into the room to find the little fellow's bed which stood on a chair, rocking like a cork in the waves of the sea. How I ever got out of that house I will have to wait until I get to Heaven to find out. Grace had in the meantime run out through the kitchen with Ruth, who, poor child, was white to the lips and screaming with terror. Oh, mother, as I write, the feelings of that day come over me and they are terrifying.

We rushed out, thankful that the house hadn't fallen, but were thrown to the ground by the second one. We all sat in the grass and swayed to and fro. Mountains and hills moved and twisted in a most terrifying way. At our very feet the ground opened three inches wide and two feet deep. We got up and ran in terror. But where could we go? Everywhere was the same. Thank God we were not in a city, or that it was not in the night time. How merciful God is even in the very midst of His judgments. We presently fell again farther down the path for the third heavy one. Ruth, poor child, kept up her peculiar wail and I thought that she would go into a fit. Grace was nearly fainting, and I had forgotten all about my operation, etc., though I, too, was very much frightened, even to the point of losing my head. The quakes which came straight up and down instead of from side to side nearly killed us with fright. Peace with God and the peace of God were the only things which sustained us.

We reached the house a little farther down from us to find everyone out on the grass. The occupants were not owners, but some missionaries who had come from China on their way home. One man was going home for a rest, suffering from nervous breakdown when the quakes came. At that moment he was in bed and was thrown out and knocked twelve feet across the room. Falling down stairs he brusied his leg badly, and when we saw him he was crying as he sat there on the grass.

Shake after shake came until we thought that the large Mountain Fuji near had surely erupted, or that Hell's Valley, near Ninooka, had gone up. We just sat there in the pouring rain for two hours, and although over twenty shakes had occurred, we decided to return to the house out of the wet and sit on the porch. We just got back and were nicely settled when another one came and that verandah was cleared in a fifth of a second. As this happened again and again, we soon found that our nerves wouldn't stand it, so rain or no rain we sallied forth never to return to that house. Finding a little place in amongst the pine trees, we got a few chairs and there we sat. Oh, how it rained! While we sat there every minute or so our chairs and all the trees around us rocked and swayed until we fully expected to be blown up any minute.

About two o'clock, Mr. Shaver, the old servant, and I went back to see what had happened in the house, and I am sure that I cannot describe the chaotic condition there. In the kitchen, which we started on first, our food, which we had to gather together as well as possible for we realized that food would be scarce and that perhaps for weeks we wouldn't be able to get out of Ninooka, was scattered and mixed up in every imaginable way; heaped up on the floor. Everything in the food line was lost except a little powdered milk and some bread. Our butter, which stood in a water-box, and which was in a heavy crock, had spilled out and most of it was gone. Boxes were torn from their fastenings on the wall and hurled right across the room. Charcoal, wood, broken dishes, food, chairs, sink, etc., were lying in a heap on the floor. We could hardly pass through the room. Very little was saved. We worked around, ever with our eyes on the door, ready for a flight.

About an hour passed, when without notice, that peculiar and frightful noise commenced. You know you can hear an earthquake coming generally. Of course, it is only a second or two before you feel it. Well, I dived out of the door, but couldn't stand upright, so crawled on my hands and knees up the hill a little way and sat down holding on to the grass while the hill around me shook like a bowl of jelly. I tell you it strikes abject terror into one. I sat there looking at the house expecting every moment to see it fall. It survived, however, for which I was very grateful, as all our stuff was upstairs. After that we couldn't be coaxed to go into the house the rest of that day, except to tear in and up stairs, slash down the mosquito net and beat it. Every time I looked at the house it seemed like a death-trap ready to spring and catch me in its strong jaws. That night we all slept out under the net; it had cleared about three that afternoon. Four adults and three children under the net. Poor kiddies! they were literally eaten up with the mountain flies and mosquitoes. I felt sorry for Grace and Mrs. Shaver, as those flies even in the day, skoot righ up one's clothes and bit up on the thigh even. Grace had rings on her thighs the size of a silver dollar.

All that night the earth shook and trembled terribly. We couldn't sleep but lay there awake, counting the shocks. Next day we found out about the town of Gotemba, a couple of miles from Ninooka. There one hundred houses had fallen and many had been killed. Mr. Kindstrom was in the barber shop with his son getting a shave when the quake came. The barber was half done when Mr. Lindstrom "beat it." He says to his dying day that he will not forget the scenes there. The Japanese were lying out in the middle of the road screaming and crying and praying to their gods, while houses were falling all around them.

Train services were paralyzed. One freight near Goremba had seven of its cars turn turtle when the shock came, and everything was twisted out of shape.

Now I must close. I am tired out, and desperately weary. Thank God again for His tender love and care. What a terrible summer this has been to us. Giver our love to all,

Your very own boy,
PERCY.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Tied up by the progressive bloc, with enough votes to keep either Republicans or Democratics from having a majority, Congress may not be able to do much else, but at least it can investigate.

It met after the holidays, with a number of matters to inquire into.

* * *

How About Russia?

In turning down the Moscow government's effort to renew Russo-American relations, was Secretary of State Hughes right in accusing Russia of trying to "raise the red flag over the White House?"

* * *

Washington Bootleggers

Another matter to be probed is: Bootlegging in Washington.

It's reported evidence exists that high government officials drink. If so, why isn't this evidence made public? And where and how do they get the drinks?—in a (supposedly) dry country.

* * *

Phillippine Problems

Phillippine claims to independence are to be investigated. So are General Leonard Wood's methods as Philippine governor general.

In this connection mention's made of the wonderfully successful stock speculations of Wood's son, Osborne C., and the less successful oil ventures of another son, Leonard Jr. But it isn't very clear what his son's business transactions have to do with Wood's Philippine policies or with the question of Philippine independence.

* * *

Mexico's Rebellion

This also's to be investigated. Objection's raised on the general ground that "arms sales encourage war; on the particular ground that these arms may be used against Americans yet.

Thirty-five hundred marines left Quantico—nominally for maneuvers at Panama. But it's rumored the government's uneasy over Mexico and wants them near Vera Cruz.

* * *

Troubled Europe

Ordinary law prevails again in Italy. Mussolini, Fascisti leader, has ended his dictatorship there.

There are fresh mutterings in the Balkans.

Greece hasn't finished changing from a monarchy into a republic. It may cause trouble yet. Rumania's angry over the king of Greece's enforced vacation. Italy's reported getting the Greeks under her thumb. This worries Italy's rival, Jugoslavia. The war party's reported to have gained control in Bulgaria—to be spoiling to fight somebody, anybody.

WANTED GOOD TEAM TO HELP ADVERTISE GAS ENGINES

Real heavy draft horses are not relics of an old-fashioned system of motive power. Not only will they continue to hold the place they now occupy, but they will regain considerable of the ground lost during the past decade to the iron steeds that feed on gasoline and kerosene. Such is the view held by many, incouding Mr. Chas. Graham, Port Perry, well known breeder of Clydesdale horses and Shorthorn cattle.

During the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, said Mr. Graham, a manufacturer of stationary gas engines approached a horseman as he was grooming a particularly fine Clydesdale mare. He wanted to purchase a team of heavy drafters for the use of his firm, and he wanted a team of the stamp of this mare. He was ready to pay $600 to $700 for the mare, but he wanted a mate for her. Because the owner of the mare could not supply a well matched mate the deal fell through.

In the course of their conversation, the manufacturer informed the horseman that his firm had a number of trucks in its service. Included among these was one which had cost $7,000. While these trucks were worth a lot of money, he had found that they did not possess much advertising value. People on the street failed to notice the high priced trucks rumbling along. He had observed, however, when that a fine, big team of horses passed up the street, they attracted attention. In looking at the horses, passers-by usually observed the name of the firm painted on the dray. As a result of his discovery, he wanted to get a good team for advertising purposes.

It was interesting to note, said Mr. Graham, that this man was manufacturing "gas" engines, which was allied to the truck and tractor business. Yet he had been forced to admit that a motor-driven conveyance did not appeal to the average person in the same way that a good horse did. It was also worthy of attention, that this man wanted real heavy drafters. The horse he had stopped to look at was an exceptionally heavy mare, weighing around 2100 lbs. Moreover, she was a well-made mare.

It would be a good thing for agriculture if more horses were used in city transportation, said Mr. Graham. In the first place it would supply a market for good horses. It would also provide an outlet for a big quantity of feed. Estimating the average working life of a horse in the city at ten years, every horse used would provide a market during its lifetime for 1500 bushels of oats and 30 tons of hay.

If it was figured out how much of the farmer's market for horses, hay and oats had been displaced by the truck, it would stagger most of us. The grain and hay so displaced now went to feed more cattle, hogs and sheep. Thus it had helped to depress the market for these classes of stock. A horse also required harness. To make harness, leather was required. This supplied a market for hides. In short, the use of more horses in the city would relieve pressure on various lines of farm products.

In furthering the interests of the horse, breeders and farmers should have the whole-hearted support of the railways. The transportation of horses and feed made freight for the railroads. As well, they worked in co-operation with the railroads, the latter being used for long hauls and horses for short hauls. On the other hand, the truck had become a serious competitor of the railroad on long hauls. Since we were anxious to see our national lines pay, all possible traffic should go to the railroad.

Moreover, trucks and cars, said Mr. Graham, were the cause of our expensive roads, while trucks were making the cost of maintenance high. In conclusion, he added a word about cars. The automobile had its place, but it had gotten out of its place in a large number of cases.

ADVERTISED GOODS COST LESS

A clothing manufacturer installs new, modern machinery. It amounts to a lot of money. What does the manufacturer do? Does he raise his price to the dealer and the wearer, in order to get his money back? Not at all. The improved machinery makes it possible for him to turn out more suits each day, at a lower unit cost. Thus it soon pays for itself. It is the same way with advertising. The right kind of advertising serves to materially stimulate the sale of a product. The means not only a saving in the cost of production, but an even greater saving in the cost of distribution as well. That is why the company which advertises intelligently and judiciously can afford to actually sell at a lower price than the one which "wastes" no money in advertising.—King's Courier.

SOME FATHER!

Three freshmen at college were discussing the incomes of their fathers. One said: "My father writes a song in an evening and sells it for $25."

The next countered: "My father writes a story in an evening and takes it downtown the next morning and sells it for $50."

"That's nothing," declared the third. "My father gets up in a pulpit on Sunday morning and talks for half an hour, and it takes twelve men to carry the money up to him."

SOCIALIST GOVERNMENT

LONDON, Jan. 18.— (Canadian Press.)—Although Winston Spence, Churchill's open letter in which he says the advent of Socialist Government will be a serious national misfortune" at the same time deploring the Liberal-Laborite agreement, receives much attention from newspapers this morning; it cannot, judging from their comments be regarded as a political bombshell that threatens to alter the outlook.

Churchill's intervention manifestly unwelcome to loyal supporters of Herbert Asquith, but regrets modified by feeling that letter comes too late. Speculation rife as to whether Churchill in preparing a way to reaffiliate himself with the Conservatives whom he left in 1906.

PRIMROSE PATH GETS HER TOLL

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Who walks the Primrose Path must pay the toll.

Such might be the epitaph on the headstone of June Diamond Waters Brown when she is buried to-morrow in Kensico Cemetery saved from Potters' Field by the generosity of a friend.

The first path June trod led from a small town in southern Illinois to the big city. It led up to the enviable position of mistress of a Long Island mansion, the wife of a prosperous manufacturer, mother of a beautiful daughter, loved by all, and then—the city got her.

The path suddenly took a sharp turn, and then began the descent, which ended six years later on a marble slab in the City Morgue, a card under her head, which read: "Cause of death: Veronal poisoning."

World Bright To Her

Fifteen years ago June left Edwardsville, Ill., a song on her lips, high courage in her heart, entirely sure of herself and her ability to conquer the city.

June at eighteen was a beautiful girl. She had brains, too, and she found little trouble in obtaining a position as stenographer in a mercantile house. The business training course she had received in Edwardsville had been thorough. As a stenographer June was a success.

Within a year she had met and been wooed successfully by Dudley P. Brown, well-to-do drug manufacturer. He established her in a beautiful home in Forest Hill, L. I., and the goal toward which she had striven appeared to have been reached. Three years later a daughter was born and named for the father, Dudley June Brown.

Got Into Fast Set

The happiness of June appeared complete, and then——

The social life of her circle of friends in Forest Hill had became more and more hectic. This increased until the group began to be alluded to as "the speedy set." And in the van was June. A natural leader, she endeavored to outdo the others in the daring of her escapades.

In time her Forest Hill "set" began to appear a little tame to her. She desired other and larger fields to show her accomplishments and beauty. She found it. In the cabarets and cafes of Manhattan June soon became a familiar figure. She induced her husband to move to the city. He established her a home at No. 660 Riverside Drive.

And then the inevitable happened. The husband, aided by detectives, broke into a room in a downtown hotel and found June with another man. A week later he sued for divorce.

Reconciliation Vain

And here June had her chance to take the back trail and reclaim all she had thrown aside. When she appeared in court for the divorce suit, her little daughter brought the parents together.

In crossing the hall of the courthouse the couple met. Dudley, seeing her father, ran to him, grasped his hand in her chubby fist and led him to June. A reconciliation followed and again the couple took up the broken strands of their romance, their love and their home.

But the craving for the gay life remained in the heart of June. For a year she remained the devoted wife and then the city again got her. Her path took another dip.

With even greater speed than before she threw herself in the gay life. The husband waited a few months, then again sued for divorce. He got a decree and custody of the child.

Reason Gave Way

The little one died three years later. The mother was not informed of the death until after the burial. When she was told, her reason, racked by dissipation and excesses of two years, tottered and crashed. She was committed to Central Islip as a violent maniac.

Here she slowly regained her mental balance, and after several months' treatment she was discharged. Without funds or friends, June came to the rooming house of Mrs. Margaret Vaudy, No. 200 West Eighty-first street and was taken in.

For a while she attempted to work. She tried her hand at writing, but with no success. In speaking of this literary effort yesterday Mr. Vaudy said:

"June made a real attempt at that time to come back. She lived a quiet life, kept good hours and saw but few acquaintances.

"But the continual rejection of her stories and scenarios began to tell. She became despondent and nervous and began taking veronal to make her sleep—and forget, I guess.

"One day I found her unconscious in her room. When she revived she was raving mad and it was necessary for her to return to Central Islip. I never saw her again. I knew nothing more of her until I read of her death in the papers.

"But she was a wonderful woman, a cultured, refined woman, but weak. Often she would sit in my room and stare in the grate and say: 'The city's got me. I couldn't beat it.'"

When June was again discharged as cured, four days before Christmas, she went to live at No. 208 West Seventy-eighth street. An acquaintance saw her in the hall Christmas Eve, invited her to join in a little celebration. But June shook her head, thanked her, and said:

"No, I must spend Christmas Eve with my daughter, Dudley."

The Last Step

Her mind was again tottering.

The acquaintance passed on. June went to her room on the top floor, took a bottle from the dresser drawer and swallowed the contents.

Four days later she died from the effects of the lethal draught in Bellevue Hospital. Efforts to have her relatives in Illinois take charge of her remains brought no response. The husband was informed, but up to last night had made no effort to give her burial.

And then came the friend, saying: "I knew June years ago. She need not go to Potters Field."

RADIO NEWS

Tuning of the Reinartz receiver may appear to be a little more difficult than the ordinary receiver due to the number of controls used. The rough tuning is taken care of by the center and right hand switches. Of the two, the center switch is the most gradual, due to the lesser number of turns between switch taps. When a station is heard the fine tuning is due by means of the right hand condenser which is placed across the main inductance.

When a station is tuned in by means of the two switch levers and the tuning condenser, the volume is brought up to the desired point by the left hand switch lever and the aerial condenser controlling the feedback of energy from the plate of the detector tube to the aerial circuit. This is similar in action to the ordinary plate variometer and the setting of this variable condenser will not change very much with different wavelengths. The use of this method of securing regeneration tends to minimize the capacity effect of the operator's body, yet it is advisable to shield the panel with a metallic shield, as the tuning is so sharp that you may have difficulty in keeping distant stations when a shield is not used.

Two stages of audio frequency amplification can be added to this set in the regular way with one exception. It may be found that the impedance of the primary of the transformer is not as great as the headphones and an additional inductance must be inserted in series with the primary of the transformer. If the transformer primary does not contain enough inductance the flament of the tube will have to be burned with more than usual brilliancy to make the set function properly. This inductance can take the form of a spider web coil wound in the same manner as the main inductance, however, much smaller in size and containing only six turns of the same size wire used in winding the other inductance.

FARM WAGES

Do you want a nice job, very hard labor, 10 hours or more a day, said job paying $33.18 a month with meals included—or $46.91 without board?

These were the average wages paid to farmhands in the United States during 1923, according to the Department of Agriculture.

YEAR	WITH BOARD	WITHOUT BOARD
1923	$33.18	$46.91
1922	29.17	41.79
1914	21.05	29.88

"The peak year in wages of farm labor in recent years was 1920," the department reports. "The deflation of general prices then began and farm wages rates continued to decline until the fall of 1922, when an upward trend developed."

We print these farm wage figures because it is extremely important for the city man to appreciate conditions on farms as compared with prosperity in cities.

On the other side, while the average farmhand in 1923 got only $33.18 a month, this included board and room. It depends on the cook, but it'd cost a lot to duplicate farm meals in cities—not to mention the matter of room rent.

The city man, who has only $33.18 a month left after paying for his personal meals andd lodgings, can stop his car (if he has one) at the next farm and shake hands with the hired man.

Without board, the average farmhand got only $46.91 a month last year. We wonder how many city men are working for that. A lot more than the prosperous have any idea.

AHEAD

Often you wonder why men of superior brains and ability lose out while men of inferior brains and talents rise to success and gain the whip-hand. Professor Bingham, of Carnegie Institute of Technology, finds that superiority in intelligence contributes less to BUSINESS success than does superiority in such things as personality.

In other words, there are so many grouches and crabs in the world, that people are glad to pay a premium to the genial. That premium is success.

FIRE

Fires in our country kill 15,000 people a year—and destroy 500 million dollars worth of property. So report insurance companies.

Nine-tenths of these fires are preventable, experts claim.

Public education along this line should begin at home. Teach your children that fire is the most dangerous force imprisoned by man.

THE WHOLE FAMILY WAS LAID UP WITH SEVERE COLDS

On the first appearance of a cough or cold our advice to you is to get rid of it before it has a chance to grow worse; gets settled on the lungs, and causes bronchitis, pneumonia, or other serious lung troubles.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will immediately relieve the cold or cough on its inception.

Mrs. David Ayres, Kearney, Ont., writes: "Our whole family was laid up with severe colds ,and we didn't seem to be able to get any relief from anything we used until, one day, a friend came in and told me we would be sure to get rid of our colds if we used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I decided to take her advice, and in no time our colds were all gone.

"Now, knowing the value of your remedy, we will always keep it on hand so as to have it in case of emergency."

TEACHERS ARE HAPPY NOW

WINDSOR, England, Jan. 18.—Frank and Willie Allen, twins, look-alike, dressed alike and talked alike. From the day they started to school here, they had their masters guessing. To make matter worse, their marks were always the same. If Frank failed, Willie failed. But now their teachers are sighing with relief. Willie has outstripped Frank in spelling, and has been promoted to a higher form. And Frank has got the edge on Willie in athletics. So now it's not half so difficult to tell them apart.

Milk Can Holds Secret Of Permanent Ruby Lips

Imitation Color Goes With Imitation Food—The Cosmetic Bill.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—"Imitation color goes with imitation food," declared John M. Kelley, of Baraboo, Wis., vice-president of the National Holstein Association, in an after-dinner speech at the Farmer-Manufacturer convention last night. He kept the delegates in continual merriment for nearly an hour with his discussion of comestics and their relation to agricultural products.

"The women of Paris last year used 1,000 tons of face powder," he said. "Correspondingly the people of Europe last year consumed two and one-half times as much butter substitutes as we produced of creamery butter in the United States. Those who use butter substitutes need comestics. Imitation color goes with imitation food.

"In the United States the cosmestic bill last year was over $500,000,000. The lipsticks and eyebrow pencils, if stacked, would make a mountain.

"The color that is taken from the comestic can will wash off. But ruby lips and rosy cheeks from the milk can are permanent.

"We should tell the world in advertising that the way to beauty is the way to health and sell the milk can habit to the millions who now use the cosmetic can."

Mr. Kelley declared that in the past the farmers have been scolded by their wives for tracking mud on the kitchen floor, but now, he said, the wives smear mud upon their own faces.

He asserted that "co-operative marketing" too often has been "co-operative bungling." Advertising under trade names, he argued, is the great need of agriculture today.

"What the farmer ought to have" he said, "is not elastic currency, but adhesive currency."

Mrs. Mary Gray

CANADIAN MOTHERS, YOU SHOULD BE HEALTHY AND HAPPY!

Vancouver, B.C.— "Motherhood left me a physical and nervous wreck. I was so weak I could scarcely get around and was too nervous to sleep. I had headaches and backaches all the time and distressing pains in my side—my health was entirely gone. I doctored but got no relief to speak of until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and before I had taken all of one bottle I was much improved, and in time I was completely restored to health. Have had two fine, healthy children since. Had it not been for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I don't know what I would have done."—Mrs. Mary Gray 732 Homer Street.

What Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for other mothers, it will do for you. Get it this very day from your neighborhood druggist, in either liquid or tablet form, and write Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N.Y., for free, confidential medical advice. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory, Bridg burg, Ont., if you wish a trial package of tablets.

CANADIAN MINERS SEEKING INCREASE

SYDNEY, N.S., Jan. 18.—(Canadian Press.)— Everything is at a deadlock in the controversy between the Dominion Coal Company and officials of the United Mine Workers' Union, regarding the present difficulty over a new wage agreement and no hint of a solution of the impasse is forthcoming from either side.

Miners are anxiously awaiting a definite reply from President Lewis as to what the International Union is going to do for the men in the present controversy, and they are hoping that the parent organization will be in a position to back up to the fullest extent, the present action of the local officials in their efforts to secure better working conditions and an increase in wages for at least the lower paid men.

ATTENTION PASTORS

BURN Yorkshire, Eng.—Speaking of "pillars of the church"—Well, consider Benjamin Gregory, 84-year-old warden and chorister in the parish here. He has attended services at least 6650 times in 64 years. And that means he has walked approximately 25,000 miles to and from his devotional exercises. At least that's the way the village statisticians figure it. Every Sunday he's at his regular place in the choir loft. And year in and year out, he's the rector's "mainstay."

PRINCE HER "SWEETHEART"

LONDON— There's one little maiden who admits she's in love with the Prince of Wales. And she doesn't hesitate to tell you she's going to "marry" him some day. The prince, it seems, won her affections during a visit to the children's ward at the Royal Northern Hospital. And his highness thinks a lot of her, too. He called her the "smartest girl in the room." But there's not much danger of an early wedding. For the fair one is just 4.

THIEVES ACTIVE AROUND OMEMEE

Hen Roost Raided and Cottage Stripped of Furnishings — Two Youths Suspected.

OMEMEE Jan 17.— Petty thieving is still existing in this neighborhood and a number of cases have recently been reported.

On Sunday evening last, Mrs. Joseph Bradley, had twenty choice hens stolen, ten of which were found the following day lying dead in the field.

FERRY ICE BOUND WITH PASSENGERS

ST. IGNAC, Mich., Jan. 18.—(Canadian Press). — After fighting for hours against the heaviest blizzard of the season, the big car ferry Chief Wawatam, with passengers and crew numbering 30 aboard was ice bound several miles out in Mackinac straits. Attempts at rescue were made repeatedly during the day and it was planned to bring the imperilled persons ashore over the ice as soon as the weather would permit, but in the face of the driving snow rescuers feared to set out across the ice. Water holes are said to be frequent and rescuers would be practically unable to guard themselves. The entire upper peninsula and the greater part of lower Michigan were in the grip of the storm today. With a sudden drop in temperature and the heaviest fall of snow for years, traffic was greatly delayed.

STORIES OF HAVOC WROUGHT BY STORM

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.— (Canadian Press.)—Stories of the havoc wrought by the storm and seventy mile gale that tore the Shenandoah from her moorings as it swept over the North Atlantic coast, were told yesterday by arriving vessels and by coast guardsmen. Five persons are known to have lost their lives when the barge Plymouth went down two miles off Long Branch. More fortunate, the crew of the Danish freighter Normania were rescued by the steamship Henry R. Malory, just before their vessel foundered off Norfolk.

STIRLING FAIR BOARD MEETING

Agricultural Society Had a Good Year and Finished on Right Side of Balance Sheet.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

STIRLING, January 18.—There was a conflict of dates, in hours and place of meeting here yesterday, when two Government cheese graders, J. L. Irwin of Campbellford, who officiates at Belleville, and J. H. Henderson, grader at Montreal, arrived here to give a demonstration which had been announced to be held in the office of District Representative Atkins, at 1 p.m. The members of the Agricultural Society of Stirling had billed their annual meeting for the same place at the same hour. There were men present interested in the fair and in the dairy industry and who were anxious to attend both meetings.

An amicable adjustment was soon made and the meeting of the Agricultural Society was held in the office of Morden Bird across the street, the members attending the demonstration at the close of their session.

Society's Successful Year.

The Stirling Agricultural Society had a successful year in 1923, and closed up their business with a small balance. In his address President W. C. Tucker, who served four years in that office, said that the society was in as good a financial position as any between Toronto and Montreal. It has the best grounds and buildings. The attendance, however, had not been up to the record last year, but this, he said, was easily explained. The fair had been held at too early a date, September 17 and 18. He was in favor of having it held two or three weeks later so that there would be no conflict with other fairs in the district.

President Tucker added that the society had a good board of directors but regretted that some of these officials did not attend meeings as regularly as they should.

Financial Statement.

The finacial statement of Dr. M. Sine, the secretary-treasurer, showed that there were 142 paid-up members There was a balance on hand of $353.83, at the beginning of 1924. The amount taken in at the gate at the fair last fall was $597.94. The receipts from all sources totalled $2,974.28.

The paid paid out $848.35 in prizes. The total expenditure for the year was $2,964.18, leaving a balance of $10.10. The society's assets are estimated at $7,510.10, and the liabilities amount to $1817.18, so that the members have no reason to worry over the future. Seventy one members had paid their dues for 1924 previous to yesterday's meeting.

The financial statement was signed zy P. S. Morton and T. W. Solmes, auditors.

Field Crop Competition.

It was unanimously decided to enter the growing field crop competition this year. If the necessary number of competitors—15—can be secured, the society will enter the combined contest which provides prizes for the threshed grain as well as for the growing crops. For this class the Department makes a grant of $250 a year while for the regular competition the grant is $100. If it is impossible to secure the necessary number of entries the growing crop competition only will be held. In the latter event the crops in the contest will be O.A.C. oats and ensilage corn If both classes of contests are held corn only will be allowed in the regular and oats in the combined competition.

Election of Officers

At this stage of the proceedings President Tucker vacated the chair, Thomas Montgomery took his place and the election of officers was then taken up. The following were chosen: President, W. H. Heath; First Vice-President—Michael Shea; Second Vice-President— Clinton McGee

The old board of directors were all reelected and the following were added—W. C. Tucker, W. Garrison, Charles Hoard and J. O'Donnell.

Ex-President Tucker was unanimously elected an honorary president of the Society P. S. Morton and T. W. Solmes were re-elected auditors.

Ex-President Tucker will represent the society at the annual meeting of the Ontario Fairs Association at Toronto.

The delegates to the Central Ontario Fairs Association will be President Heath and C. B. McGuire. Ex-President Tucker will also attend by virtue of his position as first vice-president of the Association. Mr. Tucker is in line for the presidency this year.

On motion of Secretary Sine and ex-President Tucker the delegate to Belleville were instructed to work for a later date for the fall fair and to have the opening date on a day other than Monday.

Ex-President

Clayton Tucker, as he is familiarly known, has served four years as president of the Fair Board and the Society has shown marked progress during his administration. He was urged to remain in office but declared on the ground that the honor should be passed around. President Heath in his address thanking the members for his election, praised Mr. Tucker as an efficient and hard working official and said it would be his aim to follow the example set up by his predecessor.

Mr. Heath is a young man full of energy and enthusiasm and the members are satisfied that the leader ship of the society has been placed in safe hands.

Secretary Gets Increase

Dr. M. W. Sine, the secretary-treasurer was voted an increase of $25 a year in his salary which makes it $100. He too, was commended as an official who has made sacrifices and worked with untiring energy for the welfare of the Stirling Fair.

DISQUALIFIED!

"But isn't he a nice young man, Mama?"

"No! at all, my dear. He reminds me of your father at his age."—Le Rire (Paris).

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified coacoanut oil shampoo, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

WINSTON CHURCHILL STRIKING AT UNION

LONDON, Jan. 18.— (Canadian Press.)—Winston Spencer Churchill, former First Lord of the Admiralty, and one of the powers of the Liberal party, has come out strongly against the Labor Government and opposes with vehemence any union of the Liberals with the Laborites for the purpose of putting a Labor Government in control. He will publish to-morrow a vigorous open letter, in which in characteristic terms he paints the dangers of the advent of a Labor Government with a Socialist programme, and appeals to the House of Commons to send to the "Crown an address in reply to the King's speech recording its repudiation of Socialism and its distrust of those whose policy of capital levy and nationalization of means of production, distribution and exchange has been signally defeated at the polls."

ARE YOU ALMOST A NERVOUS WRECK

Stop Worrying! Be Restored by a Home Treatment Costing Only Few Cents a Day

Nerve exhaustion is the result of using up the body's nerve power—the energy that keeps you vigorous, strong. Without vital nerve force the body becomes deadened; the mind becomes tortured with worry and fears; your worn out nerves seem actually to cry out in agony.

Women with overstrained nerves grow thin, pale, haggard and are prematurely old. Men who have exhausted their nervous systems find their way to success blocked by their own weakness.

There is no magic way to restore the nerves. Nerve power—the vital force of life—is created only within our bodies. When the body is so worn out that it can not store up nerve strength then it must have a restorative. Just as soon as we begin to restore our bodies so surely will we begin to regain nerve power and vitality.

There is a safe home treatment for nerve exhausted men and women; a treatment that is absolutely harmless and costs only a few cents a day. Get from your druggist at once a generous size bottle of Wincarnis, the restorative for sufferer from weakness and nerve failure. Take this Wincarnis treatment for twelve days and you will understand what it means to regain nerve power and vitality.

SIR ERIC GEDDES ON LABOR GOVT.

LONDON, Jan. 18.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Sir Eric Geddes, addressing the annual meeting of the federation of British industries in London to-day expressed the hope that the labor government, if one should be formed, would seek the advice of the federation as its predecessors have done but to an even greater degree because the labor party anyhow could not claim at present to have within their ranks the experience which the older parties had of superior direction of great industrial undertakings or the experience of governing.

RAILWAY STRIKE IS STILL THREATENING

LONDON, January 18 (Canadian Press). — Whether the Baldwin Government or that of Ramsay MacDonald will have to deal with the serious situation resulting from the proposed strike of railwaymen is being discussed to-day.

The predominant opinion is that the present Government will fall heir to difficulties that may ensue because although it will undoubtedly be defeated on Monday, it must, according to constitutional custom, carry on until its successor is ready to take over the reins.

Such a position could be averted if Mr. MacDonald should nominate his chief Ministers and start the administrative duties immediately, but whether he will do this is regarded as doubtful.

The remains were taken to St. Mary's Church, and edifice was filled to the doors by friends of all denominations. Among those who took part in the obsequies were Mayor Meyers and a number of the members of the Council. The Separate School, o fwhich the deceased had been a trustee ever since that institution was opened, was closed for the funeral, and the pupils attended the funeral in a body. Many spiritual offerings were sent in.

An Exemplary Life.

Requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Phelan, who in his address held up the closed life as an example for all to follow. The deceased had been a consistent member of St. Mary's Church ever since, as a boy, he lived in the Township of Seymour. He was always ready to help in every good work undertaken in the parish, and enjoyed the respect and confidence of his associates. The deceased had left a family who had the shining light of his example to guide them through life, and they were following it faithfully.

The pall-bearers were Thomas Brennan, John Robertson, T. J. Clements, and Richard Cook.

The remains were interred in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery.

The family received word from their brother, James M., whose home is in Edmonton, but who at present is on a business trip to Vancouver, that on account of the distance it would be impossible for him to reach Campbellford in time for the funeral.

Among those from out of town were Mrs. Martin Wims and her daughter Frances, of Belleville. The former is a sister-in-law of the deceased.

Chops Off a Few Heads If He's Really Annoyed

Butcher Chao Has Unenviable Reputation--His Peace Methods.

ICHANG, Jan. 18.—Gen. Chao Tung-hwa passed down the river a few days ago to report the progress of the campaign for the pacification of Szechwan to his commander, Marshal Wu Pei-fu. Gen. Chao's name rarely appears in American newspapers, but his exploits are significant. Through the length of the upper Yangtze he is known as "Butcher Chao," and his fame is unrivaled. He is a type of terrorist whom foreigners meet as representatives of the Pekin government, quite different from the quiet officials of that capital who the diplomatic corps says represent the only worthy government in China. He is the real government, the real China.

Just now Gen. Chao is commanding the Hupeh expedition which by orders of Pekin is invading Szechwan and pillaging the richest province of China. Other expeditions assisting in the orgy of ruthlessness are from Kwiechow and Shensi provinces.

This is the Pekin method of pacifying the country and disbanding troops, so glibly promised by Wellington Koo, now foreign minister, when he spoke for China at the Washington Arms Conference. The Szechwanese have resisted pacification in the form of killing and robbery, with the result that Gen. Chao's expedition stopped advancing and he considered it discreet to return and report.

His "Peace" Methods

Formerly Chao was peace commissioner in Ichang. The number of blind and footless men, now street beggars, are evidence of his activity in pacifying.

Chopping off hands or feet, or gouging out eyes was considered light punishment by "Butcher Chao." When he was really annoyed he chopped off heads. Even Ichang's high birth rate could not keep pace. One day a missionary who imagined Chao to be a gentleman, because he neither smokes nor drinks, accepted an invitation to luncheon at the yamen. The general and his cronies were playing mah jongg. The visitor sat down and chatted over a cup of tea. When the game was finished, the general who is short, inordinately fat and boasts a walrus-like white mustache, yawned and led the party through a courtyard toward the dining hall.

Half a dozen coolies, arrested for a disturbance in the streets, were waiting there. The general looked them over. Pointing to one, the fat general grunted an order in Chinese. Four soldiers jerked him from the line while two others hacked off the victim's hands and gouged out his eyes.

U. S. Ship Incident

When the American steamer Mei Ren, on its last trip up the Yangtze to Chungking, was a couple of miles above Wenhsien, it was stopped by three bamboo cables stretched across the river. Lieut.-Com. C. A. Lockwood, Jr., commander of the gunboat Elcano, who personally took charge of the armed guard of American bluejackets ab road the steamer, went ashore and requested the officer in command to lower the cables until the ship passed. The officer explained that his head would be chopped off if he moved the cables without orders. Commander Lockwood returned to Wanhsien to see Gen. Yang Sen, highest local representative of the recognized government in Pekin.

Yang ordered the cables lowered. The officer refused. Commander Lockwood returned again. Yang put his orders in writing with an admonition to the steamer "when passing walk slowly so it can not hurt bridge." The officer said he must have orders from four generals to save his head.

Commander Lockwood returned to Wanhsien a third time. He wrote to each of the four generals. He probably would have been writing yet in diplomatic corps style if Gen. Chao had not appeared. Above the bamboo barricade, waiting to come down the river were the Loong Mow, a British steamer, and the Alice Dollar, American. Chao was also up the river, confident that he would sizzle like a fat porker if the advancing Szechwan soldiers caught him.' He sent three messengers to the Alice Dollar, demanding that he be taken down the river and out of the fighting zone.

The last messenger threatened dire punishment if the request was refused. The captain refused, as Rear Admiral W. W. Phelps, commanding the Yangtze patrol, had ordered American ships not to carry munitions or belligerents.

The Loong Mow was more amenable. Later his secretary explained that $5,000 in "cumshaw" had been paid in addition to the regular passenger rates for the general and his bodyguard.

The cable was parted and when the two ships proceeded, the Mei Ren and a British and French vessel slipped up before it could be replaced. The obstinate officer "saved face" by explaining that a freshet had caused the cable to part.

The general reached Ichang, where he had earned his title of "butcher." Though Chao was safe from pursuing troops, he did not care to tarry here because there were too many who would have gladly blown themselves into a Buddhist eternity if they could take him along. The steamship offices refused to sell him a ticket. Boats anchored in the stream also refused.

Tackles Great Britain

With 30 armed guards Chao quietly boarded a British ship and took possession of the first class saloon. The Chinese purser retreated to the captain. The captain asked the general what he was doing abroad. Chao replied that he was going to Hankow and suggested paying $500 "cumshaw." The captain sent for the company agent, who in turn called for the British consul and he for the commander of the British gunboat.

All came aboard and for a time it looked like trouble. The consul declared no armed men could be permitted aboard the ship. The commander of the gunboat assured the general that his men already had been called to quarters and were ready to throw the unwelcome passenger off. The consul pointed out that the ship might carry the general as a civilian as it was out of the fighting zone. Chao, feeling safe under the British flag, took the hint. The evil-looking body guard was sent ashore, all except the cook who remained to prepare his master's meals.

The general disguised himself in the flowing gown of a Chinese gentleman and retired to a cabin. The vessel pulled anchor and in due time Chao reached Hankow, en route to Loyang to see Marshal Wu and eventually to return with more soldiers and munitions again to ravage the peaceful countryside.

OUR TO-MORROWS.

While Munkacsy, the man who painted the famous picture, "Christ Before Pilate," was visiting John Wanamaker, who had purchased the masterpiece, the merchant found him one day pacing up and down before the great canvas, repeating to himself, "I have done my best; I cannot surpass that." Wanamaker replied, "Tomorrow I can do better than I did today."

Few of us are renowned artists with an almost superhuman production to our credit. But many of us are possessed of the same human frailty, that of thinking that we have done our best, that we have reached our limit.

Yet there is always a tomorrow in which we may have strength and opportunity to go ahead of the record which we have already made. New ideas come down out of heaven to quicken us, fresh hopes fan the smouldering spirits into flame, and the deeds of our tomorrows take precedence over those of our yesterdays.

JADE MUSIC.

Jade is employed by the Chinese for making certain kinds of music gongs used in the temples. The tone of these gongs, which are not bell shaped, is said to be very beautiful. We all know of the tremendous cost of jade, and we can imagine the value of a jade gong shaped like a carpenter's square, with one end of two and a quarter feet, and another one and a half feet. Such a piece of fine green jade would hold its own with a Stradivarous violin in cost.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Low prices for high grade bonds such as occurred in 1920, are really opportunities for buying rather than cause for alarm.

The true investor buys for income, and because he feels sure that the bond will be redeemed at its face value when it matures.

However, any investor who buys long term government bonds or any other long term bond must expect to see prices of these bonds fluctuate within relatively wide limits over a period of years.

He never needs to be alarmed by price fluctuations though, unless his bond declines rapidly against the general trend of the market, which would indicate that the value of the security behind it had suffered.

When the prices of all high grade bonds fall, as in 1920, there is no cause for alarm. On the other hand, it is really an opportunity to buy at bargain prices.

SKIRTS HESITATING

By HAZEL ROSS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(United Press).—Whether skirts will be long or short in the spring is still a question, and not even the fashion houses themselves seem to know.

New York houses say they are simply waiting to see which way the wind of women's favor blows, but I believe with some of them that skirts will remain about where they are now or grow longer, if anything.

Muriel Astor, sister of Vincent, and one of the richest of American heiresses, though she lives in England, revived the skirt-length controversy in New York when she landed recently in a suit whose skirt struck her slim calves at an extremely high angle.

The onlooker who did not know Miss Astor to be Miss Astor would have thought her wearing out a last year's suit on shipboard. And perhap she was.

But New York women, lacking Miss Astor's forceful individuality and the social prestige to back it up, have continued in ankle-length frocks. The new full, circular-skirted models will just stop short of sweeping the floor, and they will stop, for the sole purpose of revealing in all their chicness the colonial pumps that go with this type of dress.

* * *

The spring scarfs have no fringe. Embroidered ones and some with curious designs produced by sewing little patches of imitation ermine and other furs against a contrasting background are the smartest.

* * *

Fast colors are coming back, now that dye factories are returning to their legitimate business after having been commandeered for war purposes, and it should cheer the housewife's heart to learn that she can now buy silk, gingham, mull, voile, satine, heavy curtain stuffs, and various silk-and-wool mixtures in absolutely fade-proof colors.

These are put out by one New York concern, at least, with a guarantee against fading in the wash, or through action of the sun or perspiration, with guarantee of getting back the money you paid to make up the dress, if it fades.

A difference of about 10 cents a yard in the price is all, and I have seen rows and rows of samples of these fabrics, back from the laundry, looking as fresh as the day they were bought.

Curiously, department store managers say they have to talk themselves hoarse to convince women that this is so—even with the manufacturer's guarantee staring them in the face. So prevalent have been cheap dyes that the woman shopper is absolutely convinced no such thing as permanent color exists.

When she finds out differently, woe to the manufacturer of goods that fade! He won't have a leg to stand on.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

WATCH FOR ANAEMIA

If your boy or girl is listless or has a loss of appetite, or seems to find trouble in doing the everyday things of life, watch out. Anaemia spells a lack of rich, red blood to carry out the bodily process of metabolism (body growth and repair). There is a diminished number of red corpuscles in the blood. If this condition exists, and you know it, by all means try to remedy it at once.

You must understand that there is a cause for this trouble. If some poison is sapping the vitality of your boy's life blood, have a health examination at once.

Perhaps the cause may be a "silent," or blind abscess, that is, the result of a pus formation at the roots of the teeth, or in diseased tonsils. Out into the bloodstream goes the infection. It starts the destruction of the blood cells, and the anaemia condition grows. It is true that incorrect, or restricted diet sometimes cause a shortage in the iron ration of the blood; some iron tonic or iron medicine is helpful at such times. A change or gain in right food is preferred, but it is possible to receive a direct benefit from an iron compound.

The causes of anaemic conditions in boys and girls, other than improper diet, are tubercular conditions, forms of syphilis, either congenital or inherited, adenoid enlargements and nephritis. Tea and coffee given young children, or too many sweets, often serve to destroy real appetite for more substantial food. This, of course, gives an opening for anaemic conditions.

Be careful that your children have a proper amount of sweets. Sugar is a good food if properly used. The active, normal child needs it for muscular action. Give such sweets at only the proper time. The natural appetite must be satisfied at the meal first.

Exercise and fresh air will do wonders. Too much inside work, or attention to those tasks which require concentration, are to be carefully guarded against.

See your physician. Don't use a blood medicine to build up the child's depleted supply. It is almost useless and in some cases harmful.

WHY JOINTS ARE STIFF

Stiffness of joints may result from long infection from the blood stream, which has been so mild that the general health and strong resistance has been able to "stave" it off until something unusual happened. Stiffened joints also result from inflammation from diseases which attack the muscles and ligaments in various ways.

Chronic arthritis (inflammation and stiffness, oft-times causing enlargements and twisting) is a common cause in many older people. Another cause is from long-continued non-use of a joint or joints as a result of injury and consequent inflammation. In this kind of joint stiffness, the controlling muscles decrease or waste away from lack of use. The skin is drawn tightly and the muscles will not function.

If stiff shoulder, knee or ankle joints, under these conditions, show no signs of being restored to usefulness under direct application, massage or proper exercise, the physician may advise the breaking of the lingering adhesion. However, there is no surety that this will accomplish the restoration of the joint.

Lack of proper exercise has much to do with stiff ankles and difficulty in walking. There is a loss of suppleness, most always a certain amount of deformity and, of course, great inconvenience.

In younger persons, the proper course to pursue is to remedy any infection at once. Have a health examination, including X-ray. Stop the cause at once by right diet and correct habits, including exercise. Medicines are of very little value. So-called baking with heat will often afford temporary relief, but in older people the stiffening gradually gets worse as time advances.

Carpenter's Careless Work Shows Up in 3,000 Years

Marks on Canopy of King Tut's Tomb Visible After Long Years.

LUXOR, Jan. 18.—The newspaper correspondents paid the usual fortnightly visit allowed them to the tomb of Tutankhamen and spent a half hour examining the remarkable joinery of the Pharaoh's gigantic sepulcher, as far as Howard Carter's work of dismantling the structure has revealed the various caskets.

Mr. Carter was perched on the elaborate scaffolding built about the canopy, engaged in planning the next steps. He drew the attention of the correspondents to the many evidences of hasty or careless work on the part of the workmen who 30 centuries ago by the light of smoky lamps assembled the four shrines about the great crystalling sarcophagus containing the mummy. On the golden entablature of the second shrine, the lintel above the doors and below the curvature of the cornice are marks left by the copper chisels or levers of the ancient carpenters as they eased the lintel into place, and at the corners are bruises in the golden gesso—plaster or wood—made by the hammer of some workman who heedlessly battered the side of the shrine into position.

Here and there are scratches, while in the ancient gilding are clearly visible the foreman's indication marks in hieroglyphics, exactly the same as a modern foreman scrawls his directions for the guidance of the workman on the component parts of a frame house.

One of these symbols is the hieroglyphic meaning "good or beautiful" and it is curious to see how the workman who wielded the paint brush has added on one panel on his own account, the symbol for "god," for luck or as a joke, the meaning of which escapes after these 3,000 years.

Between the various shrines still lies the litter of chips left by the joiners who, as they watched the servants of the royal necropolis shrivelling the stones down to the shaft of the monarch's tomb, can scarcely have imagined that the evidences of their irreverent carelessness would ever come to light.

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18. — (United Press). — Business news overnight was highly constructive. Further improvement took place in the reserve ratios of the Federal Bank of New York and of the system as a whole. Car loadings in the week ended January 5 were 703,269 against 615,431 in the preceding week, while the publication of the daily average production of California crude in December showed a decline of 706,427 barrels from 746,494 in November. These bullish developments served to steady the general list. Baldwin, Studebaker and other issues displayed a better tone. Some pressure was still exerted on the Pan Americans.

The foreign exchange list opened lower.

Developments in the oil situation in Mexico continued bearish. Mexican rebels seized the heavy oil fields in the Panuco country, including Cacalilio, where Standard and Royal Dutch are large producers. With Panuco fields in their possession the rebels now have all the oilfields in Mexico. Following the display of buoyancy in the early dealings, pressure was renewed on many of the leading industrials.

American Can. broke to a new low on the current re-action at 106 and Baldwin at 122. Steel Common, Republic and Bethlehem continued to display a strong tone, but were restrained by selling in other sections of the list. Studebaker held above its low of the previous session in the face of continued selling, which reflected disappointment over the estimates that the earnings in the last quarter of 1923 would be somewhat below those of the final quarter of 1922. Net profits in the 1922 period were $2,446,821, against the estimated $2,000,000 for the final quarter of 2923, and $765,365 in the final quarter of 1921. For the year net earnings of $26 a share established a new high record and show dividend earned more than 2½ times. In the first nine months of 1923 Studebaker earnings exceeded the total for the twelve months of 1922 by $140,000.

Motor accessory shares have been sustained by the outlook for unusually high earnings from record-breaking operations in anticipation of spring demand. Traders believe the action of leaders like Stewart Warner and Stromberg is the beginning of a broad forward movement in this group. In dollars and cents, the accessory business has shown a greater increase than automobile and truck manufacture, the volume in 1923 being more than three times the 1922 total. According to reliable estimates, the gross volume of the accessory business in 1923 exceeded $2,000,000,000, of which more than $1,270,000,000 represented the original equipment for auto manufacturers. These figures include approximately $760,000,000 of the tire business.

EFFORTS TO END FIGHT IN SOUTH

Quarrel Started a Year Ago Over Political Issue

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 18. — (United Press).—Efforts to end the fighting between the rival political elements in the Brazilian State of Rio Grande Do Sul, so far, have been unsuccessful, according to messages here to-day. There was severe fighting Wednesday in Porto Alegre, capital of the State, in connection with the arrival of the Revolutionary Generals, Honorio Lemos and Secca Neto. Rival demonstrators clashed and fighting was general in the streets for several hours. Armed forces from the cruiser Deodoro, which was in the harbor, finally landed and restored order. It was the first time the Federal Government had intervened actively in the quarrel which started a year ago last November, when supporters of the Opposition candidate for Governor rebelled against the Government of Dr. Borges De Medeiros, who has been chief of the State for more than twenty-five years.

PETERBORO WAS ONCE NOTED ROWING PLACE

Interesting Address at Kiwanis Club Today by Rev. Maurice R. Kingsford—A Busy Session.

President John R. Marshall presided over another busy session of the Kiwanis Club at noon to-day. The speaker of the day was Rev. Maurice R. Kingsford, curate of St. John's church, who gave an interesting address on the subject of rowing and facilities for carrying on the sport in Peterborough. Another speaker was Dr. A .E. Webster of the Royal Dental College, Toronto, who briefly referred to the spirit of pessimism that, he said, was sweeping over the land and called on the Kiwanis club and all other organizations doing work of a similar character, to help dispel the illusion.

Roy White was introduced as a new member and it fell to the lot of Kiwanian Charlie Cook to explain to Kiwanian White the aims and objects of the organization. To-day's guests included besides the speakers, Dr. C. H. Fulford, president of the Peterborough Dental Society, Col. H. R. Wilson, Customs and Excise official, Ottawa and W. W. Cosburn, Toronto.

The booster to-day was Kiwanian Douglas Grant and the prize winners were Kiwanains Walter Stocker, Billy Williams and Charlie Cook. This time Charlie Cook received a prize that he said he was afraid to take home. As a retail shoe merchant, Kiwanian Grant said that the one word overheard was responsible for the present high cost of shoes .One manufacturer had stated that if he got the hides for nothing it would not lower the price of shoes more than twenty-five or fifty cents a pair. Kiwanian Grant reviewed the various channels through which the hide passes before it materializes into a shoe. The finished product represents something like two hundred and sixty operatoins. A few years ago eighty per cent. of the good shoes sold in Canada were from the United States, but to-day few American shoes are sold here. As a matter of fact, said Mr. Grant, more British than American shoes are sold in Canada.

President John R. Marshall and District Trustee John I. Allen were delegates yesterday to the Ontario-Quebec division convention in Montreal. Reporting on the convention, Kiwanian Allen said he was astonished at the growth of Kiwanis which to-day has a membership in the United States and Canada of eighty-seven thousand five hundred. Timmins was among the recent towns to apply for a charter, backed up by an initial membership roll of eighty-seven members. At the convention, past-president J. A. McKone was elected chairman of the classification committee of the Quebec-Ontario division and G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., was elected to the speakers committee. To-day it is not necessary to go out and sell Kiwanis, said Mr. Allen. Kiwanis sells itself as instanced by the fact that once the International had forty-two men in the field proomting Kiwanis and to-day the number has been reduced to fourteen.

President Marshall named Kiwanian James Doran as chairman of a committee to arrange for a Kiwanis convention to be held in Hamilton netx September. Kiwanian Dr. Ray Scott will represent the Kiwanis club on the Social Hygiene Council.

It was also announced that three rinks of Kiwanians will compete with three rinks of Rotarians in a curling competition, the losers to donate twenty-four dollars to charity.

Arrangements have been made to have a deputation from the club wait upon the City Council relative to providing more outdoor skating rinks, slides and in the summer time, playground facilities at Jackson Park for the kiddies.

To-night at 7.30 o'clock the members of the Kiwanis Musical Revue will meet at the home of Mr. Martin Chenhall for practice and to-morrow at seven o'clock they will meet at the Y.M.C.A. for practice.

In his address on rowing, Rev. Maurice Kingsford said:

Perhaps the subject I have chosen, that of rowing may not seem at first sight to be germaine to the work of a clergyman. However, there is a well known Latin proverb, "mens sana in corpore sano"—a sound mind in a sound body, and there can hardly be another form of sport which develops the individual so much, morally, mentally and physically as rowing. We Canadians want our people to be strong in mind and body. We want to have as many people as possible who are A1 and as few as possible who are C3.

Every Canadian should be able to box and row, and to shoot, and to sail, and to run, and to play games, and to have a first hand knowledge of the beauties of nature, but the subject I particularly wish to speak about to-day was rowing.

If a stranger on coming to Peterborough were asked his impressions of the place he would say first of all I think that it was a very pretty place, that it was well laid out, situated in a beautiful hilly country with lakes nearly in every direction. But, I think, that one of the very first things he would comment on would also be the very splendid river. He would naturally ask next for what purpose the river was used. It does fulfill certain functions. It supplies power, brings down logs, is part of the Trent Valley Canal system and is used by a few pleasure boats.

No Rowing Here.

Apparently, however, there is no rowing. I have made enquiries and found it was not always so. In 1880 there was a Peterborough boat club and Peterborough had a well known "four." It was composed of R. B. Rogers, bow; 2 W. P. Shaw, 3 G. C. Rogers, and A. J. Belcher stroke. Of these only Mr. R. B. Rogers is still living. The crew rowed at Lachine, where they came second, and at Barrie, Hamilton and Toronto. On the regatta on Toronto Bay there were eight or nine contestants and the Peterborough crew were only just beaten by the Argonaut four which included Mr. George Galt and Mr. Percy Galt, admittedly one of the best crews the Argonauts have turned out. The Peterborough crew were often coached by Ned Hanlan, who very much liked their style, which was smooth and drawn out to a long finish.

Mr. Rogers gave me a description of their training the other day. Every evening they walked out to Chemong. After cooking their dinner, which included plenty of beef, they went for a six mile row. After that they ran a mile across the bridge of boats and then went to bed. They got up early, went for a six mile row again and then walked back to Peterborough, a distance of eight miles, and arrived here about ten in the morning. So their training was fairly strenuous.

When this crew ceased to row, the sport in Peterborough died out. The following is a cutting from the newspaper of April 16th, 1884. Whether the cutting is from the Peterborough Examiner or not I do not know.

Peterborough Boat Club.

"Rowing water two or three miles out of the city; boat poor; the Rogers brothers, once mainstays of Peterborough rowing, out of the field, and one of them, the late esteemed and respected J. C. Rogers, never to step into a boat again; these are the facts as to Peterborough prospects. It is said there is a revival of interest in the sport in Peterborough, but time can only prove it.

The Peterborough club had one of the best crews afloat on the continent in 1880, when they rowed a close second to the Galt Argonaut four on Toronto Bay."

There is added just below a remark about rowing in Kingston—

"A boat club has been organized in Kingston, but what it will amount to cannot be even guessed at at present."

Since this gloomy account was written forty years have passed under the bridge, and one might say that since that time the Otonabee river has been out of use. The four-oared boat which was used in 1880 is still, I believe, in existence somewhere in Peterborough, like some old Viking ship which has been buried in the sand.

At one time, too, an annual sculling race was held just south of here on Rice Lake for a challenge cup. Two of the best scullers of their day, Long of Lachine, and Mr. Aemilius Jarvis of Toronto ,competed and the latter won its twice in succession. In the third year the race was called off owing to bad weather. The challenge cup found its way somehow into a bar-room here and, I believe, still adorns that ghostly abode.

Let me enumerate some of the attractions and point out what are a few of the things which may be quoted in favour of rowing. In the first place rowing is a great British sport, pre-eminently English. I am sure that English ideas are welcome in Peterborough. Peterborough was founded by English people, has always remained English in sympathy and is in the very centre of a great English province.

Moreover rowing is a great Imperial sport and we all wish Canada to develop along Imperial lines. Football is not an inter-Empire sport, because every country in the Empire has different rules and different customs. Cricket can, unfortunately, never become the Canadian national game, because it does not suit the climate. In the same way ice hockey must always be purely a Canadian game as no other Empire country has any ice. On the other hand rowing is ubiquitous.

At Cambridge one may row with men from New Zealand, from Geelong in Australia, from Table Bay in South Africa, from Edinburgh University in Scotland, and with men from Dublin and Cork, to name only a few.

Again, bringing in the commercial element, rowing is a good advertisement. At a time when Canada was regarded in Europe in Voltaire's language as a few acres of snow, Ned Hanlan suddenly put Canada on the map. Hardly anyone had heard of Toronto; very few of Canada before the days of Ned Hanlan. At a meeting of rowing men in England, composed of some hundreds, it made me very proud to Canada to hear Mr. Steve Fairbairn, one of the best English coaches, refer to Ned Hanlan as probably the best oarsman who ever sat in a boat. Incidentally I never heard Canadian rowing spoken of in England with other than respect. The criticism was all the more valuable because those who spoke well of Canadian rowing to me often did not know I was a Canadian, so that it was not mere flattery. Every oarsman in England has heard of the Argonauts, and they are looked upon as a lot of sportsmen who take victory or defeat equally well. However, I am not sure whether the Argonauts have ever won at Henley, although they have only been beaten in the final on at least one occasion. Lou Scholes is the only Canadian who has ever won the Diamond Sculls. Lou Scholes, Ned Hanlon, the Argonauts, and the Winnipeg crew, which won the Stewarts' Cup, have been then if nothing else, a splendid advertisement for Canada.

But rowing does more than advertise. It develops pre-eminently certain moral qualities. A crew must pull together to be any good at all. Rowing teaches co-operation and teaches one to think of the good of the side or of the crew rather than of the individual. Besides that, it develops the body wonderfully; a weakling who takes up rowing should fill out and develop and put on perhaps 25 pounds in weight in a year. In addition it is a sport in which practically all can take part. The man who has considered himself out of everything all his life owing to weak eyes suddenly finds that in rowing he can do well without good eyesight. Rowing is an outdoor sport and an hour or so a day on the water proves a wonderful tonic.

Let us review then the situation in Peterborough. We have wonderful facilities for rowing. We have the river both below and above the city, we have Little Lake, I suppose more than a mile long and we have the canal. The canal appears to be the best place to row for several reasons. It is straight, and there is a tow path along which the coach could follow the crew either on a bicycle or on horseback.

Peterborough might build its own boats. We have a well-known canoe factory here which, they say, can build everything from a dug-out to a yacht. The University of Toronto crew built their own eight last year under Professor Loudon's supervision.

If Peterborough wants to turn out men to win the Grand Challenge Cup and the Diamond Sculls she should have about a hundred little Hanlons out on the water in fours, eights and sculling boats as soon as the ice has left the river.

"Catch 'em young," as Shakespeare says. But one will not see little Hanlons out in the river unless kind people like the Kiwanis or similar organizations of public-minded citizens provide the future generation with boats.

The cost of boats is where the catch comes in. A clinker four ought to be built here at about $350, I think, and a clinker eight perhaps $500. A boat-house of cheap lumber could be built for $200. If $2,000 were forthcoming rowing in Peterboro could be revived, and if the work were begun soon enough there is no reason why Peterboro Boat Club should not be represented at the Canadian Henley at St. Catharines in July.

Nor is it necessary that a revival in rowing should be limited to Peterborough. Lindsay on the Scugog, Lakefield, Campbellford and Trenton on the Trent, Belleville on the Moira and Lake Ontario, and Kingston on the Rideau Canal are all admirably placed for rowing and could support lusty, thriving rowing clubs, and where Peterboro leads the way, who should be unwilling to follow? said Mr. Kingsford in conclusion.

SNOWSHOE CLUB OUTING

The second mid-weekly hike of the Peterboro Ski and Snowshoe Club was held last evening, and proved to be just as enjoyable an affair as the opening meeting. Last night about 25 of the members, on skis and snowshoes, proceeded to the home of Joseph Clancy, in Otonabee where they spent a very jolly evening in dancing and singing, followed by the service of bountiful refreshments. The party returned home shortly after midnight, and report excelent service from the Street Railway Company, whose cars met them at the end of the line, and conveyed the different members home.

HELD SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT KNOX

Local Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers Hear Interesting Address Given by Bob Rourke of Brockville.

In Knox Church Sunday School-room last evening, a meeting of Trail Rangers and Tuxis Boys was held, and addressed by Bob Rourke, of Brockville, Minister of Finance for the Boys' Parliament, who explained the system by which the Trail Rangers and Tuxis Boys of Ontario propose to raise a fund of $6,000 for carrying on their work during the coming year. During its recent session in Toronto, the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament decided to take the responsibility of leadership in the campaign for raising funds, which begins on Saturday, January 19th.

A great deal of the money will be given by the boys themselves, and the proceeds will be turned over to the Ontario Boys' Work Board, which represents the Protestant forces of Ontario that are co-operating in the promotion of the programmes of the Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers.

The Ontario Boys' Work Board has during the past year given leadership to 800 registered Trail Ranger and Tuxis Boys' groups, has assisted boys' work in 273 different communities, has promoted 10 district camps, had provided a leadership training camp for leaders, has made possible 10 Older Boys' and Leaders' training conferences, and has also made possible the Older Boys' Parliament. It has also given a good deal of leadership to the Father and Son Movement and has distributed $400 worth of literature to leaders that were looking for help.

HARRY THATCHER BECK FUNERAL THIS MORNING

In a brief address delivered at the funeral services in the chapel of the Little Lake Cemetery this morning on the occasion of the interment of the late Harry Thatcher Beck, M.A., of Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Archdeacon J. C. Davidson of Toronto, formerly of Peterboro, said he had come to join the mourners in respect for the son of the late Rector of St. John's church and a former citizen of Peterborough. The late Mr. Beck was always interested in the city and particularly in St. John's church.

The Archdeacon was also present as an officer of the diocese, to do honor to the memory of one of the leaders of the Diocesan Synod and a painstaking and faithful member for a great many years of several of the most important Synod committees. The late Mr. Beck was a devoted churchman and would be greatly missed in the church in Toronto, and the Diocese. The Archdeason bore to the relatives the warm sympathy of the Bishop of Toronto.

The Archdeacon officiated at the brief service, assisted by Rev. R. C. Blagrave. The late Mr. Beck was a brother of Mrs. Arthur Stevenson of this city.

CONSERVATIVE WOMEN KEEPING THEIR POWDER DRY FOR NEXT FIGHT

Launching a Permanent Organization to Maintain the Spirit That Restored West Peterboro to the Party's Support.

ELECTED OFFICERS.

That the Women's Liberal-Conservative Association of West Peterborough is a live organization, full of political vitality, was clearly manifested yesterday afternoon, when some 65 intelligently enthusiastic members gathered in annual session in Hooper's parlors. Apart from the election of officers for the current year, the meeting was featured by a pronounced attitude of active loyalty to the Conservative cause and unqualified confidence in its leaders, while a spirit of campaign preparedness for the next Federal elections was also in evidence.

W. H. Bradburn, the local member of the Legislature, was present and congratulated the ladies on their past, present and pledged future activities within West Peterborough riding.

Officers Elected

All the retiring officials were re-elected. They are:

Mrs. W. H. Bradburn, Hon. Pres.
Mrs. Howard Fallis, President.
Mrs. S. T. Medd, First Vice-Pres.
Mrs. F. E. Miller, Second Vice-Pres.
Mrs. Roland Denne, Secretary.
Mrs. George Evans, Treasurer.

This was on motion by Mrs. Joseph Mills and Mrs. Skinner, and the re-election was practically unanimous.

New Officials

A motion by the same mover and seconder resulted in the list of officials being added to as follows:

Mrs. James Kendry, Hon. Vice-Pres.
Miss Bell Morgan, Third Vice-Pres.

A Permanent Club

An innovation in feminine Conservative politics here was the organization of a permanent Women's Liberal-Conservative Club, to meet once a month, and the date of the first gathering will be announced in the press. This proposition was sponsored by Miss Peck and Mrs. Freeman, after having been strongly advocated by President Mrs. Fallis.

In heartily endorsing the formation of the club, W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., declared such a body would tend to keep together in active unity the whole Liberal-Conservative organization. "And," he added, "it is necessary that the women's branch should be kept intact, for we do not know how soon a Federal election will be sprung upon the country, in which circumstances the Conservative cause would be bolstered and stimulated by the ladies' campaign preparedness. We men," he said, "are going to meet in Victoria Hall on February 22, for the purpose of keeping our political organization together"; and he was pleased to see that the women had permanently organized; for it is desirable that they keep acquainted one with the other, he concluded, retaining touch with vital party matters and regularly discussing current political, provincial and Dominion conditions.

On motion by Mesdames Touchbourne and Miller, the club's fee was fixed at 25 cents.

Vote of Confidence

During the afternoon the following resolutions were adopted by a unanimous standing vote

Moved by Mrs. Jas. Kendry, seconded by Mrs. B. M. Galbraith, that be it resolved that we, the members of the Women's Liberal-Conservative Association for West Peterborough, do express our confidence in the Honorable G. Howard Ferguson, K.C., M.P.P., and in his Cabinet and its policies, and express our grateful acknowledgement of the force and ability which he has shown as Leader of the Conservative party in the Province of Ontario.

Moved by Mrs. Chas. Wright, seconded by Mrs. J. D. Craig, that be it resolved that this meeting of the Women's Liberal-Conservative Association for West Peterborough place on record an expression of our loyalty to our great leader, Right Honorable Arthur Meighen, K.C., M.P., recognizing in him, as we do, a gifted statesman, a brilliant leader and a broad-minded exponent of the principles of the Liberal-Conservative party of Canada.

Congratulations

On motion by Mrs. S. T. Medd and Mrs. Joseph Mills, the meeting telegraphed congratulations to the newly organized Eastern Ontario Liberal-Conservative Association then in session at Ottawa.

Very Gratifying

In opening the meeting, President Mrs. Howard Fallis expressed, for herself and fellow officials, hearty gratification at the large turn-out of members, and also pleasure at seeing not a few new faces present, thus exemplifying the fact that this organization is able to win recruits for a worthy cause.

Pointing out that the Women's Liberal-Conservative Association had been organized on May 10, 1923, she explained that it had been deemed advisable to call its annual meeting for this afternoon, as the men were to gather for permanent organization purposes next month.

Secretary's Report

Secretary Mrs. Roland Denne read the minutes of the May meeting, and in her report of activities since then stressed the fact that the Conservative party here had experienced a wonderful year, not only in the election for this, riding of W. H. Bradburn, but also in helping to elect Hon. G. Howard Ferguson as Premier of Ontario by a sweeping majority. "With such encouragement as this," she concluded, "it is in our own interests to maintain and improve our organization for work from time to time, and to be prepared for the next Federal elections, which are bound to be staged at no very late date."

The President here took occasion to laud Mrs. Denne's wonderful efforts in the June campaign, and the execution of her secretarial duties generally. She also eulogized the executive and other members as splendid workers, whose earnest co-operation found hearty appreciation by herself and colleagues.

Premier Acclaimed

During the course of a masterly address and concise report of the Liberal-Conservative convention in Toronto, President Mrs. Howard Fallis said she had been particularly struck by the unbounded enthusiasm of the 600 or 800 delegates there gathered, and by the acclaims showered upon Premier Ferguson who, whenever he put in an appearance, was "cheered to the skies." She also emphasized the Premier's denial that he aspired to replace Hon. Arthur Meighen as leader of the Conservatives at Ottawa, and she also vouched for it that that convention in Toronto wished for no other leader of their party in Canada but Mr. Meighen, in whom they had explicit confidence.

Eulogizing Agricultural Minister Martin as one of the very strongest men in a very strong Ontario Cabinet, Mrs. Fallis endorsed his policy of selected immigration to eliminate the past evil of unskilled farm help coming to Canada and eventually drifting to the cities and swelling the army of unemployed. She vigorously protested against Regina Board of Commerce's proposition for wholesale German immigration to this country, contending that so long as able-bodied, full-blooded men in the British Isles are willing to immigrate to Canada they should be given the preference above all foreigners. Citing her own experience in the West, but not wishing to foster after-war prejudices, and referring to the claim in some quarters that the Germans out there were loyal to Canada during the war, she could vouch for it that some of them were a long way from being loyal to the British Empire at that time. And stressing the old custom of German and Austrian settlers in the northwest of segregating in groups, many of their women not speaking a word of English and in one instance Austrian children being taught allegiance to Emperor Francis Joseph alone, she emphasized that it is the duty of all Canadians to see that foreigners are Canadianized as quickly as possible.

Higher Protection

Turning to the question of tariff, Mrs. Fallis agreed with Hon. Mr. Martin that greater protection for Canadian fruit growers is needed in the face of some $9,000,000 worth of pears, apples and plums being imported from the United States; and, she contended, it does seem that Canadians might suffer a little hardship—if hardship it would be—by giving preference to home grown products rather than encouraging the yearly flooding of their markets with early berries from the Southern States.

Pointing out that Ontario had won first prize in England for its honey, bacon and eggs, and that the Ferguson administration had since its inception fostered that trade with the British Isles, she could safely say, she declared, that Hon. G. Howard Ferguson was already putting Ontario on the map in the Mother Country so far as farm products are concerned.

Organization

In regard to women's Conservative associations in their broader sense, Mrs. Fallis said the slogan of all staunch Conservative women should be for thorough organization in every riding in Canada before the next general elections. At the Convention in Toronto she had urged the appointment of a lady organizer to organize Liberal-Conservative women in every single constituency, but that proposition had been defeated by two votes, although the question will be brought up again. It was held by some that where women really wanted to organize they would quickly ask for an organizer, but her view was that many ladies are not really interested in the matter until they see an association started, if by but half a dozen enthusiasts, after which such organization quickly grows.

Drury's Bedrooms

The gifted speaker here criticized the late Drury Government for its expenditure of $7,000 in furnishing bedrooms for its ministers, to say nothing of the famous Drury coal scuttle, which furniture only brought something over $3,000 when sold by the Ferguson administration. Those bedrooms, she asserted, were needed by the highways department for offices, to which purpose they have now been converted, saving the rental of rooms outside the parliament buildings.

Confidence in Cause

Speaking for unbounded confidence by Liberal-Conservative women in their cause, together with that intelligent enthusiasm which impels to activity, the President drove home the fact that the Conservative party stands for Imperialism and closer relations with the Mother Land. "We know where our leaders stand," she declared, "in the hour of Empire need, and also that ever since the days of Sir John A. Macdonald Conservatives have stood for a protective tariff. It seems to me," she continued, "that Conservatives are really the only party with a definite national policy, for Premier King is all things to all men, while Mr. Meighen has preached and still preaches protection even in the strongest opposition constituencies. And we went down to defeat in the last Federal elections behind a leader who held firmly for a policy which he believed in the country's best interests."

Mrs. Fallis concluded a truly eloquent address by stressing what she asserted to be Premier King's weakness with a minority government, and emphasizing her optimism for a Conservative vicotry at the next Federal elections.

Sane and Moderate

Mrs. James Kendry, in accepting the post of presiding officer during the election of officers, addressed the gathering in part as follows:

She thought the women in the world today who are seriously studying and actively engaging in politics have chosen the path of intimate knowledge of conditions—practical, sane and moderate in their views, but always pronounced in their convictions. Were women in Canada to adopt those precepts they would seriously appreciate that there is something of vital importance needing attention and that they cannot afford to go on, as heretofore, indifferent to great national issues. If Canada is to be saved to the Empire and to fill the great destiny the Almighty expects of her, the women of Canada must, now that they have been given their franchise—unsolicited—, arise to a sense of their great responsibility.

Mrs. Kendry was exceedingly well pleased with President Fallis' address, which, she said, ought to arouse in every woman present a desire to read more, study more and think more of the great problems of the day.

Attitude Endorsed

On motion by Mesdames Miller and Wright, the meeting heartily indorsed Mrs. Fallis' contention that the government should appoint a lady organizer to the end that a Women's Liberal-Conservative Association be established in every riding.

Dainty refreshments were served at the expense of the Men's Liberal-Conservative Association, and the meeting adjourned after singing the National Anthem.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL ANNUAL MEETING

Want Questionable Quilt Stock Put on the Prohibited List — Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the Local Council of Women was held yesterday afternoon in the green room of the Y.W.C.A., with an attendance of about 25 ladies. Election of officers for the ensuing year was announced, and reports from affiliated societies heard. Miss H. Moffat, convenor of Laws, gave a brief resume of laws affecting women engaged in gainful occupations. The retiring president, Mrs. A. Mowat, occupied the chair, and read the names of those who have been elected for 1924. As Mrs. Mowat observed, it could hardly be called an election this year, as the affiliated societies, sending in lists, had made very slight changes in the personnel of the board of officers. Nominations for president were: Mrs. A. Mowat, Mrs. A. Stevenson, and Mrs. S. R. Armstrong. The latter declined to accept the nomination, Mrs. Mowat refused to take the position for another year, and Mrs. A. Stevenson will be president of the Council for 1924, vacating the position of first vice-president, and automatically moving the other vice-presidents up a step, as follows: 1st Vice-President, Mrs. W. R. Morris; 2nd, Mrs. S. T. Medd; 3rd, Mrs. J. Mills; 4th, Mrs. N. H. Sutton; 5th, Mrs. G. Helson. The recording secretary and treasurer, Mrs. J. Wearing and Mrs. N. D. Seaton, retain their offices, and Mrs. A. Mowat takes the position of corresponding secretary, to replace Miss S. A. Tomkins, who resigned. Convenors of committees are: Mental Hygiene, Miss H. Bonnycastle; Citizenship, Miss A. Lancaster; Conservation of Natural Resources and Education, Mrs. N. H. Sutton; Equal Moral Standard, Mrs. A. Stevenson; Finance, Mrs. N. D. Seaton; Fine and Applied Arts, Mrs. F. C. Neal; Household Economics, Mrs. ... Mann; Immigration, Mrs. M. A. Morrison; Laws and Better Protection of Women and Children, Miss H. Moffat; Professions and Employments for Women, Mrs. J. Mills; Public Health, Dr. Jessie Birnie; Objectionable Printed Matter, Miss A. Walton; Taxation, Mrs. W. R. Morris; Soldiers' Pensions and Dependents, Mrs. W. R. Morris.

Correspondence.

Mrs. Mowat, in the absence of Miss S. A. Tomkins, read the correspondence, and recorded sundry business. It was decided to send $2.50 to the treasurer of the Tenants', Owners' and Ratepayers' Association, to defray half of the expense of renting the hall for the joint meeting of the Association and the Local Council, held before the recent civic elections.

The question regarding the importation and manufacture of oleomargarine, the manufacture of which in Canada ceased last summer, the importation being prohibited also after the first of March next, came up for consideration. The Council decided to co-operate with the desire of the National Council that this matter be re-opened once more in Parliament for consideration at the coming session, and instructed the secretary to write G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., to this effect. It was also decided to memorialize Mr. Gordon and to agree with the action of the National Council in asking an enquiry into the use of old and unsanitary materials as a filling for mattresses, pillows and cushions for domestic use, also as stuffing for a cheaper style of doll. In 22 States of the Union, it was reported, the use of such "quilt stock," as it is called, is prohibited by law.

Mrs. Mowat reminded the members of the request of the W.C.T.U. that a certain type of soap wrapper be saved for them, for use in their Travellers' Aid Work.

Reports.

The report prepared by Miss S. A. Tomkins was read by Mrs. J. Wearing, showing a total of 28 societies in affiliation with the Local Council.

Mrs. N. Seaton read the financial statement. The balance from 1922 was $21.87, fees from affiliated societies $58, contributions from the same $80.20, interest $2.79, making a total of $171.86. Disbursements amounted to $137.16, leaving a balance on hand of $34.70. The thanks of the president and executive were extended to the affiliated societies for their generous response to the appeal made during the year for contributions to the exchequer.

Reports from the affiliated societies were read by the following: Mrs. J. J. Pollock, for the King Edward Home and School Association; Mrs. N. H. Sutton, for All Saints' Guild; Mrs. B. Law, for the Catholic Women's League; Miss F. Dixon, for the Graduate Nurses and the Nicholls' Hospital Alumnae; Mrs. J. Black, for the Ladies' Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A., recording the amount of over $1,000 spent during the past year for relief work among ex-soldiers' families and dependents; Mrs. L. McLaren, for the Peter Robinson Chapter of the I.O.D.E.; Miss E. Might, for the Missionary Society of George Street Methodist Church; Mrs. C. B. Adair, for the Queen Mary Home and School Association; Mrs. K. Simpson, for the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association; Mrs. F. McCarthy, for the Central Home and School Association. (A note in this report was to the effect that the Association is giving a prize for the best reader in the school, an innovation commented on by the president); Mrs. E. W. Borbridge, for St. John's C. W. A.; Mrs. F. C. Neal, for the Women's Art Association; Miss A. Carver, for the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of Trinity Methodist Church; Mrs. W. Lundy, for the Women's Auxiliary of All Saints' Church; Mrs. W. R. Morris, for the Women's Canadian Club; Miss Helen Bonnycastle, for the Women Teachers' Guild; Miss Leta Brownscombe, for the Y.W.C.A., and Mrs. M. A. Morrison, for the W.C.T.U. Mrs. Morrison, speaking of the work of the W.C.T.U., said that the popular idea with regard to the society that its aim was to deprive people of everything they liked, asserted that the chief object in view was to save the boyhood of the land from contamination by use of the cigarette.

A motion was passed, acceding to the request of the Ladies' Aid Society of Mark Street Methodist Chuch, for affiliation with the Local Council.

A representative from the Council to serve on the executive of the local Social Hygiene Council was appointed, in Mrs. B. Gardiner.

Mrs. Mowat brought to the attention of the meeting a request of Mrs. A. Calder, a local poetess, who is desirous of publishing a collection of 200 of her own poems, at a cost of about $400, and is asking the members to subscribe for 200 copies of the volume, at $2 each.

President's Address.

Mrs. A. Mowat, retiring president, spoke briefly on the work of the Local Council, referring to its activities in connection with the Well Babies' Clinic, school playgrounds and bathing beaches. Mrs. Mowat advocated the institution of a public toboggan slide in the city, and alluded to matters brought up at the recent Georgetown Conference, with regard to the part that might be played by women in the work of the League of Nations. The appalling death-rate among infants and mothers at child-birth, the problem of the mentally deficient, and the need of supervision of objectionable literature, were also considered as worthy of consideration by the members. At the Georgetown Conference, Mrs. Mowat said, the convenor on Objectionable Literature came armed with a long list of magazines of the objectionable class, whose contents were eagerly devoured, it was reported, by the young girls and boys who constituted the majority of their readers

Laws For Women.

Miss Hazel Moffat gave an interesting, short report on laws that affect women in mercantile and factory life. In Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick the maximum working hours for women is one of sixty hours, with a ten-hour day. Most of the provinces allow an hour for the noon-day meal, with Nova Scotia shortening it to forty-five minutes. Factories must not employ women in occupations that would injure their health and must provide a comfortable chair, rather than a stool or bench. In Ontario, women are forbidden to work in mines, other than in a clerical capacity. Manitoba has many laws governing the cause of women at work, both with regard to hours and holidays.

The majority of the provinces make it necessary for the store employer of female labor to provide his employees with a chair and to allow them to use it, when not busy.

In British Columbia, no white women are allowed to work for Orientals. All the provinces, with the exception of Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, have minimum wage laws. In Nova Scotia and Quebec, they are now yet in force.

In the Yukon Territory and all the provinces, with the exception of Quebec, there are laws protecting the earnings of married women for their own use.

Sarah Brown

Sarah Brown had been a healthy girl, but soon afer her marriage she began to be interested in symptoms and within a year she had become one of the most enthusiastic invalids one could find in a day's journey. She felt her pulse at frequent intervals and lay about the house all day in a silk dressing gown; and on the infrequent occasions when she appeared in public she admitted very reluctantly that she felt little better, but added that she didn't seem able to gain any strength and that she had about given up hope.

Her husband petted her unceasingly and kept one or more women about the premises to do the work, so that Sarah had no other responsibility than the business of worrying about each new symptom that appeared.

Her malady baffled the local doctors, who atttended her regularly, and Sarah talked a great deal about the advisability of taking a trip to Europe to consult great specialists; but nothing came of this ambition, and her husband sickened and died and left her without a dollar.

Everbody said the shock would kill Sarah; but she bore up well at the funeral service, and after a few days she was out on the street looking for a job. She is clerking at The Hub now and her eyes shine with pleasure when people tell her how well she is looking. When people ask if she never is sick any more, she says she hasn't time to be sick.

Famous Guys

OSCOLA was a Seminole Indian chief with a white father and a Creek mother. He lived unhappily and died in prison because he dared to fight for his country and for liberty.

The Seminoles lived in Florida. Florida was theirs by right of discovery and long settlement. Then came the white man with his guns and greed, and by right of superior force negotiated a treaty under whose provision the Seminoles were to give up Florida and accept a new home in Arkansas. Arkansas to them meant nothing except a strange land a long way from home.

The old Seminole chiefs would have led their people peacefully away, but Oscola organized the hot-headed youngsters and began to make futile warfare. If the warfare was futile, it was at least troublesome to the white man, and before the end came there were eight thousand white soldiers in pursuit of Oscola and his little band.

The end was inevitable. One by one the older Seminole chiefs despaired of gaining anything and gave up, but Oscola held out in the everglades and was undone at last by the white man's treachery.

He died in prison—heartily cursed by civilized folk because he was a savage and opposed the march of progress. It is wicked, as you know, to fight for freedom if our crowd is doing the oppressing.

THE BUTCHER BOY AND HIS BRIDE — A NARROW ESCAPE

"I was watching from the door of the market and I never had seen Hiram work so hard."

The girl across the street came over last night as were were eating supper, settled into a chair with a vast sigh of relief, and ventured the opinion that bad luck had decided to give her and Hiram a rest.

"When our new house burned and then right on top of that this new man opened up a rival butcher shop," said she, "I thought our bad luck would never let up. But we've just had the narrowest and most wonderful escape, and you mustn't tell a soul or we'll be ruined.

"This is the way it happened. You know Hiram buys yearlings and dry cows from the farmers, and once in a while some good farmer will kill to get fresh meat for himself and just keep a hind quarter and sell the rest to Hiram.

"Well, Wednesday evening that mean Willis man—the one that lives near the river and beats his wife—drove up to the market with a dressed beef in the back of his wagon and wanted to sell it. He said he had kept a quarter for himself. He was slick enough to bring only three quarters. He had been drinking, and Hiram had never bought from him before; but we needed the beef and so Hiram bought it and paid him cash.

"Well, Hiram hung the meat to cool and locked up, and that night about bed-time Mr. Willis' wife came to our house and called Hiram out and told him not to sell any of that meat. She said the cow had been sick and about to die, and Mr. Willis had killed it to keep from losing it, and had buried one quarter just to fool Hiram.

"Wasn't that a close call? Hiram couldn't say anything, for if a story like that got out nobody would ever buy from us again; and of course Willis couldn't say anything, because folks would run him out of the country. But this afternoon Hiram saw him on the street and walked up to him with a meat cleaver in his hand and made him give back the money, and then he put the meat cleaver down on the sidewalk and sailed into Willis and nearly beat him to death. I was watching from the door of the market and I never had seen Hiram work so hard.

"He'll have to pay a fine, of course; but our reputation is safe, and I don't look for any more bad luck now."

Well, well, let's hope she is right. But to have incurred the hatred of anything as poisonous as Willis isn't what one might call good luck.

Londoner Fond of His Opera

LONDON, Jan. 18 (United Press). —The Londoner does not boast of the number of operas produced here, nor of the world-fame of many of the artists playing leading roles, but he does rise to say that when he likes his music, he likes it.

Witness "The Beggars Opera," which closed here Dec. 17, having enjoyed a run of 1,463 performances. Scenes of intense enthusiasm marked the final rise and fall of the curtain. Some of those present at the old Lyric Theatre, Hammersmith, where the opera was produced, had booked seats for the last performance more than a year before.

As early as six o'clock in the morning a queue began to form in front of the entrance. One of the first ones there was Miss B. Dicketts, of Hurlingham, who has seen the play 100 times. She arrived early, bringing with her, food and books to read during the fourteen hours' wait.

"The Beggars Opera" run is the third longest of any musical play ever produced in London.

YELLED "KOO" AND CENSUS STOPPED

(By JOHN GRAUDENX)

MOSCOW, Jan. 13 (United Press). —A general census of all Russia is planned for 1925. As a preparation the authorities of Turkestaun and similar backward parts of the far-flung land are educating the populace by taking test census.

The need for this was shown in the recent attempt to take a census of Turkestan. It was decided that the only places it could be taken in the cities was in the market places.

The people believed the census-taker was a tax collector. With his servants carrying big books, a sentry posted by the merchants would yell "Koo," and in a few seconds the market place would look like a deserted village. It is claimed that because of the mysterious "Koo" about 2,000,000 people were missed. Just what "Koo" means no one in Moscow knows, but it was an effective alarm.

CUT OFF MOTHER'S NOSE AVOID MARRYING WIDOW

FRANKFORT, Jan. 18 (United Press).—To save himself from marrying an aged and ugly widow, Franz Murn, 21, sliced off his mother's nose while his prospective bride was striding, hastily, down the aisle towards the altar for the wedding ceremony.

Murn's mother bullied him into agreeing to marry the widow Pauline Bernat, 63, owner of a rich farm. The young man agreed to marry the widow in order to restore the Murn family fortunes.

But when he stood by the altar on his wedding day and got a look at the bride, he lost his nerve. He decided on quick action to avert the coming marital doom. The first thing he thought of was to grab the dagger that all Bavarians carry and cut off his mother's nose. The horror-stricken widow dashed out of the church and the wedding was called off.

ENGLAND EXPECTS A RAILWAY STRIKE

Labor Leader Has Been Trying to Avert Tie-up on Roads.

LONDON, Jan. 18. — (United Press).—England is hurriedly preparing to face a general railway strike which, it is announced, will be declared Sunday. The strike comes on the eve of the assumption of power in Britain by a Labor Government. Arthur Henderson, Labor leader, who has been trying to avert the strike, spent Thursday in conference with both managers and union officials. "As the result of what I have been told in visits to both sides, I see no prospect of avoiding the strike," he said late Thursday.

A sidelight in the situation is the fact that racing authorities have completed arrangements to transport their horses to race tracks on motor trucks in the event the strike comes.

Meanwhile new labor troubles loomed Thursday as delegates representing 625,000 coal miners voted to terminate the existing wage agreement with the owners. The agreement will be terminated on April 17, it was announced.

STEEL AIRPLANES USED FOR DEFENSE

Men Recruited for Air Service in England

LONDON, Jan. 18. — (United Press).—A group of all steel airplanes, said to be capable of attaining an altitude of 20,000 feet within eight minutes of leaving the ground, are being built for the defence of England. The Air Ministry has just issued orders for the recruiting of 400 men, 350 of whom are to be commissioned and placed in charge of new machines, which will be part of England's home defence forces.

ADVERTISING REDUCES THE RETAIL PRICES.

Dealers who loudly proclaim that advertising shoots up the price to the consumer can usually be set right by the logic that advertising increases sales and production, and that greater production makes possible larger purchases of raw material at lower prices, which are reflected back to the consumer.

But some dealers can't visualize this and it is necessary to get down to cases and show just how much of a burden of advertising big nationally known lines carry.

One overall manufacturer said, as nearly as he could figure it, the advertising on a suit was equal to one of the buttons!

Several years ago the California Fruit Growers' Exchange did some figuring. The yearly output was 33,082 carloads of oranges, lemons and grapefruit, which sold for $54,600,000. It is said that the cost of their advertising, consisting of pages in color in the most expensive magazines, spread over this sum, showed a "burden" of one-fifth of 1 per cent. per dozen! But previously and without advertising their retail prices had been high and their scope very much restricted.

About the same time, a large manufacturer of breakfast foods also did a little sum in proportion. He spent $1,000,000 that year on advertising and sold $123,000,000 worth of goods—four-fifths of 1 per cent. for advertising.

According to that the advertising tax on a dollar watch equals the value of the hands, on a fountain pen, the value of the feed, on an advertised collar, the cost of the thread on one button hole, and so forth.

Really, these are not advertising costs at all, but price reducers.—Merchandising Advertising.

WESTERN KNIGHT IS FARNUM'S NEW ROLE

However swashbuckling, debonair and quixotic the knights of the Continent were and be their braggadocio real or feigned, they do not possess, for the average American the appeal of the honest-to-goodness, two-fisted hig-heavy cowpunchers of our old west.

With this though in mind William Farnum set to work to bring before the American public the person of Billy Buell, a man long sung in the saga of the Southwest.

The completed production of William Fox is called "The Gun Fighter" and will open at the Regent Theatre to-day for a 3 days engagement. John Frederick, the cinema-plume of Max Brand the popular novelist, in searching among the obscure litanies of the Southwest for a suitable story for William Farnum struck the tradition on which "The Gun Fighter" is based.

Many years ago, before California was as populous as it is to-day, the Cascade Valley held a carnage of which outsiders heard bloody tales. Two families holding exclusive rights to the valley were at each other's throats, in one of the most fearful and envenomed feuds in the world's history. Billy Buell, a steel nerved adventurer, was resonsiblp for its end, after each family had experienced seventeen years of heart rending loss.

AT THE ROYAL.

RAWLINSON IN PRIZE RING STORY A HIT AT THE ROYAL.

Herbert Rawlinson has become a member of the cauliflowered-eared gentry: to wit, he has become a pugilistic gentleman.

The romantic hero of many Universal crook dramas makes his initial appearance in the role of a prize-fighter in "The Victor," which opened last night at the Royal Theatre. It is a part far afield from the type in which he is so well known to the motion picture public, but the popularity of the production proves that the public will accept its heroes under any colors.

Not that Rawlinson doesn't fit into the role of the sport story. He carries off the part with the finesse of a tried veteran of the prize ring and displays remarkable ability with the boxing gloves. In a way the role is rather fortunate for him, for it proves to his admirers that he is an athletic chap and a real fighter. For the public likes an actor, but it also likes that actor to be a man.

Rawlinson is so perfect as the polished gentleman type that it is rather startling and thoroughly pleasant to see him sweating through the gruelling rounds of a prize-fight.

The story is woven around the experiences of a young Englishman who was sent to America by his father, a nobleman, to marry a millionairess and save the mortgaged castle. The thing sounds simple enough, but an amazing lot of entertainment is developed from the theme.

EXCELLENT VAUDEVILLE FOR LAST HALF OF WEEK AT THE ROYAL.

The patrons of the Royal mustered in great force last night and gave evidence of being exceptionally pleased with the entertainment provided for them. Every turn was enthusiastically received. The Honan, Wayne and Honan Trio billed as the one-man street car is the feature act. The dancing and contortion work of one of the lady members is very good indeed. The comedy and songs are all new, and this act registered a decided hit. Myers and Sterling have a singing and talking offering that is cleverly put over and has the added novelty of being different from anything seen locally in some time. Our own Danny Simmons made the same hit as he always makes. His impersonation of the late Theodore Roosevelt at the finish of his act is a "wow." It's a good show.

AT THE CAPITOL.

The elemont of reality is perhaps the most noticeable thing about a picture that is distinctly out of the ordinary; "Pleasure Mad," the feature for the Capitol Theatre entertainment this week. A very appreciative audience watched the unfolding of the story last night. It is one of those intensely absorbing productions that comes along occasionally in the realm of movie-land, where the actors seem to be real figures enacting real stories of life and passion, rather than puppets pulled by invisible strings. What might be the fate of observers such a picture, should Fate push them into just such circumstances, is the idea that unweaves itself through an interesting series of reels.

Hugh Benton is the small-town man who has big desires, and dreams of the day when his pet invention will bring wealth for self and family. Marjorie, his wife is the traditional mother, caring for home and children All the little happenings of ordinary domestic life are illustrated in the section devoted to the poor days of the Bentons. When her husband is ill, she takes in sewing, uncomplainingly sits up at night to complete a dress for the daughter's first birthday party dance.

Then comes the money, pouring in from a successful invention, and logically and effectively, comes the change also in the Bentons. They go "pleasure mad," all but the dark haired, quiet mother. Folly descends on the daughter's head, drink brings the young lovable son to dark hours and a sparkling widow, Mrs. Geraldine de Lacey, vamps the young looking father. Inexorably, the hour approaches when the mother hears from her husband, desire to obtain a divorce and marry the younger more brilliant woman. In the decision of the children which follows, the daughter follows the father, and the son stays with the mother, in a dramatic scene.

Just when everything seems dark for the devoted woman, who has the sympathy of the audience from the first, logically again Fate steps in. The daughters infatuation for Templeton Druid, a divorced man about town, leads to a near tragedy which clears up the atmosphere admirably. A unique touch to the picture is given by the inevitable reaction to the real true character which comes to everyone of the principal actors in turn. An interesting departure in psychological treatment of screen characters is one of the most entertaining variations of "Pleasure Mad," adapted from Blanche Upright's novel, "The Valley of Content."

The comedy which accompanies the feature is a really laughable juvenile comedy, "Over the Fence," in which boyhood days are vividly recalled, in the adventures of the young-leader, Speck, who is transformed into a petted, curled darling by the whim of his rich aunt, and proceeds to mix things up pretty generally for the poor lady.

Some of the smaller films are very interesting showing to just what length the ingenious artists of the screen are progressing in their animated cartoon work.

AT THE GRAND.

A WONDERFUL SHOW

Dante, the European magician, who opened a three day engagement at the Grand last evening, succeeded easily in proving to the satisfaction of a big audience that he is by long odds the greatest and cleverest mystifier that has been seen in Peterboro. His programme is presented under the auspices of that famous magician, Thurston, who has never appeared before a Peterboro audience, and the verdict of those who saw the performance was that Thurston's work must border on the miraculous if it surpasses in variety, interest and genius the series of tricks and illusions so cleverly presented by Dante.

There are so many of these tricks that it would be impossible in the limited space of a newspaper review to mention them all even briefly. Dante, different from many of his craft seen here, does not kill time with long explanations, paving the way for shop-worn illusions, but on the contrary works at top-speed, one feat following another with a rapidity that justifies the note on the programme: "If you nod to a friend you miss a trick." And his repertoire is so varied and so complete that the performance is never tiring. Dante has a fund of wit at his disposal, too, and he makes the programme a series of surprises enlivened with comedy.

If you see two or three people violently arguing about something today you will be safe in concluding that the controversy is not over the police salaries or hockey prospects, but involves some of Dante's illusions as put over last night. Likely the subject will be the famous trick of apparently sawing a woman in two, one of the big numbers on the programme of the great triple mystery, in which a young woman disappears from the stage, and when a trunk is lowered from the second balcony over the heads of the audience the missing girl is discovered locked inside.

Dante does about everything any magician ever performed here and in addition dozens of other tricks seen for the first time. And not one is done slovenly. Card tricks, stunts with coins and handkerchiefs, making pigeons out of the air mysterious disappearances, spirit manifestations, one bewildering illusion after another, keep the audience mystified from start to finish. The stage settings are the most elaborate that any magician has used here and so many effects are used that it is no wonder that two railway cars are required to transport them. A large corps of assistants are also needed in the various illusions, and the show is by long odds the biggest thing of its kind the Grand has ever staged.

A big feature is the Ghost Woman, who answers questions from the audience without hesitation and with surprising accuracy. None of the usual preparation is required for this act. The questions are not written on pads or anything of that kind, the audience being merely asked to concentrate on their questions and at the same time on their names or initials. And at the end of it all, when Dante withdraws the robes that surround the Gnost Woman, it is found that she has apparently vanished into thin air.

Edna D. Herr, lady escapist, scores in a special feature. She is strapped in a straight jacket, locked in a trunk, which is covered with securely tied canvas, and escapes in less than a minute. How? Better go and see it. You can figure it out for yourself.

Dante's closing number is an imitation of the Chinese court magicians, and is reproduced with true Oriental splendour. Miniature water falls and a myriad of streams of water spurting mysteriously from everywhere are a big feature of this illusion, and it is a fitting close to a programme surpassing in interest anything of the same nature ever seen here.

Dante will be at the Grand again to-night, and will give two performances to-morrow.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

THE TWEEDLES GET HOME

"How do you do?" said a voice.

When the travelers landed in Balloon Land the magic dustpan dumped them off right beside the forest where the baby balloons were growing.

"How do you do?" said a voice, and there stood a large paper elephant balloon that had floated up to Balloon Land on the Fourth of July.

"How d' do!" answered Daddy Gander. "Did you see two little fellows come this way, Mister Elephant? Each of them was holding onto a big bunch of circus balloons and they blew away with them. I mean the balloons blew away with the little boys The boys didn't blow away with the balloons."

The balloon elephant was just about to answer, when they heard Mother Coose's voice say, "Here, Mister Man, I'll take that yellow balloon, and that silver balloon, and the red one with a white cat painted on it, and the green one that looks like a watermelon, and that pretty blue one, and those two white ones. My! Your balloon crop is a fine one this year. I never saw them grow so large before. Cut them all off the tree for me at once as I'm in a hurry. I must go back to Mother Goose Land because it's circus day. I want these extra fine balloons for some of my little friends."

"Dear me! Oh, dear me!" gasped poor Daddy Gander. "It's Mother Goose herself! She mustn't see us for she'd never understand anything."

But no sooner had he spoken than Tweedle Dum and Tweedle Dee appeared, still holding onto their balloons, or rather the balloons still holding onto them, for by this time the strings were so tangled they couldn't have let go if they'd wanted to.

"How on earth did you two ever get up here?" cried Mother Goose breathlessly.

Then the Tweedles told her the whole story. How they had been down watching the circus come in and how the balloon-man had asked them to hold his balloons for a minute. And how a wind had come along and carried them up to the sky before they could let go.

"Well, I'll take you both home on my broom," said Mother Goose, but suddenly she thought of something. "My goodness! I forgot! I'll have to jump on my broom at once and go up to Bluster Gust Land and tell Mister Sprinkle Blow to send nice weather for the circus. I don't know how to get you home."

At that Daddy Gander stepped out, and so did Nancy and Nick and the circus man, who had come along. "Hello, mother!" said Daddy Gander heartily. "I will take them home. I brought my magic dustpan along and it's big enough to hold everybody."

Mother Goose wasn't a bit cross. "All right, Daddy," she said. "And be careful that nobody falls off."

So everybody was happy and Missez Tweedle got her boys home safely.

A WORD TO THE WISE

CARE OF THE HANDS

(By HELEN GRANVILLE BUTLER)

Manicuring properly includes not only the care of the nails but also the treatment of the hands and arms. The beauty of a hand depends not so much upon its shape as the condition in which it is kept. The hands are an indication of age. Therefore, anyone who wishes to preserve a youthful appearance must give special attention to the hands.

If you are in the habit of working about the house, dusting and dish washing, protect your hands by the use of rubber or cotton gloves. After dusting be sure to wash your hands thoroughly. Use a piece of lemon to help in the cleansing; work it around the hails and dig the fingers well into the rind. There is nothing better for removing stains and dirt. After dishwashing rub a little cream, or better, olive oil on your hands in order to counteract the drying effect of the water. If you do not care to use cream or oil on your hands use a hand lotion of some sort; a honey and almond cream or a glycerine and rose water preparation will be very satisfactory.

Your hand, to show to the best advantage, should be smooth and supple. The fingers should be slender and the flesh firm. Careful massaging will bring about the desired effect. Treatment should not stop at the wrist but include the arm itself. When you are giving yourself a manicure begin by massaging your hands and arms. First, be sure they are clean. Wash them carefully in warm water and pure soap, if necessary use a cleansing cream, but daily use of the lemon as suggested above should obviate the necessity for a cream. Now exercise the fingers and wrist. Clench the fist and then relax it completely; do this several times but not enough to tire the hand. Next rotate the thumb in order to bring the muscles of the wrist into play. Now move the whole hand back and forth and round and round. After the hand and fingers have been well exercised relax the muscles and let them rest for a few minutes. Then take a skin food or olive oil and give the massage. Begin at the finger tips and mould the fingers, pushing the cuticle on the nails well back. Work the skin about in order to fill out the hollows or reduce any swellings. Use a rotary motion of the finger tips and be sure to maintain a light firm touch in order to stimulate and not bruise the skin. Continue the same rotary motion up the arm. Give particular attention to the elbows—the skin here is apt to become coarse and rough. When the oil is well worked in wipe the hands and arms carefully with an astringent or witch hazel and then powder them. You are then ready to do your nails.

Besides the actual treatment of your hands, watch their movements. Nothing detracts so from the quiet charm of a woman as unnecessary gesticulation or constant prominence of the hands. Unless you are actually using your hands leave them in your lap. Make it a rule to keep them down from your face—not only is it unattractive but very unsanitary. Never allow yourself to snap the joints or play with your fingers. You injure the appearance of your hands and also make your friends nervous.

Watchfulness in the matter of cleansing and massaging will reward you with dainty and well-shaped hands.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE FINAL UNION

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER:

Sir:—The final union of all churches is only a matter of time. We can see it coming. While I respect the loyalty of the old upholders of the Old Protestant faith to their various beliefs, I would ask: "Is it not true that we all admit that all people who believe in the Lord Jesus Christ will be saved? Why should not all believers then unite in the face of the terrible storm threatening us? In Britain we see the mighty Church of England, the State Church and independent of its people for all expenses, not once but repeatedly and through its highest officials, seeking union with the original church. The first step will undoubtedly be the return of vast numbers of the Church of England to the original Church while many will join the other churches all now hurrying in the same direction. The spirit of union and of forgiveness is in the air and we ought to read the signs of the times and submit to the manifest will of God. Protestants necessarily have no authorized traditions and without their Bible they are without any further reason for continuing. The original church was all its traditions handed down to it from the beginning in tact and regards the Bible as part of that tradition, part of the original instructions given to the Church by God Himself.

The Settlement Committee of the United Church of Canada undoubtedly takes its pattern in the divine order committed to the ruling bodies of the original church. The Settlement Committee is as its name implies, a new and powerful ruling body which no longer leaving the government of churches to themselves, introduces for the first time the necessity of obedience on the part of congregations to the new authorities of the new Church. The new system is beyond doubt copied from the original church. The drift therefore of all Protestantism is towards the unity of and union with the Original Church. That Protestantism is in no condition to impose terms of union is, of course, manifest. It will not be long until the sheep are all found and restored to the fold of the only Church that has preserved the Bible and its faith in tact. Surely it is plain that the wild wanderings of Protestants in the pulpit and out of it must come to an end sooner or later. Why not let it end sooner?

NEW RECORDS IN SPRINT SKATING

Gladys Robinson, Toronto, Set Up New Mark at Pittsfield For Hundred Yards.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., January 18 (Canadian Press). — The world's records were broken on Onota Lake yesterday by Everett McGowan, of St. Paul, Minn., and Miss Gladys Robinson, of Toronto, who set new marks for skating 100 yards.

McGowan, skating 100 yards paced ,covered the distance in 51-2 seconds. He was able to keep up with the automobile which paced him, and which, the timers said, attained a maximum speed of 52 miles an hour.

The amateur women's record for 100 yards was broken when Miss Robinson, skating unpaced from a standing start, stablished a mark of 10 2-5 seconds.

The Kitchener squad was too fast for the Toronto team, and they stood the pace better, tallying no less than five goals in the last period and walking away with the verdict. The win put the locals in the lead in their group.

Second Round To-day.

The winners yesterday will play against each other to-day, the schedule being as follows.

At 9.30—W. J. Meiklejohn vs. F. J. Smith; P. J. Kelly vs. R .H. Cole; S. J. Moore vs. D. W. Douglas.

The finals will be played off in the evening.

Capt. P. J .Kelly, president of the Curling Club, has donated four challenge buttons as prizes for the winners of the finals. These badges are gold plated representations of miniature curling stones that any curler will be proud to wear.

A New Curler.

Rev. G. C. Clarke, the recently inducted rector of Christ church, like so many newcomers to Campbellford, has caught the fever and joined the curling club. He played his first game last night, substituting as lead for G. Mason on Skip Douglas' rink ,and no small share of the credit for the victory won over Skip Mulhearn.

Go to Peterborough.

Two rinks, skipped by R. H. Cole and S. J. Moore, will go to Peterborough on Tuesday to take part in the district cup competition. Skip Cole's players are A. J. Meyers, Marshall West and J. Poulton, and Skip Moores' are R .Dunk, C. Weston and J. P. Archer.

Caretaker Cole has the ice at the rink in splendid condition.

FLY AROUND WORLD.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Jan. 18.—(United Press).—An around-the-world-flight is being planned by Clarence O. Prest, local aviator, who has been building a specially designed plane at Las Vegas, Nev. He plans to cross the Pacific via the Behring Straits, fly down the coast of Asia to the Orient, and then cross into Europe. Prest essayed an around-the-world trip last year, but his plane fell in the forests of Alaska and was wrecked.

POLITICIANS SEEK RICKARD'S SCALP

PUBLIC'S FAVORITE PROMOTER FACES STERN FIGHT FOR LIFE IN NEW YORK.

By JOE WILLIAMS.

Tex Rickard thought he had seen everything.

Tex has lived life as is privileged few of the mortals. Jack London would have found him a made-to-order character for one of his western thrillers.

A cow puncher in Texas, a gold miner in Klondike, a faro gambler in Goldfield, a soldier of fortune in South America, and, finally, a sports promoter at once powerful and picturesque, Rickard has had an eventful, stirring career.

But he errs when he thinks he has seen everything. He hasn't seen the intricate inner mechanism of New York politics. The boys are just about ready to show him.

And if they go about it in their usually gifted manner Tex will realize that cleaning out a Nevada saloon with whining bullets was a mere incident in his life.

"Too Big" for the Game.

Rickard has grown too big for the game in New York. He is no longer just a promoter; he is something that approaches an institution. Other promoters may announce championship fights, but the public remains unresponsive. Let Rickard bring two burly brutes together in a title battle and the turnstiles crack under the strain.

The public has confidence in Rickard. His record shows few busts. All of his fights, from the first Gans-Nelson struggle on the far-flung Nevada plains up to the Dempsey-Firpo massacre have been on the square. Rickard levels; he's a straight shooter. That's why the public is for him.

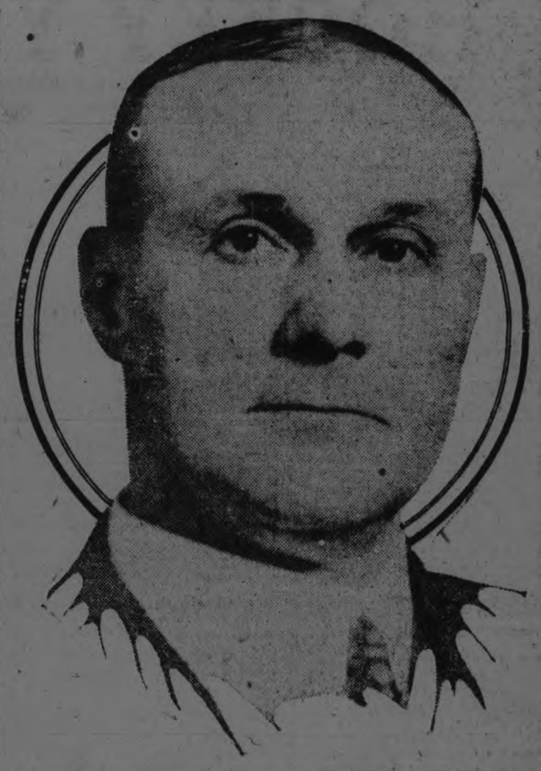
Realizing the security of his position Rickard, it is said, has not sugared the politicians in the extravagant manner to which they are accustomed. Very little graft has rolled out of the Madison Square treasury into the gnarled fists of the ward heelers. Even in the matter of complimentaries a strict and laudable economy has been practiced.

To Run Tex Out?

Wherefore the boys have decided that Rickard must go. The first shot in the campaign of effacement has been fired. A gifted orator in the State Legislature has urged that a maximum admission price of $7 shall prevail at all future championship fights. If this goes through Rickard's spectacular career will automatically end. And if it doesn't go through the boys intend to introduce another bill designed to kill boxing outright.

Rickard in his younger days—he's 53 now—fought himself out of many desperate situations. Most of his foes, however, fought out in the open in upstanding, man-to-man fashion.

Politicians, we are told, look with disfavor upon this vuglar, primitive practice, and if the public's favorite promoter gets anything better than a raw deal in his present difficulty it will be because someone made a mistake.



JUNIOR HOCKEY LEAGUE MEETING

Representatives of Both Junior and Juvenile Teams Requested to Attend Organization Meeting.

Junior and juvenile hockey teams are requested to send representatives to a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce on Saturday evening at 7.30 o'clock when an effort will be made to organize two city hockey league divisions so that the teams may start play next week.

—o—

Billy Cutt and his manager, Willie Buff, returned to Rochester this morning. The visiting boxers were pleased with the reception accorded them here, and expressed a willingness to pay another visit and to take part in two bouts in one night. This was not in the nature of a boast, as the Rochester mitt artists take part in numerous tournaments and are often called upon for semi-final and final bouts on the closing nights of the shows.

—o—

Tonight's the night the juniors should play to a crowded house. The team that gets the lead tonight has the big chance for group honors, total goals on the four games deciding the winner. With so much at stake and fast ice assured, the Lindsay Midgets and the Petes ought to produce a nifty game of the winter pastime.

—o—

Seems funny to have the sport writers size up a Peterborough junior O.H.A. team as a bunch of huskies. The Lindsay publicity man goes a little farther and suggests that as several of the Petes tower above other players, they must be over-age. Down this way local fans have complained that Peterborough juniors were too small and lacked weight.

The employees of the Quaker Oats Company are enjoying open-air skating on a large ice surface prepared for them on the new athletic grounds provided by the company.

THRONG ATTENDED BOXER'S FUNERAL

Frankie Jerome Buried in New York — Crowd of 10,000 Paid Tribute.

NEW YORK, January 18 (Canadian Press). — Frankie Jerome, the "Bronx Spider," was buried yesterday while a vast throng of 10,000 paid tribute to the memory of the bantamweight boxer, who died after taking the count of "ten" for the first and last time at Madison Square Garden last Friday night.

In the shadows of the church, too, there was a silent, tragic figure—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., boxer, whose knockout of Jerome in the twelfth and last round of their fight had resulted in the latter's death two days later from the effects of a ruptured blood vessel.

Taylor, cleared of any blame in connection with Jerome's death, was there to pay homage to one of the gamest antagonists he ever fought—one who kept on until he collapsed.

Assesses Firpo For Marring Furniture

NEW YORK, January 18 (Canadian Press). — Luis Angel Firpo might have won the world's heavyweight championship from Jack Dempsey if he had treated the titleholder as roughly as he did her furniture, Mrs. Mildred Swartzlander asserted yesterday, after being awarded 500.00 damages in the Municipal Court suit against the South American pugilist.

According to Mrs. Swartzlander, the "Wild Bull of the Pampas" leased her West 94th Street apartment for six months, during which time she charges chair and table legs were broken, upholstery ruined, and other articles badly marred.

She declared Firpo failed to pay for any of the damage.

RICKARD FIXES DATE FOR BOUT

Dempsey and Gibbons Matched For 15 Rounds at Polo Grounds In the First Week in June.

NEW YORK, January 18 (Canadian Press). — Jack Dempsey will defend his world's heavyweight title against Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul challenger, in a fifteen-round decision match in New York, probably at the Polo Grounds, the first week in June, Rickard announced yesterday.

The promoter, who announced several days ago that he had arranged the return match between these rivals, revealed further details in denying reports that he planned to stage the bout duriny the Democratic National Convention, which opens here on 4th June, in Madison Square Garden.

At the same time Rickard disclosed that after the Dempsey-Gibbons fight, contracts for which he expects to have signed within a fortnight, his next fistic venture will not take place before the middle of July, when he hopes to stage a heavyweight elimination test between Harry Wills, negro contender, and Luis Angel Firpo, "Wild Bull of the Pampas."

GREAT ICE FOR TONIGHT'S GAME

Lindsay Juniors Expect to Win at Brock Street Rink Over Petes.

The best sheet of ice of the season is available for to-night's Junior O.H.A. game between Lindsay and Peterborough, and as both teams are fast and in good shape, a sterling exhibition of hockey may be looked for.

The Peterborough youngsters hope to overcome the Lindsay lead of one goal, and set up a substantial margin to come and go on during the next two games.

Lindsay, on the other hand, are confident of a victory, claiming that the large ice surface will give their speedy forwards a real chance to perform They have a lot of speed at that, but there are no hobbles in any of the Petes either, and they they claim that they can skate as fast and as long as any outfit Lindsay tosses over the boards.

There was not a let-up in Tuesday's game at Lindsay, and to-night's promises to be even faster.

The first appearance of the Juniors should be greeted with a big crowd of fans, as the youngsters are deserving of support. It is the only O.H.A. game scheduled here for two weeks.

BASKETBALL GAME ON SATURDAY EVE

Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. Are Sending Ten Men Down.

Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. will be here in strength on Saturday night when they meet the locals in what is confidently expected to be one of the best basketball games of the season.

There was a feeling about the Chicago game that the home brews had no chance anyhow and while they put up a wonderful game the excitement of a close score was denied the fans. This will not be the case on Saturday night as Coach Loomis is confident that his stalwarts will make the going fast and step out in front in the scoring. It will be a good game to watch in any event.

There will be a light workout to-night and the following players are particulary requested to turn out—Pogue, DeGraw, Elliott, Stewart, Darling, Hardill, Langford, McLeish and Scott.

Reserved seats for the Saturday game may be obtained at the Y.M.C.A. BOWLI

FIREMEN WERE HOSTS AT A HAPPY BANQUET

Federal, Provincial and Municipal Governments Represented—Chief Gimblett and Men Lauded For Efficiency

MEDALS FOR MEN

The city firemen last night entertained at an enjoyable banquet given in the fire hall, the guests of honor being His Worship Mayor J. J. Turner; G. N. Gordon, K.C.; M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons; W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P. Fire Chief George Gimblett; ex-Mayor W. H. Taylor; Chairman Walter Stocker of the Fire Water and Light Committee; ex-Chairman Joseph Crowe; G. A. Gillespie, an ex-Chairman, and the members of the City Council. Mayor J. J. Turner presided.

Held in the men's dormitory, the banquet from first to last went with eclat that left nothing to be desired. The catering was excellently carried out and the speeches which followed were to the point, sympathetic and appreciative of the work done by firemen in the protection of the city. The new brass pole installed a few weeks ago was a source of much dismay to visitors, the firemen rising from their places periodically and disappearing swiftly through the hole their places being taken by the men whom they relieved on watch duty. Throughout the banquet and the programme which followed the watch room was never without its firemen ready to pass incoming alarms to his festive brethren, but the evening was not marred by a single call.

Mayor Turner in his address called attention to the interpedendance of all branches of civic organization looking toward the good of the city. "The municipality organization is made up of many parts," he said, and every man's job is just as big as the mayor's but we can only have strength and success if we all pull together. The chain is only as strong as its weakest link, and in the chain of municipal government every man must feel he is an important link. Faithfulness, service and pulling together are what count in your really big job. Along pull, a strong pull and a pull all together will put this city over big."

Fireman Frank Degan introduced Chief Gimblett, who welcomed the visitors. The banquet he said, was gotten up by the men and arranged by the men, and he complimented them on their success. Such gatherings, he believes are a power towards co-operation and should be encouraged.

The Chief paid atribute to the encouragement he received from the ex Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee and expected that relations under the new Chairman would be just as pleasant. Personally, his aim had always been, and would continue to be, towards an efficient fire fighting force such as is required in the City of Peterboro.

G. N. Gordon

Mr. Gordon, who was introduced by the chairman as a firm believer in doing things, said he was an ancient member of the Fire, Water and Light Committee under G. A. Gillespie as chairman. "It is great," he said, "to see the co-operation of the men under the present chief. The executive ability Chief Gimblett shows is splendid and he has certainly made wonderful progress."

Referring to the general demeanour of men in public service, the speaker said every ratepayesr is interested in watching the men who are paid by their taxes, and every taxpayer has a good idea of efficiency. "It is very important indeed that the public have confidence in this very important unit of government you represent. The fidelity of you to your chief is essential, and the men who are known for honesty, industry and fidelity create a spirit of public confidence that will stand them in good stead."

Mr. Gordon said he had thought it would be well to originate something along the line of a pension to take effect on a fireman's retiring at the end of the service. "I think it would be only just that men engaged in this very dangerous pursuit of fire fighting should not be put in the place of fearing for their wives and families in case of accident to them. I feel it is a very important service to consider the men who perform a very considerable public service."

Mr. Gordon intimated that at the end of 1924 he will present to the Fire Chief for presentation to his men on any plan he approves, five gold medals. "I think I owe that as a citizen of the city to the men who are watching my property and life every day and every night."

At the conclusion of his address Mr. Gordon was accorded a hearty round of applause and the firemen struck up "Hes a daisy."

W. H. Bradburn

Mr. Bradburn recalled the days, when he was a member of the fire department under Thomas Rutherford as chief and J. D. Craig as assistant chief. He told anecdotes of the old days of the volunteer fire brigade that kept his audience in roars of laughter.

The Utilities Commission, he said had put on group insurance at Christmas, and now every man in the employ of that Commission is covered without expense to himself. The premiums are paid from the profits taken by the Commission. "That helps toward co-operation," he said. "If you men were protected by insurance of that kind you would feel that your families were protected. I will take the matter up with Hon. Dr. Godfrey, under whose department it comes."

"We have a very efficient fire department," the provincial member continued, "but to maintain that you must give the men proper equipment. The first five or ten minutes at a fire are the minutes that count. If you have equipment that will reach the fire quickly you have a greater chance of success in fighting it."

W. H. Taylor.

Ex-Mayor Taylor said he felt during his term of office he had the co-operation of every man in the fire department. "That is the only way a mayor can make a success, if he knows everyone is taking his part. I have watched the fire department under three chiefs, and my aim always was to Lui l up t department. We have now a very efficient fire fighting department."

Chairman W Stocker.

Ald. W. Stocker, the newly appointed chairman of the committee charged with the administration of the fire department, was introduced by Mayor Turner as a good leader an energetic worker, and a man who would co-operate with the firemen in keeping up the department.

Ald. Stocker regretted that the the department was running so smoothly it would not give him much work. "I may be around a little oftener than the previous chairman, for my time is my own, but don't think I want to interfere. My aim will be to spend the money as economically and efficiently as I did while chairman of the Board of Works."

Ald. Stocker approved the motorizing of the ladder truck and assured his audience that the matter of Workmen's Compensation or group insurance would be taken up by him.

Ald. Crowe.

Mayor Turner said the fire department had a very happy time under the regime of Chairman Crowe. He was faithful and careful.

Ald. Crowe said the men had been very generous in providing the banquet for fellowship's sake. He had been two years chairman of the committee, he said, and had done very little but his duty. "We got along very harmoniously, and there was no cause for any friction. We know the situation caused by being arbitrary. If the police had been courteous to us we would not have been hostile but when you talk up sides you invite trouble. We did not get the worst of the trouble. I have been fighting the police question for five years."

The speaker said he had just passed an insurance policy test when he couldn't find any trouble that would bar him, so he expected to be a member of the council and a visitor at the fire hall for some time to come.

"The fire department is a credit to the city and will be so. I think the city should put on group insurance, as some of the large actories are now doing."

Among other things the ex-chairman sugested that the fire engine be sold and the proceeds placed to an account to purchase a pump. The chairman of the commitee, he also said, should not come to the fire hall any oftener than he is needed.

Programme.

Art Rose, fireman, won hearty applause for his rendition of a comic song, and F. Fisk was generally thanked for his attendance with a radio receiver.

The committe in charge of the banquet consisted of R. Rollo, Orville Wilson, Bob Carr, W. Marchand and Frank Degan.

Besides those mentioned, the following members of the city council attended as guests of the firemen: Ald. Robt. Morrison, N. Phelan, M. McIntyre, J. O Fife, M J Maher and R N. Jones. Ald. E. M Turner sent word to the Fire Chief that he could not attend owing to business engagements, and Ald J. W. Meyers was called to Toronto. J. Dunkerley was also a guest.

The personnel of the Peterboro Fire Department is:

Chief—George Gimblett.

No. 1. Platoon—Asst. Chief, James Ward; Lieut. Thos. Hatley; Engineer, E. Marchand; Master Mech., Vergel Carr; Firemen, Frank Degan, Archie McBride, James Weyer, Geo. Crouter, Robt. Carr, Herbert Cooney.

No. 2 Platoon. — Capt. William Jones; Lieut., Robt. Wilson, Elec. Bert Trotter; Firemen, O. McDonald H. Meehan, A. Rose O. Wilson, R. Rollo, A. Mason, G Smith

A WORD OF COMFORT

You do not dream how much God needs what you can be and do. He would never have let you be born had there not been a man's task for you to perform.

Will you balk it all now, turn traitor to His loving confidence and throw away your strength because there are rough stones and cruel thorns along the path you tread? That is not the act of a man. You would despise it in another in the lesser things of life.

Outstanding Sporting Book of the Century

HOCKEY YEAR BOOK

A MASTERPIECE—Brandon Sun

SPECIAL OFFER — NOW SELLING AT $1.00

"It is at once the handsomest and most complete publication ever produced in the world for any single sport. It is a marvel of good taste in artistry and of industry in achievement. It is impossible to speak too highly of it."—H. J. Good, Veteran Sport Editor.

Jot this on your little cuff. The Hockey Year Book is a real knockout. Everybody who is anybody in the old game which packs 'em in wherever it is played and which has a larger following than any sport in Canada, not even excepting rugby and baseball, is pictured in this unique publication, which deserves a place in every sportsman's library. Handsome half tones of virtually every champion team in the country, since the game was first played, are to be found in its pages, and as the publisher, George King, Toronto, truly says: "It is a history of Canada's great national game, told in pictures." It's a who's who of hockey.—Toronto Star.

YEAR BOOK.

The Hockey Year Book for 1923-4, enlarged greatly, and a much more pretentious publication generally than ever before, is with us again. The book is all that it's publisher, George King, claims it to be, "a complete history of Canada's national winter game told in pictures." Every champion team in all of the principal leagues and associations from the days that the game had it's origin on a back lot in Kingston is shown in the bulky volume along with many others. The world's champion Granites, dozens are pictured in all their glory, also the cup winners of other seasons.—Toronto Telegram.

THE HOCKEY YEAR BOOK.

The "Hockey Year Book," published by George King, is now on the news stands, and is quite the most pretentious publication of its kind ever issued in connection with Canadian sport. The volume is a well edited, profusely illustrated book, including facts and figures for the seasons of 1921-22 and 1922-23, and contains much that is of interest to hockey fans. Many of the photographs date back more than twenty-five years, and there is a great deal of carefully compiled matter that will be of special interest to the older generation of hockeyists as well as up-to-the-minute informtation for the up-to-the-minute fans.—Toronto Globe.

TREMENDOUS PROGRESS OF THE GAME.

One thing is certain, no other game has so rapidly and thoroughly become popular as hockey. No other game also has risen to the dignity of having so handsome and complete a book issued in its cause as that of Mr. George King. This success is due to good management, and to the splendid way that men of influence and standing have rallied round the game.—Toronto Star Weekly.

THE HOCKEY YEAR BOOK.

The Hockey Year Book, which made its appearance recently, is a credit to the game and to Publisher George King. The book represents months of efforts. Typographically and pictorially, it is a masterpiece. From cover to cover it is embellished with group photographs of champion teams, including the pioneers in the game; in fact, the history of Canada's Winter pastime is told in pictures. Old-timers will be interested in the handsome halftones of the teams, who were prominent a generation ago, while the younger enthusiasts will enjoy the reproductions of the more recent winners. The book is not only lavishly illustrated, but is literally crammed with much interesting information regarding individuals, clubs and leagues throughout the country.—Toronto Sunday World.

MAKING TEACHERS HAPPY

SHEFFIELD, Eng.—None of Joseph Newton's six children ever has missed a day in school since entering kindergarten. And all have been attending for periods ranging from 8 to 10 years. Sir William Clegg, in behalf of the Sheffield Education Committee, has publicly congratulated Newton and his wife on their sons' and daughters' record.

TOO MUCH TIPPING.

VIENNA.—Excessive tipping is driving tourists away from here. Dr. Siegmund Munz, international writer on economics, blames the three-waiter system wherein food, drinks and the bills are brought to each patron by separate waiters. And Dr. Munz also charges hotels are charging foreigners exhorbitant rates.

McINTOSH—LAVERY.

A very pretty wedding took place recently in St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto, when Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Lavery, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Alexander McIntosh, of Toronto.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her brother, Patrick Lavery, was beautifully gowned in pale green, trimmed with silver. She wore a Persian lamb coat with sable collar, the gift of the bridegroom.

Attendants were Miss Irene Cassidy and Mr. Jack Hartley.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, followed in the evening by a reception and dance ,for which music was supplied by the Landon Orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh will reside at 212 Sherbourne Street, Toronto.

RED APPLES AROUSE BERLIN

BERLIN, Jan. 18 (Associated Press—Big, luscious apples from Yakama nearly caused a riot in Berlin recently when offered for sale from a peddlar's push cart.

The red and yellow fruit from Washington was about twice as large and many times as wholesome looking as the ordinary apple seen here, and people fought for a glimpse of the peddlar's wares. There were, however, few purchasers, for the apples retailed at 600,000,000,000 marks, or nine cents each.

BERLIN BUTCHERS FEEDING THE POOR.

(By GUS M. OEHM)

BERLIN, Jan. 18 (United Press). —"The Butcher, the Baker, the Candle-stick maker."

Just now it's the butcher in Berlin who is mentioned in the newspapers because of his kindness to his hungry fellowmen.

The Butchers' Union of Berlin has opened a dining-room in the halls of its executive committee headquarters, where between 300 and 400 persons daily obtain a good meal, consisting of goodly portions of meat.

A committee of butchers collects from different members of the organization each day sufficient meat to meet the requirements.

FRENCH PREMIER HOPES COMMITTEE OF EXPERTS SETTLE REPARATIONS

Should Fix German Payments For Next Three Years, Says Poincare—Any Proposal to Reduce German Debt Would End in Deadlock — France Asks For Application of Treaty.

HAS HER OWN DEBTS TO PAY.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—"Nothing separate us from our friends, the English and the Americans," declared M. Poincare yesterday, "except the application of the treaty we signed together. The only claims from which we hope to obtain recognition from a British Government, whether Conservative, Liberal, or Labor, is the application of the treaty. It would be scandalous if Germany, which caused all the harm, should be succored, and France, which endured it, were abandoned."

"With the co-operation of America," M. Poincare said, "we hope the committee of experts will reach a settlement of the reparations question and then deliver us from the nightmare of the Inter-Allied debt."

DEMAND NOT MADE.

M. Harriot interrupted the Premier by qouting from a speech made by Roland W. Boyden, former unofficial American member of the Reparation Commission, as showing that the United States for the moment was not demanding the payment of the debt due that country.

"Yes," replied M. Poincare, "President Coolidge, Mr. Hughes and the American Government have not yet demanded the payment of our debt, but the question remains open and weighs heavily on the credit of France."

Fix German Payments.

"The committee, therefore," said M. Poincare, "will limit its work to the examination of and the creation of a stable money in Germany and the manner in which the budget may be balanced. We shall ask the experts to study how Inter-Allied control can be exercised in the occupied territories, and to fix the German payment for 1924, 1925 and 1926."

Continuing, the Premier said the French Government did not oppose a loan to Germany, but he declared that the greater portion of such loan should be devoted to the payment of reparations and the remainder used for the immediate needs of Germany.

Premier Poincare said if the International Expert Committees appointed by the Reparation Commission reached decisions that would decrease the French credits on Germany or diminish the Reparation Commission's prerogative, it would lead to a deadlock.

Appealed to British.

France, said the Premier, was always ready to act with the Allies but would not trail after anyone, no matter whom it might be. Not only France, but also Belgium and Italy, had decided in the Paris 1923 conference that the British plan was not acceptable.

"I urgently besought Mr. Bonar Law to go with us into the Ruhr. Therefore it is not France who broke aawy from the Entente," M. Poincare declared.

France, in accord with Belgium, continued the Premier, had decided to seize guarantees only when the Entente ceased to be one and became a sham under which the nations that wished the execution of the Treaty of Versailles met with a blank refusal and veto, not from the United States which had maintained entire neutrality, but from "our English friends."

Policy of Patience.

He then continued: "The French policy of four years has been all stranghtforwardness, patience, goodwill and a desire to be in accord with France's allies. The criticisms of M. Herriot should be directed rather to the British policy after the war than to France. It is England who withdrew from the Entente, not we.

"As M. Jaspar reiterated in the Belgian Senate on Wednesday, France and Belgium will not withdraw from the Ruhr until a final and satisfatcory settlement of the reparation question has been reached.

"It cannot even be said at this moment that passive resistance has ceased in the Ruhr, despite all our concessions, the cancellations of deportations and the other conciliatory measures taken by France. General Degoutte several days ago telegraphed me that the actions of the Nationalists in the Ruhr and other indications made him believe the Berlin Government was continuing intrigues to prevent the fulfillment of the French and Belgian contracts with the German industrialists."

Palatinate Question.

With reference to the Bavarian Palatinate, M. Poincare said the Separatist movement was spontaneous on the part of patriots eager to free themselves from the yoke of the Nationalists in Bavaria. The French Government had received 630 demands from burgomasters in the Palatinate asking for an autonomus state.

"We are unwilling to intervene in any manner," he said, "but would assure the people living under the French occupation the right of self-disposition."

FOUR SWEET NEW BLOSSOMS OF HUMANITY, FRESH FALLEN FROM GOD'S OWN HOME TO FLOWER HERE

When Santa Claus visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Mahaney, in Saint John, New Brunswick (Canada) he left a most unusual Christmas gift—quadruplets, three girls and one boy. Here they are in the photograph, all in a row, and at the latest reports all well and healthy.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahaney already had a family of three boys and two girls, but this is the first occasion on which they arrived more than one at a time.

They have been receiving showers of messages from well-wishers all over the country and from officials of the federal and provincial governments.

EXPECT DEVELOPMENTS TODAY IN CAPE BRETON COAL MINE SITUATION

British Strike Threat Critical

LONDON, Jan. 18. — The Trade Union Congress to-day made another attenpt to avert a railway strike in Great Britain. The Congress called before it for a conference representatives of all three of the railway unions with a view to examining their grievances. After a long session, the Congress adjourned until to-morrow, when its efforts to straighten out the tangle will be continued.

The situation to-night still remains critical, as the strike notices which become effective at midnight Sunday, had not been withdrawn by the railwaymen's unions.

Men Remain Idle Following Recent Twenty Per Cent. Cut in Wages — Nova Scotia Premier Advises Re-opening of Negotiations.

MINERS ARE QUIET.

SYDNEY, N.S., Jan. 19.—The situation created through the tie-up of Cape Breton coal mines as a result of the British Empire Steel Corporation's twenty per cent. cut in wages, effective last Tuesday at midnight, pursued the same quiet course last night that has marked the whole period of idleness. Maintenance men are being allowed to carry on as usual, but the Executive Mine Workers stand upon their first order to the men to remain away from work until definite instructions are received from the International President, John L. Lewis, at Indianapolis ,advising just what attitude the parent body will assume in the event of a real strike in Cape Breton.

Government Represented.

Hon. D. A. Cameron, Provincial Secretary in the Nova Scotia Government, is in Cape Breton as Premier Armstrong's personal representative, and while no Government action in the controversy had been announced yesterday afternoon, there is a current rumor that some steps will be taken unless the situation is cleared otherwise over the week end.

In Cape Breton and in the mainland mines of the corporation at Stellarton, Springhill and Thorburn, the idle miners have been conducting themselves with extraordinary calmness and the situation bears none of the earmarks of the usual coal miners' strike.

Re-open Negotiations.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 19.—In an exchange of telegrams yesterday between Premier Armstrong and President R. M. Wolvin of the British Empire Steel Corporation, the former urged Mr. Wolvin to re-open wage negotiations with the miners in Cape Breton, now idle because of the twenty per cent. wage cut announced last Tuesday, and to suspend the wage reduction until further meetings had proved fruitless. Mr. Wolvin replied that he expected developments on Saturday but did not indicate what form the developments would take.

Lower Paid Employees.

SYDNEY, N.S., Jan. 19.—At British Empire Steel Corporation headquarters yesterday Vice-President McLurg issued the following statement bearing upon the wage rates in dispute:

"Certain statements have been made in reference to the wage rates of the lower paid employees of the Dominion Coal Co. which give an erroneous impression in regard to the number of employes of this class and the proportion they bear to the total number of men employed by the company.

"Actually there are very few men receiving this low rate, and generally speaking it is paid to boys, to old men, or to certain employees who for one reason or another, are physically fully incapable of giving return in labor that justifies a rate hingher than the minimum. In many cases thees older employees while drawing the minimum rate themselves have some working who are drawing a high rate.

Minimum Rate.

"There must be a minimum rate. This rate is always attacked and is unfairly cited as typical when as a matter of fact it is the exception.

"The wages of day paid men vary from the minimum of $3.25 per day to $5.50 and $6.00 per day, there being 39 different rates.

"The total number of day-paid men at all collieries of the Dominion Coal Co. is 3,090 under normal conditions. Of this number 1,449 are married and 1,641 are single.

Review of Wages.

The average daily wages of the mine employees of the Dominion Coal Co. under the 1923 scale were as follows:

Day paid men on the surface, $4.14 per day.

Day paid men under-ground $4.54 per day.

Contract miners $6.84 per day.

Average of all employees $5.23 per day.

The monthly earnings of the mine employees for nine months of 1923 were as follows:

Day paid men underground $102.74.

Contract miners $140.55.

LOTS MEAT ON LOCAL MARKET

Beef Eight to Twelve Cents a Pound—Vegetables Scarce.

The open market was packed with wood carts this morning, most of the loads getting a ready sale. Prices are down slightly. A few loads were asking $12, but good hardwood, cut and split, could be purchased for $11 and mixed wood was down to $8.

There was plenty of meat on view in sides and quarters. Beef ranged from 8 to 10 cents a pound for fronts and 10 to 12 for hind quarters. Pork was 14 and 16, and a small quantity of mutton was selling for 15 cents a pound. Beef tongues were 35 cents.

A pure bred Barred Rock was $1.50 and two chummy-looking Rouen ducks were $1.50 apiece.

Vegetables were scarce. Beets were 40 cents a peck, carrots and parsnips 50 cents and onions 75 cents. Little cabbages were selling three for a dime, big ones at a quarter each.

Apples were fairly plentiful. Snows were 80 cents a peck; Spies 75, Greenings 50, Hubbards, and Nonesuch 40 cents a peck.

In the open section, one vendor had a couple of baskets of eggs, at 60 cents a dozen. Upstairs, they were cheaper. Fifty cents was a general price, with some baskets dropping to 45 later on. Butter was plentiful at 40 and 43 cents a pound. Fowl also was there in numbers, with a few turkeys and geese, the former at 35 cents a pound, the latter 25 cents Chickens were the main offering, at prices ranging from 20 cents to 35 cents a pound. One man makes a specialty of quality in his birds, which are toothsome-looking specimens of plump, dry-plucked fowl, their feet trussed up in neat fashion. "April birds, milk-fed" is the reason for the 35 cents a pound price that the owner asks, and gets.

In the basket section, the vocal combat that used to take place down stairs in the entry between rival fruit dealers, now goes on. At one table, is the bass-voiced gentleman who calls "nice, juicy oranges," and farther over, is the energetic baritone who points with pride to his crisp head lettuce. "No waste, that's the principle," he says, flipping back the tightly-curled leaves. A third dealer, located in the chilly atmosphere outside the basket section, remains silent with regard to the outstanding merits of the cabbage which forms the main item in his tabled offerings.

Little yellow-green canaries were on sale in the upstair market hall this morning, tiny hen birds at $1 each occupying one side of a large double cage, which held in the other half a number of songsters, silent, as is their habit, when caged with other singing birds, but guaranteed as singers, at $5 apiece.

Downstairs, two lonesome-looking little collie pups were waiting for purchasers, "the black at $1.50, the brown one at $1."

WINNIPEG SEES PACIFIC RIVAL

Vancouver Energetically Seeking to Divert Grain Trade and Transport From Great Lakes.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 19—The development of the export wheat trade through the port of Vancouver seriously threatens Winnipeg as the grain center of western Canada, was the declaration of S. T. Smith, member of a local grain company to members of the Caledonian Club at a luncheon here yesterday.

It was vital to Winnipeg's interest that she maintain her position as a grain center and this must be done by continuing to make the eastern route the cheapest and most attractive from Western Canada to the sea board, Mr. Smith asserted.

'Every item of cost of handling and profit must cut to a minimum," he said, "to maintain the eastern route. Especially is this true of railroad freights and steamship freights on the Great Lakes."

"Vancouver is pushing energetically for a share of the grain trade of western Canada and the Government is providing increased facilities to enable it to handle large quantities of grain," Mr. Smith said.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN IN CAVAN

Tenant Was Away at the Time—Two New Buggies Went Up in Smoke.

CAVAN, Jan. 19.—Last night between the hours of ten and twelve o'clock the barn on the farm owned by Mrs. P. Gott, on the corner of the middle road, concession eight, was destroyed by fire from an unknown cause. Mr. Floyd McMann, who has the farm rented, lost a quantity of buckwheat and mixed grain besides other supplies and equipment. Tinney Brothers of Cavan also lost two new buggies they had stored in the barn. Mr. McMann was away in Pontypool at the time of the fire. A few years ago a stone house on the property was levelled to the ground by fire while the farm was tenanted by Mr. John McKnight, so that the property is now devoid of buildings with the exception of an implement shed.

SELL FARM PRODUCTS BY POOL IS PLAN OF ALBERTA CONVENTION

The United Farmers Will Survey Co-operative Marketing System With View to Extending It Beyond Wheat—Discuss Burdensome Debts.

MORTGAGE LOANS.

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 19—(Canadian Press).—Steps are to be taken by the United Farmers of Alberta for co-opeative marketing of general farm products under one board which would be distinct from the board in charge of the wheat pool. The annual convention yesterday afternoon adopted unanmously a resolution asking the Executive to appoint a committee of seven, "to survey the field of co-operative marketing, with power to organize the different commodities under the co-operative marketing system."

It was the belief that eggs, poultry and other products were not available in Alberta in quantities which would justify the overhead of individual pools, but that one pool might have control profitably of the several commodities.

Readjust Debts

By a very small majority a resolution was passed advocating a readjustment of farmers' debts in certain cases. It was stated that farmers burdened with debts were abandoning their farms and leaving the country in ever-increasing numbers and urged that where a property-owner's indebtedness exceed the value of his holdings the indebterness should be reduced to the "actual present value of the property so indebted."

There was no suggestion of the manner in which such an adjustment might be accomplished.

Another resolution declared that present residents of Canada, had been given the privilege of amortization of their indebtedness over thirty two years at six per cent., "in the same way as incoming settlers."

Mortgage Loans

A long resolution dealing with provincial mortgage legislation declared unalterable opposition "to further concession to the money power as represented by the mortgage loans association in this province." Repeal was sought of the right given mortgage companies to demand leases when any arrears of interest and principal were unpaid and opposition was expressed to reinstatement of the "personal liability" clause in mortgages.

Establishment of a co-operative long-term credit scheme involving the organization of local socities in a unit of one or more municipalities was approved. The purpose of the scheme, it was stated, would be "to obtain loans at a moderate rate of interest and on favorable terms for the purpose of developing the agricultural resources of the province and increasing production." Loans would be guaranteed to the extent of ten per cent. by the society, municipality and the provincial government. The recommendations go on to the Government.

Banking System

The Federal Government was asked to investigate further the banking and credit system, with a view to eliminating danger of bank depositors losing their money.

A suggestion that the Federated Farm Bureau of the United States be approached with a view to forming a "North American wheat pool" was passed on to the executive of the Alberta wheat pool.

President Wood said he did not consider such a thing possible. Sometime it might be possible for a Canadian pool to co-operate with pools in the United States and Australia, however.

American Nickel In Child's Throat

FORT WILLIAM, Jan. 18.—A United States nickel was removed at a local hospital from the throat of two-year-old Allan Cronk in whose throat the coin had been embedded for five days. The parents of the child did not suspect the cause of his illness, the coin being found during an X-ray examination. The child will recover.

RING CONTROLS POULTRY TRADE

U. S. Attorney - General Takes Action Against Alleged Price-Fixers For Illegally Restraining Trade.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—United States Attorney Hayward, by direction of Attorney-General Daugherty yesterday filed a petition against the Live Poultry Dealers Protective Association, Inc., and twenty-two of its officers and principal members.

The action was taken, Mr. Hayward, said, for the purpose of putting an end to certain illegal restraints found to exist in the business. Prices established here by the Association affect trade prices throughout the country, it was alleged.

Live poultry valued at $50,000,000 per year, shipped from mid-western, south western and middle Atlantic States to New York, is sold here for consumption, Mr. Hayward said, at prices controlled by the Price Committee of the Association. Such prices are then telegraphed to the trade throughout the country and are said to establish prices over a great area, affecting all the factors in the trade, from the farmer to the consumer.

The members of the Association are also alleged to have threatened to boycott commission en in order to prevent them from selling to other wholesalers and for preventing retailers from entering the wholesale field.

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—The condition of Right Hon. W. S. Fielding Finance Minister continues to improve, according to word received from his home this evening.

HEAVY BAIL IN THREE CHARGES

St. John, N.B., Court Required Pledge of $27,800 For Appearance of Man Accused of Receiving Stolen Money.

ST. JOHN, N.B. Jan. 19. — Harry Rabinovitch, who last week was found not guilty of conspiring to defraud Leon Chechik of between $79,000 and $80,000, appeared in the police court yesterday afternoon on the information of Leon Chechik that "Harry Rabinovitch did unlawfully on Nov. 1, 1923, receive $50,000 part of $79,000 stolen by Benjamin Friedman, he knowing it to be stolen." The defendant was represented by J. G. P. Lewis, K.C. while Dr. Fred P. Taylor K.C. appeared for the prosecution.

The defendant was not asked to plead and on application for bail magistrate Henderson said that as the case was quite similar to the one disposed of last week, he would grant bail in the same amount, the defendant himself in $5,000 and two sureties of 2,500 each.

Immediately after Rabinovitch had been admitted to bail, Sheriff A. A. Wilson served a capias on Rabinovitch, issued by Dr. Taylor, in the interests of Winnipeg people for the sum of $8,900. Mr. Lewis, representing Rabinovitch asked for bail which was granted on two sureties of $8,900 each or a total of $17,800. It is understood that if this second case comes to trial the date will be some time in April next.

The two cases brought against Rabinovitch took only twenty minutes to arrange. The total bail amounts to $27,800. The preliminary hearing in the charge of receiving money, knowing the same to be stolen will be taken up in the police court on Wednesday morning.

The case decided last week developed out of the division of receipts from a shipment of liquor from St. John to Providence R.I.

Accused Questioned Liquor Law Validity.

QUEBEC, Jan. 18.—An attempt to obtain a declaration to the effect that the Quebec Liquor Law was ultra vires and unconstitutional was made when Alleyn Taschereau K.C. acting for George Levallee, alleged to have violated the law, fyled a petition for the issuance of a writ of prohibition to prevent Judge Lechance or Juge Choquette from rendering judgment in the case.

Among tfifteen claims made in the petition are the following contentions that the conditions that the Provincial Government has no right to enter into trade; that it cannot impose taxes on liquor or establish a monopoly on any business.

Premiers of Ontario and Quebec to Confer.

QUEBEC, Jan. 18—Premier Taschereau will shortly have a conference with Premier Ferguson of Ontario in regard to a reciprocal arrangement between the two provinces in the matte of duties and working arrangements. The address from the Throne at the opening of the Quebec session promised a reduction in succession duties.

ALLOW FLAPPER AGE GIRLS FLAP

The American Husband Has to Spank the Children and Keep His Hands Out of the Dishwater.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 19.—With a slap in the face and a pat on the back, modern advanced thoughts stand both berated and approved in the mind of one of America's most influential women leaders—Dr. Alice F. Blood of this city.

"The American husband has got to spank the children and keep his hands out of the dishwater," declares Dr. Blood, recognized as a leading—if not the foremost—student of home problems in the United States. Yet in almost the same reactionary breath, Dr. Blood emits a revolutionary thought in favor of the flapper of today.

"Don't you worry about the flapper," she cries. "The American flapper can take care of herself. Don't forget we've had the flapper with us long enough now for one generation to grow up and marry. They're making good wives and good mothers. They know what men are like and they don't spend their time weeping around the house because the Lord didn't make men like movie heroes.

"The flapper should be allowed to kick up her heels. Spirit is the greates asset in the world. When the flapper settles down she's a lot better, more entertaining, more companionable wife than the one with a Holier-Than-Thou look on her face and a disposition that would sour cream worse than a dill pickle."

She Knows 'Em

Dr. Blood speaks not only from observation, but from actual experience with flappers and modern housewives. She's president of the American Home Economics Association, leading 5000 women of every state, and heads the department of home economics in Simmons College, here. Her whole doctrine, combining both radical and reactionary ideas, springs from an inherent desire for the application of common sense.

"For heaven's sake," she cries, "why don't folks use common sense?"

"We need less highbrow theory in home management, and a lot more plain common sense. You can't live on romantic love and highbrow theory any more than you can live on a diet of chocolate marshmallows and French pastry.

Separate Jobs

"A wife has no more right to ask her husband to wash the dishes," Dr. Blood goes on, "than he has to ask her to do his work.

"And for making good American citizens out of children, there's nothing beats the good old-fashioned spanking. If the father doesn't spank in the home, the world is going to do the spanking later—and the world spanks harder than any parent ever spanked in the world.

"You can't have a successful home without discipline any more than you can have a successful army without discipline."

HOPE IS HELD FOR STRIKE ARMISTICE

Trades Union Congress Gains Ground Toward Mediation — Voted Not to Strike.

(By Percy M. Sarl)

LONDON, Jan. 19. — (United Press).—Prospects of an armistice to avert the threatened economic disruption through a national strike appeared suddenly to-day.

Although there was no break in the ranks of the engineers and firemen, who stood firmly upon their original progam to walk out to-morrow night, the Trades Union Congress, which resumed its session to day under the Presidency of Miss Margaret Bondfields seemed to have gained ground toward meditation. Representatives of the National Union of Railwaymen including their leader J. H. Thomas, participated in the meeting.

Members of this union have voted not to strike and to resist efforts at intimidation on the part of the engineers and firemen if the latter attempt to enforce a complete tie-up.

One indisputable fact in connection with present threatened strike is that if locomotive engineers and firemen actually strike they will have less public sympathy than any body of strikers in this country has had in generation. James Bromley, Secretary of Engineers and Firemen has invariably shown trucuient spirit for years past.

In Bromley's most recenet manifestos are to be seen traces of disappointment that trouble over refusal to accept wage award of national wages board is finally heading to warfare with companies.

Most certain thing of all in connection with trouble is that whole thing has arisen largely through jealousy on part of engineers union of superior numbers and standing of National Union of Railwaymen, who have accepted award of national wages board. Bromley when he surveys situation, is believed to see only form of J. H. Thomas, M.P. secretary of Railwaymen, prospective cabinet minister, figuring with unpleasant prominence.

LINIMENT FOUND TO BE POWERFUL GERMICIDE

Originally, Absorbine Jr. was sold only as a pain reliever and an embrocation. It was quickly discovered that the liniment was positive death to all forms of germ life, and it is now used as a mouth wash, for wound dressing and for all disinfecting purposes.

Another surprise was yet in store. A Wm. Pratt of Springfield, Mass., applied Absorbine Jr. to a varicose vein to relieve the intense pain. Not only did the pain leave, but he noticed every day the swollen vein becoming smaller. The treatment was kept up and, today, Mr. Pratt's legs, though he has never used anything else on them, are as smooth as when he was a boy. It has now been proved that Absorbine Jr. is an actual specific for varicose veins, leg ulcers, boils, pyorrhoea and a number of other ailments and injuries besides that for which it was first prepared. Nothing serves so many every day purposes and nothing is better entitled to its place in every home. When it is needed, it will be needed in a hurry. Don't wait for someone to be hurt. Get it at your druggist's today. $1.25 everywhere.

MINISTER STRESEMANN DECLARED RUHR FIGHT DISGRACE TO EVERYONE

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—(Yesterday's newspapers gave prominence to the speech of Foreign Minister Stresemann at the meeting of the German People's party in Hamburg, at which the minister declared the Ruhr struggle, idea of which had not been wrong, had shown that there were bounds even to German People's patience. He described events in palatinate as "disgrace to civilization, of which all Europe should be ashamed.

CHURCHILL PENS AN OPEN LETTER

Deplores Advent of What He Terms "Socialist" Government.

LONDON, Jan. 19.— (Canadian Press.)—Winston Spencer Churchill has put himself in the limelight by publication of his open letters deploring the advent of what he terms "Socialist" Government, but so far nothing has developed from it to suggest that the manifesto is likely to produce the desired effect, namely, prevention of Liberal support in puting Parliamentary Labor Party in power.

The letter was criticized in yesterday's debate in the House of Commons and is being widely discussed in the lobbies, political clubs and newspapers but the general opinion is that it was launched too late, or perhaps too soon. This view is being taken even in those quarters where former ministers excursion is most desired.

Speculation that Mr. Churchill's letter was really looking to his reinstatement in the Conservative party has appeared as predicated and there seems indeed genuine conviction in some quarters that that is what the manifesto really portends. Political correspondent of the Westminster Gazette describes the letter as constituting a definite break with the Liberal party.

Eat and Get Thin

This is turning an old phrase face about, but modern methods of reducing of fat have made the revision possible.

If you are overfat and also averse to physical exertion; if you are likewise fond of the table, and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward ave., Detroit, Mich.) and give him (or send them) one dollar. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure. He will hand you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat steadily and easily. Then continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire. Marmola Prescription Tablets are not only harmless, but really beneficial to the general health. You don't need starvation diet or weakening exercises. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully, and without a doubt that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

EXHIBITS BUILDING IS A NEED OF SEYMOUR FAIR

Propose to Offer Ground For Armory If Government Will Erect One As In Norwood — Annual Meeting Shows Year of Progress.

Small Credit Balance.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 19.—"The Seymour Agricultural Society is to be congratulated,' said President Alex. Hume in his address at the annual meeting yesterday. The gate receipts of the fair last fall were the largest on record and the exhibits came from a wider area than ever before. Our reputation is growing. Visitors have told me it was the best country fair they attended and that the live stock exhibits could no be beaten. We had 14 entries in the general purpose class for horses. The new rest room was a popular institution and for this T. J. Horkins deserves the credit as the idea originated with him. The building cost us $430 but results have justified the outlay. A new feature was the Government exhibit which proved an attraction."

President Hume went on to say that the society's finance might be low at present but there was a reason for this. In 1922 the amount given in prizes had exceeded the estimates and it had been found necessary to borrow $235. This and other indebtedness had been paid out of the revenue of 1923.

At the celebration held by the society on May 24th., a young lady had been injured by a batted ball and a writ for $2000 damages had been issued against the directors. George N. Payne had been retained by the Board, the members of which decided to fight the case. It was the first of the kind ever started in Ontario, but it was dropped by the prosecution. Warkworth and other Fair Boards in the district had agreed to join in a test case if the matter had been pressed and J. Lockie Wilson had said that the case would be considered at the annual meeting of the Ontario Fairs Associations.

Mr. Hume made a number of suggestions for the improvement of the Fair. He was in favor of purchasing more land in order to secure addition al room for the exhibits of cattle. To the cattle sheds he would have a separate entrance. Application should be made to the live stock department at Ottawa for a grant to be used for special prizes for stocks. The president concluded an interesting address by expressing the hope tshat all would work in learning to make the Fair this year better than ever.

Has Small Surplus

Secretary Treasurer J. Nelson Stone reported that the total receipts for 1923 awarded to $3846,58 and the expenditures to $3843.76 leaving a balance on hand of $2.82. The amount of prize money paid out was $1674,60. The society has assets of $6712 and its liability total $2153.88 There are at present 105 paid members an increase of four over last year.

Record Show of Horses

Henry Waters one of the directos, who had charge of the horse exhibits, reported the best show ever seen on the Fair Grounds, both as to number of and quality of entries. He moved a vote of thanks to Secretary Stone for his excellent financial statement and this was carried unanimously.

Field Crop Competition

On motion of T. J. Horkins it was decided to again enter the growing field crop competition, the crops entered it be oats and corn.

Departmental judges will be secured as usual. On the suggestion of W. C. Rose, Secretary Stone, will write J. Lockie Wilson, head of the Ontario Fairs, informing him of the high standard of horses and cattle exhibited here so that only the most expert judges will be sent to Campbellford.

John Locke suggested that a fourth prize be awarded in classes where the number of exhibits warranted. J. C. Anderson thought that some at least of the money donated for special prizes should be used for this purpose. This matter was left in the hands of the directors.

Want New Drill Hall.

T. J. Horkins made a strong plea for another building for the use of the merchants and manufacturers, for whom there is at present no accommodation. The fair, he said, would never attain full growth until town and country worked more fully together. The solution of the problem is to induce the Militia Department at Ottawa to erect an armouries on the fair grounds, and if this is done the building can be used for exhibits by the merchants and manufacturers. Mr. Horkins instanced the case of Norwood, a much smaller municipality than Campbellford, where such an arrangement exists. The fair grounds, he insisted, was the proper place for an armouries, as there was plenty of space for drilling. The fair board could donate the site. Mr. Horkins suggested that a committee be appointed to wait on the councils of Seymour and Campbellford to ask these bodies to take up the matter with the Department.

On motion of W. M. Stephens and Dr. O'Hara, T. J. Horkins, J. C. Anderson, the president and the secretary, were selected as such committee.

Officers Elected.

President Hume, who has served three years, was urged to stand for re-election, but declined. The following are the officers chosen for 1924:

President—John Locke.
First-Vice-Pres.—Henry Waters.
Second Vice-Pres.—George S. Van Volkenburg.

Directors—Alex. Hume, G. A. McCook, Dr. O'Hara, T. J. Horkins, W. J. Abernethy, James C. Anderson, Garnet Curle, W. M. Stephens, Fred C. Hendy.

With the exception of the first two in the list all the other directors were re-elected.

M. H. West and Charles Bedford were re-elected auditors.

The lady directors for 1924 are: Mrs. A. J. Meyers, Mrs. Charles Macoun, Mrs. T. L. Diamond, Mrs John Locke, Mrs. Alex. Hume and Mrs. Rannie. The only new member is Mrs. Meyers, who replaces Mrs. John Govan, removed to Toronto.

Jos. Hoevy and W. Ross were added to the list of honorary directors.

President Locke and Chas. E. Bonnycastle will represent the society at the anual meeting of the Central Ontario Fairs Association at Belleville. They were instructed to endeavor to secure for Campbellford Fair the same dates as last year, the last Thursday and Friday in September.

Secretary Stone will be the delegate to the meeting of the Ontario Fairs Association at Toronto. Ex-President Hume recommended that he be sent to Toronto year after year so that in time he might become an officer of the association.

It was decided to hold a celebration as usual on the 24th of May.

After the regular meeting held a short session and re-elected J. Nelson Stone as Secretary-Treasurer.

HASTINGS WON CAMPBELLFORD

Hastings Team Lived Up to Its Advance Notices —The Score Was 7 to 3

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 19.—In the first home game of Section B of the Trent Valley League played here last night, Hastings defeated Campbellford 7 to 3.

The Hastings team lived up to all advance notices and played clever hockey, while Charlie Davidson's youngsters couldn't get going till the last period, when they kept the puck in Hastings territory nearly all the time, and outscored Hastings 3 to 1, and only hard luck, which followed them all through the game, kept them from getting a couple more.

It was a case of a good big team against a good little team, and Hastings deserved to win. They had just as much speed as Campbellford, and they took advantage of every opening, while Davidson's kids could not do anything right, and generally lost the puck before they went very far. If a Hastings player didn't take it away from them they would overskate it or lose control of it some way. They simply did not not play the game they are capable of. With a bad game out of their system and a few brakes in the luck they will give Hastings a good argument when they meet in the next game.

Hill was the fastest man on the ice when he started but he did a boys on the wing played their positions well and checked back liwe fiends. Doonan and Burkeholder made a good defence pair and were hard to stop in their rushes, while Scrive in goal had plenty of work to do and the shots that beat him were close in.

Not one of the Campbellford kids played the game they are capable of Tommy Stuart was good and it was no fault of his the locals were beten although he has played better gaes than he did last night. (

Cowell and Hankinson tried hard but lacked the weight to stop the Hastings attackers Archer was away below his usual form and played with a very bad cold. Old man Jinx was camping on Ayrharts trail all right and several times when with in scoring distance something went wrong to spoil his shot. Brown and White were given plenty to do and showed more speed than any of the rest.

Charlie Holmes was agreed on a referee but when the local kids protester one of his decisions at the end of the second period. He took off his skates and B. Scriver of Hastings finished the game without any further trouble.

Hastings line-up:—

Campbellford line-up

Refere, C. Holmes, Campbellford B. Scriver, Hastings.

Internal Bathing Removes the Cause of Painful Hemorrhoids in a Natural Way.

When the intestines fail to dispose of all waste matter properly and quickly, poisons find their way into the blood. This poison lowers the general health, causing hemorrhoids, constipation and digestive troubles.

Mr. A. N. Steele, Cupar, Sask., writes: "I had been troubled with my stomach, piles and constipation for years until I had become very thin and looked 20 years older. A leading doctor in Regina told me that the main canal was badly ulcered. I gradually became worse, until one day, when purchasing a threshing outfit from Mr. Russell of Regina, Mr. Russell noticed my condition, and said: "I can cure you. Get a J.B.L. Cascade.' Well, I did so, and the first night I used it I slept all night for the first time in weeks, and in a short time felt quite myself again. It also cured my piles, which had troubled me for years."

If you are troubled with constipation, don't drug yourself. Internal Bathing with the J.B.L. Cascade is the only permanent way. This wonderful apoliance is the invention of Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell, New York. It is pleasant and easy to use, and will serve the whole family. It should be in every home. See the J.B.L. Cascade at Warne Drug Company, where it will be shown and explained to you. Ask for 32-page booklet all about Internal Bathing. It is free. Or write Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College Street, Toronto, Ont.

THE QUEBEC LIQUOR ACT.

By most people in Quebec and, incidentally, by many people outside of that Province, the present Quebec liquor law is hailed as the most common-sense and successful solution of the liquor problem that has been reached anywhere.

The difficulty, however, lies in the fact that money is being made out of it, and that being so there is no lack of individuals who can vision a much greater opportunity of getting rich by what they call a "broadening out" of the present system.

They are not satisfied with the policy that has so many admirers, but are greedy for greater opportunities and more avenues for making money—forgetful of the old fable about the goose and the golden eggs.

Just at present arrangements are being made to press requests before the Legislature for changes in the Quebec Liquor Act.

Some people are urging the privilege of selling wines in taverns because the demand for beer falls off during the winter months.

The hotelkeepers want to be allowed to sell beer in every room of their establishments, thus restoring the old conditions when drinking parties were carried on into the wee sma' hours.

And so it goes on.

Quebec has ample facilities for obtaining liquor at present—so ample that many a thirsty Ontario citizen turns his eyes enviously towards the sister Province—and her people should be careful how they tinker with a measure that seems to be giving the majority of them general satisfaction.

REPAIRING THE CIVIC MOTOR FLEET.

When means of saving the money of the ratepayers are being sought by the city bodies the establishment of a civic repair shop for the carrying out of minor repairs at least on the fleet of motor cars now in commission on municipal business, suggests itself as a scheme that might profitably be investigated.

The civic bodies have a considerable number of motor vehicles at work, the Fire Department, the Board of Works, the Police Department and the Utilities Commission depending to a considerable extent upon motors for transportation.

The annual repair bill under the present system must run up into a substantial figure, judging from the experience of individual car owners.

The Fire Department has succeeded in making a considerable reduction in operating expenses by doing much of its own repair work.

Why not extend this system to include all the civic cars?

There is room at the Fire Hall, the Examiner understands, for a repair shop, capable at least of ordinary repairs to the city's motor fleet.

Why not take advantage of it to eliminate a considerable portion of the expense represented by keeping the municipal cars in commission?

As the Examiner pointed out the other day, it is in stopping the small leaks that the Council must effect a saving.

Each in itself is not large, but the aggregate represents a drain upon the civic revenues that is felt by every ratepayer.

A SPLENDID SHOWING.

The official statement issued by Sir Henry Thornton, Chairman and President of Canada's National Railways, as to the operations of the National lines during 1923 should afford general satisfaction throughout the country.

An increase of $17,646,935 in net revenues over the preceeding year is a showing upon which Sir Henry is to be congratulated, and it also indicates splendid service rendered by both officers and employees of the National system.

The report hows that the operating revenues for 1923 were $254,662,447, while in 1922 the operating revenues reached a total of $233,656,888, showing an increase for last year in revenues of $21,005,559.

The operating expenses also increased, but only slightly in comparison with the gain in revenue, the figures being $234,535,000 for 1923, as against $231,176,376 for 1922, an increase in expenses of $3,568,624.

The net revenue was therefore $20,127,447 for 1923 and only $2,480,512 for the year before, a splendid increase that will bring about increased confidence all over Canada in the National Railways and should be reflected in even greater revenues during the present calendar year.

The figures for 1923, it is explained, are subject to slight alterations as some of the items entering in both revenue and expenses are estimated, but the adjustment will only slightly affect the statement.

Complete information with respect to all information relating to the National Railway system will be published in the annual report, which is now in preparation, but the administration desired to promptly acquaint the people of Canada with the general result.

In view of the splendid showing made the Examiner feels that no one will be inclined to blame Sir Henry Thornton for his anxiety to tell the people, who are the owners of the system, the good news that there was an operating profit of over 17 millions last year.

TRAINING OUR NEW SETTLERS.

His Excellency the Governor-General struck a note that will be cordially re-echoed throughout Canada when he spoke at the meeting of the Notre Dame de Grace Women's Club of the need for the right environmnt for the boys and girls who are coming to Canada from other countries, says the Montreal Star. It was, he said, something they do not get at school, or even at home, to the extent one might hope for. But the social work, the personal contact established by the social workers, provided it. He urged them to bear this in mind and look the problem straight in the face.

It is by no means so easy a thing as it looks up-on paper to talk to young people about their souls. Lord Byng evidently feels this, for he put his plea in the form of an urgent call for a recognition of what environment means to boys and girls. The work cannot be carried out successfully by people who take it up as an occupation to fill an idle hour. Those who embrace social service must be prepared for a lot of discouragement, a lot of disappointment, and a great deal of disillusion. But it is worth all this and more to gain now and then the vision of some youthful mind brightened and filled with a higher courage, a bigger realization of the possibilities of life.

Many of the young people who come to Canada possess ideals and ideas that are different from, if they do not actually clash with, our own. It is part of the task of the social workers to reconcile the two, to explain the reason for the differences, and to win the newcomer to a recognition of the necessity for bringing his own viewpoint and his own ideas into line with those that prevail here. This sort of thing requires an infinite amount of tact, but above all a wealth of human sympathy. Given the latter endowment, and the ability to see sunshine through dark clouds, the social workers can accomplish a great deal of good and help materially in the steady upbuilding of a sound Canadian citizenhood.

THE PETERBOROUGH EXHIBITION.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition yesterday concentrates attention upon the fact that this community organization is making more and more demands upon the time of the public-spirited citizens upon whose shoulders the burden of management has to be carried.

Conducting an exhibition on the scale of the Peterborough Industrial is not a matter of a few weeks' planning and three or four days' execution—it is, on the other hand, a business that calls for attention practically the year round.

From now until next September the directors will be at work over the thousand and one details that are essential to the smooth running of the Exhibition during the short period it is before the public.

Every feature has to be planned and prepared for, the ground must be kept in shape, the plant must be ready, there is abundance of work for every committee and the whole thing must be fitted into a harmonious entity long before the actual dates of the Exhibition itself arrive.

Under such circumstances the Exhibition is to be congratulated upon the re-election as President of Mr. Roland Denne, who has been during recent years the driving wheel of the Exhibition machine.

Mr. Denne's efforts on behalf of the enterprise have been unceasing and tireless, and he has been successful in enlisting in the services of the Exhibition a corps of workers of the same calibre as himself, with the result that there is no more enthusiastic band of brothers engaged in any community effort in this district than the directorate of the Peterborough Industrial.

Theirs is the slogan of the Three Musketeers, "One for all and all for one," and as a result of this harmony and enthusiasm the Exhibition goes on growing and expanding.

AN AMERICAN VIEW.

Baldwin's farewell, the swan song of the Conservative Government in Great Britain, has been sung. To be specific, the Address from the Throne is now before a Parliament which, so say the cohorts of Labor, has no confidence in the Ministers that wrote it. Those about to pass from power await their death-knell.

There was no note of repining in the Baldwin statement; rather one of challenge. His attempted excursion into protectionism was not acceptable to the country. That was that. But amid the generalities there sounded a motif that will hark forward to the debates of the present Parliament and further on to the next election campaign. The burden of it is, "We were ready, when we were put out, to do everything Labor expected to do. Labor simply had the luck."

It must be hard for the Conservative Government to face ousting at just this juncture. Things seems to be on the upgrade, problems on the eve of solution. Trade shows unmistakable signs of revival, unemployment figures are being reduced, continental Europe appears on the point of raising its head from the post-bellum slough of despond.

The better times, if any, will be accredited to the Government that happens to be in office. That Government will be Labor. Truly, it might seems, Labor has the luck.

Pending the general revival, a Labor Government can do little save provide tiding-over remedies; work on public improvements, amelioration of housing conditions, continuance of the doles payment, promise of tranquillity.

This is exactly what the Baldwin Gvernment proposed in its last statement. This is exactly what the Conservatives can tell the voters at the next election, pointing out that Labor could do no more.

If Labor really does strike the lucky upgrade, the Conservatives will be able to explain that the same luck would have been theirs, had they not been forced to evacuate. But it is as difficult to explain away the good luck of the enemy as it is our own hard luck.

Nevertheless, that is why Baldwin has noted the good intentions of his Government, even though he did not plead justification for the protectionist issue on which he fell. But, from a political viewpoint, he did try to make his farewell sound as much as possible like "Au revoir."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

From the tone of Mr. Meighen's speeches the impression is being created that he is not completely satisfied with the present Federal administration.

The secession talk in the West was merely "talk," judging by the action of the Alberta farmers in jumping upon resolutions favouring breaking Canada in two.

A newspaper head says "Count who married heiress may have to earn his living." It has always been understood that the man who marries for money earns it.

Over across the line a man who violates the Volstead Act is now to be called a "scoiflaw." The use of the name, however, is not likely to lessen the infractions.

England only had one railway accident last year involving a loss of life. When it comes to safety first methods the world's hat has to be taken off to the tight little island.

TROTSKY STILL AMONG MISSING

By JOHN GRAUDENZ.

MOSCOW, Jan. 19.—(United Press).—Efforts to locate Leon Trotsky, Russian War Minister, following publication of reports in Paris that he had been arrested, resulted in conflicting information from various sources, it was officially stated that Trotsky is ill at his summer home near Moscow.

However, a week ago one of the officials of the Russian Government told the United Press that the War Minister had departed for Suchum in the Caucasus. Today, Thursday, Trotsky's own department declared him to be at Juge in the Crimea. The foregoing conflicting reports conceivably may be the basis of the rumor that he had been arrested, which, however, recalls bygone canards that Trotsky had arrested Lenin and vice versa. Although the Checka defeated Trotsky in the party discussions, which is proved by the fact that not a single member of the Opposition was elected to the parties conference, the masses of the Communist Party have not forgotten Trotsky's services. The War Minister's adversaries continually reiterate he once joined the Mensheviks. It is believed they never would approve his being ousted.

THREE CHILDREN BURNED.

AVONPORT, N. S., Jan. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Three children of Lewis Duncan, farmer, were burned to death when his home was destroyed by fire this morning. Mr. Duncan was badly burned in rescuing his wife, and may not recover.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really dependable cough medicine. Easily prepared, and saves about $5.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes 16 ounces of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 18. — This week's shipments of cattle were too heavy for the maintenance of steady prices. The declines have been from 25 to 75 cents a cwt. from the prices of the two previous weeks. The drops are probably only temporary, but shippers in many instances have lost money this week.

The receipts of cattle for the week were nearly 3,900 head and too heavy for the Tuesday and Wednesday odd lots of good steers were bought as low as $7 and some medium weight ones at $6.50 a cwt. For bulls for overseas prices were firmer and ran from $4.50 to $5.50 a cwt.

For domestic purchases the abattoirs paid equal prices with the exporters for a few choice heavy steers, but none of the medium weight steers of heifers went much above 7 cents and a good many near choice butchers around 1,000 lbs. each sold on Tuesday and Wednesday at $6.50 a cwt. Good butchers brought 6 to 6¼ cents, but some went below this on Wednesday and Thursday. The medium class of butchers were less easy to dispose of and it was in these that the decline in prices was heaviest. Good medium butchers, which went ten days ago at close to $6 a cwt., had to be sold this week at $5 and some common butchers dropped to around $4 a cwt.

Bulls, as previously stated, were quite firm and fair butchers' bulls were 4½ cents and bolgnas generally over 3 cents a pound. Butchers' cows were also steady. Choice fat cows sold at 5¼ and 5½ cents, good cows at 4½ and 4¾ cents and medium cows at 3¾ to 4 cents a pound. Nothing much better than cuters could be had at or around 3 cents. There was a steady trade for the better class of milchers and springers at the quoted prices, but there was practically nothing done in stockers or feeders this week. The exporters will be in the market next week for a good-sized shipment, but the closed ports and threatened strike in the Old Country will make them cautious buyers. Abattoirs will not be too anxious for supplies next week and the outlook should incline prospective shippers to limit their shipments if they want the market to retain a steadiness in prices.

The calf market has not been so strong this week and not many sales were made at 13 cents a pound. The average good calf sold at 11 and 12 cents and medium calves at 9 and 10 cents. Heavy calves were not wanted much above 7½ cents.

Lambs eased off about one dollar a cwt. and on Thursday good light lambs were sold at 12½ cents a pound. Lambs weighing well over 100 lbs. each are not too much wanted and are selling one and one half cents lower than those 80 to 90 lbs. each. Nice butchers' sheep have a steady market from 6½ to 7½ cents a pound.

Hogs were down to $7.50 a cwt. f.o.b. on Wednesday and there is a desire among the packers to get them still lower. The outlook for the Old Country bacon trade is not good and the competition is keen from Denmark and other bacon exporters. The bid over the week-end is $7.25 a cwt. f.o.b.

Health and Comfort

As age advances our wants are not many and with reasonably good health we can enjoy the peaceful period of life in comfort and happiness.

But unfortunately there are certain ills which conspire to destroy the pleasure of this time in life and they are usually of a decidedly painful nature.

The kidneys are often the first of the bodily organs to fail. Then the poisonous acids which should be eliminated by the kidneys circulate in the blood and cause backache, rheumatism, lumbago and the many ailments which make life so miserable.

There has, perhaps, never been a medicine so well suited for people of advancing years as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

This statement is founded on the many thousands of cases reported to us from time to time.

The success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver pills is due to their direct and specific action on the liver, kidneys and bowels whereby the accumulating poisons are quickly swept from the system and the cause of pains and aches promptly removed.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills do not lose their effect on the system as do so many medicines but can be depended on absolutely to bring about the desired results. Used one pill a dose at bedtime as often as is necessary to keep the bowels regular, they relieve indigestion, biliousness and constipation and keep the system in healthful condition.

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has been increased to 35 cents, the box now contains 35 pills instead of 25 as formerly.

Likewise the price of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is now 60 cents a box of 60 pills instead of 50 cents for 50 pills. Edmanson Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

WINTER HARD ON BABY

The winter season is a hard one on the baby. He is more or less confined to stuffy, badly ventilated rooms. It is so often stormy that the mother does not get him out in the fresh air as often as she should. He catches colds which rack his little system; his stomach and bowels get out of order and he becomes peevish and cross. To guard against this the mother should keep a box of Babys' Own Tablets in the house. They regulate the stomach and bowels, and break up colds. The new sales tax will not increase the price of Baby's Own Tablets, as the company pays the tax. You can still obtain the Tablets through any medicine dealer at 25 cents a box, or by mail post paid from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THREE YOUTHS FACE GALLOWS

Hanging Is the Best Way of Checking the Rapidly Growing List of Murders

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—In the grip of another murder wave, Chicago, with down-pointed thumbs seek once more to have the changing whir of the hangman's trap ominously sound as a crime deterrent through the city's underworld.

Three youths and a woman are in the lot awaiting the noose.

In most American communities, mere sentencing of a 19-year-old or a woman to the gallows is the signal for aroused public opinion. But Chicago has received news of resumption of hanging with apathy.

Little Interest Manifested.

Save for some welfare workers and the relatives, there it little interest in the fact that three are doomed to die. And crime commission officials hail the return of the hangman as the best antidote for the present crime wave.

One of the trio—Walter Krauser—is but 19. Because of his extreme youth social workers are striving for clemency. Already the condemned boy has had one reprieve.

"Adolescents" as classified by criminologists are between 16 and 26 years old.

Doomed Are Adolescents

There are two other adolescents in "murderers' row" — Bernard Grant, 21, a pal of Krauser's, and John W. Meisner, now 28, who was inside the age limit when his crime was committed. Adolescents commit 85 to 90 per cent of all crimes, according to Colonel Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime Commission.

"Crime records in Chicago will at once show the effect of Krauser's influence, whether he is hanged or spared," says Colonel Chamberlin.

"There never will be a complete elimination of murder, of course, but the death penalty does reduce the rate just as lax execution of the law raises it.

"In 1919 there were 330 murders in this county. Aroused by such a record, the commission organized a 'murder drive' in the spring of 1920. When we began there were 138 persons awaiting trial, and an additional 104 were out on bail.

Favors Capital Punishment

"We obtained four extra judges for the criminal court and during 60 days disposed of 89 murder cases. Death sentences were given to 14 prisoners and 12 of them were executed.

"Murders dropped 51 per cent that year. There were only 194 during 1920. Next year, while the executions still were in progress and the fear haunted the badlands, there were 190 murders. That record accounts for my position on the question of capital punishment."

New Brunswick Sells $600,000 Bond Issue.

FREDERICK, N.B. Jan 18.—An issue of $600,000 Province of New Brunswick five per cent. debentures for permanent roads and bridges were sold to-day, the successful tender being that of the Provincial Bank of Canada and White, Weld and Co. of Boston. Alternative bids were asked and the tender of the combination named for ten year-bonds payable in Canada and the United States at 99.939, was the most favorable and its acceptance was recommended to the committee of the Provincial Government.

The debentures are being issued for the following purposes, as authorized by the Provincial Legislature:

Permanent roads $300,000; Permanent bridges $300,000.

Approximately 30,000,00 nickels were turned out by the Philadelphia mint last year.

NO AGREEMENT ON PALATINATE

British and French Investigators Have Referred the Separatist Question Back to Governments.

PARIS, Jan. 19. — Paul Tirard, French High Commissioner in the Rhineland, and Lord Kilmarnock, Charge D'Affaires, of the British Embassy in Berlin, has failed to come to an agreement respecting the ordinances recently enacted by the Separatists in the Bavarian Palatinate, and have referred the situation back to their respective governments.

The questions at issue, therefore, again are in deadlock between Paris and London. There is hope that an agreement may yet be reached, it was said in official circles last night, but it was admitted the issue is where it was before it was referred to the Rhineland Commission. The British persist in their refusal to approve the decisions taken by the municipal authorities acting under the new Palatinate Republic, while the French are said to be quite as decided in their refusal to accept the theory that the occupation authorities are bound to impose the orders of the Reich Government on the Palatinate if the inhabitants decide otherwise.

For Labor Government.

It is not thought here to be very likely that the Palatinate situation will be one of the questions the MacDonald Government will inherit from the present British Government, as the chances for an early settlement of the controversy are considered greatly diminished. The discussions of the issue, according to information obtained from a reliable source, always gets back to the same point from which it started, the British sticking to their claim that the Separatists are incapable of accomplishing anything in the Palatinate, except through French support. They also contend that the Allies are obliged to turn back intact to the Reich Government all territories which were occupied when the Allies went to the line.

Make Own Choice.

To the British contentions the French reply that the occupation in no way deprives the people of the right of self-determination, and, in any case, the Allies are not at all obliged to force the inhabitants to accept a government they do not want. No reports have yet been received from the French investigators of the situtaion at Cologne, although it is understood they have finished their mission. The question has arisen how the Allies will deal with the situation if, as it is declared seems likely, the Palatinate Republic goes ahead with the execution of the decisions it has taken, regardless whether they are approved by the Rhineland Commission or not. It is said the French will resist any suggestions of the use of force to compel the Republicans to abandon control of the municipalities now in their hands.

SOME CHRISTMAS GIFTS WERE TWO WEEKS LATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Thousands of Canadians who received Christmas gifts two week late from Great Britain will have to blame their own postal system for delay. Investigation has developed that a car of lost mail was lost after it got into Canada, and was actually found by the United States postal authorities and sent to the proper destination, although two weeks late.

Missing gifts were loaded on a mail car from the Leviathian on December 22 and shipped to Canada, where it was lost and then suddenly turned up in Buffalo, coming from across the border. American railway mail service found the car there and returned it to Canada for delivery.

The temperatures as low as thirty-two below zero prevailed in some parts of northern Michigan.

The missionary department which stood second provided the program for the evening while the social and citizen departments put up the supper. The chair was taken by Miss Myrtle Kennedy, president of the League. After the opening prayer and hymn, the Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. D. R. Clare, I Cor. 13. This was followed by one of Drummond's selection, based on this passage. An amusing story was then read by Miss Hilda Thomson describing a number of varied marriage fees received by ministers. Mr. Cotterel sang. As James Reid and family, who have been prominent workers in the church for years, are leaving our village a number of presentations followed. Misses Edna and Dora Reid were given Bibles by "The Young Ladies Bible Class". Mr. Reid was given a club bag by the members of the official board and Mrs. Reid a mantle clock from the Ladies' Aid League and Sunday School.

This was followed by a social hour in which there was a guessing contest. Later the people were invited into the adjoining school room where a supper was served.

CANADIAN COAL COST MUST BE REDUCED FIRST

Both in Production and Distribution of Alberta's Supply Is to Find Market in the Dominion, Committee Reports.

NO SHORTAGE NOW.

OTTAWA, January 19 (Canadian Press). — Commenting upon the possibility of Alberta coal finding a permanent place in the Ontario market, the Federal Advisory Fuel Committee in a statement submitted to the chairman, Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, declares that there must be a considerable cut in the cost of production at the one end and in the cost of distribution at the other.

Under any circumstances the committee points out it would be necessary for the railways to haul this coal during the season when they are not engaged in transporting grain.

Dealing with assertions that the cost of transportation could be materially cut the members of the Fuel Committee refuse to comment, observing that they are not experts upon railway rates, and pointing out that statements made in this regard by railway executives who testified before the House of Commons committee last year, have never been successfully contradicted.

Reference is made to the attempts of British anthracite producers to feel out the Canadian market. Here, the committee sees in the transportation costs a possibility of increased business. The use of Nova Scotia bituminous coal for domestic purposes shows some growth, according to the committee, but the opinion is expressed that until steps are taken to coke it or otherwise prepare it for Central Canada market, it will not be a serious competitor of the Pennsylvania product.

No Shortage Foreseen.

The Fuel Committee goes extensively into the fuel situation confronting Canada. The prospects it discloses are comforting to the man whose bin is not bulging with fuel. Little likelihood of a shortoge is foreseen, and the coal situation is described as normal.

Figures quoted in the statement show that the average annual importation of anthracite is 4,500,000 tons. From April to November, 1923, inclusive, Canada imported 3,105,283 tons, of which 141,919 tons were from Great Britain, and the balance from the United States.

"These imports" says the report, "indicate that the ominion has received 66 per cent. of the normal supply of the present coal year."

It is indicated that Ontario has received some 37,000 tons above its normal quantity and Quebec 88,000 tons in excess of the usual figures.

Independent Supply.

The statement stresses the importance of Canada securing some more dependable source of coal supply than the Pennsylvania mines.

The active members of the Federal Advisory Fuel Committee ask that they be relieved of further services. The Minister of Railways, in discussing their request, paid tribute to the work they had accomplished, and intimated that he might urge them to continue, as he was not convinced that the conditions which had called the committee into being did not warrant its continuance.

C. A. McGrath, of Ottawa, and Fred McCourt, of Montreal, with the Minister of Railways and Canals as chairman, form the committee. The members have given their services gratis. The Committee was appointed in August, 1922, to act for the various provinces in international negotiations rendered necessary by the appointment of the United States Fuel Distribution Committee.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

NANCY RIDES A CIRCUS HORSE

Suddenly a telegram fell right at Daddy's feet.

Well, everybody got back safely to Daddy Gander Land—all except Mother Goose, who said she would be delayed an hour or so on account of having to call on the weather man.

But even that didn't leave Daddy Gander much time for all he had to do. He hadn't expected his wife home for a week.

"My goodness!" he exclaimed to the Twins. "It's a very good thing that we ran into her when we did. I never like to have her come home without sending me word, and that's something she doesn't always do."

Everybody knew what Daddy meant. He meant the big sign which said "Mother Goose—Her Land," when Mother Goose was at home, but on the other side of which Daddy had printed "Daddy Gander—His Land," while she was away. And that side was always out when Mother Goose was away up in the sky. And Daddy bossed things with a high hand then.

"We'll have to turn the sign around the way it belongs," said Daddy anxiously, looking at the sky. "Mother may be back any minute."

Away went Daddy and the Twins and Tom Tinker to fix it, when suddenly a telegram fell right at Daddy's feet. The telegram read:

Daddy Gander — Mother Goose Land—Earth:

Can't get home today. Weatherman gone visiting and can't find him. Will have to stay and watch the rain-barrels so they don't splash over and spoil the circus. Best love.

Mother Goose.

"Well, well, well! I guess there's no hurry then," said Daddy Gander as he folded the telegram Mother Goose had dropped out of the sky, and stuck it in his pocket. "Come on. We can go to the circus yet. It's just about ready to begin."

The big tent was nearly full when they got there. There were the Tweedles—their faces scrubbed so they shone like milk-pans. And there were the Peterses—for since he got such a lecture on stinginess, Peter had been very generous with his wife! And the Pipers and the Daws and the Shaftoes and the Hearts and the Horners and Blues and Dumplings and everybody.

Daddy and the Twins and Tom Tinker had to sit on the lowest board, right next to the ground. But it was loads of fun. The clowns did hand-springs right in front of them, and all sorts of funny things to make them laugh. And when the monkeys came along, racing on pigs, the Twins could almost have touched them, they were so close.

But what do you think! The circus-man came up and whispered to Daddy Gander that one of the bare-back riders was sick and they would have to leave off her act.

Nancy heard him.

"I have my magic shoes and I'd love to ride a horse," she declared. "Oh, please, so let me!"

And so it happened that Nancy put on fluffy skirts and a shiny crown and rode a big white horse in the circus.

And to this day the people in Daddy Gander Land say she was the best they ever saw.

WHAT IS GIVING UP POINT?

At 50 Noah Webster began his study of seventeen languages.

At 57 Voltaire did his great thinking.

At 86 Tom Scott began his study of Hebrew.

At 98 Titan finished a famous painting.

At 103 Chevruel, the famous French scientist, was going his best.

BAD BLOOD PIMPLES AND BOILES Banished By Burdock Blood Bitters

Miss Irene A. Matthews, Stayner, Ont., writes:—"I thought I would write and tell you of the experience and benefit I have derived from Burdock Blood Bitters.

Some few months ago I was troubled with bad blood which broke out on my face in the nature of pimples, boils and ring-worm, and I got so bad I really did not know what to do.

I was ashamed to go anywhere, and the itching and burning caused such a terrible sensation I could get no relief day or night.

One day a friend advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I used one bottle and felt quite a relief, and by the time I had taken 3 bottles I was completely relieved.

I cannot praise B.B.B. enough and I hope anyone afflicted like I was will get the same benefit I received."

WOMAN FIGHTS TO HELP PROGRESS.

Educator Attempting to Lead Her Sex Out of Oriental Morass Toward Occidental Progress.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The direct antithesis of the Western woman, with her freedom to choose a husband or a career, or both, is the woman of India who has neither of these alternatives.

"Women of my country have no choice in love and there are no careers open to them," the soft-voiced Susie Sorabje, leading woman educator of India, informs me.

"Children are betrothed any time from birth until they are 10 or 12 years old," she goes on. "A girl unmarried at 12 may well reproach her parents for their delay, because she has the stigma of 'old maid' attached to her.

"Her parents arrange her marriage and the mother-in-law arranges the rest of her life and trains her in the way women have gone for thousands of years in India.

Custom Prevails.

"She has no problems in clothes, for they are all cut and embroidered according to a pattern in vogue for centuries. She has no decisions to make, no trails to blaze. No wonder she has time to develop spirituality and contemplation."

Yet the feminist movement is gaining ground there.

"Women have the vote in Bombay, Madras and in the United Provinces," she says. "But the vote is dependent on a test of literacy and property, and only 2 per cent. of the women of India can read."

Progress Shown.

Madame Sorabje is carrying on the work started by her mother, who was the first woman teacher of India. She maintains the school endowed by Mrs. Findley Sheperd at Poona, where nearly 500 children are taken from kindergarten to university. It is the only co-educational enterprise in India.

"Though only a very small percentage of women are able to vote," Madame Sorabje says, "they have made the vote count for women's progress. With it they have prohibited women and children from working in the mines and factories and they are trying to establish maternity benefits and prohibit child labor."

BUT TAX WAS HIGH.

LONDON—"Panhandling" is a profitable occupation in London. Take the case of a 70-year-old man arraigned in Thames police court for begging. A constable testified he had found nearly $1000 on the aged mendicant's person. The prisoner was given a choice of a $100 fine of three months' imprisonment. He paid the fine.

THAT HANG-ON COUGH MUST GO

Home Made Cough Mixture Best of all for the Cough that Sticks.

MAKE IT YOURSELF IN TWO MINUTES

The coughing season is on and every home should have a supply of the best cough remedy to be had, and as you can make this supremely excellent cough mixture yourself; why pay high prices for the common kind.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it.

Then when any member of the family starts coughing or catches cold in chest or head, or has acute catarrh, you are prepared as you should be.

And the children love to take it.

With speed almost beyond belief this home made cough mixture stops the toughest hang-on cough, and all because in it there is a substance (too costly for ordinary cough syrups) that immediately covers the membrane like a soothing, healing poultice, and blessed relief comes at once.

And you should also bear in mind that any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

Tell of the Good Work Dodd's Kidney Pills Are Doing.

Mrs. C. H. Laflamme tried them and is now recommending them to her friends.

Bridgeville, Que., Jan. 18.—(Special).—"Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me a great deal of good. I have taken many other remedies, but none of them did what the first box of Dodd's Kidney Pills did for me. I tell all my friends about them."

This statement, which speaks for itself, is made by Mrs. C. H. Laflamme, well known resident of this place.

Kidney trouble is very common amongst all classes of people, and usually a lot of valuable time is lost by using unsuitable treatments. A good plan is to watch the kidneys and keep them healthy. Dodd's Kidney Pills stimulate and strengthen weak kidneys. They are used and recommended all over the civilized world.

Dodd's Kidney Pills have restored sound health to thousands of troubled women and men.

The Woman Executive

By RUTHERFORD SCOTT

Business, everywhere, has admitted the woman worker, and in office work she is far more in evidence than man. What, then, is the reason that we do not find many women executives?

From my many years of vocational study and from personal contact with both men and women employees and with employers, I am convinced that the chief difficulty is in the viewpoint of women.

Let us eliminate the girl who is working for a year or two before she marries. She is a good employee, within well defined limits, but she neither deserves to be nor desires to be placed in positions of power and responsibility. Outside of the great army of her kind, however, there is the woman who either does not intend to marry or who, having married, finds her real sphere in the business world. Of this latter there are far more than one would imagine.

These women, often past their first youth and yet with all the mental and physical vigor of youth and with poise and good judgment which youth has not, are the finest possible timber for executive positions and it is not to be wondered at that they are sometimes bitter when they see men advance over them, as against their own long service and what they consider their own beter equipment for such positions.

The employer, however, who considers one of his women employees for advancement to such positions, has to consider this fact; that women are slow to act on their own initiative and that they are not as much at ease in handling their subordinates as men are.

This is due, no doubt, to the long ages in which woman was obliged to confine all of her activities to the home, in which position she was under the necessity of deferring to the head of the household, nearly always a man. Her subordinates were domestic servants and their relationship to her, as a mistress, was a very personal one. She was responsible for their conduct and they were part of her household, so that her control of them was intimate and persistent.

This tendency to be too intimate and personal in dealing with business employees is one of the worst faults of the woman executive; her tendency to wait for the approval of her employer when she should rely on her own judgment is next in proportion. Her fidelity to her employer's interest is not only her best trait, but is a wonderful one. It is my experience that hardly a man employee is capable of this tremendous fidelity, which is so much a matter of course that employers confidently look for it from their trusted women employees.

If a woman of intelligence will, therefore, take herself in hand as to the glaring faults I have mentioned, I know that in many a case she will materially increase her possibilities of advancement.

That there is no limit to the position which women may gain is shown by statistics. In Canada there are several hundred women earning well over five thousand dollars a year and a dozen or so who more than double that—of course, I am referring to women in executive positions, not to women who own businesses of their own. In the Wall street district of New York City there are over a hundred women within a few blocks of each other whose salaries run to ten thousand.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

LIVER

Calf's liver has become quite a delicacy and almost impossible to get in some markets without a previous order.

Although high in price there is no bone or waste and comparatively little shrinkage during cooking. One pound of liver should serve four persons generously.

Beef liver is never as high in price as calf's, but neither is it as desirable. The flavor is not as delicate and the meat is not as tender. However, if carefully cooked it makes a most appetizing dish and quite an economical one.

Pig's liver is the least desirable of all and quite cheap. This requires exceptional care in preparing and cooking to make it palatable. If boiling water is poured over the liver first, boiling acidulated water the second time and clear boiling water the last time the rather strong unpleasant taste is overcome and the liver can be used just like calf's.

No matter how the liver is to be cooked or what kind is used it should always be allowed to stand in boiling water for a few minutes before the final cooking.

Liver and Bacon

The liver should be cut in slices about three-eighths of an inch thick. Pour over boiling water to more than cover and let stand five minutes. Lift the slices with a fork that each may be well covered with water. Drain. Season flour with salt and pepper and dip each slice in flour. Fry bacon in a hot frying pan and put on a hot platter. Put in a hot place. Fry liver in the bacon fat, first on one side and then on the other. The liver should be well cooked but remain soft and tender. Serve on the platter with the bacon.

Liver Savory

One pound of liver, as many slices of bacon as there are slices of liver, 4 tablespoons soft bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons finely chopped suet, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 teaspoon powdered thyme, 1-3 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 egg, milk, salt and pepper, 1 tablespoon flour.

Slice liver three-eighths of an inch thick. Mix bread crumbs, suet, parsley, thyme, lemon rind, salt and pepper. Add egg, unbeaten, and enough milk to make moist. Spread each slice of liver thinly with the dressing, cover with bacon and arrange in a shallow pan. Pour in boiling water to half cover meat. Cover with heavy brown paper rubbed with bacon rind and bake slowly for half an hour. Remove paper, increase heat and brown bacon. Remove meat to a hot platter. Mix flour with salt and pepper and add water slowly to make a smooth paste. Add enough boiling water to the liquor in the pan to make one and one-half cups. Let boil up and stir in flour. Boil two minutes and pour over meat. Serve very hot.

Liver Smothered in Onions

WEAK ANAEMIC WOMEN

What They Need to Restore Good Health and Vitality.

The woman who feels tired out, who aches all over when she rises in the morning, who feels depressed most of the time, needs the help that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can give her—new, rich blood and stronger nerves. The number of disorders caused by poor blood is amazing and most women are careless about the condition of their blood. Their nerves are quickly affected; they worry over trifles and do not obtain refreshing sleep. There may be stomach troubles and headaches; shortness of breath and a flutering of hte heart. This is a condition that calls for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the blood-improving, nerve-restoring tonic. Mrs. William Henry, Lovett Street, London, Ont., has proved the value of these pills, and says: "I had a very severe attack of anaemic. I was always tired and the least thing would make me sick at the stomach. I could hardly go about and suffered terrible pains in my legs from cramps. I had no color in my face and was as white as a sheet. The doctor gave me several kinds of medicine, but could not understand why I did not get results from it. Then I went to a hospital and was there for three months, but came home no better than when I went. My friends were worried and feared consumption. While I was still in this condition a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I tried them and after a time felt they were helping me, and I gladly continued their use, and am thankful to say that I am again a well woman, and I firmly believe that had it not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I would not have got better."

The new sales tax will not increase the price of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as the company pays the tax. You can still obtain the pills through anly medicine dealer at 50 cents a box, or by mail, post paid, at this price, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CELEBRATION OPENS EIGHTY-SIXTH YEAR NORWOOD METHODISM

The Eighty-Fifth Anniversary of the Church Will Be Held on Sunday —Success of Today is Founded on Work of Pioneers.

HISTORICAL NOTES

NORWOOD, Jan. 18. — Norwood Methodists will celebrate on Sunday the eighty-fifth anniversary of the advent of Methodism in this district, and will enter on the eighty-sixth year.

Present-day members of the congregation, looking backward at this time can see that to the self-sacrificing work of the early pioneers of the Methodist Church, is due the splendid organization of to-day. Services 85 years ago were not held very regularly, as at that time Norwood was practically all woods and the preachers had great difficulty in travelling, and had to blaze a trail so as not to get lost.

In 1842 the first quarterly board meeting was held and at that meeting Mr. Peter Pearce, father of the late J. B. Pearce, was given exhorter's license, and six months later became a local preacher, and recording steward. The circuit was known as the Asphodel Mission and covered the territory now covered by five charges.

The ministers who labored on this mission from 1839 to 1874 were: Rev. Richard Phelps, Rev. John Sanderson, Rev. William Morton, Rev. George F. Playter, Rev. Jas. C. Slater, Rev. George Carr, Rev. John Goodfellow, Rev. Henry McDowell, Rev. William Breden, Rev. Samuel Briden, Rev. S. C. Philp, Rev. Wm. M. Pattyson, Rev. Joseph Hill.

Some time during this period a small church was built on the lot between the present church and the sheds. This building was later used for a Sunday school and a larger church built to supply the growing needs. At the front of this new structure was a gallery, in the centre of which was a space allotted to the choir. Two class-rooms were situated at the back of the main building where the old-time class meetings were held, before and after the morning service.

The names of some of the class leaders at that time were: Mr. H. Thistlewaite and Mr. Wm. Thistlewaite, grandfather and father, respectively, of one of the present valued members. Mr. H. Thistlewaite, who is superintendent of the Elgin Sunday school, and also a local preacher. Other leaders were: Mr. W. Dafoe, Mr. J. P. Brown and Mrs. P. P. Cope, who had a girls' class on Sunday afternoon after Sabbath school, and a ladies' class on Monday evening. Dr. S. P. Ford, the last of the pioneer leaders who passed to the 'Great Beyond' last July, was one of the list of faithful workers in the cause of Methodism in this district. He will long be remembered. It has often been remarked that "Dr. Ford was good for the body and also for the soul."

A building lot immediately west of the church was presented to the congregation by the late Peter Pearce and eventually a parsonage was built on it, which was the home of the succeeding ministers until about 1906.

In 1874 the first union took place, when the Methodist New Connection and the Wesleyan Methodists united under the name of the Canada Methodists and Rev. Richard Clarke was sent to take charge of the circuit, which now consisted of three appointments, with a membership of 161. One year later four had been added to the roll. During the last year of Rev. Clarke's pastorate a wonderful revival took place and when he left in 1876 there was a membership of 500.

Other ministers to follow were: Rev. Jas. Thom, Rev. Joseph E. Sanderson and Rev. Daniel E. F. Gee. It is pleasing to note that all of the four sons of the Rev. J. Sanderson followed in the footsteps of their father, and entered the ministry. His oldest son, Rev. Bert. Sanderson, is in the Montreal conference; Rev. Arthur Sanderson was pastor of the Campbellford Methodist congregation a few years ago and is now stationed at Cannington, Ont. Rev. William Sanderson died very suddenly some years ago while attending a convention in Hamilton, and Rev. Richard Sanderson, the youngest son, after a period of twelve years, gave up preaching and entered the insurance business.

In 1884 the Bible Christians, the Episcopal Methodists and the Primitives united with the Canada Methodists.

Rev. James Anderson was the next minister, appointed to the charge and after laboring three years was succeeded in 1888 by the Rev. J. S. Clarke, during whose pastorate the present imposing edifice was built, and on Sunday, January 26th, 1891, was dedicated to the service of God. At the dedicatory service the choir, under the able leadership of the late F. H. Birt, rendered the anthems: "I Was Glad When They Said Unto Me," and "Lord of Hosts."

While the new church was being built services were held in the old building, which had been moved to an adjoining lot purchased from the estate of the late Osborne Moore. During this period Mr. Wm. Knox was choir leader, and Miss Ella Waller (now Mrs. Robt. Duke), was organist. After the new building was completed the old one was sold to the Methodists of Rush Point, Ont., who tore it down, moved it, and had it rebuilt, and to-day it is known as the White Church, north of Havelock. The old Sunday school was moved down the street to the corner of Peterborough and Victoria Streets, and was for a number of years the Salvation Army barracks. Some time afterwards it was purchased by the late J. L. Squire and used for a storehouse. A few years ago the L. O. L., of Norwood, secured it for their lodge room.

The new church, which is a credit to the village, and also to the community, is built of stone taken from the Norwood quarry, and has a seating capacity of 800.

Slide doors separate the main auditorium from the Sunday school room, and, when these are opened, the seating capacity is increased by about 150. In the basement is a ladies' parlor, dining-room, and kitchen. Few, if any, towns the size of Norwood can boast of such a handsome structure, and it outclasses many city churches. It is equipped with electric lights, pipe organ, and nearly everything that makes an up-to-date church building.

The first minister to have the honor of being stationed here after the opening of the new church was the Rev. William Buchanan. During his term of office, South Dummer, which had been one of the outside appointments, was made a separate charge, with Rev. John Peake as pastor. He remained two years, and when leaving, took with him as his wife Miss Annetta Knox, daughter of the late Mr. Matthew Knox. Then came Mr. Anderson, Mr. White, and 25 years ago, Rev. W. P. Rogers, the present pastor of the Norwood congregation was appointed to the charge. Rev. James Anderson, who about six years previous had been stationed in Norwood was again sent and remained one year. Other pastors and the dates of their ministry are:

Rev. J. A. McCamus, 1896-1899; Rev. Robert Taylor, 1899-1903; Rev. Caleb Parker, 1903-1905; Rev. W. H. Adams, 1905-1909; Rev. W. B. Tucker, 1909-1912; Rev. G. H. Copeland, 1912-1914; Rev. A. M. Irwin, 1914-1919; Rev. A. J. Terrill, 1919-1921, and the present pastor Rev. W. P. Rogers.

During the pastorate of the Rev. W. H. Adams, the new parsonage on the corner of Peterboro and Pine streets was completed, and the reverend gentleman had the honor of being the last minister to live in the old parsonage and the first in the new.

In April, 1909, the last year of Mr. Adams stay in Norwood, the 70th anniversary of Methodism was celebrated and the following hymn composed by him was sung.

"One Generation Shall Hand Thy Works to Another."

O'er the trackless ocean guided
By Thy hand, our father came,
They, O Lord, in Thee confided.
Loved Thy day, revered Thy name;
Nor would we, their faith despising,
False to their devotion be,
But on wings of prayer arising,
Life our contrite hearts to Thee.

In the new land wild and lonely,
Rude the homes which they upraised,
By Thy presence gladdened only
They Thy love and mercy praised;
In our fairer habitations,
May their zeal in us increase,
While Thy precious consolations
Prove our everlasting peace.

Where in wilderness extending,
Every creature had its lair,
Now behold us humbly bending
In this holy place of prayer;
Let the transformed world around us,
Witness be of change within,—
Joy, that lost our God hath found us
Healed the deadly wounds of sin.

Destined for their fathers' places,
Age on age until the end,
Keep, O Lord, our children's faces
Turned to Thee who dost befriend;
And may all who boon of heaven
Now or evermore shall crave,
Know on earth Thy blessing given,
Glory find beyond the grave.

Saved From Pneumonia By Vicks

Nova Scotia Lady Secures Relief Overnight

Mrs. Charles Dernier, of 2 Ext. Queen Street, Amherst, Nova Scotia, writes: "I have had pneumonia for the last two winter and was on the verge of having it again when I thought I would try Vicks VapoRub. Before retiring for the night I rubbed it thoroughly on my chest and back and went to sleep, although I hadn't slept for three nights. In the morning I got up feeling like a new woman."

Dr. Osler says pneumonia has taken the place of tuberculosis as "Captain of the Men of Death," to use a phrase coined by old John Bunyan. And Influenza is not far behind. The germs of both of these diseases are constantly with us. The only reliable protection against them is the resisting power which comes from good health. To avoid these dangerous diseases in winter, don't let yourself get run down and above all never neglect a cold. Break it up in its early stages with Vicks VapoRub, the external vaporizing treatment for colds.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 Paul St., W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 19.—(United Press).—Passengers on a clanking, bumpy little Brussels tram car got the thrill that comes once in a lifetime when a tall blonde man who had been swayed and jostled in their midst reached up and pulled the bell cord when the car reached the Royal Palace, they recognized King Albert. Returning to town from his suburban palace by motor, the Belgian monarch found the streets ice-coated, so that the royal machine skidded helplessly. The King hopped out and boarded a passing tram car. The palace sentries were astounded when they saw Albert alight at the gate.

MINE WORKERS HAVE ANOTHER CONFERENCE

SYDNEY, N. S., Jan. 19.—(Canadian Press).—The parley this morning between the United Mine Workers and the coal officials relative to minor disputes among the maintenance men may lead to further negotiations on a larger question of general resumption of work in Cape Breton pits, it was reported this morning. Nothing official on the subject was forthcoming. At U.M.W. headquarters it was announced that instructions from President Lewis were awaited.

The Action of a

Heintzman & Co. Piano

Will Always Stand the Test

And the first test of a piano to be made by an experienced pianist is the action.

A piano may have the finest tone imaginable, but if the action is unresponsive, the labor necessary to produce it takes all the joy out of playing, for correct interpretations are next to impossible.

The Heintzman & Co. action is made from high-grade woods, sectioned to a fraction, balanced in a manner which assures the player of perfect graduation of tone, from the almost inaudible sound to the loud crescendo, and the hammers surmounted with specially selected felts.

Miss Dwight shrugged her shoulders. "Will you deny that you have been completely happy while writing that play? So happy and absorbed that you forgot everything else on earth—and everybody?"

"That's true enough. But if it's a mere question of happiness, that's not the sort that lasts, and the reaction is frightful. I am beginning to feel a hideous sense of loss and wish I had it to do all over again."

"You can go to work on another."

"I'll never feel to another play as I have to this."

"That's what every artist has said to himself since the gods plucked out a rib and invented the breed. Even if you do your comedy next your submergence will be precisely the same. It's the creative pot boiling that does the business."

"I don't believe it."

"Well, don't, then. And don't wake up as blue as paint tomorrow morning. Reaction is the price we all have to pay for keeping the brain too long at a pitch so high above the normal. It's the downwash of blood from the organ it has kept at fever heat. And it's a long sight less commonplace than reaction from too much love-making. Especially when love-making has begun to pall—which it does sooner in artists than in ordinary men. . . . Writers begin life all over again with each new release of the creative faculty; and each new work is as enthralling as the last. But love!" She sighed. "You don't look as if I had made the slightest impression on you."

"You haven't. A man can combine both if a woman cannot. You forget that we return here after two or three months in Austria, and here we remain for at least two years."

"Why are you so sure of that? Have you her actual promise?"

"It is understood. I told her we

"She sighed. 'You don't look as if I had made the slightest impression on you.'" should return and she knew that I meant what I said."

"It is quite likely that she knew you meant it! But I'd like you to promise me that you will ask her to tell you exactly what she does intend to do—when the honeymoon is over."

"What do you mean?" Clavering asked sharply.

"I mean, that although she told me nothing of her plans, it was perfectly evident from her conversation that she intends to live her life in Europe and play a great role there. I infer that she is in constant correspondence with political friends in Austria. Do you mean that she has never told you this?"

Clavering sat forward, frowning. "No. We—have had little time together and have not wasted it on politics. Did she tell you this?"

"Not she. But I 'got' it. I can't tell you just how, but my intuitions are pretty good."

"Intuitions be hanged. Your creative tract is prepared for action and has been doing a little stunt all by itself. Better get to work on it and plow up a new book. I don't doubt Mary has political friends in Austria, and corresponds with them. Why shouldn't she? But she's not committed to any definite date or action. I'll swear to that. She'd have told me so honestly."

"Very well. I've said my say. But I wish——" She fell silent and sat very still for several moments regarding the point of her slipper. Then she looked up and said brightly: "Don't you think it's time to let the rest of them know what's going to happen? It's hardly fair to your other friends—and they are your friends, Clavey. Of course they are practically certain of it."

"I don't think she'll mind, particularly as the first sensation has pretty well run its course—she thought she'd spare her own friends two shocks at once. But I fancy she intends to go out among them less and less. I'll ask her, and if she agrees, suppose you announce it?"

Miss Dwight bent down and removed a pinch of ashes from her slipper. "Do—persuade her. It would be a tremendous feather in my cap. I'll give you both a dinner and announce it then."

"Settled. Well, I'm off. Got my column to write." He gathered up his manuscript, and she went to the door with him. As he held her hand, he felt one of those subtle whispers along his nerves that had warned him of danger before. He dropped her hand with a frown.

"Look here, Gora," he said. "You haven't any mistaken idea of appealing to her, have you?"

"What do you take me for?" demanded Miss Dwight angrily. "The father in 'Camille?'"

"Well, keep off the grass, that's all. Ta, ta."

XL

When Mary Zattiany returned home at twelve o'clock after a tiresome morning in Judge Trent's office she told the butler to send her luncheon upstairs, and ascended to the seclusion of her room, delighted with the prospect of a few hours she could call her own. These hours had been increasing during the past fortnight but were no less welcome. Not a word of that dinner was known to any but those who had attended it. People do not foul their own nest unless they are ready to desert it and sometimes not then. Moreover, the women were too ashamed or too humiliated with their failure to invite the criticism of their friends, and although they avoided the subject among themselves, their agreement to bury it was no less final for being tacit. The men, with something of the deliberation of male guests at a diplomatic dinner where there has been an unfortunate incident involving dangerous possibilities if known, called one another up on the telephone the next day and agreed to "forget it." Even Dinwiddie never heard of it. As for Madame Zattiany, she could be trusted to dismiss it from her contemptuous mind. Nevertheless, these young women, who had entertained her almost constantly, pointedly omitted her from their luncheons and dinners and parties—in her new lightheartedness she had been induced to attend several parties during the past six weeks. And they had little difficulty in persuading others to follow their example. The more amiable of the younger women might have looked upon their attack that night with horror if they had heard of it, as, indeed, several at the dinner had done, but they were no more enthusiastic over the "foreign invasion" than their militant sisters. The remonstrances of the men were unheeded, and when one or two tried to arrange theatre parties or dinners in Madame Zattiany's honor they received graceful regrets.

Even the attitude of her older friends had changed, now that the dramatic novelty of her return to them, and their first determined enthusiasm, had worn off. They were betraying more and more their disapproval of what she had done, the more so perhaps, as the majority of them, being excessively thin, might have accomplished a like result had not their standards protected them. This naturally inspired them with a full realization of their superiority, which increased daily.

If she had made the attempt and failed it would have been bad enough, for such violations of the law of orthodoxy insulted the code in which she had been born and reared: but triumphantly to have succeeded in making herself young again while the rest of them were pursuing their unruffled way to the grave was a deliberate insult both to themselves and to God.

Moreover, they hardly knew what to talk to her about, and although this might still have been the case had she returned to them carrying aloft the crinkled and spotted flag of time, so far apart their lines had run, her scientific victory added an ever-increasing irritant. Also, she had never been a "woman's woman," and it was patent that, as ever, she was far more animated in the company of men. Inevitably, old scandals were raked up. They had been frowned upon in the days when she was protected by her husband and the great position he gave her, and the rumors had been dismissed for more interesting scandals, both public and private, at home. They no doubt would have remained in the limbo of history had she returned looking no better than themselves, but her ridiculous defiance of nature revived them, and these ladies discovered that their memories were more lively than might have been expected of their years.

It would be too much, as Mary told Clavering, to ask a violent contradiction of human nature from worn out glands, and she bore them no malice. She only wondered that Jane Oglethorpe, Elinor Goodrich, and Lily Tracey were still faithful in private—to the world all of them preserved a united front; they would not even discuss her with their children, much they made up their minds that it would be for the good of her soul to let her see, with no flaw in their politeness, just what uncompromisingly sensible women of high moral and social responsibilities thought of her.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

VACCINATION AND TOXINS

MR. EDITOR:

Dear Sir,—My children have brought me home a pamphlet today from the school on the above subject. In taking up my pen again to contest certain of the allegations contained therein, may I claim in extenuation the momentous issues involved in this practice of polluting the blood streams in the healthy bodies of our children. I would like to say here that I fully appreciate and feel grateful for the freedom you have given to the expression of those opposed to vaccination in the letters which you have already allowed to appear in your columns. If I write at some length, it is because 18 years of observation and wide reading on this subject have supplied me with so much material that it is hard to condense into a few lines, all that is so important for the unobserving citizen to know.

In the first place we cannot assail this practice of vaccination without in a measure attacking the bacteriologist on his germ theories and practices. This again leads us back to Pasteur with his bacilla and germ theory of disease, something which is being vigorously assailed today. In a controversy which has for its title Bechamp or Pasteur, the claims being made that the notable achievements of Bechamp eminent Professor of Medical Chemistry and Pharmacy at Montpellier have been greatly obscured because they did not fit in with the modern germ killing practices of Allopathic Physicians, and further that Pasteur got the great inspirations of his life from his illustrious countryman—Bechamp. But being greatly inferior in scientific accuracy of observation and painstaking analysis. He made the sad mistake of turning the germ theory topsy-turvy, and construed Bacteria—"which Bechamp had shown to be the result of disease" into the cause of disease, and so ever since we have had the mad rush for the fortifying of the body against their inroads, the preparation of sauces, serums and vaccines to arouse the phagocytes into increased action so that they can swallow a greater quantity of live microbes. It is quite true that Pasteur placed implicit faith in Jenners vaccination claims and so helped to further strengthen this practice which hundreds of medical men today denounce as a veritable source of health pollution and of which Dr. Hadwen one of the most eminent medical surgeons of England, remarked: "It is the most gigantic piece of quackery ever exploited among a civilized people."

No person following up this important question of vaccination can have failed to note the staggering blows its upholders have received in the great epidemics which have broken out from time to time in Germany, in Japan and of more recent date in the Phillipines. This epidemic of smallpox broke out in 1918. The total official vaccinations for a population of 10,000,000 in 15 years was 21,775,420 double vaccination for most of the inhabitants.

The small pox cases for the three years from 1918 to 1920 were 163,044 the deaths being 71,170. Vaccination absolutely failed to uphold their claims. I could cite fifty cases given by medical men in different countries showing how the results of these serums had forced them to turn down this pet theory of their professional brethren and become determined anti-vaccinationists.

Not always immediately does the effects of vaccination show in the human body. Dr. I. H. Clarke said before the Royal Commission: "The vaccinal taint is in my experience, a prolific source of new and virulent growth. Dr. A. Vogt, of Berne University, remarked that after collecting particulars of 400,000 cases of smallpox, he was compelled to admit his belief in vaccination was absolutely destroyed. Regarding the Schiek test for diphtheria, Dr. Chas. G. Page, M.D., Boston, says in his analysis of the process: "From this we gather that the Schiek test stands glaringly out as the most irrational and mischievous of all the fads and follies of the medical profession." And it is undoubtedly true as another scientist has written that when we find this vile stuff injected into the body of anyone sick or well, proving thoroughly beneficial, we shall look to find water running uphill for the laws of nature will be reversed.

It is amazing to me to see these fears of disease being so freely allowed to circulate and harass the public mind and especially the minds of the children. We see many people indiguant because some one or other keeps knocking our city. It is surely a greater crime for those who know the power of suggestive thought on the mind to keep knocking the health of our people by prophesying some infectious disease on the way, which will take a toll of lives unless we get something injected into their blood. Someday, let us hope, people will get wise to talking health with that vibrant faith, which carries them fearlessly through the changing current of public opinion. May I touch on one more delicate point before concluding it is the "proof talk" which medical men hold out when they say there is no facilities, no bad results from this or that injection; let me ask in all fairness to each side where are we going to get the neutral party to render its decision on this most important point, when the whole of the medical men in a community tell you to carry out this theory of theirs and in doing so you find your child has suffered a change in health, will any of the medical men endorse your views against their own reputation and previous advice? Why, it is like going into a courtroom and after listening to the judge giving his decree hear him say immediately to the court, "Gentlemen, that is only a fool's expression. I did not study the matter out as I should have done, but it is all right, this poor beggar will get over his sentence by and by. No, human nature even in the medical ranks has its limitations and I am not inclined to risk my children in this broadcasted phrase, "It's Perfectly Safe." Now, sir, let me trust that any remarks which I may have made will not be taken as having a personal malice against any of the medical profession. In the progress of humanity there always has been, and probably will be, this battle between opposing forces, for the working out in our social systems of mental images or ideas which we have termed "truth" in taking sides in these wordy battles we have sometimes to forget our friendships, when the wider call of human brotherhood demands our support and service.

Yours in the cause of perfect health.

SCIENCE AND RELIGION

THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER:

Sir,—What is the position of Science with regard to Religion at the present time. Just what it always was. Science is engaged in the unravelling of the material universe only. The problem of the mind is to scientists as great a puzzle now as at the beginning. They can understand that it is energy which fills the universe and makes things go (furnishes motive power), and they assert that under the influence of this energy the particles of which all things are made had motion (life) infused into them, and became what they are. But that does not explain mind. Not that the things of nature, however, would have got together under the influence of energy and become what they are had there not been a plan and a motive power which enabled them to do so. For example, the Science of Chemistry has discovered that this formation of the particles of matter into "all things" while made under the motive power of energy (largely the sun) was made according to laws already made whose source science does not attempt to describe. The source of motion and of all the innumerable laws governing the different phases of motion Science does not attempt to explain. Nature was prepared and, to use a plain simile, was put in the oven and under the influence of heat energy and by means of what was in nature itself, turned out to be what we see.

The working of the energy and impulse with which the plant-cell is endowed produces plant (vegetable) life upon which all other life depends.

It is done by the unit of life or cell which under the influence of the energy of the sun absorbs the carbon of the air and with a few inorganic salts and water builds up your plant before your eyes from day to day and thus enables all other organic life on the globe which feeds on growing things to continue. So that literally and exactly all things were made by the machinery and energy or motive power furnished by the Creator and under His guidance. He devised and directed, and His instruments were good and turned out the finished product. That making of the finished product is what is called evolution or the gradual manufacture in Nature of all things in nature. Now, we see how wholly mistaken the general idea of evolution is after all. It is nothing but a word describing the gradual unfolding or making of the works of nature under the impulse and superintendence of the Supreme Power which, furnished all the means and guidance for doing so. Because a will turns out a product at the end when we put in raw material and motive power, etc., at the beginning, we do not say the mill did it. It was the people behind and over the mill who did it. Hence to say that Nature made Nature and all that is in it, is certainly not scientific and it is certainly not true. So that really Science has brought us nearer and more face-to-face with the Supreme Power behind it all than we were before. Science has merely learned to know and wonder at the machinery and to take note of the finished product. "Who or What did all this?" is a question Science does not pretend to answer and is not trying to answer. It is by its very nature utterly beyond the full comprehension of finite little things like ourselves. But if those people who are meddling with the machinery and are trying to put in evolutions of their own were only able to see how mad they ar how unscientific and how utterly irreverent and irreligious they are; how atheistical (ignoring God) they are, what a delightful world we would have spiritually at any rate. Now the Church says she has nothing to do with Nature as Science views it. Her mission is entirely different. She (just as Nature in the national sphere works out her problem with the machinery and motive power furnished by God and under divine superintendence) works out the purposes of God in the spiritual world. The vast machinery of the spiritual world is as Nature is, under the guidance of God. Some say, because they can't see it, they don't believe it. According to that reasoning they do not believe in honour, in love, in truth, in liberty, in sleep, in fun, in common sense, in reason, etc., etc. These doubters are not doubters simply because they do not know but scoffers because they say it isn't true. So we see how utterly illogical they are and we may leave them at that.

The more we know of Science or the workings and plan of the universe (for that is all Science is) the more startled we are at our nearness to the utterly incomprehensible cause of it all. If there is anything that can make us reverent this nearness will do it. Then when we follow up the workings of the mind we see that the mind is something that nobody can explain. It is something that erects man into different creature from the rest altogether. His whole being as man centres and pivots on his own moral actions and moral relations with the Eternal. Otherwise he is not man but merely a created thing. Hence we see again how awful the crime is of interfering with the moral actions of people who are under the immediate hand of God as all else in Nature is. Such people may think they are doing good—but can't they see what they are doing? Can any one dare to say that he or she can improve on what God has made? Banditry is not what this continent is in danger of, but rebellion against God and the things of God. The truth is they deny the existence of the spiritual world.

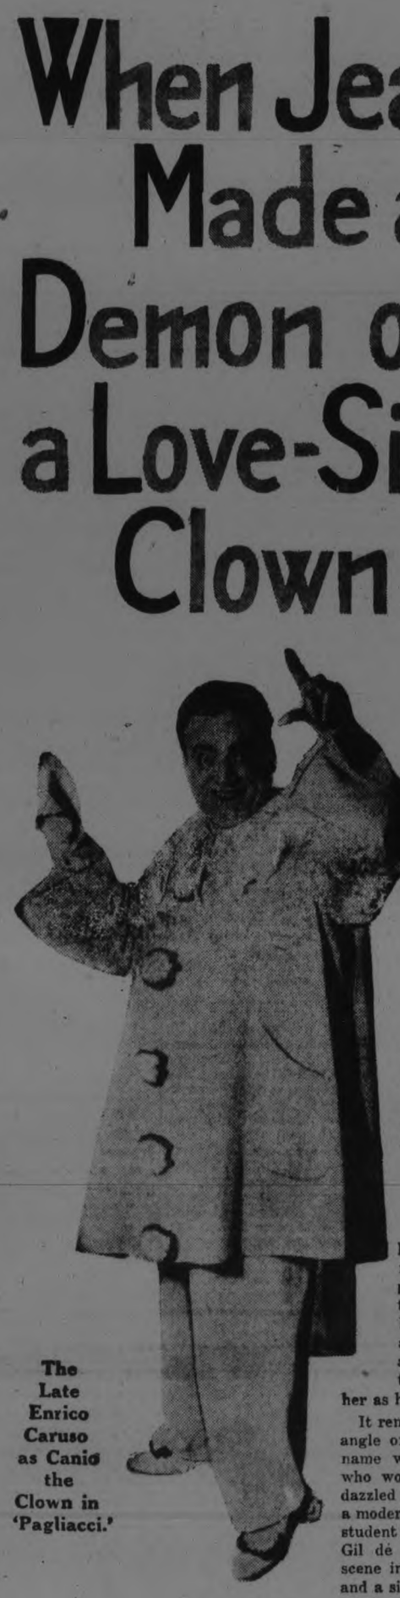
When Jealousy Made a Demon of a Love-Sick Clown

How Life Paralleled the Famous Opera, "Pagliacci", in the Tragically Abrupt Ending to the Mad Romance of the Little Circus Beauty and Her Furious Lover



The Late Enrico Caruso as Canio the Clown in 'Pagliacci.'

Pretty Gretchen Schulz, Europe's "Darling of the Air," Who Was Killed by Her Buffoon Sweetheart Because, Like Nedda in the Opera, She Loved Another.

"Up flashed the arm of Avatta, the clown. A gleam of metal, a flash of fire, and the darling of the trapeze sank slowly to the ground. With the second shot, Avatta staggered toward her and crumpled across her prone body."

PARIS.

TWO thousand people trooping out of the circus at Seville, Spain, stopped at the crack of a pistol shot. After the sudden hush there came a second shot—then cries and the beat of running feet. Near the performers' exit two forms sprawled in the sawdust. One was the girl who had made the people gasp with her daring on the flying rings. The other was the clown who had made them laugh. A spurt of red stained the tanbark. To complete the drama nothing was needed but the crashing finale from "Pagliacci."

Leoncavallo's famous opera, made unforgetable in America by the late Enrico Caruso, had its duplicate in life at Seville. The Canio was Riccardo Avatta, whose heart broke beneath his fool's mask. The victim of his mad jealousy—the Nedda of the piece—was pretty Gretchen Schulz, "darling of the trapeze," who died as Nedda died, because she loved too fondly.

The likeness of the actual tragedy to the tinsel one of the opera could not have been closer had some omnipotent impresario on his throne in Valhalla declared, "I shall produce 'Pagliacci' for the entertainment of the gods!" and, peering earthward, picked for his setting—Seville.

In Avatta, the clown, he had an inspiring Canio—a bluff, big-hearted fellow, whose antics had made him adored by the populace throughout Southern Europe. Avatta was a wit. Avatta was a mimic. Avatta was a Merry Andrew without peer. When he donned his droll costume and decked his face with quaint crimson slashes against the white, it was to look at him and roar with mirth!

Likewise, in Gretchen Schulz there was the perfect Nedda. She was a German girl who had joined the circus at Paris. Young, beautiful, expert in aerial acrobatics, she was enough to capture anyone's imagination as she swung high above the maze of nets on rings or trapeze. And she captured the heart as well as the imagination of Avatta, the clown.

Here were two principals worthy of the gods' "Pagliacci"—fair Fraulein Schulz, bringing gleams to the eyes of the gallants from the moment she tripped out in her trim tights and close-fitting bodice; and, stumbling and rollicking about the arena, far beneath her, Avatta in his clown suit, adoring her as he adored nothing on earth.

It remained only to introduce the other angle of the triangle. In the opera his name was Silvio, a handsome peasant, who wooed Nedda with soft words and dazzled her with baubles. In life, with a modern cast, Silvio's role fell to a young student at the university in Madrid, one Gil de Vega, who swaggered onto the scene in a dinner coat, with a chauffeur and a six-cylinder car.

The curtain rises on the first act. Already—accepting for evidence the police reports of the shooting—the triangle has formed. Avatta has declared his love to the German girl. She has reciprocated it. They are engaged. In Madrid the blood of young de Vega has been fired by the sight of Gretchen Schulz. He has pursued her with attentions. Avatta has warned her to turn her eyes away from the handsome Spaniard. Jealousy has begun to burn. All the elements of the drama are brewing when the circus reaches Seville.

Picture for a setting the green slope of a hill outside the town, at its foot the billowing canvas of the "big top." Toward this, from all directions, as night nears, trickle streams of people. Countryside and city flock to the merry-making. Spectators of the circus, they are participants in the greater play toward which Valhalla now turns its eyes.

In the impromptu dressing rooms erected adjacent to one end of the tent, Avatta, the clown, sits before his mirror on a wooden box. The face that soon will be a mask of merriment is the face of one who suffers. The eyes, which are to twinkle, stare darkly. The lips are tight with grief. One would never recognize in this agonized countenance the Continent's favorite cut-up.

Avatta is in torment. For that afternoon, while he slept, a dust-covered touring car rolled into Seville, and from it, at the circus grounds, there alighted Senor Gil de Vega. Avatta's companions of the circus tell him that the car stood, with engines running, for a while, and that then Gil de Vega drove away, but not alone. Gretchen Schulz was with him. It is late and she has not returned. The clown groans as he fumbles at his make-up box.

He must make his entrance with the grand march. He must rush out among his fellow clowns at the very first, turning cart-wheels, wielding paddles, twisting and falling and buffeting others and being buffeted by them. He must act the fool at whatever cost. He must make the people laugh though he has a knife tearing at his own heart.

And this Avatta does. He grins and grimaces at a guffawing sea of faces, while all the time there dances before him but one face, Gretchen's. He sees thousands pointing at him, and in his fancy he sees only his sweetheart, perhaps in another's arms, perhaps with De Vega's lips pressed to hers.

Avatta frolics in a dreadful suspense. He knows that, at a certain moment, he will learn whether Gretchen already is lost to him. That moment will be when the band strikes up the quickstep which is the signal for the entrance of the troupe of aerial acrobats.

The moment comes. The clown, not far from the performers' entrance, watches with eyes like torches burning in his ridiculous face. His sense of calamity suddenly changes to an overwhelming torrent of joy—Gretchen is in her place!—and the next moment joy turns to black frenzies of jealousy—she has blown a kiss to someone standing in the shadow, and to him, Avatta, she darts a look that can mean but one thing.

In Valhalla the gods are watching eagerly. The climax of their play is coming swiftly, ruthlessly, yet with a suddenness that is terrible. . . .

The police of Seville do not know when or how Avatta obtained a weapon. It may have been, they say, that he slipped it down the leg of his capacious clown's trousers before he ever left his dressing room, the purpose forming in his heart even then to avenge himself. Or it may have been that during the moments when Gretchen Schulz whirled and floated and shot through the air from rings and trapeze to her eerie platform, Avatta slipped out of the arena and returned with the pistol concealed in his belt or in a fold of his sleeve.

The aerial gymnastic act was the last on the programme. With a burst of music and a triple somersault of the girl star it ended. She struck the elastic net, bounded up and back again, sprang lightly to the edge of it, and vaulted to the ground.

People pushed in swarms for the exits.

Avatta, according to the police, was standing near the curtain hiding the performers' quarters from the view of the audience. He was still inside the tent. Only a few feet from him, but invisible because he was on the other side of the curtain, waited Gil de Vega. He strode up and down, smoking cigarettes nervously, impatiently slapping his legs with his stick. For he was to meet the girl.

She came, running, flushed from her triumph, laughing and blowing kisses toward those who still applauded her. As she reached him, Avatta stepped forward. There was a moment's pause, a quick exchange of angry words, the man's hand gripping her wrist. She wrenched herself away, took a step toward the exit. Suddenly the curtain was flung back. De Vega stood in the opening. Up flashed the arm of Avatta, the clown—a gleam of steel—a flash of fire——

Some who heard the first shot whirled in time to see the little "darling of the trapeze" sway and slowly sink to the ground. With the second shot, Avatta staggered toward her, his arms outstretched, and crumpled across her prone body. De Vega, sole survivor of the tragic triangle, blinked dumbly at the murdered girl and the suicide. And perhaps, in Valhalla, Jove's orchestra blared one ghastly, sombre chord, the last bar of "Pagliacci."

PENALTIES PLENTIFUL IN JUNIOR CLASH BUT GOAL CARD UNMARKED

Lindsay and Young Petes Milled Around at Brock Street For An Hour Without Scoring—Both Goalkeepers Were Good.

CHECKING WAS CLOSE

The Peterborough Juniors and the Lindsay Midgets battled three scoreless periods last night on the Brock Street Rink, the game ending 0 to 0. Although it was close, both teams lacked the punch in the right time, and neither team played the game they did in Lindsay last Tuesday. The Petes played a rougher game than they did in Lindsay. The Scugog boys also mixed it frequently and four times they were minus two men, while the Petes had their full team on the ice. They received ten penalties, while it would not be far wrong to say that they got off pretty lucky with that, as they have a bad habit of hooking their opponents with their sticks and holding them back.

The Petes made some flying tackles at the Greybirds in the earlier parts of the first period, but they soon settled down and played more steady hockey. The only cause of a no-score game was the lack of combination of both teams, and the lack on the Petes' part of not following in their shots and not playing their positions.

The first priod opened up at a fast and furious pace, with both teams inclined to rough it a little. Grover Halpin, who handled the bell in great style, handed out several penalties to both teams, which showed the boys that they could not score goals in the penalty box.

For the latter part of the period it was rush after rush, with both goalies having plenty to do. Both teams' forwards checked like fiends, and the play was about even most of the way.

The second period opened up at a fast clip, but neither team showed combination, and most of the rushes were one-man style. Several times the Petes broke away for a long rush down the ice, but when the carrier passed the puck there was nobody there to receive it.

The Lindsay team forced the play in this period, while the Petes seemed to be satisfied to hold their opponents at bay instead of following up every rush and keeping the rubber in the Lindsay territory as much as possible. The lack of practice began to tell on both teams, and for a while the game was very slow and dead, with the puck mostly around centre ice. Mulholland, for the Petes, showed up well in this period. He made rush after rush, and three times he passed the puck in front of the net, without any results, as there as nobody there to bat it in.

The Petes also missed several good chances to score in the latter part of this period when they failed to follow in their shots, while the Scugog boys followed in every chance they got and gave Lebarr a busy time clearing the shots away from in front of the net before one of the Greybirds could charge in on him.

Whirlwind Finish.

The third period was the fastest and most exciting of the three, with both teams straining every muscle to score. The pace was fast and close, and both teams showed more combination in their rushes. The puck was carried from end to end by some clever combination work on both sides, but the net guardians had a night on, and they were unbeatable.

The Petes lined up three abreast several times, but they were soon broken up by the close checking Lindsay aggregation, who could not be shaken off.

The Petes fought hard to overcome the one-goal lead which the Lindsay team have on them ,but it was useless, as they might as well have tried to put the puck through a cement wall as put Lehane in the nets.

Both goalies turned in an excellent game, while on the firing line Mulholland, the cool defence man, was the pick of the Peterborough team. Williams and Holland also played a good game, and their attacks were always dangerous.

For Lindsay, Mills, Fortier, and Piercy were the most brilliant players.

Grover Halpin of Peterborough handled the bell in first-class style, and there was no kick coming from either side. The ice was keen and fast.

First Period.

L. Collins, who was playing left wing, got away nicely from a pass from Williams, and bored a hot one at Lehane from outside the defence. Fortier grabbed off the rebound and made a nice rush up the boards and took a corner shot at Lebarr, who cleared. Williams, who was out to get some of his revenge back on Piercy, who upset him several times in Lindsay, charged him into the boards, and was chased for the first penalty. Fortier broke away for another long rush down the ice. He charged in on the defence, but seeing that his chances were few of getting through the Mulholland and Holland stronghold, he shot a fast one, missing the goal. For the next few minutes Lebarr had plenty to do in the nets, and L. Collins' back checking was a feature; he broke up rush after rush, using his weight to great advantage. Anderson made a nice rush, but Lebarr cleared his long shot from centre ice handily. It was at this stage of the game that the Greybirds began to mix it a little. Mills was chased for butt-ending L. Collins; a few seconds later Piercy was chased for tripping Williams, leaving only four men on the ice to battle against six of the Petes. The Petes tried hard, and had a four-man attack, but their lack to play combination and to follow in their shots lost for them the chances of their lives to score. The Petes made rush after rush, but mostly the one-man style, and when Lehane saved, there was nobody there to bat in the rebounds. After a beautiful rush by Mills, who shot wild, L. Collins skated in front of the net, losing the puck. Mills, who had followed in his shot, secured the rubber, and only for Lebarr rushing out and checking him, the Midgets would have registered their first goal. Mulholland made the nicest rush of the night. He stick-handled and out-skated the Lindsay forwards and tore in on the defence. He fooled one of the defence men, and then passed the puck in front of the nets, only to find nobody there. Anderson rushed through the defence and worked in on Lebarr, only to have the local goalie make a nice save. Mulholland got away for another jaunt down the ice. He worked in close and then passed to McDougal, who failed to put it past Lehane.

Second Period.

Holland and N. Collins combined in a nice rush, but goalie saved Collins' hard shot from close in. Williams with his stick waving above his head like a war club followed Fortier down the boards and slashed him a mean one on the shins, for which he was benched. Mulholland then broke away for another jaunt down the ice, but he stumbled as he shot, and Lehane cleared it easily. Piercy stick-handled nicely through the forwards, and bored a fast one at Lebarr, who saved and cleared just in time, as Piercy followed his shot in fast. Holland made a lone rush down centre ice, but shot wild. Piercy was chased for tripping Mulholland within fifteen feet of the nets after he had broke through the defence. Although he did a great deal towards saving a counter against his team mates it was a heart breaker to the crowd, who gave Piercy a great "razzing," which he thoroughly deserved.

Williams made a nice rush, but missed the net by yards. Cheu was chased for stepping into Fortier. A few minutes later Mills also took a trip to the bench for tripping Holland. Mulholland and Cheu broke away in a combination rush, but Mulholland's bullet-like shot grazed the post. Anderson and Wileman combined in a nice rush, but Lebarr made a nice save on Wileman's shot. Piercy was chased for hooking Holland. Anderson was benched for tripping N. Collins, leaving but four men on the ice to battle against the Petes, who were going at top speed. The Petes rushed four men up on the attack, but they could not bulge the nets behind Lehane, who seemed invincible. N. Collins stick-handled through the defence and right in on the goalie, who rushed out and spoiled another chance for the Petes to score. Fortier was hurt when he tripped and fell when going at top speed, and crashed into the boards head first. Mulholland was chased for boarding Mills. Mills worked through the defence, but Lebarr made a beautiful save on a shot that looked like a counter. McDougal rushed, but Fortier stopped him before he had a chance to shoot.

Third Period.

The third period opened up at a fast clip, with both teams going at top speed in an attempt to score the one goal that was needed. N. Collins made a nice pass to Williams, after a clever rush down the ice. He missed the net by inches. Anderson skated down centre ice and passed nicely to Piercy in front of the nets, who shoved a hot one at Lebarr. L. Collins and Williams combined, but an offside spoiled their chances to register. Holland passed to N. Collins, who tore into the centre of the net, only to have Lehane make a beautiful stop. Mulholland was hurt when he collided with Wileman. Mills was chased for loafing. McDougal took a pass from L. Collins, but missed net. Fortier passed to Wileman, who, missed the net. Fortier was chased for tripping Williams. Petes now had another chance to pile up a lead, but they lacked the punch. McDougal missed a nice pass from Williams in front of the net. Williams shot wide on a pass from Holland. Cheu got away for a nice rush, but tripped when close in. After a long rush Holland passed to Cheu, who missed the net. Piercy made a rink-end rush, but his shot went high. For the rest of the period the puck was carried from one end of the rink to the other, and when the final gong sounded, neither team could boast of a goal.

The teams lined up as follows:

Referee, Grover Halpin, of Peterborough.

FOURTH STRAIGHT DEFEAT.

GALT, Jan. 19. — (Canadian Press.) — In the fastest game of hockey witnessed here this winter the locals suffered their fourth straight defeat in the O.H.A. senior series when they were beated here last night by Preston 3 to 2, the third game they have lost at home by one goal. The game was a battle between old rivals, the visitors getting the jump when they scored ten seconds after the initial face-off, when the puck hit a Galt player on a shot and then was batted in by Arnott, who notched all of the visitors' goals.

LINDSAY JUST MISSED DEFEAT IN LAKEFIELD

Cement Town Team Showed Great Improvement On Their Own Ice and Held Visitors to Score of 6-5.

GAME WAS CLEAN.

(Special to the Examiner.)

LAKEFIELD, January 19.—Lindsay defeated Lakefield last night in the best and cleanest intermediate fixture ever seen on Lakefield ice, the play being even, and the score ending 6 to 5.

Lakefield had good combination, showing a decided improvement over previous games and giving the Scugog team all that it could do to win. The home team played a good game all through and finished strong, and while all of the players had stellar parts Webster in goal might be picked as the brightest star.

Wilford was Lindsay's strong man, and Williams was a close second.

There was a big crowd to witness the game, and although it was mostly composed of rooters for the home team even they could scarce forbear to cheer the fast, clean playing of the Lindsay six.

Mrs. Fred Brown, who occupied one of the rink side positions among the spectators, was struck on the forehead by a player's stick and was compelled to retire to her home for first aid, having sustained a bad cut.

In the firts period the play started well with check and counter check in which Lakefield had a little the better advantage.

The first score fell to Lakefield when Simpson made a nice shot, but Lindsay came back strong, and W. Killen netted one for the Scugog team.

Wiliams scored an easy second and the period ended with Lakefield strongly on the defensive, and a score of 2 to 1 registered against it. There were no penalties.

In the second period J. Sabatino was the first to score, he playing high class hockey throughout for Lakefield. Wilford returned with a nicely shot goal for Lindsay and in less than a minute W. Webster bulged the twine behind the Lindsay goalie. J. Killen ended the scoring in this period by beating F. Webster with a difficult shot. The period ended with 4 to 3 in favor of Lindsay, and no penalties.

Both teams showed fatigue in the opening stage of the final period, but picked up and broke away fast into play where the issue was always in doubt. J. Killen scored first for Lindsay; Blewett following for Lakefield, and J. Killen repeating for Lindsay with only one minute to spare.

On play warming up in the last period a few penalties were handed out, L. Sabatino being benched twice. Spectators disagreed with the referee's decision in one, where Sabatino was apparently penalized for being tripped.

J. Sabatino, L. Sabatino and Williams drew penalties on other occasions.

The line-ups were:

Referee, Percy Bond, Peterboro.

THE BONSPIEL CAMPBELLFORD

A. G. Thompson's Rink Carried Off the Honors --Concluding Rounds.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 19.—The local bonspiel was concluded last night, A. G. Thompson's rink carrying off the honors. In the second round, which began at 9.30, Skip W. J. Meiklejohn defeated F. J. Smith by 15 to 10; R. H. Cole won over P. J. Kelly by a score of 10 to 7, and S. J. Moore beat out D. W. Douglas 15 to 14.

In the third round the results were: C. W. Smith, W. J. Meiklejohn and S. J. Moore were eliminated, Skips Cole and Thompson being the survivors. The latter won the final by 18 to 9. The players on the winning rink were: G. G. Stephens, G. O'Sullivan, E. C. Dolman and A. G. Thompson, skip. Skip Cole had M. West for lead, Joe Poulton for second, and A. J. Meyers for vice-skip.

This bonspiel was the first special event of the season, and there was no question about the enthusiasm shown by the members. For a beginning it is considered that the play was creditable.

BRANTFORD WON GAME.

PORT DOVER, Jan. 19.—(Canadian Press).—The O. H. A. season opened here last night with Brantford opposing the Blue and White before a good-sized crowd, the visitors winning by 9 to 5. The first period ended 3 to 2 for Port Dover, and was probably the best play of the evening. Close checking of both sides kept the forward lines from much combination.

ELORA DROPPED GAME.

ELORA, Jan. 19. — (Canadian Press).—In an O. H. A. game here last night Brampton defeated Elora by a score of 7 to 1. The work of Fischer and Dickinson of Elora featured the game, the latter scoring the only goal. The faster forward play of the Brampton team was what won the game for them.

HARRY GREB WON BOUT LAST NIGHT

Received Judge's Decision at End of Fifteen Rounds

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, successfully defended his world's middleweight boxing title last night against Johnny Wilson, of Boston, former title-holder, receiving the judges' decision at the end of a 15-round contest in Madison Square Garden.

The champion carried the milling all through the 15 rounds, and the decision met with the approval of the spectators that filled the Garden. Greb, contrary to his usual method, boxed at long range during the early rounds, and appeared to be as effective at this style of the game as he was with his milling-mauling tactics in the latter part of the bout.

DISPOSED OF WELLAND.

NIAGARA FALLS, Jan. 19. — (Canadian Press).—As anticipated, the local Intermediates had little trouble disposing of Welland in an O.H.A. group game last night. The score of 10 to 0 is a fair indication of the play. While the game was by no means a brilliant affair, it was not without its redeeming features.

LONDON JUNIORS WON.

LONDON, Jan. 19. — (Canadian Press).—London Juniors defeated Ingersoll by 8 to 3 in an O. H. A. Junior game here last night. The locals were superior in all departments. John Monahan, wing man for London, was the star of the game, scoring 3 goals.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, seven times national women's tennis champion, will not represent the United States in the Olympic tennis competition at Paris next July. Hope that the former title holder would be able to compete for the United States, despite the fact that she represented her native Norway in the 1912 Olympic, was abandoned to-day when the United States Lawn Tennis Association was officially notified that the International Olympics Committee had declared Mrs. Mallory ineligible to play for this country.

At the same time, the United States Lawn Tennis Association was informed that International Committee holds Mrs. Maallory eligible to compete again for Norway and it is understood that country has invited Mrs. Mallory to carry the colors of her native land once more.

Mrs. Mallory was quoted recently as saying she would compete for Norway if ineligible to represent the United States.

MONTREAL FEARS HOCKEY EXODUS

Amateur Circles Alarmed By Inroads of Boston Clubs — Open Negotiations Over Movement.

MONTREAL, Jan. 18.—With the departure of Cecil Spriggins, defence man of the local St. Ann's Hockey Club, for Boston, to-day, on the eve of his club's City League game here, Montreal amateur hockey clubs are viewing with alarm the inroads threatened to their ranks by the clubs of Boston, Mass. Others said to be in negotiation with Boston are George Dufresne, now with Nationals of the Eastern Canada Hockey League, and Brisebois, his team mate. Billy Bell, for years a professional player, and who at present has no amateur card, reported to-day that a Boston amateur club wanted him to play two games there.

Boxing Commission Has Summoned Moran.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 18. — Joe Golden, manager of Pal Moran, New Orleans lightweight, who today was signed for a match with Johnny Dundee, in New York, February 1, has been asked to appear before the Wisconsin Boxing Commission and explain why Moran had been signed for a match prior to meeting Johnny Mendelsohn here late in February.

Moran was matched to meet Mendelsohn here last Monday night but contracted a cold. According to the Boxing Commission, the match was postponed with the understanding that Moran would not box between his meeting at St. Louis to-night with Kid Wagner and the date selected for his bout with Mendelsohn, probably February 25, or 28.

EXAMINER GET FIRST VICTORY OF SEASON

The Examiner hockey team auspiciously opened the 1924 season by defeating the Fire Hall Falcons 8 to 1 last night at the Cognawaga Rink.

The game was exceedingly fast throughout, both teams hitting a fast pace. The Examiner gang were in good shape and were going just as good in the last period as they were in the first.

Both teams put up a good exhibition but the Examiner had the advantage of weight and played better combination than the Fire Hall gang.

Practically all the Examiner goals were the result of combination rushes and were all clean cut.

There were no stars on either team, every man giving all he had and all played stellar hockey from the goal-minder out.

The players:

MERCANTILE LEAGUE

Last night in the Mercantile League at Solomon's Alleys, the Examiner took three straight from the Lockworks, and went into the lead in the Mercantile League.

Some great scores were rolled, and Leonard Hayward, who rolled such a nice score last week, came right back and copped the high score for three games, rolling 569. Hayward has been doing some sensational rolling for the Examiner team, and his rolling has been one of the main factors in the Examiner team's success. Last week Hayward rolled 687, and last night he came right back with 569.

Other scores over 500 for three games were: Long, 547; Taylor, 527; Page, 517 and Scates, 515.

A SPECIAL TRAIN FOR LINDSAY GAME

Championship of District Depends Upon Next Tuesday's Fixture.

Lakefield nearly spilled the beans for Lindsay in the game at Cementville last night, the villagers being only one goal down when it was all over. Had Lakefield won, the Petes would have been group winners, regardless of the result of next Tuesday night's game between Peterboro and Lindsay in Lindsay. Now the Petes must win that fixture to capture the group, and it will be a merry old fight, as Lindsay are always hard to beat on their own ice box. In order to give the many local fans who want to see the game a chance to be at the ringside, arrangements have been made for a special train, leaving Peterboro at 7 o'clock, and returning immediately after the game. It is expected that a big crowd will accompany the blue shirts.

The Intermediate group standing is as follows:

	W.	L.	—Goals— For	Agst
Peterboro	3	0	26	4
Lindsay	2	1	18	11
Lakefield	0	4	9	36

The Peterboro Juniors will never play a worse game of hockey than they did here last night. They were utterly at sea all through the game and could do nothing right. The forward utterly failed to play their positions, no one would pass the puck, there was never anybody in for rebounds, and the whole crew played as if suffering from a bad attack of stage fright. The material is there for a good team, with plenty of speed and stick-handling available, but the youngsters will have to develop some semblance of team work if they have ambitions to go very far. Four times last night they had Lindsay playing two men short, but failed to take any advantage of the quadruple opportunity. In fact they were hardly ever dangerous. Lindsay were not much better, and it is a question whether there was ever so much fast skating wasted in a local game before. The dangerous shots by both teams could have been counted on the fingers of both hands.

Fred. Whitcroft, one of the most famous hockey players ever developed in Peterboro, was a spectator at last night's junior game. He is here for a day or two on a visit from Vancouver, and many old friends are glad to welcome him.

TWEED DEFEAT MARMORA TEAM

Hung Up Score of 4-2 in Hard-Checking Game on Marmora Ice In Trent Valley Fixture.

MARMORA, January 19.—Tweed won its second game here last night in the Trent Valley Senior League by defeating Marmora 4 to 2 in a well fought game. This is Marmora's second defeat.

The home team displayed poor hockey in the first period, letting the visitors run up a lead of two.

Penalties were very numerous as Referee William Whitty of Stirling was desirous of teaching both teams to play clean hockey.

In the second period the arrival of Phoney Shannon seemed to encourage the Marmora boys and both teams played excellent hockey, the home team holding the visitors to two goals and evening matters by running in two for themselves.

In the third period Tweed kept up a barrage of shots against the Marmora nets, but the clever goalie Quinn only let two by.

The game ended 4 to 2 in favour of Tweed after a very hard fought contest.

The line-ups were:

COULDN'T SLEEP HEART WAS BAD NERVES A WRECK

Mr. H. A. Reid, Upper Musquodoboit, N.S., writes:—"I am very thankful fro the benefit I have received by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

When I came home from overseas, in 1920, my heart was very badly affected by concussion, and my nerves were a dreadful wreck. I was very short winded, and could not possibly sleep at night, in fact, I was in such a condition I felt as if I did not wish anyone to speak to me. I thought I would try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and before I had taken two boxes I could enjoy a good night's rest as well as anyone.

There are lots of returned men who are suffering the same as I did, and I feel sure that if they would only try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills they will receive the same relief that I have."

ROLAND DENNE RETURNED FOR SEVENTH YEAR

Annual Meeting of the Directors Expressed Confidence in Popular President—Fair Dates Set For September 17, 18, 19 and 20.

EXHIBITION BOARD.

Roland Denne, popular president of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition board for six years past was returned to the position unopposed at the annual meeting of the directors yesterday afternoon. Reg. Turner, vice-president last year, was nominated by Mr. Denne, but declined to contest the seat. "The past president can't be beaten for the position," Mr. Turner said. "He is situated to handle it as no one else can. I wouldn't like to see any vote. I would like to see the president carrying on for another year at least." (Applause).

Mr. Denne protested, thinking it right after six years in the chair, he should make way for someone else. During his term of office, he said, he had received good co-operation. The $43,000 plant was not built by one man alone, but by the spirited co-operation of all the directors. If someone else was elected president, he would be glad to fall in behind and lend all his weight to his support.

Mr. Turner pointed out that his brother is in the Mayor's chair, and when the Exhibition Board came to the City Council for a grant it would not be proper to have a relative at its head.

Mr. Denne took the floor to further protest, but was downed by continued applause.

T. D. Young said there is a big responsibility on the president's shoulders, and if there were anyone else to relieve the President for a year, Mr. Denne would not take it as an offense. "If no one else will take the position to relieve Mr. Denne of the burden for a year," Mr. Young said, "we can do nothing better than to display our confidence in our president by standing and giving him our hearty thanks."

A standing vote of confidence in, and thanks to, President Denne was enthusiastically passed.

Mr. Denne thanked the directors and told them it is due the rural district to have a president appointed from their number. The reason he supports agriculture and is out to help it is because he realized the farmer must specialize in and produce the best in whatever branch he represents.

President's Address

In opening the meeting yesterday President Denne addressed the fifty odd directors who were present, as follows:

"I desire to express my gratitude for your co-operation for another successful year. Our statement shows $1,900.00 for permanent improvements. This does not include all the work done by the farmers' committee, and having the grounds levelled and put in shape for all kinds of sports. I am sorry to say the Baseball Executive did not see their way clear to carry out the agreement to use these grounds, adding expense to the Board to the extent of $500 to $700, incurred in opening the grounds for them.

Nineteen hundred and twenty-four promises new wants. We need the following: A new grand-stand, more accommodation for cattle, a retail merchant's building, a care-taker's house and lavatories. This is for the new Board's consideration.

"I wish to thank the Kiwanis Club for their kind invitation to dine with them on the grounds at the time of the Exhibition. I think it is the best move towards a bigger show, for it means to us that citizens are back of the show. Peterboro Exhibition is the fourth largest in the Province, one of four to get the Dominion grant.

I wish to take this opportunity of thanking the citizens of Peterboro, the County Council, City Council. Merchants, Manufacturers and Exhibitors, G. N, Gordon, K.C., M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., and the Press for their support to the show.

"I am sorry to say that we have had a tremendous loss to the show and to the community in the death of a valued first vice-president, Mr. Harry Webber. He will be missed on the grounds and on the Board Meetings. His advice was always the best and he was a man and a brother to all. We will, at this time, express our sympathy to his family by standing with bowed heads for one minute.

Again thanking the members of the Board for their help in carrying on the work as it is our duty as citizens to make this a better place to live in and the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition a show that we might all be proud of."

Dates Fixed.

By a vote of 43 to 3 the Board adopted the latter part of the week in preference to the first, and the directors unanimously voted to have the exhibition open after the close of the Ottawa exhibition.

It was felt that a great many exhibitors from Ottawa would come here, and that the local exhibition would benefit by the change. Hitherto the two exhibitions have coincided. R. Grandy, speaking from the viewpoint of a breeder of Shorthorns and Clydesdales and C. E. Moore, as a dairy man, said this week should be adopted to get bigger exhibits. Mr. Grandy said Peterboro has the finest prize lists outside Toronto or Ottawa, and the list is sufficient to bring exhibitors here if the dates are right.

W. R. Shields and W. Steinkrauss were of the opinion that accommodation should be provided for high grade cattle. There is no advantage in bringing exhibitors of high class animals here if they must tie their exhibits to a wire fence, the latter remarked.

The dates decided upon were September 17, 18, 19 and 20, the Ottawa exhibition closing on the 13th.

R. M. Glover broached the question of obtaining someone to open the exhibition, but no steps were taken towards a selection.

Among suggestions brought forward by Mr. Denne were:

The running of field days on May 24 and Civic holiday to make money for improvements.

An old boys' and girls' reunion, carried out by the city with the help of the Exhibition Board.

That the Board go as a whole to the County Council at its sitting next week to request a grant. A new barn is needed this year and $2,000 at least will be required. Last year, he said, the County Council granted only $175, against the city's grant of $2,000.

On a question to the meeting it was decided to appear before the County Council at 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, the whole Board to attend.

Miscellaneous Business

J. Seymour suggested a bee to build the barn, and the proposal met with general approval because of the saving this would mean to the Board.

Messrs. W. Roseborough and C. F. Kitney were the mover and seconder of the proposal to hold the Fair on Wednesday to Saturday, and the lost amendment favoring Monday to Thursday was fathered by J. Seymour and S. A. Oke.

W. R. Shields and R. M. Glover proposed that a request be sent to W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., asking him to interview the Minister of Agriculture with regard to the appointment of a district representative in Peterboro city.

F. Holmes and J. Seymour proposed that a letter of congratulation on his recovery from a long illness be sent to Gordon Matthews.

G. H. Duncan and W. S. Merrill proposed that a letter of condolence be sent the family of the late Harry Webber.

Walter Blackwell, architect, offered his services to the Board in the place of W. H. Barry, and was given an ovation.

The spring stallion show was abandoned on motion of R. Grandy and W. Roseborough.

Officers Elected

F. J. A. Hall was retained as secretary on motion of R. Glover and F. Holmes.

Charles Cummer was re-appointed treasurer on motion of N. Kelly and R. Boates.

Nominations for the position of vice-president were: T. McIndoo, named by W. Steinkrauss and J. Gillespie; Reg. Turner, named by C. Moore and S. Milburn; C. Moore, named by W. R. Shields and E. W. Wood; and J. Ball, named by W. Roseborough and F. Holmes.

On the result of a ballot, Reg. Turner was declared elected first vice-president, and Thomas McIndoo second vice-president.

New names proposed for the Board of Directors were: Joseph Grierson, Frank Savigny, Harvey Webber, J. Seymour, W. Blackwell, Harold Baptie, J. C. Moore, J. E. Adams, Charles Westlake, Frank Pratt and W. B. Fowler.

NOVELTY DIVERTISSEMENT OFFERED AT CAPITOL

A novelty offering on the Capitol theatre program next week will be the presentation of numbers by two of the greatest operatic tenors of all time. Enrico Caruso, whose golden voice will live forever, will be presented singing his ever-popular number, O. Sole Mio. Following Caruso's death, Edward Johnson, noted American tenor became the leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, and assumed the roles made famous by Caruso. Capitol patrons will be given an opportunity to judge the merits of the voices of these two great singers when they hear them singing on Victor records at the Capitol Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Johnson will sing, "That You May Believe in Me" from Puccini's opera "The Girl of the Golden West." It was from this opera and the stage play and book of the same name, that the feature attraction at the Capitol next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday was adapted. The thrilling story of the Gold Rush days of California makes a splendid, enthralling photoplay.

REAL RELICS OF OLD WEST PROPS FOR CAREWE DRAMA

Famous Vigilante Bell, and Many Treasures of '49 Used in Play

Realism is the keynote of Edwin Carewe's production of "The Girl of the Golden West," a First National picture coming to the Capitol Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Not only were the exteriors of the play taken in the territory made famous as the scene of the historic California gold rush of 1849, but also most of the screen play "props" were actually used in that celebrated stampede.

For instance, the stage coach which figures prominently in some of the most dramatic action of the play, was the same coach which more than fifty years ago rumbled over the mountain passes of the High Sierras, carrying mail and passengers between Modesto and Sonora.

Its movie driver — Slim Padgint— was the same Slim Padgint, the driver of the stage thirty years ago and the veteran of not less than ten thrilling hold-up by famous—or infamous—road agents who infested the region in that most romantic period of Californian history.

Another relic that bridges the colorful past with the more effete present also got into the picture. It is the celebrated vigilante bell of Malonies, which, still hanging in the center of the almost deserted town, recalls the days when it was the signal which summoned that famous band of early law and order.

As the bell was used then, so was it used in the picture to organize the movie vigilantes to hunt "Ramerrez" the bandit, the character portrayed by J. Warren Kerrigan.

Adelaide Heilbron adapted the story to the screen from the famous David Belasco stage success. In the cast besides Kerrigan are Slyvia Breamer, Russell Simpson, Rosemary Theby, Wilfred Lucas, Hector Sarno, Nelson McDowell, Charles McHugh and others of note.

At the Capitol

ALL-STAR CAST ENACTS "ISLE OF LOST SHIPS"

With an all-star cast, which includes Milton Sills, Anna Q. Nilson, Frank Campeau and Walter Long, "The Isle of Lost Ships," a First National attraction directed by Maurice Tourneur and produced by M. C. Levee, is coming to the Capitol Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Critenden Marriot wrote the story, which is declared to be one of the most unusual ever seen on the screen.

With the poetic touch which characterizes all Maurice Tourneur productions, this novel story has been picturized in a weirdly realistic and beautiful manner. Lovers of the unusual and picturesque will find "The Isle of Lost Ships" one of the most diverting pictures ever shown here.

One of the most exciting scenes in the picture shows the escape of the hero and heroine from an "island of ships" in the Sargasso Sea by means of a submarine, which had also been added to the "island" by the action of the elements. Interior "shots" of the undersea boat furnish remarkable effects.

AT THE ROYAL.

CHILD ACTRESS AT ROYAL ON MONDAY.

Little Blanch, the phenomenal child artist, headlines the vaudeville at the Royal on Monday. This clever girl is playing only four engagements in Canada. She opens on the Pantage circuit, Monday, Feb. 11th. The McKay-Earl Trio have a comedy-singing, talking, piano act, entitled "A Dog's Life in two parts." The third act, McMahon and Adelaide, is an athletic novelty, feats of strength, toe dancing, bag punching, etc. The photo-play production is William De Mille's latest "Don't Call it Love," with Jack Holt and Agnes Ayres.

WOMEN WON'T LEAVE HIM ALONE; POOR JACK HOLT IN A QUANDRY.

Probably the most comptex love triangle ever written into a motion picture is that in William de Mille's latest production for Paramount — "Don't Call it Love." It is composed of:

C

Agnes Ayres, a wonderful girl who loves with all her heart, who realizes that the man she loves is an avowed bachelor, and knows that for herself, there will never be another man.

Jack Holt, a perfectly selfish bachelor who never intends to marry. It is Holt whom Miss Ayres loves.

Nita Naldi, an opera star, whose temperament demands that she always be in love with someone new and interesting.

The confidence of Holt, the shaking of that confidence when he is suddenly smitten with the passionate beauty of Miss Naldi, the dramatic climax when she ignores him for a new found love and his humility as he returns to Miss Ayres to beg her forgiveness; the fiery outbursts of Miss Naldi, her violent flirtations and her absolute coldhearted disposal of those who fall beneath her spell; the sweetness of Miss Ayres, her silent suffering as she sees her lover slipping away from her and her indescribable joy when he returns—these are the ingredients that combine to make "Don't Call it Love" a production that ranks as the best Wiliam de Mille has ever given the public.

This picture comes to the run of three days to the Royal Theatre on Monday next. The above mentioned trio is featured as also are Theodore Kosloff and Rod la Rocque. It's an adaptation of the novel "Rita Coventry" by Julian Street.

AT THE REGENT.

CHARLES RAY BUYS WESTERN LUNCH COUNTER

"Old Dutch" has nothing on Star When he Starts Cleaning Up.

If cleanliness is next to godliness Charles Ray has reserved a front row seat inside the Golden Gate, for in his latest First National production, "The Deuce of Spades," which is coming to the Regent Theatre, he is cast as a restaurant proprietor who believes in keeping everything as spotless as a clear sky.

The contrast is brought out all the more deftly by the fact that the star's predecessor in the management of the restaurant was an individual to whom dirt was as much a part of life as the morning cup of coffee.

When Ray takes over the place the transformation is nothing short of a miracle. Spoons that have been greasy with generations of dirt are changed into shining bits of metal, and plates that have never seen daylight mirage the reflection of the faces beaming into them.

The restaurant, which had formerly gained the sobriquet of "The Greasy Spoon," is rehabilitated as an emporium of sanity. The inhabitants of the small western mining community in which the story is enacted look upon it with suspicion at first. Finally their reluctance to recognize such as innovation as cleanliness is overcome; and the restaurant becomes a popular meeting place.

Ray's part in this story gives him the opportunity of getting over some good comedy bits as well as displaying his art in the role of an unsophisticated youth who comes to the west from Boston "to grow up with the country."

New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. — (United Press).—"Sup" indications increasingly evident in recent sessions of added falling off in speculative enthusiasm were accentuated at the week-end in the stock market.

Some half-hearted attempts at resumption of operations for the rise took place in issues like General Electric and Consolidated Gas.

But these were checked by outbursts of selling in pool controlled issues, which suggested that group activities were not likely to find conditions so propitious during the next few weeks which constructive interests appear to have set aside as period of rest and digestion, such a programme is not to be interpreted to indicate that the hope of generally higher prices later on has been abandoned. On the contray, it is believed that the rise may be resumed with renewed vigor in February if the market is given time now to consolidate its position after the extensive recovery in November and December.

Unsettlement resulted in the general list at the start of the second hour from another disturbance in Cast Iron Pipe Common, which dropped abruptly to 23-4, off more than three points from Friday's high. This break precipitated selling in Davidson Chemical and similar issues, and checked the forward tendency in evidence in special issues, in the earlier dealings.

Phillips Petroleum dropped to 34 3-8 against a high of 37 3-8 in the previous session, depressed by an offering of approximately 300,000 additional shares to stockholders.

No change took place in the character of the market in the final dealings. General Electric scored a further gain, reaching a high of 202, while a fresh forward movement got under way in Associated Oil, which reached a new high for the year at 31.

Issues under pressure earlier in the session continued heavy, however, and the market closed without definite progress in either direction.

Mercantile surveys reported continued heavy distribution of mercantile, which a wholesome conservative governing operations.

The situation suggested that dealers generally are maintaining a hand-to-mouth policy as regards buying until the tendencies of the spring season might be better appraised.

The condition heightened the hesitating disposition shown by the stock market all week and a continuance of two-sided trading took place in the early turnover.

Maxwell "A" and issues similarly affected by improving business displayed special strength, while heaviness was still in evidence in Baldwin and other leading industrials.

Further Crude Oil advances were marked up to-day along with additioned gasoline advances.

Little selling pressure was in evidence in the first hour, and operations for the rise went ahead in various industrial and public utility issues. Consolidated Gas was featured in the latter group, reaching a new high on the movement at 64 3-4. This was the best level reached since last autumn, taking into consideration the recent right to subscribe to twenty per cent. additional stock. The gas strength mirrored the forthcoming annual report, which is expected to demonstrate conclusively the company's ability to more than cover the $5 dividend on the increased capital.

General Electric led the industrials making a further new high at 201½. This advance was in recognition of the company's remarkably good outlook for 1924. General Electric entered the new year with unfilled orders around $110,000,000, against $76,220,000 at the close of 1922.

HOLD PLEBISCITE SAYS NEW LEADER

To Determine What is Best Form of Government for Greece

ATHENS, Jan. 19.—(By Anthony Papayannakis, United Press Staff Correspondent.)— Premier Venizelos plans for discovering what kind of government Greece really wants then making that government effective, were learned by the United Press to-day.

A plebiscite will be held shortly on whether the House of Glucksburg is satisfactory. The ruling head of this dynasty, King George, is at present in Roumania, by request of his subjects.

If the verdict of the plebiscite is unfavorable to the Glucksburg dynasty another plebiscite will be held a fortnight later on whether a constitutional monarchy or a republic is wanted.

"I personally shall vote for a republic," Venizelos told the United Press. "But I promise to carry out the people's verdict." After the plebiscite M. Houssos is going to the United Sttaes to discuss a $33,000,000 credit for Greece.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Women spend about 90 per cent of the money used for ultimate products, so it is good economy for any man to co-operate in teaching them the importance of investing wisely.

Women do not buy the steers on hoof, the bales of cotton or the standing timber. But they do buy about 90 per cent of all final products—that is, 90 per cent of all the beefsteaks, shoes, cotton goods, thread and furniture. Millions of dollars worth of business is transacted every month through the hands of women.

Modern business has made specialists of us all. Generally speaking, men specialize in producing and women in dispensing incomes—no one person can adequately attend to both functions.

It is worth the while of the producing member to make sure that the women of his family understand the importance of reserving some portion of the income for investment, since the amount of income available for investment will likely depend upon the spending of the women of the average family.

BRITISH COMMONS VOTES TO-NIGHT ON GOVERNMENT

MACDONALD WILL GIVE IMPERIAL TRADE SUPPORT

Labor Leader, If Chosen Premier, Will Not Regard Imperial Conference Proposals As Mere Scrap of Paper — Public Less Anxious.

CABINET IN CUSTODY.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The Sunday Times (Independent) remarks that some Liberals have been assuming that imperial preference has been slain as well as insular protection and that the proposals made at the recent economic conference have become a scrap of paper. They may be surprised to hear therefore, says the Times, that Ramsay MacDonald is prepared to give them respectful consideration and has undertaken that in the event of his becoming premier the proposals will be laid before the house for free discussion. Mr. MacDonald goes even further says the Times, for he expresses the view that the Labor party is in full sympathy with the movement to develop trade within the Empire and strengthen commercial relations with the Dominions.

The same paper notes a distinct abatement of the anxiety in city circles concerning the advent of a Labor government. There is a general opinion that MacDonald will play for safety during the early months of term in office and be cautious to the verge of timidity.

J. L. Garvin in his paper, the Sunday Observer declares that the nation's flesh has refused to creep at the prospect of a Labor government taking office. "MacDonald at best can only become the head of a cabinet in custody. The Laborites, having regard to their future, dare not try to stay in too long, nor can any minority ministry whatever have the parliamentary power at home and the authoritative repute abroad which ought to belong to any government in Britain. The only course for MacDonald and his colleagues is to set before themselves a limited term of office which ought to be not less than five or six months and not more than twelve."

F. J. MERRETT HAS LOST 3 BROTHERS

All Died as Results of War Injuries--News Just Received of Last.

F. J. Merrett, dairyman, of Peterboro, has just received news of the death of his brother Frank, after a serious operation, in London, England, necessitated by the effects of gas during the world war. It was only last May that he lost his brother George.

Another brother, Harry, was in the merchant service, and on the Alunia, at Montreal, when his ship was chartered by the Government as one of the fleet of 33 ships that carried Canada's first contingent to England. On arrival there he joined the army, and on his way to the front the ship on which he was being transported was torpedoed in the Mediterranean. After clinging to wreckage for several hours he was picked up and sent to the Eastern front, where he remained to the end of the war. He died on the day of the Armistice, November 11, 1918.

Mrs. Merrett's brothers were also at the front, one of them being killed in action and the others escaping without injury. They were members of the Imperial forces.

CHURCHILL'S PROPOSED THRUST AT SOCIALISM CANNOT DELAY CLIMAX

Political Fates Carrying Baldwin Government to Defeat and Resignation, According to Predictions, With Labor to Be Summoned By King George to Form Government.

FOLLOW PRECEDENT

LONDON, January 21 (Canadian Press). — So far as Winston Spencer Churchill's broadside may have been expected to influence the actual parliamentary situation, it has completely miscarried. As previously explained, his suggested plan fails to fit into the groove of accepted parliamentary procedure, and at most it is only likely to detach some few Liberal sympathisers from voting for the Labour amendment recording non-confidence in the Baldwin Government, but cannot delay the climax.

Mr. Churchill's proposal is that Parliament proceed with consideration of the address and later send to the Crown a reply, which if it expressed want of confidence in the Government, should also record its repudiation of Socialism.

Defeated on Issue.

Similar attacks on Labour by Mr. Churchill during the general election only resulted in leaving him without a seat in the House of Commons, he being badly defeated by a strong advocate of a capital levy. The present prospect is that before midnight to-day the non-confidence amendment, introduced by John Robert Clynes, will be voted by a substantial majority, and that thereupon J. Ramsay MacDonald will get further debate closed and the House will adjourn to allow the Government to consider its position.

The decision of the Government undoubtedly will be for resignation, and the Premier, Stanley Baldwin, will advise the King to send for Mr. MacDonald as the leader of the next strongest Party.

King George has always treated the Labour leaders with fine courtesy and never displayed the slightest trace of th political partiality or strong personal likes and dislikes which characterised the late Queen Victoria's dealings with her Ministers. Therefore, there is not the slightest reason to suppose that the King will depart in any way from the constitutional practice, but will call upon Ramsay MacDonald to form a Government.

Upper House Support.

A notable feature of the situation is that Mr. MacDonald apparently will have less difficulty in filling the appointments of his first ministry than appeared a while ago.

Under the law, a certain proportion of the members of the Government must belong to the House of Lords, and it was at first supposed that this would present a difficulty for Mr MacDonald, compelling him to create new peers for the purpose.

According to the latest reports, this may not be so necessary, for some of the independent peers not attached definitely to any party, like Milner, Hardinge, and Parmoor, are being mentioned as not unwilling to join the Labour Government.

It is also reported that Oswald E. Mosley, son-in-law of Foreign Secretary Curzon, an Independent, and also an able, brilliant politician, will be elevated to the peerage, and will join MacDonald's administration.

One idea was that Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, better known under his former title as Lord Robert Cecil, might consent to join, and thus continue his work for the League of Nations, but it now is stated that he is disinclined to this plan, and will temporarily retire from politics, undertaking a European tour of investigation.

WARKWORTH, Jan. 21. — Frank Morgan, a prosperous farmer living in the village of Morganston, near here, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by cutting his throat The family went to church in the afternoon, and Morgan went to the barn presumably to do some work. Later in the day he was found lying in the barn with his throat cut Coroner J. N. Richards of Warkworth was called and ordered an inquest.

Morgan was about 60 years of age. He leaved a wife and four children. No reason can be given for his rash act.

Boy Dragged to Death by Horse

INGERSOLL, Ont., Jan. 21. —(Canadian Press). — Jack, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herns, West Zorra Township, was almost instantly killed on his father's farm on Saturday when a horse which he was leading out to water bolted and dragged him around the barnyard two or three times.

The little fellow, in taking the horse from its stall, tied the end of the halter strap about his waist, and when the animal bolted he could not extricate himself. His skull was fractured and his jaw also broken.

DEEPEN SEINE FLOOD LESSON

Project Announced By French Minister of Public Works Would Float Ships to Paris.

PARIS, Jan. 21. — (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—A comprehensive scheme which it is hoped will greatly lessen the effects of floods in future has been made public by M. Le Trocquer, minister of public works. Hitherto projects for preventing floods in Paris districts have included a plan for a Marne diversion canal but this scheme which would be very costly now appears to have been rejected. It is now proposed that the river Seine should be deepened as far as Rouen. The deepening of the river to 16 feet would enable vessels drawing 14 feet to come to Paris from the sea with cargoes of 2,000 to 2,500 tons. The old weirs and locks would be replaced by modern ones. Three weirs of the eight between Paris and Rouen would be eliminated so that the remaining five would have a fall of over 13 feet thus providing sufficient water power to drive electric power stations. Requests have already been received for the concessions for three of these falls.

M. Le Trocquer has estimated that the deepening of the Seine and the provision of new weirs would cost about nine hundred million francs and the work could be executed in 15 years. It is estimated that the scheme should reduce the flood level by 6½ feet below Paris but probably not more than 2 feet, 3 inches above Paris as the curve of the river through the city forms a bottle neck. One section of the work which may be begun at once is the removal of the barrage opposite the mint where the left arm of the river joins the right arm.

FIREMEN FELL INTO OIL VAT

Seven Reported Killed in Fire at Oil Plant

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21.—(United Press.)—Seven firemen were reported killed in fighting an oil fire at the plant of the Atlantic Refining Company in Lawrenceville. Many suffered from the intense cold. Scores of others were reported injured.

The firemen were killed when they fell into a tank of blazing fuel.

The fire was still burning fiercely. Starting in a ten thousand barrel tank of oil, it threatened to spread to adjoining tanks.

All available firemen in the city were called out.

Company officials refused to allow newspaper men near the scene of the blaze, claiming there had been too much "publicity" in the million dollar fire at the same plant a year ago.

MINERS EXPECT TO RESUME WORK PENDING TRUCE

Are Prepared to Meet the Operators In Negotiations and Continue Work During That Period on the 1923 Wage Basis.

MORE OPTIMISTIC.

SYDNEY, NS., Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press).—There is a general feeling over the week-end at Glace Bay and the colliery districts, that the suspension of operations at the coal mines of the British Empire Steel Corporation, Cape Breton and the mainland, will be lifted by Wednesday or Thursday of this week and that the production will be resumed on a larger scale than that which prevailed previous to the breaking off of negotiations for a new wage contract, on January 15th. Provisional President Barrett expects a reply from International President Lewis this afternoon, advising him as to what action should be taken in regard to the proposal of the Premier of Nova Scotia that the company and the men resume work for a period of fifteen days for the purpose of renewing negotiations for a new wage scale.

Mediator Not Needed.

As far as could be learned from President Barrett, the local executive considers that the time for a mediator has not yet arrived, in view of the fact that the miners are prepared to meet the operators at any time, providing the pits are put in operation and the men paid the 1923 wage. The decision of the corporation to resume operations under the Premier's plan is taken by the rank and file of the men to mean they may be induced to even go a little further and consent to operating the mines again, and resume negotiations where they broke off on Tuesday last, without any strings attached as to the time when conferences should end.

Men Optimistic.

Conditions at the mines were tranquil over the week-end, and the men are in a more optimistic frame of mind than they were on Friday.

Resolutions have been passed by the locals at Sydney Mines, Dominion Number 6, and by the Mechanics' Local at Glace Bay, expressing entire confidence in the provisional officers and endorsing their work up to the present.

There are absolutely no signs this morning among the mine workers of Cape Breton of an early move back to the pits. At United Mine Workers headquarters it was stated positively that no reply has yet been made to Premier Armstrong's proposal of a fifteen day working truce for resumption of negotiations, nor have any additional instructions been received from Indianapolis.

When Andrew Steel, John L. Lewis, personal envoy, who left Sydney several days ago to make a direct report to the chief of the United Mine Workers at Indianapolis, advises Lewis of the situation, a faster development of the situation in Cape Breton may be expected. It is not considered likely that Persident Lew is will authorize a resumption of work.

North Battleford Fires Suspicious

SASKATOON, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press)—Fire, thought to have been set by an incendiary, Friday destroyed the Canadian National freight shed at North Battleford. Loss is estimated at $15,000, $2,000 of which is freight destroyed. Three other fires which started at about the same time making a total of ten within 48 hours have aroused a strong suspicion that a fire bug is at work.

Below Zero Temperatures Are Registered All Over Ontario

White River Dives Deep to 58 Degrees Below Zero Mark—Peterborough Had 12 Below at Noon.

TORONTO, January 21. — Canadian Press. — All Ontario is to-day celebrating the advent of the second month of winter, and sub-zero temperatures are general throughout the province—and for the first time this year at many points.

In Southern Ontario the mercury was hovering around the zero mark at eight o'clock, but in Northern Ontario temperatures prevailed that were low enough to make even the hardiest of the old pioneers revise their opinion that winters nowadays are nothing like they used to be.

At White River the thermometer, ready and willing at all times to give an exhibition of deep diving, almost outdid itself when it it touched 58 degrees below zero.

This is by far its best performance of the season and is within two degrees of the record of 60 degreesbelow zero, made by White River on Feb. 6, 1895.

The records of the local meteorological office as far as White River is concerned, date back to 1887.

Doucet, Quebec, has been a disapointment in its performance so far this year, and this morning could do not better than 44 below. The cold wave is moving towards the east, and though moderating somewhat Doucet is expected to do better within the next 24 hours.

Sault Ste. Marie with 18 below at 8 o'clock, was ten degrees below Winnipeg while Prince Albert was the star performer in Alberta with 6 below.

Although 60 below zero, White River's record, is the lowest record in Ontario, the weatherman refused to get enthusiastic, saying that temperatures as low as 70 degrees below zero have been attained in Northern Alberta, and also in Siberia. When readings were received in pre-war time from Siberia, temperatures of 80 below were not uncommon.

IN PETERBORO.

In Peterboro there was a continuous argument all morning between thermometers all over the city. One in the south end told the world it was 17 below zero when the weather man officially announced it was only 4 below at 7 o'clock. Another in the west end triumphantly reached a point lower at 11 o'clock.

Officially, Peterboro shivered at 7 o'clock at 4 begrees below zero, and the mercury dipped at noon to 12 below.

The cold came from the west and moderated on its way to Peterboro. That was lucky, because it was cold enough. The west has not run out of stock yet, and the probs say "decidedly" cold for to-night.

After to-night it is expected there will be a shortage of cold on the prairies, and on Tuesday, the weather man says, Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan will be sending consignments of milder weather.

Such Is Mother Love

Quaker Woman, 92, Traces Son, 70, to Jail After Long Separation—Finds Him Broken on Wheel of Life and Charged With Theft.

"THEE ART STILL MY LITTLE BOY."

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.— 'Mother o' mine, O, mother o' mine——'

A ninety-two-year-old mother, as fragile as a bit of porcelain, as lovely as a stained-glass Madonna, was carried into the Raymond Street Jail Brooklyn, Friday wer after a separation of twenty years she embraced her boy,—a bearded man of seventy-two, broken on the wheel of life.

"Thee hast not changed at all—thee art still my little boy."

So she sobbed.

Then after a moment:

"Thee must be careful and not take cold. See, these socks were knitted for thee.

It was a few days before Christmas that a friend of this Quaker mother, Mrs. Margaret Lateer, went into her home at Branchville, N.J., and showed her an item in a New York City newspaper as a mere matter of curiosity.

Carpenter Out of Work

An aged carpenter out of work, George Doty, had been arrested in Brooklyn, charged with smashing a shop window and stealing a phonograph. When arraigned before Judge Franklin Taylor in County Court, Doty said his skill as a carpenter counted for nothing that he was refused work because of his age. He was remanded for sentence January 21.

The mother listened to the news item, then remarked quietly that once she was married to a man named Doty; that she had had a son named George. but that he went to Brooklyn in 1903 searching work—and he never came back, and he never wrote to her. Turning to this friend, Mrs. S. C. Laurence, she asked:

"Wilt thou write to the jail and ask if 'tis my little boy"

For in her mind her boy had never grown up.

In due time Warden Harry Honeck received the letter written in Branchville. He walked back into the cell corridor and locked at George Doty, sunk in revery. 'Twas the man who had come to Brooklyn twenty years ago, and who had never written home.

Every Courtesy

Mr. Honeck replied by the next mail, and offered every courtesy in his power to the aged mother if she wished to visit her boy. So yesterday an automobile drew up in front of Raymond Street Jail, bringing a frail little creature wearing a white lace cap, and looking ever so much like a Rubens' canvas come to life.

"I've come to see my boy—thee art the warden?"

A wheeled chair was brought, and Mr. Honeck had her tenderly lifted into his private office. Under one arm she carried a box of candy, and in her hands were a pair of socks she had feverishly knitted in the past few days.

"Which door does he enter "

This she wanted to know, so her chair was turned so that she would have her first glimpse of him as he stepped into the room.

The warden withdrew and she sat there, staring straight ahead, with a look of intense yearning in her eyes.

A shadow fell across the doorway and then an aged, decripit man with a scraggly beard, clad in tattered garments, which he had vainly tried to make neat, tottered to the threshold.

Son Meets Mother

Just for an instant he stood there, with one hand on the door-jamb, gazing uncertainly with bleary eyes at the dainty old soul, attired in the black silk dress she wears to meeting house.

"Why Georgie — 'tis thee! Thee hast not changed at all—thee art still my little boy."

George Doty fell on his knees at her feet, and the warden closed the corridor door. From within came sounds of heavy sobbing.

After a little while the door opened. Would the warden be so kind as to see the Georgie could send out and buy some clothes with the money she had brought him? And would the warden have a piece of candy she had brought It was a bit crushed, because she had held it tighty, fearing she would lose it, but perhaps he would overlook that, just as Georgie did.

Ten minutes later they carried her gently out through the jail doors, down the steps, and placed her in an automobile. On her face—now shining like a lovely cameo carved from alabaster— was a look of indescribable happiness.

McMaster Returning From Western Trip.

BRANDON, Man., January 21 (Canadian Press). — A. R. McMaster, M.P., left for the east on Saturday after completing his tour of Western Canada. He delivered a short address to the Canadian Club of a purely non-political nature, in which he urged that class hatred and divisions should be eliminated, and that all should work for the common good of Canada, was to recommon good if Canada was to remain free of the unrest which now retarded construction in the Old Land.

George Kent Made Home in Otonabee Over Century Ago

With the meeting of the County Council to-morrow and the appearance of Morley Smithson as Reeve and representative from Otonabee, there is recalled the first settlement of the township one hundred and five years ago.

George Kent was the first settler in the district, cutting a clearing for himself in 1819. The record that has come down through the 105 years tells in true pioneer spirit that the mosquitoes troubled the first settler more than did the wolves which howled around his lonely clearing.

George Kent helped to cut the first road through Peterboro, and was prominent in the work of the township and district for many years.

OPEN AVENUES OF COMMERCE

Only Medium By Which Countries of America Can Remain Great Nations.

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 20.—Opening up of all commercial avenues to the interior of the country is the only medium through which Canada and the United States can hope to become and remain great nations, declared Hugh J. Hughes, Marketing Director of Minnesota, in addressing a meeting of agriculturists here on Saturday.

"We desire to direct our national life so that the Anglo-Saxon ideals may be maintained. This does not necessarily limit our desire for citizens to those of Anglo-Saxon birth, but to those only of that viewpoint. It includes the Scandinavian and the German and those who are willing to accept our ideals.

"To prevent the Mississippi Valley being hemmed in by a great foreign element on the east, we seek the development of the St. Lawrence waterways and the Mississippi as avenues of commerce. Were I speaking as a Canadian, I should urge the Hudson Bay route and the Pacific route as well. Let us have our commercial centres distributed evenly over our countries so that we will have a chance to assimilate our foreign born citizens."

THE WEATHER.

A strong wind from the northwest, combined with low temperature, and drifting snow, had a tendency to curtail the jaunts of those accustomed to take their Sunday "constitutional." The lowest temperature last night was 4 below zero., and this morning at seven o'clock it still hovered around the same figure. Later it began to drop, and by the noon hour it stood at 12 below zero. —W. P.

RAILROADS ARE RUNNING SMALL TRAIN SERVICE

Companies Are Optimistic But Strikers Profess to Tie Up Eighty Per Cent. of Traffic--New Government Embarassed.

MEN DETERMINED

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press)—A statement early this morning at headquarters of the Associated society of locomotive engineers and firemen which last midnight called a strike on the railways of Great Britain, said the men were coming out solidly and standing together splendidly. Press telegrams arriving through the small hours of the day suggested that this assertion will be likely to prove not far from the truth

Attempts by the railroad companies to run trains on restricted schedules are being watched anxiously by the public. If the locomotive men belonging to the National Union obey the instructions of John H. Thomas and other leaders to ignore the strike, some districts of England Scotland and Wales, will not fare altogether badly. Companies this morning continued to profess their ability to meet the needs of the trav elling public to a considerable degree and said the strike must be of short duration. However, J. Bromley, Secretary of the Associated Society of Firemen and Engineers, expressed conviction that the strike could hold up eighty per cent of the traffic of the country in a fortnight, which time he said would be long enough to prevent the companies from making profits. The organization leaders say the companies will lose more in two weeks than they can make in five years.

London newspapers roundly condemn the strike with the exception of the Laborite Daily Herald.

Embarrasses Government

Great Britain's new ship of state commanded by an inexperienced captain and manned by an unskilled crew, is scheduled to embark at 11 o'clock to-night for an unknown destination.

The tortuous course, through troubled seas, is strewn with submerged rocks while over head rages the storm, which, after blowing for a fortnight broke with full fury today.

Had the departing Tories deliberately set about to devise a plan which would be most embarrassing to the new Labor Government, they could not have done better than what a large section of that movemen's own adherents accomplished through the strike weapon although that, of course, was not the purpose of the walkout at midnight.

Ramsay MacDonald and his prospective colleagues of the new Government after failing in every possible argument to persuad the officials of that Associated Society of Engineers and Firemen to accept a compromise, now are endeavoring to circumscribe the strike and minimize its effects by inducing all other railway employees to remain at work.

Government Fate To-night

Passage of Labor's confidence motion in the House of Commons to-night will mean the disappearance of what political observers predict will prove to be the last purely conservative government in Britain, ushering in a new era in British politics.

Among chief speakers at to-day's final debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne are Prime Minister Baldwin, David Lloyd George, and Ramsay MacDonald. Division has been fixed for eleven o'clock to-night. The vote will take about fifteen minutes and the result should be known not later than 11.30. The latest estimates place the majority hostile to the government at about 65.

EXTRAORDINARY U. S. FIGURES ON FIRES.

Farmhouses Burn every Seven Minutes, Five Churches and Five Schools Daily.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21. — A steadily increasing loss of life and property from fires in the United States during 1922, the last full reliable year reached 15,000 deaths and damages of $500,000,000, according to an analysis of fire reports for the entire country by "The Nation's Business." An average of 41 persons are burned to death and 47 injured seriously every 24 hours, with a property loss of $16 a second, the compilation shows.

Five school houses burn each day, while 15 hotels have fires daily. One farm building is said to go up in smoke every seven minutes with one dwelling adding fuel to the flames each four minutes, and four warehouses, together with one hospital, and five churches, every time the clock makes a round.

The report emphasizes that nine out of ten of the fires could be prevented.

LITERARY CLUB HELD MEETING

Report Says Remarkable Skill Was Demonstrated Throughout Play.

This month's meeting of the P.C.I. Literary Society was held in the Assembly Hall,, Friday afternoon. The program was in the hands of the Fifth Formers, who staged their annual stunt in competition for the inter-form stunt banner now held by the Fourth Form.

The stunt took the form of a charade in three acts. The scenes were laid about a Swiss Inn and the Fifth Formers had everything in the way of local colour necessary for such a setting. The costumes were all novel and correct in every detail showing real artistic taste and creative power The acting was anything but amateurish and the whole play was carried off in an easy manner and with remarkable skill.

Robert Fowler perhaps carried off highest honors as Lord Algernon Van Loon, while Robert Cormack was a close second as Sandy Earl of Monteith the droll Scotsman.

"All in All" the Fourth Form will have to show real skill in order to keep the banner decorating their wall.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

MISTER SPRIGG GOES TO SLEEP

"St!" whispered Wynken to Blynken.

Wynken and Blynken , the Sandman's two helpers, were always playing jokes on somebody.

They were snooping around Daddy Gander Land the day after the circus looking for a good chance to play a joke, when they came upon Mister John Spragg sitting on a cracker box outside of the A. B. C. grocery store.

"St!" shispered Wynken to Blynken. "Have you got any extra grains of sleepy sand about you?"

'H'm!" said Blynken. "I'll look and see. Yes, here are half a dozen grains I had left over from last night when I couldn't find the Old Shoe Woman's six oldest children. They'd gone to the movies."

"Fine!" declared Wynken. "Less put him to sleep."

So the two little racals crept nearer and nearer and when they got quite close, Blynken took the six grains between his finger and thumb and blew!

It wasn't more 'n two minutes till Mister Sprigg was sound asleep. His head went down lower and lower and lower until it rested quite on his his ears as though it would fall off at every snore.

Then away skipped the two little sand fairies, chuckling with del at their joke. "Won't Missez Sprigg be cross, though, when her husband doesn't come home to supper!" laughed Wynken.

"And won't he catch it for disgracing himself and going to sleep right out on the street!" grinned Blynken.

Well, Master Sprigg slept on and on, never noticing that the sun was getting lower and lower and that he should be starting home in order to get there in time for Dame Sprigg's meal. If there was one thing that she hated more than anything else, it was to have her fried potatoes and scrambled egs and hot muffins and coffee get cold.

Now, Johnnie Small had a new gun. It wasn't an air rifle, but a real one that shot real lead bullets. His mother and daddy didn't approve of it at all, but his uncle had given it to him for his birthday, so what were they to do.

And like most boys with guns, he went out to see what he could shoot. But there wasn't a thing in sight in Mother Goose Land—I mean in Daddy Gander Land.

He was on his way home when suddenly on turning a corner, he came upon Mister Sprigg, sleeping—you know how. And his wig toppling off his head—all but.

And what did Johnny Small do but lift his rifle to his eye and pull the trigger. Bang!

Away went the wig and up jumped Mister Sprigg as though he'd been shot. And so he was—nearly.

"My! My! I must have been dozing!" he cried looking at his watch. I must hurry or Susan will be peeved. I see my wig has dropped off. Will you please get it for me, young fellow?" to Nick who was passing.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

DISEASE FROM TEETH AND TONSILS.

How often a patient will go to a physician to tell of some disease of the gall bladder, kidneys, appendix or ulcer of the stomach. He will say he had suffered more or less with one or more of these diseases ever since he had the influenza.

Many have had just this experience and the answer is often—pus infection of various organs through the blood stream, or poison from infection at the roots or in nerve canals of the teeth, and also from infected tonsils. The entrance of the germ from either of these sources came just at the time when the protecting wall gave way. The "flu" overcame the patient's so-called strong resistance. Everything acting in a protecting way was removed or broken down.

That is why you hear it so often said that one does not fully recover from the "flu." Too often it is due to the recurrence of some old trouble located at the root of a tooth, which had never troubled before.

Many physicians believe the tonsils have been placed in the throat for a definite purpose. That purpose is to take up, absorb and destroy the almost countless number of mouth germs, as well as the result of septic conditions of the mouth as a result of bad teeth.

The mouth fairly swarms with bacteria of all kinds. The tonsils, in their earnest endeavor to perform their proper function of absorbing and destroying bacteria, become overloaded and diseased.

Your teeth and tonsils are vital points for attacks of pus and germs. Don't waste any time in wondering is something is wrong. Be sure of your real condition by a thorough X-ray examination.

NURSING THE INFANT

The important rules and regulations concerning the baby upkeep are, for some unaccountable reason, usually given great prominence in the warmer months. Many infants arrive during cold weather and the problem of proper nursing is just as difficult at this season as in any other.

In most cases the mother has a proper or normal supply of milk. If the mother is somewhat nervous, the supply may vary from time to time. In many cases such a condition of supply depends on irregular nursing periods, amount of fluid intake, diet and the correct amount of sleep and rest. Again, the amount of milk supply may be reduced or influenced through fear, worry, fright, distress or sorrow. Painful breasts are usually the result of a break in the regular nursing routine.

The mother must carefully avoid all these unnecessary conditions, if proper, nutritious nursing is to be carried out successfully. Too much importance is frequently given to diet, tonics and nostrums as aids in nursing and milk supply. Young mothers are prone to adopt many nursing hints and theories from those who are entirely ignorant in such matters. Look out for advice. If you really need advice, get it from your physician.

Sometimes, if the mother is inclined to weakness or is anemic, any effort to stimulate milk supply is helpful. Warm milk, water at the right temperature (about 60 degrees F.) or weak tea, will greatly aid in such cases. On the other hand, if the breasts produce more than the child should have, the milk should be expressed at least once daily, and discarded, as failure to empty an overfilled breast often endangers the supply.

The frequency of nursing must be determined by the individual as no two are the same. Longer periods give the little digestive system a rest, while shorter periods seem to give a regular, constant weight increase. Periods and weights will be given in article to follow.

AGRICULTURAL BOARD APPRECIATES EFFORT PETERBORO EXAMINER

President J. F. Freure of Percy Agricultural Board Presents Encouraging Report at Annual Meeting.

HAD A GOOD YEAR

(By a Staff Reporter).

WARKWORTH, Jan. 21.—The Percy Agricultural Society is solvent to the extent of nearly $6,000. It is $1,000 better off to-day than it was a year ago, having discharged that amount of indebtedness during 1923. For this showing the members are ready to give credit to the president, J. F. Freure, under whose business-like administration the society has made the greatest progress of any year in its history, which goes back for over 60 years. At the annual meeting held in the Council Chamber Saturday, Mr. Freure was given a renewed expression of confidence when he was re-elected president for 1924, although it was his desire to give up the position.

Praise For Examiner.

In his annual address, President Freure gracefully thanked The Peterboro Examiner for the assistance it had given the Society during the year. A staff reporter had attended and written extensive reports of not only the Fair but of the field day held during the summer, and he was pleased to see the Examiner's representative at the annual meeting. The paper had never lost an opportunity throughout the year to boost the Warkworth Fair, and this should be appreciated as it no doubt meant heavy expense to the paper. Owing to the big circulation which the Examiner has all through the district, it was, he said, impossible to estimate the value of these excellent reports as advertisements to the Society.

President Freure said that during the year $1,000 had been paid on the capital account. The Athletic Association had turned in $130 from the field day receipts. He thanked the townspeople for the assistance they had given by donating special prizes and in other ways.

Mr. Freure had enjoyed his year in the presidency. Every director had done his duty, and the meetings of the Board had been like a club or a lodge in which harmony prevailed. The membership includes the best men in the district, and this is one reason why success has been attained. There are now over 200 paid-up members.

Mr. reure concluded his address by asking to be relieved of the presidency.

Financial Statement.

The financial statement submitted by Secretary-Treasurer J. A. Armstrong showed total receipts of $4,461.82, while the expenditures were $4,648.46. The amount paid out in prizes was $2,325.52, and the gate receipts at the last Fair were $1,232, somewhat below the average on account of the unfavorable weather. There is a shortage of $100, but nearly $1,000 was paid off on canital account.

The assets, including the grounds and buildings, the latter among the best in Ontario, are estimated at $9,400, and and the liabilities total $4,300.

Reports of Directors.

The following directors made reports of the various departments under their charge of the Fair last fall: Henry Watters, heavy horses; Wm. Ross, light horses; Richard Harvey, beef cattle; F. White, dairy cattle; W. A. Kelly, sheep; G. Hutchinson, swine; H. L. Walker, ladies' work; Dr. T. Allen, fine arts and domestic science; Wilbert Nelson, horse races; C. H. Curtis, poultry; and George Poole, general utility man.

Mr. Curtis recommended a new poultry building as the present accommodation for this class of exhibits is inadequate.

The superintendents of the various departments were unanimous in praising the work done by the departmental judges. Local ladies acted as arbiters in the ladies' department, fine arts and domestic science, and their services were entirely satisfactory.

May Enter Competition.

The society has never taken part in the standing field crop competition conducted every year under the auspices of the Agricultural Department, but a number of the farmers at the meeting on Saturday expressed themselves strongly in favour of entering the contestt his year. A vote was taken, and every man present held up his hand for the new move. Finally it was decided to leave the matter to the new board of directors.

The Increased Grant.

President Freure said that he had been a member of the delegation that went to Cobourg last June to ask the Counties Council to increase the grant to the fair from $1,000 to $2,000. A raise of $500 had been secured, and the president testified that Percy Township's two representatives, Reeve Hermiston and Deputy-Reeve Nelson, had been among the hardest workers for this advance.

Director Curtis complained that there was danger in having diseased poultry exhibited at the fair, and said that every effort should be made to prevent this, as it would have a tendency to keep owners of valuable fowl away. This suggestion was endorsed by R. Honey and others, who spoke of the growth of the pure-bred poultry industry in the district.

Should Be Uniformity.

President Freure recommended that the officials of all the fairs in the district should get together and agree upon a uniform rate of entrance at the gates, both for individuals and automobiles, and also a scale of prices to be charged for booths.

R. Honey would engage an expert to see that no diseased poultry be entered for competition.

Delegates Appointed.

President Freure will represent the society at the annual meeting of the Ontario Fairs Association at Toronto. If he finds it impossible to go, his place will be taken by R. Honey. The latter has been a member of the society for the past forty years, but is as full of energy and fight as the youngest of his fellow-workers.

C. H. Curtis was elected delegate to the Central Ontario Fairs Association, which meets at Belleville this week. One of his tasks will be to secure a date for Warkworth that will not conflict with Millbrook or any other fair in the district.

Election of Officers

It looked at the outset that the election of a president would be a mere formal affair that Mr. Freure would be chosen wihout opposition in spite of his expressed desire to be relieved. This item of business however, consumed nearly two hours. On motion of Secretary Armstrong and W. S. Nelson, Mr. Freure was unanimously elected but he declined to accept. The office then went begging, almost every man present being nominated but all refusing to accept in the hope that Mr. Freure could be induced to reconsider his decision. Those whose names were placed before the meeting were: Vice-president Poole, R. Honey, W. A. Kelly, C. H. Curtis, Wm. Ross, H. L. Walker, H. Nelson Dr. Allen and Henry Walters. Rev. George D. Hammond pastor of the Presbyterion church, who is a member of the society was present He is a comparatively new comer and in a brief address he complimented the members upon their fine property and the splendid fair of last fall. When some one suggested that Mr. Hammond be president he declined the honor.

"I move we advertise for a president," said Herb. Nelson, ejecting a spice of humor into the proceedings which were becoming monotonous.

Finally Mr. Freure yielded to persuasion and consented to continue in office for another year. His announcement was most heartily applauded by every member in the room.

"All I ask for 1924," he said, "is the same loyal support that was given me last year."

The rest of the officers were soon chosen, George Poole is first vice-president and W. A. Kelly next in rank.

The directors for 1924 are C. H. Curtis, F. H. Moore, H. L. Walker, Dr. Allne, Wm. Ross, Harold Skinkle, H. Nelson, W. S. Nelson, E. White, John Condon, Henry Watters, R. Honey, G. Hutchinson, Warren Atkinson and H. Aylesworth.

HASTINGS AFTER KEENE THIS TIME

Figures on Landing Another Hockey Scalp Tonight.

HASTINGS, January 21. — The hockey craze has struck Hastings this winter. Dad Clapper has been able to trot out a good team. The local boys journeyed into Charlie Davidson's camp on Friday evening and came out with the long end of a 7-3 score.

In Hill, Hastings has one of the fastest centre players in the Trent Valley League and when he clashes with Fletcher of Keene to-night at the local arena, the fans are sure of a merry battle.

This is the first league game to be played here, and when the teams line up to-night the fans should turn out in good numbers to encourage the boys.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in the Separate School on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 19, when the election of officers for 1924 was held with other important business.

A report of the year's business was read by Mrs. A. Bailey, treasurer.

The year of 1923 was very successful, both financially and socially.

The ladies have a balance in the bank of $97.50, derived from members' fees and two social evenings, also their club-room had been properly acquired from a series of successful euchre parties.

The members expressed their regrets that their efficient president, Mrs. J. A. McGrail, was obliged to resign on account of ill-health.

The following officers were then appointed for 1924:

Hon. President—Mrs. J. A. McGrail.
President—Mrs. J. J. Collins.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. J. Cooney.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. J. Doherty.
3rd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. R. Walsh.
Cor. Sec.—Mrs. T. A. Walsh.
Rec. Sec.—Miss Maloney.
Treas.—Mrs. A. U. Bailey.

Mr. C. Johnson, of Toronto, called on the local dealers on Friday.

Rev. Father Ferguson, of Warkworth, is spending a few days with Father Bretherton here.

Mr. E. M. Wall, of Peterbor, was in the village this week.

Mrs. W. Barry, Gravel Road, was in Peterboro this week.

Millbrook Correspondence

MILLBROOK, Jan. 21.—The annual meeting of the "Wide Awakes" group of Canadian Girls in Training was held this week when the reports of the past year were received and new officers elected. The unfavorable weather prevented the members living in the country from being present but those in the village were in atendance.

The secretary's report showed eighteen regular meetings held during the year with an average attendance of ten. Four special meetings had been successfully carried out, and twice the group had provided the programme for special Sundays in the Sunday school, and had also assisted with the New Year's entertainment. Numerous practices for these extra meetings had made it impossible always to hold the regular mid-week session. Twenty-two names were on the roll at the beginning of the year. Some have been lost through removal and one, Marguerite Sanderson, through death. Sixteen members are on the roll at present, and one honorary member.

The treasurer's report was also encouraging, thirty-three dollars having been raised during the year though, with the exception of serving tea at the League bazaar in December, the group has not itself made any charge for special meetings under its auspices. Five dollars was sent in July to the Fresh Air fund for the Deaconness Home, Toronto; five dollars to the support of the home at Georgetown, Ont., for the one hundred Armenian boys brought out to be trained in Canadian citizenship; five dollars was contributed to the thank-offering at the conclusion of the special services in November, and five dollars was sent to the Deaconness Home in December to help in providing Christmas cheer for poor children in Toronto the latter, as well as the amount sent to the Fresh Air fund being the annual contributions from the group since their organization.

The retiring president, Gladys Tucker, who has capably filled her position during the year, made a brief address thanking the members for their loyal support and voicing her earnest desire that the new year be crowned with an even greater measure of success than the one just closing.

The following officers were elected for 1924:

President—Marjorie Sayles.
Vice-Pres.—Wilma Fallis.
Secretary—Jean Burnham.
Treasurer—Elsie Spence.
Herald—Gladys Tucker.
Organist—Hazel McMahon.
Membership committee — Elsie Spence and Wilma Fallis.
Programme committee — Vera Weeks, convenor, Hazel McMahon, Jean Burnham, Margaret Lang and Gladys Tucker.

A game of carpet balls was enjoyed at the conclusion of the meeting, "Stripes" vs. the "Spots," the former winning by several points.

The first meeting of the New Year for the "Golden Links" Mission Circle was held at the home of the superintendent, Mrs. J. L. Byam, the president, Miss Marjorie Skitch, occupying the chair. After the devotional period the business came up ofr discussion and the circle decided to communicate at once with Miss E. C. Hawken, the missionary toward whose salary they contribute annually, and arrange to have her come and address a public meeting on her work among the Ruthenians in Alberta.

Missionary information contributed brought out the fact that the recent earthquake, fire and flood in Japan not only destroyed business places, homes and lives, but also the loss of manuscripts thousands of years old, handicraft the secret of which has been lost, specimens of ancient art and architecture which was the heritage of the ages. "Everywhere in Tokio thinks are changing; little huts made of corrugated iron, or other refuse dug from the ruins, or biult of rough boards, are springing up all over the burned district. In many places business is now being resumed."

The report from the temperance department was encouraging and rather discounted the prophecy of "blue ruin" for a dry United States since the savings deposits in that country last year were the largest in its history, reflecting an unusual degree of prosperity. Work at good wages is obtainable for every man, while over in "wet" England at least one million unemployed men want work and cannot get it.

The autograph quilt which the circle has under way is in the hands of several members who are working names on the blocks, or securing more names in order to complete the required size. The quilt is white with the names red, and some organizations of the church are having the list of officers and members placed on one or two blocks, according to space required —a pleasant reminder, in years to come, of the present roll-call of those societies.

The meeting closed with the circle benediction and a pleasant social hour was spent before the gathering dispersed

The inaugural meeting of the Millbrook school board, S.S. No. 11, was held this week, when organization for the year was effected as follows: Chairman for 1924, L. C. Russell; secretary-treasurer, A. A. Smith, who now enters on his eighteenth year of continuous service in that capacity, and his twenty-sixth year as a member of the board.

Management committee: J. A. Vance, chairman, G. E. Burnham, L. C. Russell and C. Thorndyke.

STRIKE TAKES EFFECT TODAY

Officials Say Sixty to Eighty Per Cent. of Trains Are Running.

LONDON, Jan. 21. (Special.)—The engineers and firemen went out on strike at midnight.

Thus far the strike appears limited to J. Bromley's engineers and firemen's union and some thousands of N.U.R. employees who went out in sympathy. Restricted service has been made possible by members of the National Union of Railway Men, which includes 30,000 engineers and firemen, a majority of whom are continuing to work.

Railway officials claimed that between 60 and 80 per cent of their trains are running this morning.

Thousands of British school boys are stranded at their homes as a result of the strike.

They will be unable to return from their holidays to the various schools.

The action of the engineers was taken because of a reduction in wages fixed by the Railway Wages Board.

Mediation efforts lasted far into Saturday night.

EGG CIRCLE HAD ANNUAL MEETING

English Line Poultry Men Report Successful Year —Frederick Peake's Funeral.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 21. — The annual meeting of the English Line Egg Circle was held Saturday afternoon in the Farmers' Club rooms. The officers had a successful business during the past year. This enterprise is carried on under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture and the plan adopted is to pay the members the local cash price when the eggs are delivered and after the eggs are sold and the manager's commission deducted from the proceeds, the overplus, or profit is divided among the members pro rata every three months. The circle marketed 16,843 dozens of eggs last year and profits amounting to $661.47 were divided among the members.

Frederick Peake's Funeral

One of the largest funerals ever seen in Seymour Township was that of the late Fredrick Peake, held Saturday from his late residence on the English Line to the Tabernacle M. E. Church about a half mile distant. The edifice was crowded with neighbors and friends from a distance. Impressive services were conducted by Rev. J. E. Glover, pastor of the circuit, assisted by Rev. M. L. Hinton, Hastings, formerly of Seymour. Both clergymen spoke highly of the deceased, who had lived on the farm where he died, since he was four years old, 64 years ago and who had been associated with the Tabernacle church, as man and boy all his life.

Uninsured!—a tragedy

No man appreciates life insurance so much as he who is not insurable —because of ill-health, for instance.

The hordes of men in this unfortunate position must force you to realize the necessity of taking prompt action to perpetuate your income for the protection of your family in the event of your early death.

An Imperial Home Protection Policy is the one definite, sure and convenient method of making suitable provision for your dependents.

If it is only a $1,000 Policy to start with, you ought to insure that much protection to your wife and children now. Next week may be too late.

THE COUNTY AND THE EXHIBITION.

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition directors will wait upon the County Council this week to urge a substantial grant for the Exhibition.

Last year the County legislators failed to do their duty towards the big fair, donating $175.00, as against $2,000.00 granted by the City Council.

The Peterborough Industrial is not a city fair, but rather is representative of both urban and rural interests, and there is no reason why the city grant should be over ten times as large as the county donation.

Over $6,000 was paid out in prize money last year, and by far the greater part of that money went to rural exhibitors.

At the same time the agricultural industry is the greatest gainer from the Exhibition in another way, inasmuch as the spirit of competition engendered and the chance to see the best stock in the district on view tend towards better farming, more interest in good stock, and a general toning up of agriculture that cannot fail to be of material benefit.

It is these facts and others that will be advanced by the spokesmen for the Exhibition that should be considered by the County Council when the request for assistance comes before that body.

The burden of carrying an institution that has done so much for the rural sections of the county should not be thrown almost altogether upon the city and the Exhibition directors, and in common justice the County grant should be substantially increased.

A DISTRICT REPRESENTATIVE.

Peterborough's claim for consideration as the headquarters of a district representative of the Department of Agriculture is to be pressed before the Ontario Minister of Agriculture, and the many farmers who are interested in the matter will wish Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., success in his efforts.

The fact cannot be gainsaid that in passing over Peterborough when these representatives were being located the Government deprived a large number of the rural residents of the county of the benefit that might have obtained from the services and advice of the district representatives.

Peterborough was the logical point for the establishment of such a service.

It is the business centre, the point most frequently visited by the majority of the farmers of the county, and a district representative located here would be more readily available to those in need of his counsel.

With the office situated in Norwood, it has not been possible, except at much inconvenience, for many farmers who would have been glad to avail themselves of expert advice to personally consult the representative of the Department.

With such an official located in the city, his field of service and his usefulness would be practically doubled.

The Minister of Agriculture will have little difficulty in convincing himself of this if he will survey the situation for himself.

CANADA'S OWN GAME.

The Canadian Olympic hockey team has arrived safely in France, and before long will be engaged at Chamonix in a strenuous competition for world's honours in ice hockey.

The eyes of all Canada will be on this sturdy band of young athletes, and the best wishes of all Canadians will be with them in their fight for the Olympic championship.

It mould be a heart-breaking disappointment if the highest place in this competition were to step out of Canadian hands.

For ice hockey is in itself a Canadian product—one of the two great games, lacrosse being the other, that the Canadians' love for action and speed and the straining of muscle and sinew to the last notch, have given to the world.

It is typically Canadian—a wholesome, red-blooded sport that calls for real men to play it properly.

There is no more fascinating, no more exciting, no more thrilling athletic contest in the world than a hockey game between two evenly matched teams, composed of expert skaters and adept in the fine points of the pastime.

No wonder the game holds such a place in the affections of the Canadian people, and no wonder it is played in practically every village, town, and city from the Atlantic to the Pacific, even in districts where the absence of an assured supply of natural ice necessitates the building of artificial ice plants.

Every real Canadian is proud of the game of hockey, because of the light it throws upon the stamina and skill of the young men of Canada—that is why every Canadian joins in the message: "Good luck to the Canadian Olympic team."

THE LASH AS PUNISHMENT.

Not long ago in an Ontario town a citizen was accosted on the street by two men, who said they were starving, and asked for some money to buy a meal.

As the victim took a fifty-cent piece from his pocket to give to the two mendicants, one of them threw the contents of a bottle of acid into his eyes, blinding him, after which the pair of precious rascals took to their heels.

And yet there are many good people so "full of the milk of human kindness" that they protest most vigorously against the use of the lash in Canadian prisons.

The lash is too mild a dose for men capable of such a deed as this.

The thought of such a method of punishment is not pleasant; there is no citizen with anything in his anatomy that represents a heart but would support its abolition were it not for the need that exists for some penalty sufficiently awe-inspiring to hold in check the gunmen and would-be gunmen with whom Canada seems to be infested.

The lashes that are part of the sentence passed on "Red" Ryan are not likely to do much to reform that criminal—in any case, he is serving a life sentence—but they may serve to prevent other young men from following in his footsteps.

Every crook fears the lash more than he does imprisonment. More than one prisoner has offered to take another year in the penitentiary in preference to a whipping.

The unusual crime wave necessitates unusual methods and until it is checked there should be more rather than less use of the lash, if organised society is to be safe from the crook with the gun.

RELIGIOUS TOLERANCE.

The newspapers of New York and other cities have been full of the controversy between the so-called Modernists and Fundamentalists. And just because both sides are so tremendously in earnest, the discussion has brought out that spirit of intolerance that is by no means the peculiar property of either conservative churchmen or radical churchmen, any more than it is confined to religious controversy. No sane man will dispute the statement of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in the New York World, that "it is a spirit of tolerance which we need above all else." Tolerance, unfortunately, is a comparatively rare commodity, in controversy of any kind, religious, social, political or scientific.

At the same time, there seems to be a good deal of confusion as to just what the trouble is all about. In the first place, it is not confined to any one Protestant denomination; and in the second, it does not, as some people seem to suppose, involve the right to freedom of conscience. The question at issue is really this: Are there any doctrines that any particular denomination recognizes as fundamental; and if so, is a clergyman of that particular denomination justified in denying those doctrines or preaching against them, or allowing any other man to use his pulpit for that purpose. Or, to go further, is he justified in using his pulpit, or permitting it to be used, to deny doctrines that are not merely those of a particular denomination, but are accepted by all the Christian churches? For the matter of that, whether he openly discredits such doctrines, or merely ignores them, is a clergyman justified in occupying a pulpit that is dedicated to such doctrines? Everyone admits to-day the inalienable right of every man to think what seems right to him in matters of religion, but it is something more than a question of freedom of conscience when a clergyman accepts the charge of a congregation in a particular denomination, and then proceeds to discredit doctrines that are fundamental in that church, or even to all Christian churches.

Without approving or disapproving of the point of view of the Fundamentalists, or the manner in which they may have pushed their arguments, it is difficult for a thinking man to accept the dictum of the Modernists that the only problem, or the most vital problems, that a clergyman need expound to his people are the housing question, child labor, the minimum wage, and the economic brotherhood of man. They appeal to Christ's humanitarianism, but surely there was something more than economic problems in the teachings of Christ. As the New York Independent says:

> "It is all very well to say that by making religion a practical influence in lives to-day disagreements as to creeds can be smoothed over and kept from obtruding, since both groups are working to produce a more humane, upright type of citizen. To argue this is to deny the essential claims of religion, which are related principally to man's spiritual life. In the first place there can be no religion without an active belief in God and a consecration to His service on the part of His ministers, and it has often seemed as though almost any layman possessed of humanitarian impulses could occupy the pulpit of a radical clergyman quite acceptably, and that belief in God was about the last thing to which such a clergyman cared to give his attention. He forgets that what animated all Christ's activities, including His great-hearted humanity, was His mystic belief in God and the kingdom of Heaven."

This is perhaps a rather extreme statement of the attitude of the Modernists. Against it may be put a recent definition of the Fundamentalists as those who insist that every word of the Bible is inspired and must be interpreted in its literal sense. It is safe to say that all Modernists do not deny the cardinal doctrines of Christianity, still less the very existence of a Deity; any more than Fundamentalists tie their faith to the verbal inspiration of the Bible. IIn any event we venture to quote with approval the statement made in one of the Ottawa pulpits on Sunday last, that the vast majority of Christians are neither Fundamentalists nor Modernists, but base their faith upon the simple and direct teaching of Christ, and try, as far as human nature will permit, to avoid that spirit of intolerance that never yet worked any good to either side of a controversy.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It must be admitted that there was an old-fashioned sting in yesterday's wind.

Barron's, the best posted financial publication in America, says: "When Ramsay MacDonald drives capital out of Great Britain for investment in American securities, he curtails British business capital not only by that rare amount, but by all that amount could be multiplied into if it felt itself secure in productive enterprise within reach of the British tax-gatherer."

With so much unemployment in Toronto, it ought to be possible to get somebody to take a job as leader of the Ontario Progressive Party.

One reason why the British people do not fear the advent of a Labour Government is their feeling that the latter will not last very long.

TO-DAY CHANGING.

Old Settlers in Various Parts of the Country Frequently Make This Claim

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The climate of the United States is changing. So claims Elias B. Dunn, former weather observer for New York City. Dunn says this change has been slowly but surely taking place since about 1895.

Old setlers in various parts of the country frequently make the same claim, especially in the northern and eastern states. They have in mind the very deep snows of former generations, snows so deep that horses pulled sleighs right over the tops of fences, with drifts 10 feet deep or more.

Weather Bureau officials in Washington, D.C., have disagreed. They say that climate merely moves in cycles—very warm for a while, then very hot. They check up old records and say that, if you take the weather average over periods of 10 years each, the average temperature of these periods or cycles has never varied more than a few degrees since the first official weather observations were made.

Dunn, nevertheless, is lining up with the old settlers. He is positive that the climate is changing, and he blames the big irrigation projects in the west. About 19 million acres are now under irrigation. This means a tremendous amount of moisture dammed up in what otherwise would be dry country.

Water in a dry country naturally evaporates quickly. This evaporation changes the moisture of the air and, affecting the barometric condition, generates storms which are not only local but go traveling. So, Dunn believes, we have cloudbursts, floods and general freaks of weather.

Dammed up water evaporates fast in a dry climate. In the Ohio valley, evaporation is 40 inches a year. It is over 100 inches a year in New Mexico, Arizona and southeastern California.

The old setlers often advance the theory that climate has been changed by the destruction of forests, which formerly stored up a lot of moisture and kept the snow from melting quickly.

A knock at the door —modern style

"Not many sounds in life," said Charles Lamb, "exceed in interest a knock at the door, but it is so seldom that the person we want to see, comes."

Though the tinkle of a telephone bell never fell on the ear of this delightful essayist, it is as true of the telephone, as of the knock at the door, that (as Lamb said) "It gives a very echo to the throne where Hope is seated."

The delight of renewing old friendship, or of keeping unbroken the ties that bind us to past days is one of the greatest benefits the telephone confers.

STILL DANGEROUS TO CROSS BRIDGE ON CHEMONG LAKE

Teamster in Charge of a Load of Wood Had a Narrow Escape — Barn Blown Down.

BRIDGENORTH, Jan. 19.—Driving on the floating bridge has been quite dangerous the past few days. Other years the ice was quite soft and the bridge was practically closed for traffic earlier in the winter, but owing to the late fall and mild weather the ice is not considered safe. There are deep ruts on the bridge at present and they are full of water and most horses shy around them, hence the danger of an upset.

A team of horses belonging to Melville McWilliams coming over with a load of cord wood on Monday, made some sort of a dive on approaching one of the ruts and upset the load and tore through a portion of the railing of the bridge. They made good their escape while the driver was held fast in the wood. The team was captured on the Smith side by a farmer driving towards Innismore.

The Ice Harvest

Some of the ice cutters are getting uneasy and have been seen during the past few days down on the lake with some tools, no doubt testing the depth and anticipating an early start but their hopes were blighted as the ice at present is not thick enough to commence operations.

Visited Old Home

Mr. J. K. Stabler, one of the old residents of Smith township, who has been living with his daughter, Mrs. Robert Tedford, in the village, spent Christmas day with his son, Rollie Stabler, on the old homestead which is situated on the 8th concession about two miles from the village. This was Mr. Stabler's first visit to his old home in four years. He is enjoying good health at present.

Horses in Lake

Mr. Donoghue, of Ennismore, whose farm borders on the shore of Chemong Lake, is in the habit of cutting holes in the ice in order to water his stock. The ice at present is not very thick and while four horses were quenching their thirst the other day the ice gave way and to their surprise landed them in the bottom of the lake. Fortunately the water was not very deep at this particular point and Mr. Donoghue by breaking the ice towards shore succeeded in getting them to safety.

Horse Ran Away

Mr. Jack McManus drove his horse and cutter to the village one evening last week, and while making a business call at a neighbors house tied his horse at Touchburn's blacksmith shop. On his return the horse and cutter had disappeared. Upon investigation it was discovered the horse had broken his halter and made a dash down the Chemong road towards home. It was captured in the long swamp.

Barn Blown Down

A frame barn belonging to Mr. Wm. Heard, on the 7th Concession, was leveled to the foundation last week by the high wind which passed over this section accompanied by sleet and rain. No damage was done to the stock in the stables underneath. The implements on the main floor also escaped any serious damage.

Crossed the Ice

Mr. Roy Whetung came down from Curve Lake on the ice on Saturday morning with three passengers in a horse and cutter. This was the first rig of any kind which has ventured on the lake in this district.

CORDOVA MAN WAS FREED OF CHARGE

J. C. Davidson Dismissed For Lack of Evidence to Convict-- Fined For Bad Language.

HAVELOCK, January 19. — J. C. Davdson, of Cordova Mines, was dismissed by Magistrate O. A. Langley on Saturday on charges of drunkenness.

The trial was heard in Havelock, when His Worship adjourned to Peterborough for sentence.

It appears that the principal evidence produced in corroboration of the allegation of intoxication was the fact that the man could not roll a cigarette without spilling tobacco.

In another charge, that of using abusive language, the accused was sentenced to a fine of $10.00, and costs.

N. Alex. McColl, of Norwood, appeared for the complainant in both cases. S. T. Medd conducted the case for him as to the infringement of the O.T.A.

J. F. Strickland appeared for the defendant in both cases.

The evidence disclosed that a short time prior to Christmas the defendant Davidson told Young he expected a case of wine, and asked him to be on the lookout for it and bring it out. The case of liquor arrived in the express office on 22nd December.

Young having a heavy load, due to the increased volume of mail and parcels at this season, decided that he he would not be able to take the case of liquor.

Davidson's disappointment at not receiving the refreshments for his Christmas festivities so enraged him that in a very demonstrative manner he proceeded to give Young a tongue-lashing.

While there was no conclusive evidence that Davidson was intoxicated at this time, the prosecution tried to show that the actions as described by the witnesses could only be attributed to a condition of insanity or intoxication on the part of the accused.

The defence asked that as the evidence was not sufficient to lay the onus of proof on the defence, the case be dismissed, but failing in this the defence vested its case on the evidence of the prosecution.

Upon the completion of argument by counsel, the Magistrate remanded Davidson for sentence.

A second charge of profanity and abusive language was then called, and after the reading of the information as amended, the defendant pleaded guilty.

Counsel for the defence made a strong plea for leniency.

Counsel for the complainant drew the Magistrate's attention to the fact that Young, a returned soldier, who, being maimed for life through the loss of an arm and a crippled leg, should not be subjected to such treatment as the prisoner had pleaded guilty of forcing upon him, and asked for a fine that, in the opinion of the Court, would have a tendency to protect him in the future.

The Magistrate, in summing up, warned the prisoner of the seriousness of his action, and in making the fine $10.00, and costs, said that should he appear before the Court at a future time for a like offence, being proven, he would make the verdict much more severe.

Aunt Martha's
HOUSEWIVES COLUMN

I got a letter today—from a woman in Windsor.

She says—"What I like best about my Dominion Store is that I can send my very little boy there with an order for my groceries, and still be sure I am saving as much money as if I went out "shopping around" for bargains. I put the money and the order in an empty milk bottle and out the little fellow goes with it as proud as you please.

"He likes to go, too, for the Dominion Store man is just like an old friend to him."

I think that letter speaks for itself, but maybe I should explain a little that the reason her little boy can save as much on her groceries as she could herself, is that regular buying from a Dominion Store brings the steady savings that are the biggest economy in the long run. When you save on everything your savings easily mount up to five or ten dollars a month. That's better than saving something on one thing—and losing it again on the next thing, in searching around for bargains.

Don't you think so yourself?

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Annual Concert By the Choir of St. Andrew's Church Friday Evening.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 21. — Wigglesworth, organist and choir leader of St. Andrew's church, won new honors as a director of musical entertainment at the annual concert given by the choir in the church school room Friday night, the programe being long and varied and containing many unique features. The audience was a testimony to the regard in which the choir is held by the residents of all denominations in the town.

The opening number was "The Vikings' Song" by the choir. Then came a solo by John Jamieson, who was applauded to the echo but owing to the length of the programme, no encores were given.

Miss Hazel Atkinson and Roy Connor sang a humorous duet, "The Singing Lesson," which portrayed the trials of amusic teacher.

Walter Henson sang the of perplexity of a bachelor who halted between two opinions as to whether it were safe for a man of the age of 32 to assume the responsibilities of married life.

Tennyson's "Brook" was one of the most pleasing numbers, artistically rendered, Miss G. Meiklejohn doing the recitative part and Mr. Wigglesworth, at the piano, singing the words that the poet attributes to the murmuring stream that "goes on forever." Miss Meiklejohn is an accomplished elocutionist with a bright future in that line ahead of her.

Then came a well, rendered solo "Fairy Pipers," by Miss Kathleen Connor, followed by a duet, "Flow Gently Deva," by Mr. Wigglesworth and Walter Henson.

Miss Emma Meiklejohn sang Afton Waters and The Slumber Boat Song. Tennyson's 'Sweet and Low,' was rendered by a quartette, Mrs. John Shand, Miss Hazel Atkinson and Messrs. Wigglesworth and W. Henson.

The "Pea Nut Song" a plantation melody in which the public generally are warned to be careful of almost every known cosmestible under the sun and to expect no gifts if their supply ran out was cleverly rendered by Alex. McDonald, C. Massey and Mr. Wigglesworth. The lines were so rich with grotesque humor that the singers had difficulty, at some stages of the song to preserve their gravity sufficiently to get through the task.

Miss Lillian Hay, another of Campbellford's talented reciters pleased the audience with a selection Mr. Jamieson sang a humorous song "When I was a Lad" and a quartette rendered "Drink to me only with thine eyes."

Mr. Wigglesworth gave a striking representation of that most important of all human characters, a drum major in action. Encores were barred but in this case the audience refused to be quieted and Mr. Wigglesworth, to preserve the peace, was obliged to respond.

There was a short season of community singing by way of diversion. The words of old favorites were thrown on a screen and the audience joined heartily in this part of the programme. The songs sung were 'Comin' Thro' the Rye,' 'Scots Wha Hae,' 'The Tapaulin Jacket,' 'Lock Lomond,' 'Old Black Joe,' and 'Annie Laurie.'

The closing number was the most unique and artistic offerings of the evening. Little Evelyn McKelvie, looking charming in a dainty fairy costume, told the story of the dream of a youth who in his sleep visited some of the countries of the world. When he arrived in Scotland, a young lady in Highland costume, sang "Ye Banks and Braes," this character being taken by Miss B. Ballantyne.

Next the dreamer found himself in Spain representing the younger members of the aristocracy in that sunny land, Miss Hazel Atkinson, in brilliant costume showed the world what musical gifts a Spanish prima donna possesses.

The dream carried the sleeper back to America where three Indian maidens sang him into deeper slumber, these parts being taken by Elsie Connor, Dorothy and Flossie Henson.

But of all the national airs the dreamer heard, none could equal to the song "Toyland" sung by a mother to her children in a Canadian home. The singer in this case was Mrs. R. W. Scott, and the little people who sat at her feet and hung on her every word were Lois Meyers and Ian McIntosh.

At the close of the programme Rev. C. F. McIntosh, who presided congratulated the choir on their success and thanked the audience for their attendance and Miss Hawley, the former organist of the church and her assistance in acting as accompanist for several of the numbers.

Appointed Assessor

At a special meeting Friday the Seymour Council appointed T. J. Ketcheson assessor for the current year. These were seven applicants for the position which carries salary of $100.

Light Commission Meets

At the inaugural meeting of the Water and Light Commission, A. E. Caddy, who was elected at the recent election by acclamation took his seat. S. J. Abernethy was re-elected chairman for the year. John F. McGregor, who has been acting secretary of the Commission since the late E. C. West was incapacitated by illness in 1909, was confirmed in that position.

It was decided to purchase by tender 150 cedar poles for use in the construction of transmission lines.

Cheese Demonstration

J. M. Henderson of Montreal, and J. L. Irwin of town, cheese graders, the latter being employed at Belleville, gave a demonstration of the art of grading in the St. Lawrence Hotel, Friday afternoon. Ten samples of cheese were shown and small portions were passed among the audience for a practical test. The graders stated that next year every factory will be required to have a registered number so that the cheese when put on the market can be traced to its source.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"
Rub on Good Old Musterole
That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.
Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.
Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.
As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the blister.
Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief. 40c and 75c, at all druggists.

SMALL SURPLUS FOR LAKEFIELD FAIR TREASURY

Henry Coones Succeeds G. A. Graham As President and Was Appointed Delegate to the Convention of Fairs' Association.

CROP COMPETITION.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 19.—Henry Coones was elected president of the Lakefield Exhibition Board at the annual meeting Friday afternoon. The other officers are as follows:—1st V.P. Albert Darling; 2nd V.P. Wallace Anderson; Secretary Treasurer Thompson Braden; Directors, E. J. Galvin, Walter Preston, Howard Beavis, Howard Bullock, G. A. Graham, N. S. Higgins, John Blakey, H. J. Abbott, J. A. Walton, Robert Duff, George Fairbairn, Bruce Garbutt.

The treasurer's financial statement for the year presented the gratifying condition of a bank surplus of $62.93. Referring to the Board's credit position, the retiring president, Mr. G. A. Graham, expressed the hope that the Lakefield Fair had passed through its period of tribulation and deficits, due to seven years of bad weather, and that the future had smiling sunshine in store for the directors who had borne their troubles patiently, with fortitude and determination not to quit.

Out of Darkness

It pleased Mr. Graham that during his three years' presidency the Board had finally emerged from the gloom of deficits. Much of the credit, he said, was due to Mr. Braden who as secretary shouldered a great deal of the responsibility and usually found some silvery lining to the pressing clouds. Mr. Graham invited the young men of the village and country to take an active interest in the work of the Board. They were needed to carry on the Fair when the older men retired. He recommended the engagement of Government judges this year and also that an effort be made to secure some of the Government exhibits, preferably the New Ontario exhibit, which in itself was a splendid educational feature.

Short reviews of the special activities of their departments were given by Albert Darling and H. J. Abbott on horses, Wallace Anderson and Howard Beavis on beef cattle, and Howard Bullock and Henry Coones on dairy cattle.

Oat Crop Competition

The Board decided to hold a field crop competition in white oats again this year, with the intention of enlarging this enterprise to the threshed grain competition next year. Department of Agriculture will also be requested to supply judges for the horse, cattle, hogs and household work classes this year.

Delegate to Convention

President Coones was appointed as the Board's delegate to the convention of the Ontario Association of Fairs which meets in Toronto on February 5 and 6. The president and secretary were instructed to apply for a Government exhibit at this year's show.

The next meeting of the Board will be held on the first Monday in March at which the President's report of the convention will be received, and also the dates of this year's exhibition will be chosen.

DISPUTE ABOARD SHENANDOH ON FIGHTING STORM

Advice of Captain Heinen, Zeppelin Expert, Was Ignored in Piloting Runaway Airship.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. —Differences of opinion which arose between Captain Anton Heinen, German Zeppelin consultant to the navy, and Lieutenant E. H. Kinkaid, assistant navigation officer of the Shenandoah, over the piloting of the Leviathan of the air during the runaway flight last Wednesday night and Thursday morning, were brought to light at a hearing before a special board of inquiry appointed by Rear Admiral Scales to determine the cause of the accident and the extent of the damage.

Declining at first to answer as to whether he had any complaint as to events on the flight, Lieutenant Kinkaid later admitted that Heinen had been critical of the manner in which he was trying to guide the craft in outriding the gale which had wrenched it loose from the mooring mast at Lakehurst.

"While I was steering I kept in mind the condition of the rudder, which had been badly damaged, and sought to pilot the Shenandoah in such a way as to eliminate heavy strain on the rudder," he said. "Captain Heinen was indignant that the direction I was keeping was not exactly what he wanted."

Lieutenant Kinkaid told the board, which met in the hangar at the Lakehurst air station, that he felt it was a question of navy men being responsible for saving or losing the dirigible. He therefore acted accordingly, he added. Lieutenant Kinkaid indicated that relations between Heinen, who is a civilian employee of the navy, and himself still were strained.

Angered by a Newspaper Story.

"He apparently was peeved over an article in one of the newspapers which attributed to me the statement that he was consulting engineer to the navy at a salary of $500 a week," Lieutenant Kincaid said. "I never mentioned his salary in my interview, but simply mentioned that he was employed.

It was learned that another officer of the craft had taken the responsibility of keeping the Shenandoah at a higher altitude that that desired by Captain Heinen while the ship was being buffeted by the wind. Captain Heinen, it was reported, believed the craft could outride the elements at a considerably lower altitude, minimizing the chances of colliding with trees or high buildings which loom up in the inky night.

MILLBROOK, January 20. — Rev. R. J. and Mrs. Stillwell, (nee Miss F. P. Byam) are spending the winter at Abingdon, Virginia, where the former is taking charge of the Anglican Church during his holiday months. General sympathy will be felt for Mr and Mrs. Stillwell when it is known that the Dubois Memorial College at Monteagle, Tenn., with which Mr. Stillwell is connected as a member of the faculty, has been burned down since they went to Virginia in December, and all their personal effects have been lost, including library, furniture, wedding presents, and clothing. Only the chapel, one of the pianos, and the residential cottage were saved.

The origin of the fire is so far unknown. The college should have re-opened in March.

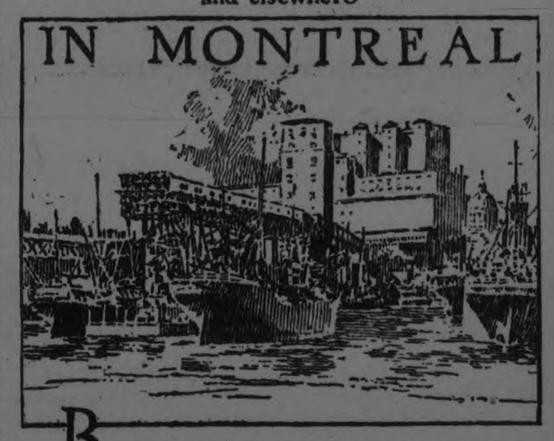
FIRST of the series dealing with the establishment of the BANK OF MONTREAL at representative points in CANADA and elsewhere
IN MONTREAL


BEFORE any steamship had crossed the ocean, and before either the locomotive or the telegraph had been invented, nine merchants of Montreal signed articles for the formation of the "Montreal Bank," now the Bank of Montreal. That was on June 23, 1817—more than 106 years ago.
Since that time Montreal has grown from a town of less than 20,000 to a city of more than 800,000 population.
The Bank, in continuous and successful operation from those early days down to the present time, has steadily pioneered its way across Canada. Today, through its Head Office and more than 550 Branches, it offers complete banking service—local, national, and international—in every section of the Dominion.

ELECT WARDEN AT COBOURG TUESDAY

Inaugural Meeting of the Council of Northumberland and Durham--Four Aspirants for the Chair.

COBOURG, Jan. 21. — The inaugural meeting of the 1924 Council of Northumberland and Durham Counties will open here on Tuesday evening. The first business of the new Council, of course, will be the election of a Warden. By the rule which has been in vogue for some years past, the honor this year falls to Northumberland. Four are said to be in the running: Reeve Fowlds of Hastings, Reeve Davidson of Campbellford, Reeve Van Volkenburg of Seymour Township and Reeve Peter Haig of Haldimand. All are men of considerable experience. Haldimand has been twice honored by having its Reeve elected Warden in the personnel of Mr. John Millar and Mr. F. J. Slade.

Serious Accident.

Mr. John Curtis, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Curtis, Haldimand Township, met with a serious accident at the Stadium, Toronto. The young man is a student at McMaster University. He was one of a group who were standing together when a skater came towards them. Mr. Curtis stepped back to avoid collision, it is understood. He had his skates on at the time and his foot turned under him. One leg was fractured and the ankle dislocated. He was taken to a hospital, and is reported to be getting along nicely.

Won Prizes at Ottawa.

Mr. W. Jenkins, of town, has some Red Caps that he has reason to be proud of. At the poultry exhibition of the present season held at Ottawa he won third on cock, first and second on hen, third and fourth on cockerel, first, second and third on pullets. This makes seventy-seven ribbons that Mr. Jenkins has carried off with his birds.

TWO MEN BURNED IN MORNING FIRE

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., January 21 (Canadian Press). — Two men lost their lives in a fire which completely destroyed the office building of the Kirkland Combined Mines, Limited, early on Sunday morning.

They are W. S. Green, of Buffalo, one of the best known mining men in Northern Ontario, and George Snowden Andrews, Bloor Street West, Toronto, a Buffalo mining engineer.

Clad in pyjamas, A. W. Grierson, the mine manager, rushed out from his nearby residence into the bitter cold of the Northern Ontario night, and dragged Green out of the burning building.

The man was then unconscious from the effects of the smoke.

In spite of the flames which had spread pretty well over the whole frame structure Mr. Grierson went back after Andrews and collapsed in the building.

Mrs. Grierson, who had accompanied him, then dragged her husband to safety.

You Must Fight Film
No whiter teeth without that

If you want whiter teeth, you must combat the film that clouds them. Millions do that now. Wherever you look you can see the results.
Make this free test and see the results on your own teeth.
The cloud is film
The cloud on teeth is film. At first the film is viscous. You can feel it now. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it, so much of the film remains.
Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That's how teeth lose beauty.
Film also causes most tooth troubles. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.
You have little chance to escape such troubles if you do not fight the film.
Dental science has now found two effective film combatants. One disintegrates the film, one removes it without harmful scouring.
These methods were proved by many careful tests. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent. Now careful people of some 50 nations employ it, largely by dental advice.
See what it does
Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits better. These combined results are bringing to millions benefits you want.
Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.
You will always be glad that you made this test. Cut out coupon now.
Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

REPORT OF THE UNION BANK

The annual report of the Union Bank of Canada covering the year ended November 30th, 1923, is the fifty-ninth annual report of this institution. The year just closed has been one which has severely tested the stability of Canadian institutions, and it is gratifying to see that the Union Bank of Canada has come through it with credit and at the same time has met the legitimate requirement of its clients in a satisfactory manner. That the institution is in a strong liquid position is shown by the fact that the percentage of quick assets to the banks liabilities to the public stands at 49.8 per cent.

Net profits earned during the year, after making proper deductions, were $1,033,432.15. This made a total of $1,184,697.01, including $151,264.86 brought forward from last year, available for distribution which was applied to payment of quarterly dividends amounting to $720,000, a contribution of $10,000 to the officers' pension fund, and payment of Dominion government taxes of $137,622.28. The balance of $317,074.73 is carried forward to next year. With such a creditable showing, notwithstanding the general decrease in earnings of practically all classes of business during the past year, the shareholders may feel confident that the directors and management are protecting their interests.

The total assets now aggregate $128,299,679.36 and the readily realizable assets are $57,877,689.11, which represents a very satisfactory portion of the total. The reserve fund and undivided profits amount to $2,067,074.73, total deposits $95,621,250.78. Saving accounts are responsible for $67,441,589 of this and the balance of $28,179,661.01 is made up of current accounts, not bearing interests.

Review of the assets shows that the bank has increased its holdings of gilt-edged government securities. Quick assets include (the figures given in parenthesis being for 1922) Dominion and Provincial government securities $16,194,856.43 ($14,815,487.90) Canadian Municipal securities and British, foreign and Colonial public securities other than Canadian $7,035,660.77 ($6,700,350.75) Railway and other bonds, debentures and stock, $3,506,471.06 ($2,249,844.44.) Call and short (not exceeding 30 days) loans in Canada on bonds, debentures and stocks, fully secured, $1,096,035.24 ($3,281,149.84). Call and short loans elsewhere than in Canada $462,181.51 ($2,787,823.71) demand loans in Canada secured by grain $9,407,471.93 ($7,632,867.54), loans to Governments and Municipalities $7,219,529.68 ($8,059,913.31.) Current loans in Canada after making full provision for all bad and doubtful debts $53,488,949.19 ($54,756,231.84, Bank premises $2,377,507.39 ($2,387,022.46). Current loans outside of Canada $2,484,836.7, $6,809,340.70).

From the foregoing figures it will be seen that the careful management and conservative policies carried on by the bank have earned for shareholders a maximum of profits without undue risk, and without sacrificing the liquidity of its position.

The Union Bank of Canada can rest safely upon its record for 1923 and can look forward with assurance to the continued confidence and support of depositors and the general public.

Mr. C. E. Pennefather is local manager.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Lakefield, Jan. 17th, 1924.
To the Editor, EXAMINER,
Peterboro'.

Sir: The writer was pleased to note that the G. W. V. A. of Peterborough are opposed to German immigration.

The government should at once take action as the German from the Fatherland will only make trouble in this country. Canadians are unwilling to associate with so-called German kultur or to meet on social or economic lines with that mentality that only a few years ago directed every diabolical means that their scientists, war lords and professors could devise or invent to murder defenseless women and children in the cities and towns of the Mother Land. Any German of the Fatherland during the Great War is an unwelcome immigrant, and for the sake of peace and goodwill, should be denied Canadian citizenship for the next fifty years. Thanking you, Mr. Editor. Yours, etc.,

J. F. LILLICRAP.

EDITOR EXAMINER:

Sir,—For the last time, on the subject of garbage collection by contract or garbage collection by day labor and two teams as advocated by Mr. George Leader, I would ask a small space in your valued paper. As far as this subject is concerned this is my final word. Mr. Leader is undoubtedly actuated by honest motives and a sincere idea that his proposed plan is best for the city's welfare, but I have shown so conclusively, taking Mr. Leader's figures as a basis, that his ideas are impracticable and impossible there is no use discussing the matter any more. However, to settle the matter definitely here is an honest, fair and conclusive test of Mr. Leader's contention that two teams with one man each can do the work we do with five. Let Mr. Leader name any day he chooses. On that day we will even help Mr. Leader out by supplying him with three teams for that day. On that day Mr. Leader is to cover the same ground, in nine hours that we do. He is to remove the garbage on our various routes in those nine hours to the satisfaction of the city. If Mr. Leader, with three instead of the two teams he mentions, performs this work satisfactorily, covering the same routes we do, in nine hours, we will give one hundred dollars to any local charity designated by Mr. Leader. Should he fail to satisfactorily do this work in the time specified Mr. Leader shall contribute one hundred dollars to a local charity or charities to be selected by us. This is a straightforward business proposition, not a bluff. If Mr. Leader still thinks the work can be done by two teams and fails with three supplied by us we trust he will admit writing about a matter he has no practical knowledge of. Mr. Leader seems to be under a misapprehension about the city paying us $800 for collecting garbage from 24 houses. The city declined to pay this amount of which we are glad as our present work is all we can handle in a manner to give satisfaction. Our offer, as above, may be accepted by Mr. Leader any day from now until February 15th. This gives him lots of time to consider the proposition.

Yours faithfully,
HERBERT WITHERS.

REASONS WHY THERE CANNOT BE AND OUGHT NOT TO BE ANOTHER VOTE ON CHURC CHURCH UNION

TO THE EDITOR:

Sir,—Anti-Unionist writers and speakers are now calling for another vote of the Presbyterian people on the question of Church Union and asking, "Why not trust the people?" thereby suggesting that the Committee on Church Union are afraid to trust the people. I feel it necessary that the Moderator of the Assembly should make a clear statement as to the present situation and speak with complete "frankness on the whole question of another vote."

1. The people have been trusted and trusted fully. By their own direct vote and through their representatives in Presbyteries and General Assembly the people have clearly indicated their will. They voted directly at the only time when according to our Constitution they could vote, namely, before action was taken by Presbyteries under the Barrier Act. Before the Presbyteries and Assembly took final action under the Barrier Act, not only were all the people invited to vote for or against Union on the present basis, they were distinctly told that this was the final vote and that the matter was now to be settled. Thus challenged to express their mind, twenty-two per cent of the Church members voted against Union, while of those voting there was a majority of 40,000 in favor of Union. More than 100,000 did not vote and thereby declared their willingness to accept the decision of the majority of those who did vote.

In the light of that vote of the people, the Presbyteries by a majority of 53 to 13 voted in favor of Union on the present basis, and the General Assembly, by a similar vote of 4 to 1, passed the Union proposals into a permanent enactment of the Church. Since that decision the Assembly itself could not change the Church's policy on Union without referring the matter to the Presbyteries under the Barrier Act. That the Presbyteries would not entertain such a proposal for one moment is evidenced by the fact that last spring out of 56 Presbyteries considering the question 52 overtured the Assembly to proceed forthwith to the consummation of Union. Let it be remembered that Presbyteries are thoroughly representative, every congregation in the land being represented in Presbytery by its minister and one representative elder.

2. The question of Church Union having been finally decided by the Presbyterian Church in Canada through a vote of her members and adherents, followed by the constitutional action of the Presbyteries under the Barrier Act and the General Assembly as the supreme court of the Church, the Assembly of 1923 gave final instruction to the Union Committee and the time is past to ask anyone to vote on this matter.

3. The Assembly having decided to proceed forthwith to the consummation of Union instructed its Union Committee, in co-operation with similar Committees from other negotiating Churches to put the Bills in final shape, secure their enactment and take all other steps necessary to carry out the decision of the Church.

Do Anti-Unionists believe that the Union Committee could ignore the instruction of Assembly, take matters into its own hands and instead of going forward as instructed turn aside on a tack of its own and call for another vote? That would be not only a divisive but a subversive course such as has never even been thought of in the whole history of our Church, and would leave us without Church Government or Church order, giving the whole situation over to chaos.

4. Even were it possible, another vote would do no good. There would still be a majority and a minority, and prominent Anti-Unionists have declared that no matter what the majority they would not enter the United Church. No one could give pledges that another vote, whatever the majority, would prevent a split, and no pledges given by any organization could be held to be binding.

5. A fair vote could not now be taken. Thousands of our Presbyterian people, the very ones most interested and whose rights are most concerned in the verdict, are now in Union Churches and would be disfranchised.

6. The Presbyterian Church in Canada, having decided her policy, formally declared that decision to the other negotiating Churches and encouraged local Union among congregations wherever it was thought desirable, providing them with a Constitution "until the Organic Union of the three negotiating Churches is consummated." More than twelve hundred pastoral charges with some three thousand congregations have taken our Church at her word and have entered into Union in all good faith. To go to the people now for another vote would be to ask whether our Church is to be untrue to covenants solemnly made with others after long and careful consideration, and believed to be necessary to the most effective service on the part of our Canadian churches. There are some things the Presbyterian Church of Canada does not do and one of them is to ask questions of herself or of anyone else as to whether she is to keep faith or not.

Some have recently suggested that Parliament should order another vote. Do they know what they are suggesting? Nothing less than that Parliament should dictate the polity and procdure of a particular Church. The duty of Parliament is to see that the Churches applying for legislation acted in accordance with their own constitution and that the rights of all parties have been conserved; but to go beyond that and attempt to dictate the polity and procedure of any Church would raise a far bigger question than that of the present Church Union and one in which all the Churches are equally concerned, namely the whole question of spiritual freedom and of State control in religion. If Parliament can decide the polity and procedure of the Presbyterian Church and demand that it be other than Presbyterian, then Parliament can do the same with the Anglican and Baptist and Methodist and Roman Catholic and all other churches in Canada. That would be Erastianism unheard of in modern times, and the spiritual freedom for which the Scottish Churches have contended since the Reformation and which they have now fully attained would be at an end in Canada. No one imagines that any Legislature would assume such responsibility if it could.

Let me say, further, that I depreciate the tendency to magnify the difficulties in the way, and to overestimate the opposition that exists to the policy of the Church. At the Union of 1875 the feeling was just as strong as it is today and the opposition relatively as great. At that time there was an appeal to the Courts for an injunction to prevent the negotiating Churches applying for legislation, the legislation was opposed in Parliament and in the Provincial Legislature, the case was taken to the Privy Council, there were many and dire forebodings of evil; but the legislation was secured and the Union effected. Ultimately all the non-concurring congregations came into the Union, the fears of the Anti-Unionists of that day were discredited and the highest hopes of the Unionists far more than realized.

Every great forward movement is an adventure of faith, and were the counsels of the faint-hearted to prevail the Church would be permanently static and her new needs never met.

ALFRED GANDIER,
Moderator of the General Assembly.

DISCUSSES PLAN IN LABOR TEMPLE

Would Abolish War and Limit Day's Work to Two Hours.

TORONTO, Jan. 21. — (Canadian Press).—With a candor that was humorous, Hugh Ross, K.C., of Montreal, delivered his address on "The Present System," and described his plan to do away with wars and strikes, in the Labor Temple last night.

Mr. Ross terms his idea an equatist plan. He assumes that human nature is good, and if in a proper environment will do the right thing. He believes that an economic order should be established on which basis would be work for work with one hour of adult human labor as based on the dollar.

"We would live in small communities in a normal manner," he said. "We would have a bank in which we would deposit so many hours of labor each year and against which we would draw checks. It is a cheeky thing to say, but two hours a day of adult labor is all that is necessary to make useful things of life.

DIVORCE ON INCREASE.

OTTAWA, Jan. 21. —(Canadian Press.)—Substantial increase in the number of divorce applications to Senate of Canada is probable this session. To date 102 applications have been received with the opening session five weeks away. There were 140 applications all told last session. Of these two were thrown out and the rest granted. One of the applicants who was denied a divorce last year was a Toronto man, whose wife is now applying for a divorce. The majority of the applicants are residents of Ontario.

FINE GALAXY OF SPEAKERS HEARD TODAY

Japanese Earthquake Discussed at Regular Luncheon of Rotary Club.

THREE ADDRESSES

It is a long time since the Peterboro Rotary Club has had the opportunity of hearing a galaxy of splendid speakers such as graced today's weekly luncheon with their presence. Rev. James Cuthbertson for eighteen years a missionary in Japan, described the earthquake of last September and gave his impressions of the effect of the catastrophe upon the country's future. Rev. Dr. Seager of Trinity College, Toronto, left some thought based on the same subject that made a deep impression upon the Rotarians and Rev. Archer Wallace of Toronto, in a brief address full of humour and bubbling over with interest in humanity concluded a programme that was full of good things oratorically and philosophically.

President V. J. McElderry was in the chair and the attendance was announced as 91 per cent. the second meeting in succession to show better than 90 per cent. of the members on hand.

Rev. Mr. Cuthbertson dealing first with the physical aspects of the Japanese earthquake, pointed out that in the matter of a spectacular upheaval of nature, the Chinese earthquake of 1920 quite eclipsed the Japanese disaster. The latter, however was particularly felt because it centred around Tokio, thepride of Japan and so its effects shook the whole country. Through it Japan had lost more people than in the Russian Japanese war and the money lost had been many times as great as the cost of the war.

One most important effect of the earthquake was to help to crush the miliaristic spirit in Japan and to engender a better feeling towards other countries because of the manner in which the nations of the world rushed help to the stricken people. The army had before the disaster been losing its prestige, although the budget of the year before showed that half of the country's expenditure was in the army and navy. The catastrophe through the loss it occasioned to the destruction of military and naval stores in the killing of many men who might otherwise have been conscripted as soldiers and in the great loss of money involved had been a very serious set back to any militaristic notions Japan may have had. Otherwise the law passed in the United States to prevent Japanese from owning land in California would have caused grave trouble and might have led to war with the United States.

The speaker related some most interesting incidents in connection with the earthquake and dealt for a few moments with the massacre of the Koreans.

In conclusion he asked his hearers to consider what were the things that really counted in life? Business stability meant nothing. A man's business could disappear in the twinkling of an eye, through a political upheaval as in Russia, or a national catastrophe as in Japan.

Rev. Dr. Seagar said that he had originally intended to speak on educational development, but he had been so impressed with the testimony of the previous speakers that he could not get the subject out of his mind. It was clear he said that the earthquake had really been a blessing in disguise, if it had resulted in a better spirit on the part of Japan in her international relationships. From Mr. Cuthbertson's remarks, too, it was evident that the earthquake had shown that the spirit of self abnegation was almost as strong in humanity as the spirit of self- preservation. It was there that the hope of world peace really lay, in the development of self abnegation and the subjection of self-preservation. After all the secret of all the strife and trouble and pain was to be found in one thing—in selfishness, in self will, or as the Bible and the church called it, sin, spirit of having one's own way, regardless of God or man or anything else.

Rev. Archer Walace, the third speaker in a speech, in which witty stories played a prominent part, emphasized the importance of understanding one another better. That was all that was needed to make the world a better place in which to live just to get the other fellow's viewpoint, and to be able to appreciate it. Mr. Wallace said that he had once been asked to say what quality he most appreciated in people, and although he had not been able to reply then, he thought he had his answer ready now. It would be "Toleration," of all things he loved a broad minded man for toleration; although it might not be the greatest of all qualities, it was he thought the most lovable.

It was announced that Rotarian Fred Hungerford was assigned to act as chairman of the On-to-Toronto Committee, and Rotarian Fred Roy of the On-to-Buffalo Committee.

Rotarian Dr. Buchanan was authorized to co-operate with the Kiwanis Club in endeavoring to have the city council provide slides and more rink accommodation for the youngsters of the city.

AFTER RACE TRACKS.

OTTAWA, Jan. 21.— (Canadian Press.)— W. C. Good, Progressive member for Brant, Ont., intends to renew his attack on race track betting at the coming session of Parliament. Mr. Good will move that "the special privilege now giving to racing associations under the Criminal Code of carrying on gambling operations in connection with their racing meets, is detrimental to the best interests of Canada and should be abolished."

AUDITORS' REPORT TO THE SHAREHOLDERS

We have audited the above Balance Sheet and compared it with the books and vouchers at Head Office and with the certified returns from the Branches.

We have checked the cash, and verified the securities representing the investment of the Bank, at its Chief Office and principal Branches, at a date other than that of the verification at the Chief Office on the 30th of November, 1923, and found that they were in agreement with the entries in the books of the Bank relating thereto.

We report that we have obtained all the information and explanations we have required, that in our opinion the transactions of the Bank which have come under our notice have been within the powers of the Bank, and that in our opinion the above statement discloses the true condition of the Bank and is as shown by the books of the Bank.

The Alterer of Habits

FRANK STOCKTON wrote a tale about a monarch who relied on an official called the "Discourager of Hesitancy." This officer's task was to prod folks who dallied over important decisions.

Modern advertising likewise fosters prompt and judicious decisions. But advertising might better be called the "Alterer of Habits." It brings many changes to pass. And these changes are for the better—always.

Advertising has revolutionized the personal habits as well as the buying habits of the nation. It has elevated our standards of living. It has made us eat better, sleep better and dress better. It has added countless comforts and conveniences to the daily life of each one of us.

Advertising has taught us how to find the best buys in almost everything imaginable without indulging in the needless habit of "shopping around." It tell us just where and when to go for what we want and how much to pay. It lets us compare prices and qualities without even stirring from our homes. It vouchafes our money's worth.

Do you read the advertisements that appear daily in this paper?

It's a profitable habit

SOCIETY HELD MEETING HERE

Officers Elected For Local Branch of Red Cross Society.

The ninth annual meeting of the Peterboro branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was held Friday afternoon in the assembly hall at the Public Library. Owing to the illness of the president, Mrs. Jas. Wood, the chair was taken by the second vice-president, Mrs. Robt. Harstone. The corresponding secretary, Miss L. J. Davidson, read the minutes of the previous annual meeting, and also gave the annual report, and the financial statement was read by the treasurer, Miss E. Morrow. Miss C. Davidson, Dominion Organizer, for Home Nursing classes, was present and addressed the meeting briefly. The report of the nominating committee, prepared by Miss E. Munro, convenor, was read by Mrs. R. Denne, and unanimously adopted. Few changes were made in the personnel of the Board, which is as follows:

President, Mrs. James Wood; 1st vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Davidson Toronto; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Robt. Harstone; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Hill; corresponding secretary, Miss L. J. Reports of Year's Work

Miss L. J. Davidson's report recorded the activities of the Society for the year. A meeting in the early part of the year was held when Dr. F. W. Routley, director of the Ontario Division, addressed the society. The meeting was held with the hope that the various societies engaged in health work in the city might coordinate and work under the Municipal Board of Health, a plan which has not yet been carried out.

The local branch voted the sum of $500 to relief work in the typhoid epidemic in the Cochrane district, and sent $200 as a subscription to the Japanese Relief Fund, an amount which was supplemented by private subscriptions, by $74.07 from the city schools and $7 from School Section No. 16, the whole amounted forwarded being $334.07.

The society also paid the salary of the nurse engaged by the Health Association for the summer camp for 1923.

During the year, financial assistance and donations of material were given to the Well Babies' Clinic, the Ladies' Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A. and to the families of several ex-soldiers. Parcels of clothing and Christmas cheer were sent to the families of three soldiers, at the request of the Home Service Department of the Soldiers' Settlement Board.

Miss Davidson recorded the thanks of the society to the members of the Advisory Board for their continued interest in the work, to the Board of the Public Library for a room for the packing of supplies, and to the Peterboro Examiner for generous space provided for appeals, notices and reports.

Financial Statement

The financial statement, given by Miss E. Morrow, showed a balance on hand at present of $4,691.85. Receipts included: Balance on hand, Dec. 31, 1922, $5,701.88; membership fees, $30; sale of materials, $50; subscriptions to Japanese Relief fund, $134.07; donation to same; $1; interest on bank balances, $237.59. Total, $6,154.54.

Expenditures: Donation to Cochrane Relief Fund, $5.00; to Well Babies' Clinic, $100; salary for nurse for Health Association work, $270; Japanese Relief fund, $334.07; Christmas donations, returned soldiers, $258.62. Total, $1,462.69.

Miss L. Davidson, reporting for the Supply Department, said some fifty pieces of towelling remained on hand.

Home Nursing Classes

Miss C. Davidson, Dominion Organizer for the Home Nursing classes, expressed her pleasure at the co-operation shown in Peterboro toward the project of establishing home nursing classes. She explained the idea of the Red Cross society in trying to promote knowledge so essential to the health of the individual and the nation. Examination in war time had revealed that only one-third of the man-power of Canada was physically fit, and seventy-six per cent of the total number of school children, on examination, revealed health defects which could be remedied. The need of knowledge of home nursing was also exemplified in the case of one province alone, where, during the year, of 900 births which took place, 700 had neither doctor nor nurse in attendance.

In Peterboro, three classes have already been established, with good prospects for a fourth in the near future. At the Y.W.C.A. one began its course this week, with Mrs. E. H. Wood and Mrs. R. Scott as leaders. Another, under Miss Bulmer, is in process of formation. There are two large classes of 21 children each at the Queen Alexandra school, where lectures will be given by Dr. M. Yelland and Dr. A. W. McPherson.

The newly-formed C.G.I.T. group at Knox Presbyterian church will have a class, and Miss E. Davidson will be responsible for several of the lectures there.

A vote of thanks to Miss C. Davidson was moved by Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner and seconded by Mrs. R. H. Turner.

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Canadian Red Cross Society will be held in Toronto on Monday, Jan. 21st, at the Y.W.C.A. on College street. It was decided to ask the first vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Davidson, of Toronto, and Miss Flora Davidson, member of the local branch, now resident in Toronto also, to attend the meetings as delegates from the Peterboro branch.

THE PAGEANT WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Put on by the B.Y.P.U. of the Park Street Church With About Two Hundred Taking Part.

The pageant, "The Light of the World," with nearly 200 people taking part, was given in Victoria Hall, Friday evening, under the auspices of the B.Y.P.U. of Park street Baptist church. A splendid crowd was present, and appeared highly pleased with the very attractively-staged pageant, which was carried through in a manner very creditable to the young performers and to the director, Neil F. Porter, who worked hard to make it a success. The costumes were particularly pleasing, being adapted in every instance to the character presented. The pastor of the church, Rev. W. E. Morrow, acted as chairman.

The pageant represents the story of the followers of "The Light of the World," and is centered by the cradle at Bethlehem. The Three Wise Men and the Shepherds come to adore the little King. The Spirit of Christianity lights her torch by the cradle and goes out to find followers of the Lord. One by one they approach in turn, from the Sunday school teacher and the Missionary to the business man and the soldier, each bearing candles, until the entire platform is ablaze of light and color and song. A particularly pretty rendition was that of the tiny children filing in and singing "Jesus Loves Me."

Principals in Cast

The principals taking part included G. Stobo, as Isaiah; B. Robinson and Geo. Nicholls as the two prophets; A. Thompson, M. Dunkley and H. Goodwin as the three Magi; R. Jones, G. Inkpen and C. Bradley as the three attendants; Mrs. A. Russell as the Madonna, with D. Goodwin, Mrs. N. Porter and E. Pilling as attendants; W. Bullied, R. Follis, A. Moore and H. Sanders as shepherds; Mrs. E. Ainslie as the Spirit of Christianity; J. Armstrong as Education; W. Saunders as the Church; and Ambassadors in Mrs. M. Dunkley, Miss N. Follis, Mrs. W. White, Mr. Batley, Mr. J. Pilling, P. Luther and N. Elliott. The pianist was Miss N. Moore.

Musical Programme

A good musical programme, received with much applause, preceded the pageant, and included vocal solos by Mrs. M. Braund, Miss Ruby Quartermaine and Mr. George Chandler, a violin solo by Miss Kathie Taylor, readings by Mrs. A. Nicholls and Miss Jean Hamilton, and several selections by the saxophone trio, composed of Messrs. E. Jones, M. Shadgett and Wells.

The Pageant will be repeated, by special request, in Victoria Hall, on Monday next, January 28th.

RAIN LIGHTENED FARMERS' LABOR

Wells Around Bailieboro Are Full, Obviating the Work of Drawing Water —Sleighing Good.

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 21. — The heavy rainfalls that have been recorded during the fall and winter, have been a great blessing to the farmers. During nearly the entire winter of 1923, they were compelled to draw water for their stock from the lake, or the different creeks in the locality, but with so much rain this season, the wells and springs are full of good water, and this makes the farmers' winter work ever so much easier.

Some cars are still travelling on the main roads, but as one motorist expressed it, they are taking their lives in their own hands. The roads are much too dangerous for to be travelled by car, but for horses that are sharp shod, there has never been better sleighing on the roads this wihter.

CAVAN DEBATE NOT DECIDED

Fire Interrupted Social Evening — Thieves Are Suspected of Causing Loss of Barns on the Hutchison Homestead.

CAVAN, Jan. 21.—On Friday, Jan. 18th, the first social evening of a series to be held by the Cavan Methodist Ladies' Aid was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Matchett. Over eighty persons were present. Mrs. Matchett spared no pains in making thorough arrangements for her guests. Progressive crokinole and Lost Heir were played. Mr. B. F. Carley was the efficient manager of these games. Miss Helen Syer and Mr. George Lang took the first prize after playing off with Mrs. Archie Kennedy and Mr. Harry Lang.

During the play-off excitement was created by a phone call stating that the barns of Mrs. T. Gott on the corner of the middle road and concession 8 were in flames. No one left as there was no chance of saving the barns. The barns were large, one of them one hundred feet by thirty, the other smaller and the reflections in the sky of the flames were very plain at Mr. Matchett's two and a half miles distant.

After the games there was a debate, "Resolved that musical talent is of greater advantage to the individual than the power of oratory."

The affirmative was held by Messrs. Gerald Staples and Archie Matchett, the negative by Misses Muriel Matchett and Alex. Johnson. No decision was given due to a misunderstanding over the word individual.

The affirmative taking it to mean, "advantage to the individual 'himself'," the negative taking their platform as "advantage to humanity." The debate although undecided was interesting.

Miss E. Preston was the judge for the affirmative, Miss A. Russel for the negative, and Miss Myrtle Swain deciding judge. Mr. Carley acted as timer.

After the debate a dainty lunch was served and a little music rendered by Misses Lola Carley and Alex. Johnson. Then the party returned home, no doubt looking forward to the next social evening at Mrs. Archie Kennedy's.

Suspect Thieves

The fire on Friday night completed the desolation, so far as appearance goes, of one of the outstanding farm homes of Cavan. This was the old Hutchison homestead, nicely situated near the corner where the eighth line crosses the middle road. Before the fire of a few years ago destroyed the fine stone house, the farm presented a trim, well-kept appearance, admired by many who passed by.

Many signs point to petty thieving as the cause of the fire.

These fires of unknown origin are becoming so numerous that farmers are almost afraid to leave their homes and also dread visits from marauders while they sleep.

Cavan Personals

Mrs. V. Rowan has returned to her home after a visit with friends in Peterboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tinney are spending a few days in Toronto.

Miss Washington, Bethany, is visiting Mrs. Milligan.

Mr. D. White has completed his wood-sawing in Manvers.

Miss Alex. Johnson is the guest of Miss Muriel Jatchett, coming out for the debate and social evening.

Miss Alberta Russell was the week-end guest of Miss Myrtle Swain and attended the social with her.

BOY'S BAD COLD TURNED TO BRONCHITIS

The frequency with which bronchitis develops into pneumonia is appreciated by very few mothers. The danger of pneumonia is, probably, well understood too, but how many mothers take into consideration that a neglected attack of bronchit- is frequently leads to this dangerous disease.

We would advise all mothers to give their children Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup the first moment they show any symptoms of a cold or cough as by doing this they save them from an attack of bronchitis or pneumonia.

Mrs. Lawrence Quick, Sandwich, Ont. writes:—"My little boy, six years old, had a bad cold which turned to bronchitis. I tried every thing I thought would be best for it but did not see him getting any better. I was told to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after giving him two bottles he got wonderful relief. I cannot praise it enough.'

SONS OF SCOTLAND WON IN BILLIARDS

The Sons of Scotland acted as hosts to the Sons of England, in a return visit at the latter's hall last evening, when a good turnout of members of both lodges enjoyed a programme of billiards, bowling and music. In the billiards games, the Sons of Scotland took the honors, with three games to one, also scoring in bowling, with 45 to their opponents' 35.

Refreshments were served, and a musical programme enjoyed. Vocal number' were given by Messrs... Williams, Clark and Stazicker The Caledonian orchestra, composed of Messrs. Dawson, Anderson and Craig, playing piano, violin and cornet, gave several selections.

W. G. Shiner, on behalf of the Sons of England, expressed the thanks of the society for the pleasant entertainment, and concluded his address with the expressed wish that the Scotsmen and Englishmen in this country would work along the lines of friendship and brotherhood, such as characterized their relations in the Old Country. The meeting closed with singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

Mary, being human, felt the pinpriks, but was glad on the whole to be rid of them. Those first weeks of almost girlish pleasure in what was to her a novel society, had vanished forever on the night of her dinner. Scornful and indifferent she might be, but although they could not kill her youth, they drove home to her what she had guessed in the beginning, that the society and the companionship of young people — fashionable young people, at least —were not for her. Their conversations, interests, shallow mental attitude to life, bored her. That curious brief period of mental rejuvenescence had been due to the novelty and excitement of being in love again, after long and arid years.

And now, Judge Trent had told her that she would be free to leave in a fortnight. She had walked the three miles from Broad Street with a buoyant step, and she had vowed that never, not for any consideration whatever, would she set foot in America again. Vienna was the city of her heart as well as of her future exploits. She would buy the old Zattiany palace from her widowed niece-in-law and make it the most famous rendevous in Europe. But of all this nothing to Clavering until they were in the Dolomites.

She rang for her maid and exchanged her tweed walking suit for a tea gown of violet velvet and snow white chiffon, with stockings and slippers to match. She expected no one but it was always a delight to her to be exquisitely and becomingly dressed. Even in the seclusion of her Hungarian estate she had arrayed herself as appropriately for outdoors, and as fastidiously for the house, as if she had been under the critical eye of her world, for daintiness and luxury were as ingrained as ordinary cleanliness and refinement. During the war she had not rebelled at her hard and unremitting labors, but she had often indulged in a fleeting regret for the frequent luxury of the bath, the soft caress of delicate underwear, for charming toilettes; and she had sometimes scowled at her white cotton stockings with a feeling of positive hatred.

"The telephone rang, and . . . as she had expected, it was Clavering."

Judge Trent, while she was still in Austria, had sent her a cheque for forty thousand dollars. She had given half of it to relief organizations in Vienna, and then gone to Paris and indulged in an orgy of clothes. She looked back upon that wholly feminine reversion, when she had avoided every one she had ever known, as one of the completely satisfactory episodes of her life. Even with unrestored youth and beauty, and a soberer choice of costumes, she would still have experienced a certain degree of excited pleasure in adorning herself.

She had always liked the light freshness of chintz in her bedroom, leaving luxury to her boudoir; but here she had furnished no boudoir; her stay was to be short, and her bedroom was as large as two ordinary rooms. She spent many hours in it, when its violet and white simplicities appealed to her mood. Today it was redolent of the lilacs Clavering had sent her, and through the open windows came the singing of birds in the few trees still left in the old street.

She loved comfort as much as she loved exercise, and after her careful toilette was finished and her maid had gone, she settled herself luxuriously in a deep chair before her desk and opened one of the drawers. The European mail had arrived yesterday and she had only glanced through half of it. But she must read all of those letters today and answer some of them before the sailings on Saturday.

The telephone on a little stand at her elbow rang, and she took the receiver from its spreading violet skirts and raised it to her ear. As she had expected, it was Clavering. He told her that he had promised Gora Dwight the evening before to ask her permission to announce their engagement.

For a moment she stared into the instrument. Then she said hurriedly, almost breathlessly: "No—I'd rather not. I hate the vulgarity of congratulations—publicity of my private affairs. I've always said that when one marries a second time the decent thing to do is to marry first and tell afterward."

"But they guess it, you know."

"That is quite different." It was Madame Zattiany who spoke now and her tones were deliberate and final. "Quite a different thing from being congratulated, and tormented by newspapers." She dismissed the subject. "I shall be free two weeks from today. What do you think of that?" Her voice was both gay and tender. "Judge Trent will see at once about engaging my stateroom. Don't tell me that that play of yours will prevent you from following shortly after."

"Not a bit of it. We shall only be gone two months, and even if Hogarth succeeds in placing it with his manager as he expects, it might be several months before rehearsals."

"Then it all fits in quite charmingly. You are coming to dinner tonight?"

"Well, rather."

"Mind you come early. I have many things to tell you."

"It'll not be for that I'll come early."

Mary smiled and hung up the receiver. She would have to let him return to New York for a time—possibly. But herself, she would go on to Vienna. No doubt about that.

She returned to her letters. Those that required answers she placed in a separate heap with a penciled note on the back, for she was neat and methodical; she even slit the envelopes with a paper-knife that was always at hand for the purpose, and the envelopes were dropped at once into the waste basket.

The contents for the most part were expected, and related to her work in Vienna, the disposition of moneys she had sent over, and the usual clamoring for more. But when she had read halfway through a long letter from Baroness Tauersperg, in whose capable hands she had left the most important of her charities, she involuntary stiffened and sat forward a little.

Several pages pages of her friend's letter were always devoted to business, the rest to gossip. In return Mary enlivened her own letters with many of her American adventures, although she had made no mention of Clavering.

"I need not ask if you remember Hohenhauer," continued Frau von Tauersperg, "although, I suppose, like the rest of us, you saw nothing of him after the war. He was, as you know, not in bad standing with the new Government, like the reactionary nobles, as he had always been a liberal in politics, and had a good record as a generous and just landlord. But they did not have intelligence enough to ask him to be a member of the Cabinet, or to send him to the Peace Conference, where he alone, of all Austrians, perhaps, might have won some advantage for this wretched country.

"The present Government seems to have appreciated that initial mistake of ignoring him, for they have invited him to return from his estate in Switzerland, where he has been staying, and to act in some advisory capacity. That means, we think here, that he will soon have the whole thing in his hands. The first step he took was to pay a visit to Bavaria and have a conference with Count L., and no doubt you will surmise what that means. He went incognito, however, and few people even here in Vienna know of that visit, much less the rest of Europe. Very shortly he goes to America, whether for reasons connected with his sudden interest in Bavaria, I have no means of knowing, but ostensibly because his New York lawyers demand his presence in regard to the large sum of money he invested in the United States. The Government makes no objection to this journey, as you may imagine, for they know they can depend on him to spend it in the cause of Austria—under his leadership! Imagine what it will mean to have the income of several million American dollars rolling in to be exchanged for Austrian kronen! Or the capital, if he thinks the end justifies it.

"No doubt you will see him, for he always had the greatest respect for your opinion—was it not you who advised him to sell out practically everything he possessed, except the land in Galicia, and invest it in America? I have no doubt he will confide in you and ask your advice. You have a wonderful flair for politics, dear Marie, and you know what we all expect of you. Hurry, hurry and come back to us. We need you in a thousand ways. But what a rest that sojourn in the gay and brilliant and rich city of New York must have given you. It is both wonderful and saddening to read of almost unbelievable contrast to our poor Vienna. But they are generous. The second cheque from your Vienna Fund came yesterday. Do leave the oeuvre in reliable and sympathetic hands, dear Marie, so that it may go on until—well, God only knows when."

GEORGE OLIVER SHOOTS HIMSELF WITH A RIFLE

AURORA, Jan. 21. — (Canadian Press) —In the presence of his wife and five children, George H. Oliver, aged 56 years, a well-to-do Whitchurch farmer, shot himself in the temple yesterday morning with a .22 calibre rifle. He died an hour later. Without giving any warning of his intention, he left the breakfast table, secured the rifle and fired a shot.

Mr. Oliver belonged to one of the oldest North York families, and was widely known in the district.

Anniversary Kiwanis

Peterborough Club Enters Upon Its Third Year Under Presidency of John R. Marshall--Much Accomplished in Peterborough by Kiwanis

During the week of January 21st to 26th, the International Organization of Kiwanis Clubs celebrates the ninth birthday anniversary of the society whose motto is "We Build". Members to the number of 85,000 and 1,150 clubs will celebrate the occasion.

In the anniversary edition of The Kiwanis Magazine there are many inspirational articles by prominent writers on the value and influence of the Kiwanis spirit. Speaking of the various types of fraternity organizations which have flourished since the world began, Dr. Leon C. Prince, Professor of History at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., says: "Here (in Kiwanis) is a very different type of fraternity. The connecting link is similarity and sympathy; it is a fraternity of fellowship and the basis is character."

JOHN R. MARSHALL

In an article entitled "Paralysis or Power?" by Henry J. Elliott, K.C., of Montreal, the writer points out the essential necessity for the activity of the personal agent in the solving of world problems; also the responsibility devolving on every individual to further the happy consummation of the Golden Age for which all men yearn. Speaking of the contributions to be made by men of wealth and of facile pen to the cause, he turns to the consideration of "a still higher contribution. Not all have the gifts of gold and of letters. But every normal man can give himself to the noble cause of working out a Golden Age. There is the charm of personal gifts which is ours to give. We can throw the force of character into the vortex of life. We can offer the direct and stabilizing energies of our mentality. Consciously or unconsciously, we can make this contribution of self, bringing joy to others and reaping an inalienable joy for ourselves."

A review of the many and varied activities of Kiwanis organizations in the United States and Canada, as recorded briefly in The Kiwanis Magazine, makes interesting reading. The ideals of public and private service to humanity held by the members lead them into many bypaths. It appears that anything, from the organization of a pig club to the re-building of the broken bodies of children, comes within the scope of the society's endeavors, when they see the need for assistance. The Kiwani Club, like the Rotary organization, might be likened to a huge half-way house, placed on the uphill road where tired humanity strives and sometimes falls, unblessed, were it not for such Good Samaritan hands, by cheer or succor in the hour of need. As Governor Andrew E. Pickard said: "Founded on the Golden Rule, with nothing but altruistic motives behind it, Kiwanis can be one of the mighty social forces of the ages."

"Life's greatest sin is to be unkind" is another of the Kiwanis sayings that is reflected in its doings, that have for their motive power the helping of others in many diverse ways.

Through the reports of the branches runs the ever-recurring allusion to the child; the underprivileged child, the sick and crippled child, the child bereft of parents and home, the child needing clothes or food or play, the child in institutions or on the street or in the poverty-stricken home.

"The underprivileged child provides an opportunity for building which appeals to every man—a bright-faced, ambitious boy who needs a job, a girl with a gift for music and no funds may not be geniuses. The chances are one in millions against it. But Kiwanis believes in building on the inspiring foundation of youth.

"If the old people who are now being eased into a grave by hundreds of institutions for the aged had had a little help over the rough spots of their youth the money now being expended for their maintenance could have been saved for the community.

"Put your major effort on youth. It offers the best chance to win and to build."

A review of the activities of some of the clubs, as recorded in The Kiwanis Magazine, gives an idea of the varied aspects of the endeavors of the members, and the manner in which different communities interpret the ideal of community service. For instance, while a Club down in Pikeville, Kentucky, interests itself in the securing of a better water supply for the town, and aids in securing the completion of the Mayo Trail between Pikeville and Ashland, another branch up in Ohio "expresses its soul" by taking steps toward the elimination of sulphurous fumes from refuse piles adjacent to coal mines.

Activities that have their mainspring in the outstanding idea of child welfare advancement include such things as supplying gold medals as pries in schools; giving luncheons to newsboys and Girl Scouts; increasing playground and athletic equipment; providing clothing and food for indigent children; providing medical treatment for those suffering from adenoid growths and diseased tonsils, and surgical appliances for crippled limbs. The Johnstown, Pa., Club sponsors an orthopedic clinic where 171 crippled children are cared for, a Michigan branch provides a day nursery and receiving room; in Washington, D.C., a surgical specialist, Dr. Hall, a member of the Kiwanis Club, has treated freely many crippled children, and for one boy, who has had six operations, he provides a taxi to take him to and from college.

Down in Pennsylvania, $8,000 was raised by the Kiwanis Club of one town to assist the mountaineer children of Kentucky, an example of far-reaching benevolence, and a trip to Panama provided for the girls who assisted most in the scheme, which involved the getting of a certain number of votes at a dime apiece. Institutions where orphans are placed are the special care of many of the Clubs, and ambitious boys and girls are given night-school courses. One instance of kindly paternalism was the case of the club that sent a number of high school boys to a neighboring city for a baseball game that they were unable to attend, through lack of funds; several clubs provide country trips for tubercular children, and one branch, the Club of St. Thomas, Canada, outfitted seven fatherless children and helped the mother to carry on by the practical gift of a washing-machine.

Civic bettermen and welfare endeavors are listed in the reorganization of a "dead" Chamber of Commerce and an expiring Red Cross society; the purchasing by an Indiana Club of signs and poles for marking city streets; the barring off to general traffic of a certain city street where youngsters delighted in coasting, so that they might enjoy the sport to the utmost; the securing of a park site in a certain Louisiana town; subscriptions made to city planning committees, and the awakening of a favorable sentiment in one Kentucky town towards placing a one cent tax on gasoline to improve bad sections of road.

When David Cameron disappeared from Toronto, his mother applied for assistance to the Kiwanis Pals' Club of that city. A letter dated from Chicago was the only clue, but efforts set on foot by the Club reached into the city of Chicago, and out of three million people "stretched a long and loving arm and picked a soul out of the maelstrom of vice, pitfalls and crime of a big city."

On interesting phase of the Club's widespread activities is the sponsoring by it of better relations between rural and urban dwellers. Several of the American Clubs have gone thoroughly into this phase of service. A Washington branch entertained the farmers of the district at a special meeting and have issued a splendid pamphlet, telling of opportunities for agriculturists in that section. The farmers returned the compliment by bringing their teams and trucks to assist the Kiwanis Club in clearing off the High School grounds.

An Idaho Club gave out enough seed corn to 87 farmers to plant about 500 acres, and are also sending High School teams to Portland to compete in the Pacific International Livestock Exposition.

In North Carolina, a club organized an association to maintain an all-year market for the cotton farmers of the district, and in Oklahoma another branch handled a sixteen-acre irrigation project and demonstrated thereon successfully the raising of various market products. In Iowa, a club sponsored and gave prizes for a pig club, and a Georgia society managed a drive to increase the tobacco acreage in the vicinity.

In obtaining funds for various charitable projects, the clubs are uniformly successful. A California organization obtained $100,000 for a Boys' Home; in St. Thomas, Canada, they gave $1,000 for a sunroom in a hospital, the proceeds of a musical show; a Wisconsin club supports a clinic of eight doctors and maintains a four-room infirmary; in Montreal, they gathered $7,000 from a minstrel show for community service work; in Nashville, they contributed $5,000 toward a memorial to fallen soldiers; in a Massachusetts centre they gave $5,000 toward a hospital operating-room equipment, and in Newark, got $20,000 in a community chest drive.

At Las Vegas, New Mexico, the Kiwanis Club organized a drive to secure credit among the merchants of the town to make it possible for 100 ex-service men to purchase small, irrigated tracts of land for raising chickens and truck-garden products.

In Peterboro, the Kiwanis Club, in its short term of life, has already accomplished much. Work among under-privileged children is its main activity, and it has staged two very successful annual shows in aid of the work. Buildings at the Jackson Park Summer Camp owe their construction to Kiwanis hands, and several of the members are acting as "daddies" to delinquent youth.

John R. Marshall is the lately-elected president of the local organization. The Club had two active previous years under the leadership of Frank Whitehouse and J. A. McKone.

Burns and Adam Smith

"Wealth of Nations" Published in 1786, Signed By Burns.

Mr. P. L. Miller, Helensburgh, Scotland, contributes the following notes on three volumes of Adam Smith's "Wealth of Nations" and two volumes of Smith's "Moral Sentiments," which he loaned to Glasgow University for the exhibition, opened recently, of memorials of Adam Smith:—

Each volume of the "Wealth of Nations," published in 1786, is signed by Burns; and the first volume of the "Moral Sentiments," published in 1790, contains the following in scription in the handwriting of Burns' second son:—

From Mr. Wm. N. Burns to his respected
Friend,
Mr. Wm. Maxwell,
this book, which belonged to his Father, Robert Burns.

The writings of the poet show that he appreciated Adam Smith; and it is consequently not surprising that these volumes should have been in his library.

In Burns' "Commonplace Book" (1783) he wrote:—"I entirely agree with that judicious philosopher, Mr. Smith, in his excellent theory of moral sentiments, that remorse is the most painful sentiment that can embitter the human bosom." Again in his epistle to James Tennant of Glenconner he wrote:—

I've sent you here by Johnie Simson
Twa sage philosophers to glimpse on:
Smith, wi' his sympathetic feeling,
An' Reid, to common sense appealing.

In a letter to Robert Graham, dated May 13, 1789, Burns refers specially to Smith's chief work thus—"Marshall in his Yorkshire and particularly that extraordinary man, Smith, in his Wealth of Nations, find me leisure employment enough. I could not have given any mere man credit for half the intelligence Mr. Smith discovers in his book." It is probable that this letter was penned after reading the volumes of the "Wealth of Nations" now exhibited.

It is interesting to find that the poet had at one time a further copy of the 1790 edition of the "Theory of Moral Sentiments," which he presented to Glenriddell with the following inscription on it:—

To Robert Riddell, Esq., of Glenriddell this Book is presented by Robt. Burns

Had I another Friend more truly mine
More Loo'd, more trusted; this had ne'er been thine. R. B.

For a considerable time after the poet's death the five volumes exhibited were in possession of his family. They were claimed by William Nicol Burns, who went to the East Indies as a midshipman at the age of 15, received a cadetship through the Marchioness of Hastings in 1811, retired lieutenant-colonel in 1843, and died at Cheltenham in 1872, aged 80. The books were gifted by him to Dr. William Maxwell, Dumfries, the medical attendant and intimate friend of the poet, and one of the trustees for the fund raised upon the poet's death for the benefit of his family. Dr. Maxwell died in 1834. During his lifetime he presented the volumes to James Bogie, nurseryman, Dumfries, also a friend of the poet. James Bogie died in 1861, aged 83. The books then became the property of his nephew, Dr. Agnew Black Bogie, a medical practitioner in Annan, and on the death of Dr. Bogie in 1876 they passed to his widow, Mrs. Jane Lowther Dickson or Bogie. The next owner was Mr. Frank Miller, Annan, the author of "The Poets of Dumfriesshire," who presented them to his brother, Mr. P. L. Miller, on December 22, 1919, as a birthday gift.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

(Unless otherwise specified, these recipes are planned for four persons)

DESSERTS FOR INVALIDS

If there is an invalid in your house perhaps some suggestions for desserts will be helpful.

Absolute daintiness and perfection must be the keynote of the entire tray. A watery custard or broken mold of dessert has no place on an invalid's tray.

Light, easily digested sweets are necessary. It depends much on the type of tray served, just what sort of dessert may be offered a person who is ill. But even the patient on a "liquid diet" is allowed ice cream. This does not apply, however, to the "liquid diet without milk" sometimes ordered. Fruit ices and jellies find a welcome place on this type of tray.

The "soft diet" permits more variety. Baked apples, stewed fruits, tapioca or delicate rice puddings can be added to the list.

Full Diet

The full diet is less of a problem, sponge cake, angel food, any simple cake, all sorts of light puddings served with whipped cream, in short, almost anything but rich pastries, can be served.

In the liquid and soft diets much of the nourishment is provided in the dessert. A custard of milk and eggs with a bit of sugar is very nourishing and may mean more to the meal than all the rest of it combined.

A dessert that is cold must be served cold, not luke warm or half frozen.

A hot dessert must be served hot, not half cold or tepid.

The sense of sight must be appealed to quite as much as the sense of taste, for if the dish does not look appetizing an invalid will usually not even taste it.

Junket ice cream is ideal for the invalid tray. This rule is for an individual serving. The cream can be frozen in a baking powder box buried in ice and salt. Use one part salt to three parts ice and pour over one-half cup luke warm water.

Junket Ice Cream For One

Three-quarters cup sweet milk, 4 tablespoons sugar, ¼ junket tablet, 2 teaspoons cold water, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, ¼ cup whipping cream.

Heat milk and sugar with a few grains of salt until luke warm. Remove from the fire and stir in the junket tablet crushed and dissolved in the cold water. Crush the tablet before covering with water. Let the milk stand until it cools and jellies. Stir in vanilla and pour into can. Pack in ice and salt. Let stand 10 minutes and scrape down the sides of mixture with a spatula. Beat in cream whipped until stiff. Let stand two or three hours, scraping down the sides once or twice to insure even freezing.

Baked Custard for One

Three-quarters cup milk, 2 dessertspoons sugar, few grains salt, 1 egg, ¼ teaspoon vanilla or few gratings nutmeg.

Scald milk in top of double boiler over hot water. Beat egg slightly with sugar and salt and slowly beat in milk. If care is taken that the milk and egg are perfectly blended it will be unnecessary to strain the mixture. Pour into two slightly buttered custard cups and set in a pan of hot water. Bake about 40 minutes in a moderate oven. Do not let the water in the pan boil while baking. Test the custard with the blade of a silver knife. If the blade comes out clean when put in the center of the custard the custard is done. If earthenware cups are used they should be put immediately into a pan of cold water when removed from the oven. The heavy earthenware holds the heat and continues cooking the custard if not chilled.

EUROPE'S GREATEST BOXERS END THEIR REIGN TOGETHER

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—It is interesting to note that the three greatest fighters produced in Europe in the last 10 years all arrived at the end of their journey about the same time. We refer to Georges Carpentier and Eugene Criqui of France and Jimmy Wilde of England.

Carpentier is practically through. Dempsey and Siki gave him two beatings from which he will never fully recover. Carpentier is the best light heavy weight produced on the other side in years. And neither France nor England has anyone to offer as an understudy.

Criqui is the first Frenchman ever to win an important championship from an American. Criqui knocked out Johnny Kilbane and was featherweight champion of the world for about a month. Then along came Johnny Dundee and took it away from him. Dundee gave the Frenchman a cruel whipping and he was unable to fight when he returned home. Now his title as featherweight champion of France has been officially transferred to another. Criqui will never do any more important fighting.

Jimmy Wilde is through. The knockout Pete German handed him more than a year ago started him backward, and Pancho Villa finished him in a bout held in New York last summer.

Carpentier, Criqui and Wilde! It will be a long time before Europe develops three more fighters as good as these boys, and it is unlikely that she will ever develop three at the same time.

The vacuum tube single circuit receiver is easily made regenerative by placing an inductance coil in the plate circuit. The plate circuit is that part of the circuit between the socket terminal marked "P" and the phone jack or binding post. This coil transfers part of the energy of the output of the vacuum tube back to the aerial and grid circuit by means of induction with the primary tuning inductance. This energy again passes through the tube and is amplified so that its volume is greater than before due to the amplifying qualities of the vacuum tube. This process is called regeneration and increases the volume of the receiver greatly.

This plate inductance or "tickler" coil may be a tapped inductance as in the case of the primary inductance but more often a variable inductance such as a variometer or the rotor of a variocoupler is used. The reason for this is that a continuously variable inductance in the plate circuit for the tickler action is a great help in the control of regeneration and consequently enables you to tune in distant stations more accurately. The tickler coil does not require as many turns of wire as the primary inductance however, to secure the same amount of regeneration for all wavelengths, more inductance must be used in the tickler circuit when tuning in on the higher wavelengths.

The aerial circuit being connected directly to the grid of the vacuum tube allows the full strength of the incoming high frequency impulses from the transmitting station to be impressed on the grid. In other types of receivers this current is passed through inductance coils so that the full signal strength does not reach the grid due to losses in the transfer of energy. It is for this reason that the single circuit tuner produces greater volume than other types of receivers. For the same reason it is broader in tuning and is subject to interference from other stations.

INDIAN NAMES MAKE WEST PICTURESQUE

SASKATCHEWAN IS "SWIFT RIVER"

By W. McD. TAIT

TO enquire into the history of the name of a city, village, district, or locality in which one lives is an interesting thing and will often give valuable bits of information which one would not likely acquire in any other way. Every geographical name has a story attached to it, and most of these stories are worth knowing. Strange, even grotesque, as many names attached to places in other lands may appear to be, one's own country affords him some measure of the same feeling were he to pause for a moment to familiarize himself with what he may have been ignorant of heretofore.

The red man's contribution to place names in western Canada, and particularly in southern Alberta, makes a considerable body in the aggregate. Indian names now permanently attached to rivers, lakes, ridges and localities have a peculiar interest to us all. In them the Indian has perpetuated himself by a monument more eloquent and more imperishable than could have been erected by human hands.

Before the white men came to the westland all the country between the Cypress hills and the Rockies was controled by the Blackfoot Indians, but they lived, latterly, mostly around trading posts which had been established at "Whoop-Up," "Slide Out," and "Freeze Out," each name itself telling pretty well why the place was so named.

Whoop-Up was a central meeting place for traders. They had great carousals in the fort and were accustomed to whoop her up, hence the name Whoop-Her-Up, which for decency's sake has been changed to Whoop-Up.

Whoop-Up lay in the bottom of a deep ravine. On one side was a defile in the hills known as Slide Out. On the other side was a narrow pass called Slide In. These places received their names through a very simple incident. The mounted police on one occasion slid in on the traders through this narrow pass, and the traders, being warned of their movement, slipped out through the defile now called "Slide Out."

The Origin of Whiskey Gap

THIS same incident gave a name to another locality in southern Alberta. Patrols of police scoured the boundary for the smugglers who slid out of Slide Out, and located them in a defile in Milk River Ridge, where they had whiskey cached. To this day that defile is called Whiskey Gap.

Stand Off is really not an Indian name, but it has had Indians so closely connected with it that it might be included in this story of Indian place names. A gang of whiskey traders headed from Fort Benton, Montana, for Canada, was intercepted by a United States marshall, but they succeeded in standing off the marshall and escaped into Canada. Around a camp fire at the junction of the Waterton and Belly rivers these traders decided to call the camp ground Stand Off, and it is so called to-day.

At Freeze Out smugglers had whiskey in a cache on the Belly river about fifteen miles from where the town of Macleod now stands. Indians attacked them, but they were frozen out after a long seige, and the place has since been called Freeze Out.

Belly river was called after a tribe of Indians living in the United States known as the "big bellies."

Old Man river is the English equivalent for "Apistoki," the Blackfoot Deity and Creator. He is believed to have lived at the source of this river, and the cave out of which the river pours is also called Old Man Cave.

Whiskey was once stolen out of a cache, and the Indians named the place by an indian word meaning Robbers' Roost. It is still Robbers' Roost.

Jumping Pond was named by Indians from the fact that on a creek of the same name about three miles west of Calgary Indians had a "pound" for catching buffaloes. The place was originally called Jumping Pound, but this has been abbreviated to Jumping Pond.

Okotoks, a thriving town south of Calgary, is a Cree word meaning a stony crossing on Sheep river.

Crowfoot, a creek flowing into the Bow river and also a station on the C.P.R. where the railway crosses the Blackfoot Indian reserve is the name of the greatest of the Blackfoot chiefs.

Blackfoot is an abbreviation for "five Blackfoot hills." On these hills five Blackfoot Indians were killed by Crees.

The river flowing through Calgary city is the Bow. This is a translation of an Indian word meaning bowwood.

Medicine Hat's Name

THERE is a burying ground on the Red Deer river called Ghost Pine. It was an Indian custom once to bury the dead in trees. To this day the Cree Indians believe that spirits haunt the old burying ground at Ghost Pine.

Medicine Hat is an Indian name. A great many stories have arisen regarding its origin, but the one generally accepted is that many years ago a Blackfoot chief, in a conflict with the Cree Indians, had the misfortune to lose his very valuable medicine hat by a gust of wind carrying it into the swift running Saskatchewan. Returning to the spot later, he named the place Medicine Hat.

"Saskatchewan" is a Blackfoot Indian word meaning "swift running river" and is the name applied to the great river which drains a large part of the prairie provinces. Medicine Hat is on the Saskatchewan.

Most everyone knows the origin of Moose Jaw. It is not in Alberta, but it is a name almost as unusual as Medicine Hat. The Indians call it Moose Jaw Bone, which is Cree Indian for "the place where the white man mended the cart with a moose jawbone." The incident calling forth the name is said to be the breaking of a felloe of a cart belonging to a hunting party which was spliced with the jawbone of a moose; hence Moose Jaw.

"Shaginapee is Indian, too. The word means "raw hide buffalo" cut in strips. The old Red river carts used by early settlers in western Canada had yards and yards of "shaginapee" tieing the parts together. "Shaginapee" is a station on the C.P.R. in Alberta.

Pen d'Oreille is a coulee south of Lethbridge city. The coulee is named after a tribe of Indians of the same name.

Leavings was the English of an Indian word meaning a crossing of a river where the trail left the bottom of the river and climbed to bench land. The town of Granum in Alberta was once known as Leavings.

Bull Horn is a coulee on the Blood Indian reserve, and it, too, is an Indian name.

First White Baby Born East of Herschel, A Curiosity For All the Eskimo Land

Romance of Bride Who Travels 2,100 Miles Beyond Edmonton to Get Married—Natives Flock to See Young Mother and Eat Her Out of House and Home.

By MADGE MACBETH

AND he didn't realize his distinction, in the least! He just lay among his furs and gurgled with gay inconsequence. And he cocked his blue eyes at the curious Eskimos who came many a mile along the trail to see this strange pale baby, as though thinking the world and its folk humorous in the extreme. That was the impression he gave one.

His mother is the first and only white woman to live east of Herschel Island. Before going into the Arctic, she had spent two years in the Punjab, teaching little Hindoos—and some big ones, too. She is a native of St. Johns, N. B., and a trained nurse by profession. On her return from India, she set forth on a mate-less honeymoon that consummated a romance begun during her school days.

Her journey dated from June 2nd., 1921, and lay down the Mackenzie River. Then the route followed the coast eastward to Herschel Island, 2,100 miles distant from Edmonton. Here, this resourceful young lady picked up a missionary, and conveyed him nearly 800 miles more to Bernard Harbor, where romance, in the person of Mr. Merritt was waiting. The trip had extended over almost three months, despite the fact that weather conditions were favorable, and the best possible connections had been made!

Bernard Harbor was placed on the map, in a manner of speaking, by the famous Canadian Arctic Expedition of 1913-18. It was named in honor of Captain Joseph Bernard, a Canadian trader, explorer and scientist, whose exploits were set forth some months ago for the benefit of Star readers. There is just one boat a year to this remote spot. It carries supplies and an occasional passenger. But seasons do occur when this excitement is denied the inhabitants and no boat gets through at all. Such was Mrs. Merritt's experience in 1922.

Bernard Harbor can scarcely be described as the centre of intense activity. It consists of considerable landscape, a great arc of sky-line and less than half a dozen houses! One of these is the Hudson's Bay Post, one is the Mission House, and the other two are store houses. Literally, that's all!

Examining a photo of the wedding group, which had assembled in front of the Mission House, a member of the bride's family asked in all seriousness why the party had been taken in such close proximity to the hen-coop?

Why Two Rooms For House?

THE Mission House is an impressive structure containing two rooms. The Eskimos regard it with eyes that demand, "Why two?" It is a frame building, a souvenir left by the southern party of the Arctic expedition, just mentioned. Its conveniences are negligible.

Yet Mrs. Merritt compared it favorably with the capital!

Now Ottawans are wont to take unction to themselves in many regards, but especially in regard to their climate. It is less damp than that of Toronto, less rigorous than that of Winnipeg, and there is more of it per capita than that of Montreal. But Mrs. Merritt pronounced unfavorably against it.

"Your surely don't prefer Bernard Harbor?" I demanded.

"I surely do! We don't have germs in Coronation Gulf. I was never ill a day all the time we lived there; nor was the baby. Here, we have scarcely been well!"

"What is there to do?" I queried. "Tell me how you spent your days."

"In ways that you may consider dull. There was no shopping, no dancing, no theatre; there were no newspapers, famous visitors or entertainments. In summer, there was really very little to do, for the only mode of travel was by canoe and besides. there was nowhere to go. The natives were miles away 'on the land'—following the caribou, which are becoming noticeably scarce, and so after the performance of my simple domestic duties, I did very little."

"And in winter?"

"Well, in winter, I often went out to the traps, and also with my husband when he was visiting the natives. We traveled by dog team when going any distance. Then, of course, was the time when the Eskimos came to the Post bringing their furs and fish, and we grasped the opportunity to try to teach them a little Christianity through the rudiments of civilization, and the use of the English language."

In answer to my question as to the ease with which they learned, Mrs. Merritt said that they were apt and alert pupils, particularly the children. Also they are born imitators and will copy the white man to the smallest detail. One of the most conspicuous examples she gave was that of eating. At the dinner parties to which visiting families were frequently invited, the Eskimos used knives, forks, spoons and table napkins with very little awkwardness after a single experiment.

"The trouble was," she explained, "that their stay was too short.....a few days at most, and by the time they returned, they had forgotten most of what we had taught them on their last visit."

While at the post, they sleep in their snow houses, but live practically at the mission, one room of which is dedicated to their use. Moreover, they rather expect to enjoy Mrs. Merritt's hospitality from a culinary point of view, and feeding a family of Eskimos is not the simple matter it might appear. With them the jaded appetite of the dyspeptic is unknown. A family of three will consume its official dole, any extra meals the mission will provide, and in addition will eat a caribou in four days!

"The moment they see the smoke from my chimney," said Mrs. Merritt, "they are at the door prepared for a visit, i.e., a meal. Their fixed belief is that the white people eat all the time and never suffer a lack of food. That they would share their supply with me should I visit them, is a justification for asking me to feed them—an entire family—and, not satisfied with food alone, they naively demand whatever else may take their fancy."

Coal $240 a Ton?

WITH the Eskimos, the superior man is the best hunter; the woman of distinction is the best seamstress. Their learning consists chiefly in living off the bleak land, which, in itself, is no mean achievement. They are rapidly adapting themselves to the products of civilization and accustoming themselves to white man's food. The annual "trader" brings fresh supplies, if it gets through; potatoes, tinned goods of more recent manufacture than the reserve at the post, and fruit and eggs. But dried food is really the staple diet, even to dried eggs. Of course, fresh milk is unknown.

"Yes," she smiled, "to you they may seem expensive, but to us who have taken the trip and know the risks, the price is not unreasonable. We paid $240 a ton for what coal we could get. But the house was always warm and cosy."

Mrs. Merritt has had some humorous experiences in her capacity as nurse. There was an old man who came to the mission one summer pitifully crippled with rheumatism. He used to cry with the severity of the pain. For weeks he was given daily attention, and as winter approached both Mr. and Mrs. Merritt yielded to considerable anxiety. He insisted upon going off to the seal holes, which meant that he would compose himself patiently on a block of ice for days at a time.

They bade him farewell with as much cheerfulness as they could muster, confident that they would never see him again. But in the spring he came capering back as briskly as his grandson. "I am cured" he told them. "The ice did it. No more oil and rubbing for me!"

The only name by which Mrs. Merritt was known was Ag-nak—the woman. Interest in her rose to fever heat when the Eskimos learned that a tender young life would presently lend its radiance to the mission house. Baby clothes were a source of unflagging wonder to the women, who stared at the dainty garments with curiosity and some disapproval. They had never heard of dressing an infant in anything but skin, and the length of the clothes dismayed them.

"Eskimo baby so long," they would say, measuring the inches with their hands. "You make coat so dress so long. Is white baby long like that?"

There was no doubt of their deep affection for Ag-nak, but it must be confessed that their respect would have been heightened had she been able to sew caribou skins as efficiently as calico, and had she consented to chew into shape—according to native custom—the soles of the mukluk—shoes.

Eskimos Need Aid

THERE was no doctor to attend Mrs. Merritt. No nurse. There was not even a native woman. A fair young life found its way into the mission house with only love as its guide.

The Eskimos came from far and near to see the strange pale baby. Many of them brought presents—for which they expected a present in return! "Handsome boy," they would say. "Beautiful white child!" "What lovely yellow hair!" And immediately add: "You got plenty needles and thimbles? Same very good for me."

Mrs. Merritt confessed that she would have been glad had help been available while the baby was very young. Without the labor-saving devices to which we are accustomed, even the simplest routine work was trying. Despite the gloomy prophesies of the native, she persisted in giving her baby a daily bath, and the women who came to witness his sudden dissolution stayed very often all day. So that giving demonstrations in child welfare, in hospitality, and domestic science left the young mother little time for idle meditation.

"It was almost impossible to make them understand the ethics of 'hired help,'" she told me. "They would come for a day and wash and scrub, but they could not grasp the fact that I was no more able to cook than to perform any other duties. Therefore, they expected me to provide their meals, and, in addition, meals for their entire families and any friends who might be visiting them at that time! You can see that my object was defeated and that I paid for having a clean house or clean clothes by being forced to maintain a non-paying hostelry."

Mrs. Merritt makes a strong plea for the Eskimo on economic grounds. The Arctic country, she argues, is valueless to Canada without them, and for this reason, regardless of humanitarianism, she feels that they require governmental aid. Traders are going in to the country with "civilized goods" — ammunition, tents, stoves, blankets, food, etc. The natives must be taught how to use these commodities, for their abuse will result in a more rapid decimation of their diminishing numbers. To impinge civilized life upon a primitive people is a dangerous undertaking, unless it is coincident with corresponding education. And the Eskimos themselves are eager to learn.

Dachshund Really Not German Dog; Its Egyptian—Another Blow at Fritz

Anyway, the Funny Long Animal With Short Legs Has Almost Disappeared on This Continent—For One Thing, Apartment Life Does Not Agree With Him

IN London it has been said that the dachshund is not really German at all, but Egyptian instead.

This is an age of iconoclasts. We have left ourselves few images, and those are going fast. It takes a moment for the mind to accustom itself to the idea that the dachshund may not be German. Here we have gone along for years calling him Fritz or Henie when we should have said Amenhotep or Akh-n-aten, if the news from London be true.

It must have been an envious mind that originated the idea. Perhaps it was an Englishman's way of revenging himself for the war. But surely it was too great a revenge. Here, at one gesture, we destroy the illusion of the world and break down the pride of a great people. Even the lineage of the Hohenzollerns is not longer nor more august than that of the German dachshunds.

German dog fanciers deny vehemently that the dachshund is anything but the most Germanic of dogs. They point to his descent from ages past. But the seed of doubt has been planted and the evil blossom has caused investigation. In dusty books it is found that dogs suspiciously like the dachshund were common in England in the Middle Ages. These were called spithounds or turnspits, and it was their lot in life to go walking around a circle in countless taverns that the spits might be kept turning just as fast. The poor chaps were trained to the task from their puppyhood.

With the progress of science and the introduction of new methods, accompanied by the decadence of cooking and the passing of old-fashioned open fire for the roasting of meats, the spithound sank into obscurity. Whether he was transplanted to Germany somewhere between the old days and the new is something that even the breeders cannot answer. On the other side of the story there is nothing much to justify the claim of a long German linsage for the dachshund. Men who make it a business to poke about in old books say that the German authors of two centuries ago offer no reference to dachshunds. There the matter stands, with the weight of evidence slightly on the English side.

While London and Berlin recently were bringing forth claims and counter-claims as to the origin and rearing of the dachshund, some of the scholars were hard at work. One of them, an Egyptologist, upset the whole controversy by asserting that the dachshund had been depicted in the Egyptian tombs thousands of years before the Christian era. Both sides paused for a moment to draw breath and turned upon the Egyptologist, demanding his proof. He is now looking for a tomb with a wall inscription carefully marked, "This is a dachshund."

A little inquiry by a layman reveals that a dog much like the dachshund flourished in Egypt. He had the same long body and short legs. Judging from the only reproduction that can be found in New York, these legs were not so bowed as those of the modern dachshund.

The Egyptians had at least a half dozen breeds of dogs. One resembled a fox and another plainly was a hound. The dachshund type was not uncommon. It has been found in a number of tombs, particularly in the period of Fehutimes III., who is said to have lent a kindly eye to that ancient dachshund.

The first of the race in this country are said to have come over as long ago as the 60's. They have never been numerous. But up to the war period they were a reasonably familiar sight. Breeders say that apartment life does not suit them. In Germany they are essentially house dogs, but that does not mean being confined all day in a three-and-bath, with only a half hour's walk in the morning and at night, held on a leash.

DEATH FROM IMAGINATION IN HEART DISEASE CASES

Autopsies Show Large Percentage of Heart Seizures are Really From the Stomach

IT is possible for a person so vividly to imagine that he or she is suffering from dangerous heart disease that death may take place, even though the heart may be thoroughly healthy.

This is one of the conclusions to be drawn from a remarkable statement by Dr. H. Walter Berdon, F.R.C.S., a London specialist, who is a great expert on angina pectoris, paroxysmal affection of the chest, characterized by several pains, faintness and anxiety.

More than 1,000 persons died from angina pectoris during 1920. The possibilities are that a large proportion of these persons imagined they suffered from heart disease.

Dr. Berdon declares that in 49 per cent. of autopsies on anginous subjects the heart was found to be sound and in many cases robust. In a much larger percentage disease, if existing at all, was not of a character likely to have caused death.

"Seizures of angina pectoris," he states, "are not from the heart, but from the stomach. I have not infrequently noticed, while watching the cardiographic tape, that even the extremity of anginous pain and when the victim of the complaint is at the very gate of death, the heart is pursuing the usual quiet tenor of its rhythmic round, unperturbed by disorder of any one of its essential functions, and wholly unconcerned by the gravity and turmoil of passing events.

"The fact that a stomach indisposed and distended by gas may cause symptoms indistinguishable from those of dangerous heart disease and may be the cause of sudden death is a matter worthy of public notice."

MAN DOOMED TO LIVE IN HOT BATH

Australian Soldier, With Skin Peeled From Entire Body, Cannot Bear Even Greased Pyjamas

SLEEPS WITH CHIN-SLING TO PREVENT DROWNING

Effect of Poison-Gas — At First He Prayed for Death, But Now He Is Optimistic

OUT of the cauldron of the great war an Australian soldier was allowed to pass—only to enter upon a life almost too terrible to contemplate.

His name is Trooper Rolfe. To his comrades in the Randwick Military nospital, Sydney, he is known as "The Man in The Bath." In a bath of steaming hot water he finds his only haven from pain; at least this is where he escapes the severest forms of it.

Rolfe is suffering from a disease engendered by poison gas. From head to foot the skin has peeled off his body. All the exertions of medical science, both in Sydney and London, have failed to make it grow again. The raw flesh is almost soothed by the hot water of his bath. Nothing else can come into contact with it without making him cry out in agony. His only prayer in life is that he may be allowed to keep his bath—and in it live always. Once he used to pray to God that he might be allowed to die, out after four years, with that prayer still unanswered, he resigned himself to the inevitable.

When the Great War broke out Rolfe left his little country farm to don the uniform of the Australian army. He served on many fronts in France and Belgium and finally was "knocked out" by a dose of poison gas—he reckoned it was the last word in devilish science, the lot that got him.

So he was invalided to Australia after the London doctors had failed to arrest the poison which had begun to sweep through his system. He was admitted to the hospital in Sydney and was treated by the most eminent brains in the land. One by one the specialists, however, retired baffled. Then herbalists stepped in. Rolfe was prepared to let every one have a try, whether he was doctor or layman. The sum total of all this attention was that Rolfe gradually got worse. Admitted four years ago, he still is a patient. He will be there until death.

Making His Lot Bearable

THOUGH the hospital doctors failed to cure Rolfe they spared no efforts to make his lot as bearable as possible. They devised the treatment of a perpetual bath, after it was found that the patient could not even bear to rest in pajamas which had been thickly smeared with vaseline. He desired nothing but water to touch his scalding flesh.

A bath was specially built for his needs. It is eight by four and four feet deep, and the temperature of the water is regulated by a bubbling gas heater which works right round the clock.

Rolfe sleeps in water now.

He is accommodated on a water bed, which is automatically raised by winding gear when the water rises too high. There are water-filled pillows for head and feet.

Sleeping in it at first proved a problem. Rolfe used to roll off at night and wake up to find his head under water. He had several narrow escapes from drowning, but the difficulty was solved by putting a bandage-sling round his chin. His head is kept above water.

The designers of the bath intend to equip it with a floating table. This will serve up food and smokes and save Rolfe from needless exertions.

Though his frame is wrecked by long years of bodily torture, Rolfe is an optimist. He thinks that the poison, which is running inside him, will work out some day. Why shatter this optimism? Faith is better than medicine.

Indeed, some men had to pay a big price for the allied victory!—New York World.

Homes of the Feeble-Minded Duplicate Side-Show Wild Men

Famous Minny-ha-ha Never Saw Wilds of Madagascar—Born in Southeastern Ohio —Wild Man From Borneo Finished Days in Institution for Idiots

"SEE Minny-ha-ha, that strange girl from the wilds of Madagascar," shouts the barker in front of the side show. "See a real royal princess of a tribe of savage aborigines. She looks like a monkey and yet she is human. Scientists claim that Minny-ha-ha is the real missing link for which they've been looking for thirty years. She is the only member left of a tribe of bloodthirsty cannibals who lived in the trees. In a battle with French soldiers, all her people were killed and she is now the only survivor of the race of monkey-men. Minny! Minny! Ha! Ha! Only ten cents to see the little lady who speaks the monkey language."

When the spieler had got his raucous anthropological harangue off his chest, you contributed your dime for the privilege of passing behind the gaudy canvas spread. You saw a spindle-armed, loose-jointed female creature with a head about the size of a grapefruit. She was dressed in a bizarre garb and lavishly adorned with a variety of ten-cent-store jewelry. Her complexion was a dark oak color (applied daily by her impresario).

Her forehead sloped back from the eyebrows in a straight incline to the crown of her head. Her diminutive skull came to a point on top like an inverted V. The hair on her head had been shaved off, leaving a tuft at the crown which exaggerated her distorted appearance.

I happen to know that Minny-ha-ha was born, not in Madagascar, but in southeastern Ohio in the hills that border on the Ohio river. She is not a rare specimen, but has her duplicates in any institution for the feeble-minded.

She is what is technically known as a microcephalic idiot—"micro" being the Greek for small and "cephalic," meaning head. A microceph is a living argument for eugenics because this condition is entirely attributable to mental and physical defects, latent in the parents, which have been transmitted in grotesque form.

The Wild Man from Borneo, formerly an attraction with Barnum and Bailey's circus some years ago, was retired to the obscurity of a New York institution for the feeble-minded, where he is known simply as "Joe." Joe has a gnomish appearance, is about four feet tall, has a dark leathery skin and more wrinkles in his forehead than I have ever seen—a truly furrowed brow.

Joe also is an idiot, that is, he has less intelligence than a three-year-old child. He is unable to talk, but jabbers occasionally or merely grunts. His greatest intelligence is displayed when he approaches visitors and feels their pockets to see if they have brought him any chocolate. Joe is of the type of feeble-mindedness known as cretinism.

SEVEN OR EIGHT CLUBS WILL BE REPRESENTED IN DISTRICT CUP GAMES

First Round Will Be Played Off Here To-Morrow With Unusually Large Entry List Promised — Fenelon Falls Won Group.

SEVEN ASSURED.

By eliminating both Bobcaygeon and Lindsay in the District Cup preliminaries at the Lindsay rink Fenelon Falls will be the northern group representaive in the first round of the Trent District at the Charlotte Street rink on Tuesday. This is the first time in years that Lindsay has failed to return a winner in its sub-group games.

R. M. Waddell, first round umpire, expects a large entry for the draw.

Lakefield, Norwood, Hastings, Campbellford, Millbrook, Fenelon Falls and Peterboro clubs will likely comprise the list of contestants, the most numerous array of curlers in recent memory for this competition It is the big event of the week.

Norwood's Success.

Norwood's winning the Neill cup would have greatly pleased the donor, the late Robert Neill of happy memory. Of all the clubs in this immediate district Norwood has had the hardest struggle to keep the game alive, to pass the besom on to younger hands. The Finlay brothers and John McKelvie trailing half a dozen young chaps and with a few of the older curlers of the village have found most of their fun at the Peterboro bonspiel, District Cup matches, Neill trophy competition and in other matches here and at Keene and Lakfield. Their club facilities have been discouraging, but in spite of that handicap the curlers have passed on their skill and knowledge of the game with the gratifying result of last week when Fred Kempt, one of the younger players, skipped his rink into possession of the Neill trophy. This was the second time in its five years 'existence that the handsome trophy has been won by an outside rink. Jack Moore of Keene set the example in 1920 when the Neill cup games were instituted, but Peterboro rinks captured it three years in succession the skips being Walter Oke in 1921, George Stevenson in 1922, Billie Widdess last year, and 1924 yields it to Norwood.

The Kempt rink and the Norwood curlers as a whole deserve the warmest congratulations upon their success, and every club in the district will be glad that the Finlay-McKelvie youngsters have so soon proved their mettle and their curling ability.

NATIONAL LEAGUE STARTS APRIL 15

Schedule Winds Up on September 29, Ten Days Earlier Than Last Year.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Opening games in the 1924 National League race, on April 15, will find Boston at Philadelphia, Brooklyn at New York, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, and Chicago at St. Louis, it was announced to-night by John A. Heydler, President of the senior circuit.

The schedule, which has been completed except for a few minor details, will close on September 29, Mr. Heydler said. This is ten days earlier than the 1923 closing and one of the earliest on record for the full 154-game schedule. It was decided upon to afford more favorable world's series weather, avoid conflict with college football games, and because of the proximity of the presidential election.

FISTIC COMBAT IN AURA LEE VICTORY

Defeated Kitchener 8 to 5 in a Snappy Game

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Aura Lee kept in the running for Ontario Hockey Association Senior championship by beating Kitchener Twin City team here on Saturday night 8 to 5 in a game which was rough, full of action and interesting. The visitors held the locals even until the final period when they suddenly weakened and Aura Lee outscored them 5 to 2.

The result put Hamilton and Aura Lee in first place each with three wins and one loss. Kitchener is now in second place and University of Toronto third. Aura Lee can jump half a game ahead of Tigers by beating St. Mary's to-morrow night.

Illegal checking marred the game and finally resulted in a fistic battle, Tracy Shaw and Murray Rutherford of Aura Lee opposing Schnarr brothers in a wild melee a few minutes before the end of the game.

Sunday Morning Halted Tie Game

BOSTON, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press).—What was claimed to be a record in United States Amateur Hockey Association history was set here Saturday night by the Boston Hockey Club and the Maple Athletic Association. The teams after 75 minutes of play, were tied 4 to 4, and the laws governing Sunday observance compelled them to end the game at midnight.

At the end of the regular playing time the score stood three goals to three. The first 10 minute period was scoreless; in the second extra period each team netted one goal. A third scoreless overtime period brought the contest to a inconclusive finish at 12 o'clock.

SPECIAL TRAIN TUESDAY NIGHT

The championship of the Intermediate group depends upon the result at to-morrow night's game in Lindsay. If the Petes win, the battle is over, while on the other hand a Lindsay victory will tie up the two teams and render a home and home series necessary to decide the group title. On their own small rink, and fighting with their backs to the wall, the Lindsay crew are a tough proposition, but the Petes are hopeful of victory, leaving the way open for a couple of exhibition games with senior O.H.A. clubs to round them in shape for the second round. Lindsay beat them twice last year in Lindsay by one goal on each occasion, but the blue shirts hope to turn the trick to-morrow night and wind up the group race.

A big crowd of fans will accompany the team on the specail G.T.R. train, which leaves Peterboro at 7 o'clock sharp, and will return immediately after the game. A Lindsay hockey excursion is always popular with the fans, and the jaunt to-morrow night is expected to be well patronized by a flock of fans.

BERMUDA GOLF TITLE.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 20.—The final match for the Bermuda amateur golf championship was won yesterday by Frank Dyer, metropolitan and New Jersey amateur champion, who defeated Edward H. Driggs, New York state title-holder, two up and one to play, on the 35th hole.

Dyer also takes the low gross score award, his total in the qualifying round at 36 holes being 159.

KITCHENER AMATEUR PICKED FOR ST. PATS

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Billy Breen of Toronto, who has been scouting for smart O.H.A. hockey players for the past few days to strengthen the Toronto St. Pats made Harry King an offer to sign up. The reported offer is $3,500 and it is expected that the Woodstock star will accept after Woodstock's chances in the amateur series are ended.

WEIRD HOCKEY IN MONTREAL

St. Patrick's Secured 2-0 Decision in Long Range Battle in Slush.

MONTREAL, Jan. 20.—Seldom has a more weird and yet dogged struggle been witnessed on a local National Hockey League fixture than was seen in the game here at the Mount Royal Arena Saturday night, when St. Patrick's blanketed Canadians 2 to 0. The victory gave the Toronto team a firm hold on second place in the race are ended temporarily the Canadiens' chances of drawing even.

Rough, slushy ice greeted the players and the poor surface rendered good hockey impossible. Players of both sides were unable to control the puck, which bounded about the rink over the boards and anywhere but where the puck carrier wanted it to go. The game soon degenerated into a long-distance siege by both teams on the opposing goal-keeper.

St. Patricks were the first to resort to this type of play and in fact practically throughout the game made no attempt to bore in beyond the Canadien defence. They were successful and got the "breaks" while Canadiens, though having the better of the rushes, had no luck.

LOCAL 'Y' TEAM TOO FAST FOR TORONTO

Intermediates Outplayed Seniors of the Central Y.M.C.A. By 33-26 in Snappy Basketball.

Playing in old time form, the local Intermediates defeated the senior basketball team representing the Toronto Central "Y," in an exhibition game at the local "Y" Saturday evening. The locals led 15 to 10 at the end of the first period and they had the big end of a 33 to 26 count when the final whistle shilled.

With one exception, the game with Chicago, the brand of basketball was superior to anything staged here since the Intermediates capped the Ontario Championship several years ago.

Play was close every minute of the forty. The teams were evenly matched, Toronto making up by speed for the very little they gave away in size and weight. The quintette raced at top speed, and every man gave all he had.

Toronto used a snappy circling combination but they failed to work the ball under the basket, and thus missed many a shot. On the other hand the locals' strong point was their shooting. They shot from every angle and position, and everyone was on the basket. Degraw dropped in many a basket while on the fly and at long range.

The game developed into a close checking affair, with every check following his man tenaciously. Toronto favored all minor fouls to be called, and the practice slowed up the game toward the end, and caused two men to be chased from the game when they made a total of four personal fouls. The game was on the whole clean but it was certainly not a pink tea affair.

Stimers and Boland were best for Toronto, being on the receiving end of their combination plays. Pogue, Degraw and Stuart went fast for the locals, but all were on top of their man.

In the second game the P.C.I. snowed the Normal boys under by a 33 to nil. At the end of the first period the fall was only five points, but the second period was a regular blizzard, with all the play around the normal basket, and, and the Normal forwards nearly caught pneumonia from inactivity. Bruce Copping was the P.C.I. marksman, collecting a total of 19 points to his credit.

The Central Park boys demonstrated the fact that they are the makings of a snappy squad, and with a little practice will be good enough to give any high school team a hard battle.

MISS ROBINSON STILL AMATEUR

Changed Her Mind on Jump to Professional Company—Held Up at Pittsfield Races.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Jan. 20.—Miss Gladys Robinson, of Toronto, who refused Friday to participate in skating races in the winter carnival here in which she was entered, because of reports that she had become a professional, produced her amateur card for 1924, issued by the Amateur Skating Union of Canada, on Saturday, and asserted that she would fight to be allowed to remain in amateur ranks. Miss Robinson also produced a message from the Toronto branch of the Canadian association stating that she is eligible to compete in amateur races in the United States and Canada.

Officials of the International Skating Association yesterday informed the Pittsfield club in charge of the carnival that Miss Robinson was listed as a professional. Miss Robinson said that although she had announced her intention of joining the ranks of professional skaters, she had never done so.

Everett McGown, of St. Paul, Minn., won the half mile and two mile professional races here Saturday.

Ed. Lamy, of Saranac Lake, New York, finished second in each event.

After exhibiting her amateur card Miss Robinson was allowed to race as an amateur last night and won the half mile event for women.

Jack Ruping, of Troy, N.Y., defeated McGowan in the three mile race when McGowan fell near the finish. McGowan finished first and Ruping second in the 220-yard event.

SCANDINAVIANS WIN FIRST OLYMPIC RACES

Thunberg, of Finland, Was First in Three Events, and Lowered One World Record.

DAVOS, Switzerland, Jan. 20.—The international skating races opened here yesterday with the 500 and 5,000 meter (545 yards, and 3.10 miles) speed contests. The 500 meter race was won by the European champion Thunberg of Helsingfors, Finland, in 43 4-5 seconds, which is 2-5 second slower than the world's record. The 5,000 meter contest was won by Skutnabb, of Sweden, in 8 minutes, 50 1-5 seconds, with Thunberg, one second behind.

Thunberg, of Helsingfors, Finland, the European champion, won the 1,000 and 10,000 meter, (1096.61 yards, and 6,213 miles) races in the European skating championships today. He covered the 1,000 metres in one miunute, 32 3-5 seconds, with Skutnabb second, and the 10,000 in 18 minutes, 2 seconds.

Kachler of Vienna won the figure skating championship.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—The Yacht Racing Union of the Great Lakes meeting here yesterday elected George H. Gooderham, of Toronto, Canada, chairman, and Thomas Wade, also of Toronto, secretary. The Union made arrangements for the annual international yacht race for the Richardson Trophy, to be held here the first week in September. Last year the race was held at Toronto, where Ogden T. The Union adopted minor rules governing sail area and the like.

SENOR ERMINO SPILLA.

Showing Ermino Spalla, heavyweight champion of Italy, who is now on his way to this country to hurl a flat and nasty defi at the well-shod feet of Jack Dempsey. The good senor is depicted herewith in the act of missing a completely inflated punching bag with a rather ponderous left hand. It will be noted that he has a serious expression, and wears his sweater in a manner befitting one pugilistically inclined. What other fistic attributes he may possess are not visible to the naked eye.

AL. SOTHORON COMES BAGK

Fielding Bunts His Weakness.

Allan Sothoron, former star pitcher of the St. Louis Browns, and the Cleveland Indians, is to return to the majors. He comes back to St. Louis but this time as a member of the Cardinals of the National League. Manager Rickey, familiar with Sothoron's ability, feels that he can remedy the faults that sent Sothoron to the minors.

The career of Allan Sothoron as a big league pitcher has been most unusual. Possessed of remarkable ability he never quite came up to expectations.

A desire to experiment with freak deliveries was one of the contributing causes to Sothoron's failure to stick. There was another reason which I will discuss later. Sothoron is the possessor of fine speed, a corking good curve and a very fair change of pace. He has enough natural ability to be a star. Sticking to straight stuff he always went along prety well but the monotonous routine of doing things as other pitchers did them never appealed to Sothoron.

Of an inventive turn of mind, Sothoron never failed to start some experiment if his team staked him to a fair margin. Dabbling with freak deliveries was his undoing.

When pitching there was always a desire on the part of Sothoron to see if he couldn't make the ball take some freaky break by tampering with it. A smooth spot, a rough spot, a loaded seam, a piece of dirt placed on the ball, cutting the ball with the thumb nail are just a few stunts that will make the ball jump and dip. All pitchers are familiar with the possibilities. Sothoron always got more of a kick out of striking out some star batter in a pinch that merely retiring him on a fly or ground. He often resorted to the unusual to accomplish this purpose.

Use of freak deliveries caused Sothoron to lose control. I once

AL. SOTHORON

St. Louis is to get another look at Al. Sothoron as a big league pitcher this year. Sothoron has been brought back from the minors to pitch for the St. Louis Cardinals. Sothoron used to be a star with the St. Louis Browns and later a dependable on the Cleveland staff.

saw him with a seven-run lead in the eighth inning start experimenting, finally losing the game.

Inability to handle bunts is Sothoron's other failing. In practice Sothoron is really a classy fielder. However, in a game, when the opposition starts bunting on him, he seems to lose his aim entirely. After fielding the ball he invariably throws it into the ground or far over the first basemans' head. Under stress, the mere throwing of the ball to the first baseman with any degree of accuracy becomes almost a physical impossibility. The real trouble is mental.

Rickey is familiar with Sothoron's faults. However, his great natural ability is causing the Cardinal's manager to gamble with him.

101 Balls New Record In Pocket Billiards.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Jan. 20.—Ralph Greenleaf, of Philadelphia, worlds' champion pocket billiard player, and present leader in the United States' National Pocket Billiard Tournament, broke the world's record for high runs in pocket billiard championship competition here this afternoon when he surpassed his old run of 100 balls, by running 101 balls for the game. In the match, Greenleaf defeated former champion Jerome Keogh of Rochester, 100 to 16.

WON IN TWO FALLS.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 20.—Ed. (Strangler) Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated Jack Sandow, of Aberdeen, S.D., last night, winning in successive falls. The first was won with a flying headlock, in 1:05, while the second came in 55 seconds.

Sandow was injured in the first fall but insisted on wrestling the second.

SENATORS WON IN OVERTIME

Third Extra-Period Game With Hamilton Was Fast —Score 2-1.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press.) — Ottawa Senators strengthened their position as leaders of the National Hockey League when they defeated the Hamilton Tigers here Saturday night by a score of two to one. It was only after one of the closest games seen here this year that the locals emerged victorious, Cy. Denneny banging in the winning goal after three minutes and twetny-five seconds of overtime.

The playing of overtime games by these two teams seems to be a natural occurrence. Their last three engagements have been extra period sessions, with the Senators taking two verdicts and the Bengals one. Last night's exhibition was no exception to the good hockey that has been consistenly served to local professional patrons this winter. Close, hard checking was much in evidence with enough of the open variety to keep the game at a fast clip.

For the visitors, Forbes was the outstanding star. Randall and Spring both turned in good games, with Burch again the pick of the line. The veteran Prodgers worked well at all times, and the Green brothers were in better form than on the occasion of their first appearance here. Bouchard was only used in the overtime period.

While Cy Denneny's winning effort raised him to the heights, Boucher was perhaps the most effective man on the ice. His terrific body checking played havoc with the visiting attack and in this respect he was ably seconded by Hitchman. The latter turned in a great performance. Broadbent played a whale of a game all through and Nighbor was the same crafty general as usual. Clancy relieved on the line and did well, while Campbell rested Broadbent in the third period. Denneny's injured arm was a continual source of annoyance and he had to be rested frequently.

RAIN DRENCHED SOCCER FIELDS

Most of the Grounds, Especially in South, Were Churned Into Mud on Saturday — Some of the Features.

LONDON, Jan. 20.— (Canadian Press Cable.) — Blizzards and drenching rains made Saturday's games in the Association Football Leagues unpleasant, especially in the south. Most of the grounds were water-logged.

Osborne made a promising debut for Tottenham. Hasty shooting lost Newcastle many chances and the visitors gave the impression that they were purposely playing off-side tactics, the referee's whistle sounding with irritating frequency. The Tottenham ground was churned like a quagmire, but, while free kicks were numerous, the game was not rough. Cardiff City retains their position at the head of the first league table, but the team seems to lack a combined effort and it was only occasional individual brilliance that saved them from defeat at Arsenal. Goal-keeping of a high order and excellent defensive play by both Chelsea and Huddersfield made a great game at the latter city. Wilson's skilfull passing resulted in first rate combined efforts of the whole of the Chelsea forwards and Miller scored the only and winning goal of the match in the last few minutes.

Blackburn Rovers, whose players wore black armlets in memory of the recent death of their president, put up a poor game, the only redeeming feature of which was the playing of the new amateur, Bateson.

Bolton's defeat of Aston Villa was scored in spite of the fact that they were weakened by an injury to Joe Smith.

In the Second Division an uproarious crowd at the Fulham grounds protested alleged foul by Barsad, a Manchester United player, one of which resulted in Gavigan's retirement, Fulham finishing with ten men. Edmonds scored all of there goals for Fulham. The Southampton-Barnsley game was played at top speed in storm weather and the latter team played better than the no score result indicates.

In the Southern Section, Third Division, Reading's attack on Northampton was being constantly held up by free kicks being given against them.

International Rugby Victory For England.

SWANSEA, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Forty thousand spectators witnessed the international rugby football match which was played in showery weather here Saturday afternoon between England and Wales and which was won by the former 17 points to 9.

BASKETBALL GAMES.

Friday night the basketball games at the Y.W.C.A. were resumed, and the first games in the second half of the League played. The teams are showing improvement, and the contest points to being a lively one.

The Quaker Oats team was not able to be on hand, so their game with the De Laval was cancelled.

The Normals won from the Canadian Woollens by the score of 26 to 8, and the Y.W.C.A. defeated the Westclock by the score of 41 to 5.

The line-ups were as follows:

Can. Woollens — Forwards, M. Bradley and L. Bradley; centres, L. Slaughter and E. Mann; defence, L. Gregory and E. Bradley.

Normals—Forwards, S. Tomley, M. Jamieson and E. Fitchelt; centres, M. Cameron and F. Glover; defence, M. Nesbitt and F. MacLaughlin.

Westclock — Forwards, McIlwain and A. Scott; centres, M. Merritt, V. Martin and G. Northcott; defence J. McIlwain and E. Wolfe.

Y.W.C.A.—Forwards, P. Hall and G. Gimblett; centres, M. Sisson and E. Outram; defence, V. Graham and A. Sanderson.

CENTRAL ONTARIO WANTS TOURISTS

All Efforts to Induce Them to Come Here Have Been Done by the Exhibit of the Trent Waterways at the New York Motor Boat Show

All efforts to induce tourists to visit Central Ontario during the next summer were eclipsed by the exhibit of the Trent Waterway placed by the Department of Railways and Canals at the New York Motor Boat Show at the Grand Central Palace, which has just been concluded.

Mr. Alex. Kay, of the Trent Canal office, in charge of the exhibit, informs the Examiner that this interest shown in the exhibit this year surpassed all expectations. Besides the visitors to the show being interested by those attending the exhibit in visiting Central Ontario, a considerable number of enquiries were answered, created by the advertising of those visiting this district in previous years, and who were thoroughly satisfied with their visit.

The signs placed at the Motor Show, which was being held at the New York Armouries during the same period, resulted in a considerable number of enquiries for motor routes.

The entrance fee to the Motor Boat Show was seventy-five cents, and therefore resulted in a select attendance.

Approximately eighty thousand people attended the Show, and everyone was approached and given an opportunity of learning of Central Ontario as an ideal spot for summer vacation.

The Department was complimented by many visiting Canadians and Americans in the attractiveness of the display, and the enthusiasm displayed by the Government in so interesting the Americans to visit Canada, and it was suggested that more of the class of advertising should be carried on at selective exhibitions, which would ensure more interest in the Dominion by Americans desirous of travelling abroad during the summer.

The only foreign exhibits there from Canada were the Trent Waterway exhibit and the exhibit of canoes, motor boats, etc., from the Peterboro Canoe Company.

The City of Peterboro was therefore more on the map for business than ever before in New York City.

The exhibit was placed by the Department through the efforts of Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Deputy Speaker, with the co-operation of the Imperial Tobacco Company of Montreal, who kindly loaned the working model of the Hydraulic Lift Lock, and the Trent Waterway Development Association and the Peterboro Chamber of Commerce.

Associated with Mr. Alex. Kay in charge, Mr. Leon Frazer and Mr. G. K. Fraser, of the Trent Waterway Development Association, also assisted at the exhibit.

The secretary's presence was arranged by the cordial co-operation of all municipalities on the Trent Waterway.

WORKING FOR PEACE.

PARIS. Jan. 21. — (Canadian Press).—Premier Poincare yesterday inaugurated a war memorial in one of the city's wards, delivering a speech in which he declared that France was determined to work for peace with all her mind and heart, but to serve the cause of universal concord by defending the carrying out of treaties and by maintaining the right established by them.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

Caruso and Johnson sing for Capitol Patrons Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday

Capitol theatre patrons will have an opportunity of comparing the merits of two of the world's greatest tenors when they hear Enrico Caruso and Edward Johnson sing on Victor records at the Capitol to-night, Tuesday and Wednesday. So marvellously has the making of the records of these noted singers been done, that it is difficult to believe that Caruso and Johnson are not standing on the darkened stage of the Capitol, for their powerful voices fil the big auditorium of the theatre with splendid volume, and rich tone. Caruso, who sang the leading role in the Opera—played by J. Warren Kerrigan in the picture—sings his celebrated number "O Sole Mio," while Edward Johnson will be heard singing 'That I may Believe in You,' from the Operatic version of "The Girl of the Golden West" by Puccini.

"THE GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST" IS MASTER DRAMA

The works of David Belasco can be successfully transferred to the silver screen. This is evidenced by the showing of Edwin Carewe's production of "The Girl of the Golden West," a First National attraction which opens at the Capital Theatre to-day.

Not only has Director Carewe transferred the Belasco story to the screen, but he has improved upon the stage masterpiece to such an extent that the cinema version ranks as a perfect picture.

J. Walter Kerrigan is a typical Ramerrez, a gay and romantic bandit-caballero or California in the pioneering period of '49. Sylvia Breamer, in the title role, has the greatest part of her film career. It is no wonder that Belasco declared he would pick Miss Breamer for The Girl if he were to stage a revival of the play. Rosemary Theby is Nina the Mexican vamp, and she plays her part like only Rosemary Theby can play it, a triumph for her. An outstanding characterization is that of Sheriff Jack Rance, essayed by Russell Simpson, veteran character actor

From the details it is evident that Director Carewe spared neither time nor expense in making "The Girl of the Golden West" a thoroughly great picture. The California of '49 is relived; the rustic Polka Saloon, with its cosmopolitan crowd, the covered wagon, the miner panning for gold, the medicine man with his high silk hat, all pass before your eyes in this picturization of Belasco's story. Added to the glory of this production is the beautiful scenic background, which seems to revive all the romance of bygone days.

The story is that of a bandit upon whose head is a reward of five thousand dollars. He is about to rob the Polka Saloon when he discovers that the owner is a girl whom he met a few days before on the road and carried across the stream. Then begins a race for the love of the girl, between the sheriff and the bandit, and it is only after a series of most thrilling incidents, in which the bandit is exposed, wounded and nearly hanged by the posse, that the story is brought to a climax.

"The Girl of the Golden West" is a picture well worth seeing.

IS YOUR HUBBY SLIPPING? HEED THIS WARNING.

Inconsistency in your Attentions to Him may Ruin Your Happiness.

"Wives! Be unusual!"

Such advice is offered women of the world by no less a personage than William de Mille, who sends this startling message through his latest Paramount production "Don't Call it Love," which will be shown at the Royal Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Wives! Be unusual!"

To the average spirited American man, nothing is more tiring than monotony, according to the theme of "Don't Call it Love." It is therefore necessary for a woman, if she would continue to hold the interest of her husband after marriage, be different.

"I do not believe this picture intends to convey that a woman, to be different, must be inconsistent," says Nita Naldi, a featured member of the cast. "She should be consistent in her attentions to her husband—and her attentions should be only fc her husband. She should use her personality in varying ways. She should dress differently; that is, instead of having all her house dresses pink or blue she should have variety in color and style. These things would serve to keep her husband's interest centred on her at all times, whereas, if she allows her clothes and personality and apearance to become monotonous, he would seek elsewhere for the 'something different' his life demands."

In the new de Mille photoplay, the effect of monotonous, everyday love is brought home with unusual force, by a triangle affair carried on by Agnes Ayres, Nita Naldi, and Jack Holt. Theodore Kasloff and Rod La Rocque are also featured.

AT THE GRAND.

MAE MARSH RETURNS IN GRIFFITH PICTURE.

Mae Marsh "came back home" when she signed a contract to play a leading part in D. W. Griffith's next production, "The White Rose," a United Artists release coming to the Grand Theatre January 24 for three days.

After an absence of six years, the little freckle-faced school girl whom Griffith moulded into fame in "The Birth of a Nation," returned to his direction again to resume her career.

Mae Marsh was the youngest of all the screen leading women to attain celebrity. When she was fifteen, she went to the Griffith studio with her older sister, and was busily upturning stones to watch the black bugs crawl from under, when Griffith first saw the play of expression that has made her face unrivalled.

A year later she was known throughout the world as the little sister of the Cameron family in "The Birth of a Nation." Of her Mr. Griffith has said:

"Every other motion picture star I have ever known was 'made' by long training and much hard work, but Mae Marsh was born a film star. Destiny itself seemed to have been her coach in acting."

She was the youngest motion picture star to receive a large salary, long before she was of age, having signed a contract for $3,000 a week with another producer.

The intervening years have brought her much experience, and with this she returns to the Griffith direction to face one of the most interesting experiments the spectacular motion picture industry has ever offered.

AT THE REGENT.

RAY PLAYS NEW TYPE IN "DEUCE OF SPADES."

Charles Ray brings a new edition of his talent to the movies in "The Deuce of Spades," his latest release through First National, which will be shown at the Regent Theatre to-day. The latest volume promises to combine all the delicate shading of "Scrap Iron" or "The Old Swimmin' Hole," with a western angle that gives it distinctiveness and an exciting plot.

The story was adapted from Charles E. Van Loan's "The Weight of the Last Straw," and comes from the pen of the author of "Scrap Iron." In this instance the last straw is a notoriously antiquated card sharper's trick to which the star falls an easy victim. The fraud is the last of a series of misfortunes that overtakes him and reduces him to absolute penury.

With his back against the wall he starts shooting things up, fearing neither sheriff nor two gun men; and his apparent courage against all comers wins him the respect of the entire community, the girl of his choice and a new start in life.

Ray's part is one that calls for intensive character study and a delicate handling of boyish mannerisms that the star is particularly adept at. As a foil he has the capable assistance of Marjorie Maurice in the leading feminine role.

ATHENS, Jan. 21. — (Canadian Press). — The Creek Cabinet, according to Athens papers, has decided to report to the National Assembly resolutions virtually favoring a Republic. Venizelos has announced his intention of casting his vote for a Republic at the coming referendum on this question.

MOTHER OVERCOME BY ENGINE FUMES

Arrived in Time to Save Her Daughter Only to Die Herself.

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Overcome by carbon monoxide fumes from a gasoline engine used to run the electric light system, Mrs. William McGregor died Saturday night at Kemble. Returning from making a visit, Mrs. McGregor found her daughter, Miss Minnie McGregor, lying unconscious on the floor. After restoring her daughter to consciousness, the mother collapsed and died in a few minutes.

It is believed that the engine had been left running, and the fumes penetrated the kitchen. Miss McGregor had gone to get a glass of water when she was overcome. The arrival of Mrs. McGregor saved the life of the daughter, but proved fatal to the mother.

MAH JONG GETS A MINISTERIAL RAP

People Play Mah Jong All Night and Sleep All Day

TECHNY, Ills., Jan. 21.—(United Press).—America is in danger of mah jonging itself into moral and civic corruption like that which prevails in portions of China, according to the Rev. George Stens, now at St. Mary's Mission House here, after thirty years as a Chinese missionary.

If people lose all interest in their duties, sit up all night and play mah jong and spend the day asleep and devising devious schemes to get their money back, blame it on the game, the missionary says.

"I know men and women in China who have lost their entire possessions playing this game," declared the priest. "In China there is a saying that the victim of mah jong habit no longer can be trusted.

"It is a great surprise to me to note how rapidly the game of mah jong has gained such popularity in the United States. There are few games so contagious, and I am sorry to see it getting such a hold on America."

HALF TIME WORK FOR CONFERENCE

Golf and Week-end Trips Must Come Before Business.

PARIS, Jan. 21. — (Canadian Press).—"General Dawes failed to take golf into account," says the Paris Midi in an article entitled "Policies and Golf," describing the present state of the experts' investigations.

"Hardly had he arrived in Paris," continues the paper, "than General Dawes gave an inaugural address which turned the oratorical customs and diplomatic prejudices of old Europe upside down. He would like to do the same to the bureaucratic traditions and over-slow methods of European experts. Like a good American, he is unable to understand why what could be done to-day should be postponed until to-morrow.

The General expected the experts to work morning, afternoon and night, without even a Sunday rest; but he overlooked the impossibility of the English members doing without a week-end break and Saturday golfing. Thus the first week passed and work was done only on half-time."

Financial News and Views

Canadian Stock Exchange —And Mines— | New York Stock Exchange —and Curb Prices—

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Ma kets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. — (United Press).—Aside from developments in the Mexican situation, little of import marketwise happened over the week-end. Pan-American issues were fractionally strengthened by the steps taken by the Navy Department to break up the rebel blockade at Tampico, which was believed to be the initial movement in forcing the relinquishment of Mexican petroleum properties in that vicinity. In other sections of the industrial list, active stocks showed no definite trend. But rails were in brisk demand, brokers reporting that most of the buying orders were for foreign account.

Conflicting price movements marked the first half hour. High-priced industrials showed special strength. Corn Products reaching a record high at 162½, while General Electric at 205½ was in the highest ground since 1902, when its capitalization was considerably smaller. These strong spots were offset, however, by renewed pressure on Baldwin. Studebaker and other industrial leaders and by another outburst of selling in the Pan-Americans, which speedily yielded their early gains. This fresh weakness was based on the attacks made in the Senate against the lease of the naval oil reserve in California to the Doheny group.

Although Steel Common eased off to par, the general steel group was steadier than the balance of the industrial list, reflecting increased activity in the industry which usually foreshadows the acceleration of practically all lines of business. Since the first of the year there has been a substantial improvement in steel orders as well as in operations. United States Steel is now operating more than 85 per cent. capacity, and incoming business is running in excess of production. Earnings in the first quarter of this year show an improvement over the last quarter of 1923.

The directors of United States Steel meet on January 29 to act on dividends. The general belief is that another extra dividend of 25 cents a share will be declared. Due to reduced operations in the fourth quarter, earnings are expected to fall considerably under the earnings of the third quarter.

MARMORA MENACED BY MIDNIGHT BLAZE

Shoe Store Destroyed, But Firefighters Save the Adjoining Buildings

MARMORA, Jan. 21.—Fire broke out at 11.30 o'clock last evening in the shoe store occupied by J. D. Narrie, totalling destroying the stock and building. The loss is practically covered by insurance. Through the efforts of the local firefighters the building and grocery store owned and occupied by C. A. Lummis was saved with practically small damage to the building. The residence in the rear of Narries' store was also saved. This was occupied by W. Leonard. Three lines of hose were played on the fire, which was first discovered by J. P. Marrin while returning home from spending the evening with friends.

BRITISH EMMIGRANTS GET MORE OPPORTUNITY

LONDON, Jan. 12.— (Canadian Press Cable.)— A new emigration agreement has been entered into between Britain and Canada under the empire settlement act. By its terms each emigrant is to receive eighty dollars towards the cost of transportation and care and expense of his children up to the age of seventeen years.

This is the grant not a loan. In case of household workers, one hundred per cent. of cost of transportation will be advanced as a loan.

Under the nomination plan the person residing in the Dominion may name a friend or relative in Britain to whom it is desired assisted passage may be given by the government, but the nominator must guarantee that the newly arrived ones shall find employment and home on land.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Information for investing successfully in stocks and bonds is acquired only by hard work over a long period of time. There is nothing easy about it.

A successful artist, after spending two weeks watching a quotation board in a broker' office, decided that the stock market was easy to beat.

Why should he slave at his profession when in a week's time he could figure out how to make money easily? He bought stock on a narrow margin. The market went down and he went home without his money.

He came back another day and tried again in the same manner. The market went up. Becoming enthusiastic, he bought more stock, against his broker's advice. A temporary relapse in the market wiped him out.

On the way home he began to think it over. "It took me ten years to learn how to make money out of my business," he remarked to himself. "There are evidently reasons why the market goes up and down, just at there are reasons why one color blends with another—guess investing muss be a business in itself."

It is, consult your banker before taking a fling at it.

OBITUARY

BOLTON CUNNINGHAM

The funeral of the late Bolton Cunningham took place Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. from the family residence, 227 Perry street, Rev. M. C. Mackinnon of Knox Church officiating with interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

The floral tributes were numerous and costly, showing the esteem with which the deceased was held by those who came in contact with him during the course of his life. His wonderful personality, good-will and fellowship will long be remembered by those who are left behind.

The pall-bearers were his four brothers and two brothers-in-law, Messrs. J. F., J. J., R. A., W. H., Cunningham, T. E. Harrison and E Walton.

THE LATE MRS. J. J. GLASS.

There died in Cleveland, Ohio, last Friday, January 18th, Mrs. John J. Glass, a lady who was intimately known to many in Peterboro and vicinity, as she lived here for many years and was prominent in church life and temperance work. She was better known here by her maiden name of Miss Mary J. Sanderson. She was a daughter of Rev. John Sanderson, who was a Methodist clergyman of the early days, and who served in several circuits in this neighborhood and was connected with the George Street Church at a time when it was the only Methodist Church in Peterboro, and the circuit included a number of the adjoining townships in this and Victoria and Durham Counties. Mrs. Glass with her sisters conducted a store here for several years. She was a zealous and efficient worker in the Sunday school, and while she was of a modest and retiring disposition, she was an effective speaker, and in her plain, logical and persuasive addresses did good work on the Sunday school and temperance platforms. She left Peterboro about twenty-five years ago, and lived in Whitby and Toronto, finally, upon her marriage to Mr. Glass, going to Cleveland, where she resided until the time of her death at the age of 80 years. She was second vice-president of the Cleveland Chapter of the Daughters of the British Empire. She leaves to mourn her death her husband, Mr. John J. Glass, of Cleveland, and one brother, Mr. Richard I. Sanderson, of Braidwood Avenue. The funeral was held at Cleveland, and was attended by Mr. Sanderson and his son.

CHILDREN ESCAPE A RUNAWAY HORSE

Aylmer Street Was Scene of Comedy That Might Have Been Tragedy.

A comedy that was but a few inches removed from tragedy, was enacted on Aylmer street, near the C.P.R. track, when a horse became frightened by the passing of a train and bolted.

Children passing at Wolfe street, evidently on their way from Sunday school, were scattered east and west by the terrorized horse, and one litle girl, Amy Hodgins, was either knocked down or tripped in her attempt to escape. Other children fell in a heap on the edge of the sidewalk when they collided with their companions who were on safe ground and did not make way.

The horse, seemingly satisfied with its short but meteoric dash, halted at Dalhousie street and walked soberly back, gazing in apparent surprise at the still screaming children who made haste to get away in the evident belief that "the horse was out to get them."

DIFFICULTY WITH THE CAR FERRIES

Matter Is Still Being Considered by Railway Board.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., has received the following letter from Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, regarding the transportation of automobiles on the car ferries from Rochester to Cobourg:

Montreal, Que., Jan. 16, 1924.

Dear Mr. Gordon,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of January 9th, with enclosures, relative to the question of transportation of automobiles on the car ferries between Rochester and Cobourg.

The matter has not been overlooked by us, and consideration of ways and means of complying with the wishes of our various correspondents has been continued since the early part of last year.

Practically the whole trouble, as you are probably aware, is on the south side of the lake, where, at Genesee Dock, it is very difficult to overcome the physical handicaps resulting from the cliffs, or bluffs, on the lakeshore. However, as intimated, the matter is actively in hand, and I am hopeful that a practicable solution will soon be reached.

With best wishes, believe me,

Yours faithfully,
H. W. Thornton.

The Chamber of Commerce has been advocating this scheme for some years, believing that if there was a way of American tourists being able to bring their automobiles across to this side from Rochester on the Rochester-Cobourg ferry, it would mean increased tourist business for this district.

AMERICAN DOCTOR HOPES TO RESTORE EYESIGHT

LYNDHURST, N.J., Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press.)—Alfred Lemanowicz, a blind youth of this town, into whose right eye socket Dr. Edward Morgan of Paterson, unsuccessfully grafted the cornea of a live pig's eye, said yesterday that the specialist is anxious to try again. Though the operation, performed just a year ago, was a failure, Dr. Morgan is confident he can bring back to Alfred the sight he lost ten years ago.

"I'm game," said Alfred. "I figure I haven't anything to lose. Sometimes I think it would be awful to go through such an ordeal again, but I'd go through anything to be able to see again."

BALDWIN GOVERNMENT DEFEATED BY VOTE OF 328 TO 256

CROWDED GALLERIES AT HISTORIC SCENE IN BRITISH PARLIAMENT AS LABOR APPROACHED ASCENDANCY

Only Nine Liberals Voted to Save the Conservative Government—Result of Division Was No Surprise to the Thronged Chamber--Tense Moments While Votes Were Counted Afforded the Only Excitement to Dramatic Event Undoubtedly Leading to England's First Labor Government.

LONDON, Jan. 22.— (By Ed. L. Keen, General Manager British United Press.)—Great Britain, the greatest of the few remaining Monarchies, placed its affairs of state and industry to-day in the hands of a Government built of its labouring class. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservative Party, representing the old order of things in England, tendered his resignation and those of his ministers to His Sovereign at noon. A few moments later King George called upon Ramsay MacDonald to form the first Labour Government in the history of its kind in the world. Without a shot having been fired or a blow struck, the power and authority of affairs in Britain passed from the most conservative group of ministers guiding the destiny of a nation to the most advanced that have been called to the helm of a Government recognized by all powers. King George summoned to office a man in Ramsay MacDonald who has stood frankly and openly for a levy upon the nation capital and putting an end to the capitalist system.. The passing of the Baldwin Government was accomplished without undue excitement, shortly before midnight in the House of Commons by a vote of 328 to 256.

Had an Audience with the King.

Mr. MacDonald's audience with the King lasted one hour. The King invited him to form a government, and Mr. MacDonald accepted. He arrived at the palace shortly before Mr. Baldwin's audience with the King concluded, and was accompanied by John R. Clymes and J. H. Thomas.

Mr. MacDonald, it is said, will combine the Foreign Office with the Premiership

On the re-assembling of the House of Commons, Mr.Baldwin announced the resignation of the Government and the King's acceptance. There were no labor cheers at the statement. He moved the adjournment of the House until February 12th. His Cabinet will retain their seat until the new Cabinet members are appointed.

It is stated unofficially that the new Cabinet will be named Thursday.

The premier-designate is 57 years old and self educated. Although leader of the Laborites he has never been a manual worker, having achieved his position by virtue of his academic knowledge of industrial affairs, gained by close study. As a son of a Scotch peasant however he early in life learned the privations of the average laborer's lot.

MacDonald seldom laughs and the set of his jaw bears out his characterization as a "grey headed fighter."

He had an active part in the organization of an Independent Labor Party in 1893, when but 27 years of age and has since devoted himself to the Labor parties interest.

He also has been staunchly in favour of international peace and publicly opposed Britain's entry into the Great War. When the nation was once in the fight, however, he made the best of the situation and served as an ambulance driver in France.

Isabel MacDonald, the twenty year old daughter of the new Premier, who, since her father is a widower, will manage his official residence at No .10 Downing street, and will mother her two little sisters there, visited this forenoon the old building set aside for the Prime Minister's working and living quarters. She was shown through the rambling structure, comprising a labyrinth of hallways, offices and living apartments.

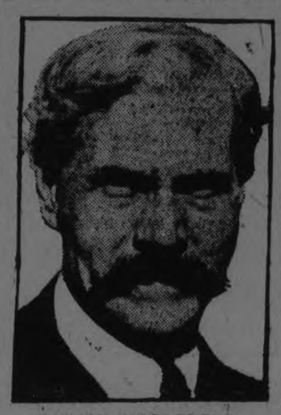
"I found it rather complicated," she said. "But I think I shall like it."

Miss MacDonald did not stand on conventions in paying her early visit to Downing street. She arrived a few minutes after Mr. Baldwin, then still Premier, left the Cabinet meeting to go to Buckingham Palace.

The New Cabinet.

LONDON, Jan. 22. — (Canadian Press.—The new Labor Cabinet was officially announced this afternoon as follows: Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister and Secretary for Foreign Affairs; J. R. Clynes, Lord Privy Seal and Deputy Leader in the House of Commons; Lord Parmoor, Lord President of Council; Viscount Haldane, Lord Chancellor; Phillip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Arthur Henderson, Secretary for Home Affairs; J. H. Thomas ,Secretary for Colonies; Viscount Chelmsford, First Lord of the Admiralty; Stephen Walsh, Secretary for War; General Christopher Thompson, Air Minister; Sir Sydney Oliver, head of Indian Office; Sydney Webb, President of Board of Trade; John Wheatley, Minister of Health; Noel Buxton, Minister of Agriculture; William Adamson, Secretary for Scotland; Thomas Shaw, Minister of Labour; Vernon Hartshorn, Postmaster-General; F. W. Jowett, Commissioner of Works; C. P. Trevely ,President Board of Education; Col. Josiah Wedgwood, Chancellor for the Duchy of Lancaster.

THE NEW PREMIER



RAMSAY MACDONALD,
Whose party will take over the reins of government in Great Britain.

Speeches Sought Justification Of Courses Parties Followed

LONDON, Jan. 22. — The discussion in the House of Commons yesterday rose to no great heights, the speeches being confined to making and debating points of justification for the policies followed by the opposing parties.

Sir John Simon for the Liberals had little to add to former Premier Asquith's previous arguments, but contended that Winston Spencer Churchill's idea of a fusion of the Conservatives and Liberals to exclude Labor from the Government, would only tend to strengthen the very forces Churchill desired to circumvent.

Miss Margaret Bondfield, Laborite, in her maiden speech, devoted herself to the shortcomings of the Baldwin Government in legislating for women and unemployment. She was warmly cheered.

Build Eight Cruisers.

Lieut. Col. L. C. M. S. Amery, the First Lord of the Admiralty, gave further explanations of the Government's programme of cruiser construction for the relief of the unemployed. He said that practically all of Great Britain's light cruisers would become worn out or obsolete within the next twelve years; hence the necessity of expediting construction in order to maintain effective strength, and for this purpose the country would need to lay down about 25 cruisers within the coming decade.

What the Government proposed was to lay down immediately eight cruisers of 10,000 tons each, with 8-inch guns. Three of these vessels would be constructed in the royal dockyards and the remainder let to private constructors. In addition the government proposed to build some auxiliary vessels. The hole programme would give direct employment to 38,000 persons, and involve a special addition of 5,000,000 pounds to the navy estimates for the coming year. He hoped that the succeeding government would give sympathetic consideration to this programme.

Baldwin Reviews Achievements

Premier Baldwin drew loud laughter at the opening of his speech by reminding the House that among all the charges of impotence and pusillanimity brought against the government, nobody remembered the great work he had wrought in bringing about the reconciliation between Asquith and Lloyd George.

"What it was beyond the power of the Liberal party to do, I did!" he remarked.

For a Prime Minister about to suffer extinction, Mr. Baldwin was in excellent vein. Remarking that Labor was about to be put into office by the votes of a progressive party, which elicted Liberal cheers, he created roars of laughter by turning the tables thus:

"Yes, but progress is not necessarily forward."

He then quoted figures showing the gradual diminution of strength of the Liberals in the Commons, from 376 in 1906 to 115 in 1923, adding — "Yes, and you only got bigger numbers at the last elections by appealing to the voters to keep the Socialist party out."

His Own Policy.

Mr. Baldwin enlarged upon the reasons which had led him to advocate protection, and declared that he had not been driven to the adop-

SOVIET LEADER IS DEAD AFTER EVENTFUL LIFE

Premier Lenine of Russia Passes From the Stage --Others Carry on the Work.

ILL SOME TIME

MOSCOW, Jan. 22. — (By John Gaudenz, United Press Staff Correspondent.)— Lenine is dead. The man who led the Russian revolution and overthrew the long established order of the Czars, passed away at a moment when his party was beginning to reap the fruits of his labours. Ill for many months, the Bolsheviki leader died while others carried on on the Soviet Government he founded. Lenine had become emigma to his countrymen, living in seclusion. His condition carefully concealed from the world, it was known that he had suffered a form of paralysis and that famous specialists had come from far lands to treat him.

Only a fortnight ago it was reported to Russia at large that Lenine was getting well. He had been out hunting rabbits on Christmas Day.

The Christmas of the capitalistic countries he scorned, and again on New Year's Day his early return to participation in Russian affairs even was rumored. No one from the outside world was permitted to see Lenine. He was kept closely guarded while others carried on the affairs of government, and the country that had followed his lead awaited his return. To-day came word of his death, many times rumored, and as often denied. The Russian, hailed as one of the greatest men of modern times, died at ten minutes of seven Monday night. His death took place at a little town called Gorky, not far from Moscow. The funeral will be held on Saturday. On that day the body of Lenine will be interred in the Kremlin wall, beside that of Svertloff, one of his fellow leaders in the great upheaval of Russia.

A Rapid Rise.

Nikolai Lenine, leader of the Bolsheviki Government in Russia which supplanted the Kerensky regime, was born at Simbirsk, Volga, in 1870, the son of a Russian nobleman. He received a university education, studied law, and was called to the bar.

To combat Czarism he founded the first Social-Democratic organization in Russia, the Petersburg Union for the Emancipation of the Working Classes, aud published an exhaustive "History of Capitalism in Russia, under his own name, Ulianoff.

He was exiled to Siberia, and later lived in Munich, London and Geneva where he started "The Iskra" (The Spark), a social-democrat paper, and preached orthodox Marxism as opposed to the moderate socialism then prevalent in Russia and Germany. Leon Trotzky, who had also been exiled to Siberia, made his escape and joined the staff of The Iskra.

It was these two men who took the government of Russia into their hands in 1917 and concluded a separate peace with the Central Powers.

German Banker Meets Committee of Experts

EXPLAINED HOW CURRENCY MIGHT BE STABILIZED

President of Reichsbank In Three-Hour Session Answered List of Questions He Had Been Given on Saturday — Pledged to Secrecy.

McKENNA BEGINS.

PARIS, January 22 (Canadian Press). — Dr. Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, gave a long, first-hand explanation of the German finances before the First Committee of Experts under Brigadier-General Charles G. Dawes, yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Schacht was accompanied by Dr. Mayer head of the German reparation delegation in Paris, and remained three hours answering a list of questions which had previously been given to him and replying to the inquiries of various members.

Dr. Schacht went over the entire currency problem and gave all available statistics. He explained the different kinds of money in Germany, and elaborated his views on how new currency could be put on a sound basis.

To-day he will appear before the Second Committee to give information regarding German exported capital.

Dr. Schacht was pledged to secrecy by the committee. When he came out he was asked if he had any impression regarding the proceedings.

"Yes," he replied, "I have an impression, but I am going to keep it to myself."

Answered Willingly.

The hearing accorded to Dr. Schacht by the committee took place in a most favourable atmosphere, and the head of the Reichsbank answered most willingly all questions contained in the written memorandum he had been studying since Saturday.

Short exchanges of views followed some of the answers, and the whole subject of stabilisation of the German currency was gone over during the three hours' session.

The Second Committee of Experts, which has been given the task of endeavouring to find German capital exported abroad and to determine how this capital may be brought back to Germany, held its inaugural session at the Hotel Astoria yesterday.

Louis Barthou, president of the Reparations Commission, and Reginald McKenna, former Chancellor of the British Exchequer, who will be chairman of the committee, delivered addresses, Mr. McKenna expressing his determination to do everything possible to make the work of the committee a success.

Allies in Harmony.

During his address, Mr. McKenna said he regarded the work of the two committees "as a further instance of that hearty co-operation of the partners in the Great War."

"We will work together," Mr. McKenna continued, "in the firm belief that this co-operation between partners will be inspired by a common spirit and animated by a desire to arrive at the truth. Only thus shall we discover a solution which will bring peace and prosperity to the world."

Mr. McKenna said he believed he spoke for his colleagues in promising business-like methods.

LASHES AND LONG TERM FOR YOUTH

Pleaded Ignorance of Wrong — Sentenced to Five Years in Penitentiary.

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 21.—Five years in Kingston penitentiary and ten lashes was the sentence imposed on 19 year old John L. Hetu, of Meaford, this afternoon in Police Court by Police Magistrate Creasor, when Hetu pleaded guilty to a charge of incest. He left Meaford last week and Provincial Officer Jones trailed him to a lumber camp twenty-five miles from Parry Sound only to find that Hetu had gone to Flint, Mich. Provincial Police had him arrested there and he was brought back to Owen Sound this afternoon. "Nobody told me it was wrong," the youth said, and he took his sentence without moving an eyelid.

PENSION CASE UNDER APPEAL

D. S. C. R. Contend That Mental Condition of Veteran Was Not Aggravated By War Service.

OTTAWA, January 22 (Canadian Press). — Re-appeals by the Pensions Board and the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment of cases in which their adverse decisions had been reversed came before the Federal Appeal Board here yesterday for the first time.

In the morning, pension case was heard and in the afternoon the Herbert S. Liddell case was argued.

Decisions were reserved in both cases.

The chairman, Col. C. N. Belton, M.D., presided.

Considerable interest is centred around the Liddell case as a result of the deportation of this ex-soldier last summer following the alleged refusal of the D.S.C.R. to recognise his mental disability as having been related to service. When the facts were placed before the Department of Immigration and Colonisation, Liddell's widowed mother was given the option of having her son returned to Canada or going to England at the expense of the Department to look after him.

Entitled to Pay.

The claim for treatment as a war disability was presented before a member of the Appeal Board sitting at Winnipeg recently, and the decision was that Liddell was entitled to treatment with pay and allowances.

The D.S.C.R. immediately re-appealed, and at the hearing yesterday maintained that Liddell's mental condition had been in no way aggravated by active service.

C. G. MacNeil, Dominion secretary of the G.W.V.A., who represented Liddell, said that following the removal of the man to an asylum at Selkirk, Manitoba, after discharge from the Army, the D.S.C.R. had recognised that the disability had been aggravated on service, and dependents' allowances had been paid to the mother. A recurrence of the mental trouble last year resulted in another period in an institution, but the Department had refused to consider it in the same light as the first occasion, claiming that the disability preceded enlistment with the C.E.F., he said.

The cases heard yesterday were the first re-appeals to come before a quorum of the Appeal Board. In neither instance was the member present who made the decision appealed against, it bieng a legal requirement that members may not act on re-appeals affecting their own decisions.

Officials of the G.W.V.A. stated last evening that the Pension Board and the D.S.C.R. had entered re-appeals in practically all cases where their opinion had been reversed by members of the Appeal Board.

THE WEATHER.

The lowest point the thermometer reached yesterday was 14 degrees begrees below zero, at which point it remained for several hours, from 5 to 8 p.m. The temperature then gradually rose and at daylight this morning stood at 4 degrees above the zero mark.—W. F.

Mexican Rebels Attacking Town

Mexico City, Jan. 22. — The Rebels are attacking Morelia, capital of the State of Michoacan, as part of a plan to hinder Obregon's advance against Guadalajara, in the western state of Jalisco, according to press despatches received here.

It is believed that men under General Manuel Diegues, previously reported to have left the vicinity of Morelia for Valle de Santiago, are attacking Morelia, which is defended by 1500 men under the federal general, Eulogio Ortiz, reinforced by about 500 volunteers.

EXTEND SAFETY FIRST EFFORTS

The National Railways Appoint Director to Promote Instruction Especially Among Foreigners.

MONTREAL, Jan. 22. — Announcement is made by W. D. Robb, vice-president of the Canadian National Railways of the appointment of W. A. Booth, chief draftsman, Motive Power Department, Montreal, to be director of safety first and first aid for the Canadian National Railways.

The appointment of Mr. Booth is a step in the work of eliminating as far as is possible, preventable accidents on National system, and in the instruction of large numbers of employees from coast to coast in first aid work. Mr. Booth will direct the instruction of all employees in the proper use of tools and in the exercise of care in their work.

It has been found that many accidents have occurred to foreigners who have been unable to read, and it is thought that many of these accidents may be prevented through personal instruction.

Mr. Booth will also have the power to recommend such safeguards on all parts of the system, as he may consider of value. A conservative estimate of the number of employees of the Canadian National system who have instructions in first aid work would be 18,000. At present more than 60 classes of men and women are receiving such instruction.

BRITISH TRAIN SERVICES HALF USUAL NUMBER

London Stations Congested As Only Few Suburban Trains Depart--Managers Report Improvement While Strike Leaders Debate.

RAIN AGGRAVATES.

LONDON, Jan. 22. — Although the strike inaugurated at midnight Sunday night by the members of the associated societies of locomotive engineers and firemen has failed thus far to tie up the country's rail communication, enormous inconvenience has been caused to all classes of the community. In London, the situation was aggravted this afternoon and last night by a steady downpour of rain.

Piteous scenes were witnessed after the close of business hours. At the railway stations where the greatest amount of suburban traffic is handled, the restricted train services necessitated long and tedious waiting and terrible crushing when the commuters endeavored to board the few trains which departed. Likewise the bus and tube services were badly congested.

Situation Improving

It is difficult at present to ascertain to what extent the strike is affecting the general train services, but apparently only about fifty per cent. of the usual trains are being run. The railway managers claim, however, that the situation is improving hourly. During the day almost all the railways were able to maintain fairy good skeleton services, despite the fact that a great majority of the enginemen belonging to the association had ceased work.

Passengers arriving at Liverpool last night from New York on board the steamer Tyrrhenia were able to leave Liverpool for this city by the midnight train. It was announced that passengers desiring to sail on board the Majestic, which is the next vessel to sail for New York, who manage to reach Southampton before Wednesday, will be accommodated on board ship.

Owing to the interruption in the rail services to the continent, there has been a rush for accommodations by airplane. The bad weather yesterday, however, kept all the machines in the airdromes.

Tubes not Affected

The London theatres and music halls reported that there was scarcely any falling off in their audiences. This was due to the fact that the underground railays are not affected by the strike.

Meanwhile, wordy warfare is waging between J. Bromley, Secretary of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, and J. H. Thomas, General Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, of their respective appreciation of the situation and the motives leading up to the strike. Each side of the controversy is issuing circulars explaining their viewpoints. Mr. Bromley claimed last night that hundreds of men of the National Union of Railwaymen were joining the strikers.

ALBERTA COAL LACKS MARKET

Cost Excessive Because Production Is Intermittent, Says Alberta Trade Commission—Replies to Fuel Committee.

EDMONTON, Jan. 22.— An answer was given yesterday by Howard Stutchbury, Alberta Trade Commissioner to the statement of the Federal Advisory Fuel Committee relative to Alberta coal in the Ontario market.

The Fuel Committee in its statement to the chairman Hon. G. P. Graham, declared that there must be a considerable cut in the cost of production at the one end and in the cost of distribution at the other before Alberta could find a permanent place on the Ontario market.

"Theer is no argument about the cost of production having to be cut," said Mr. Stutchbury, "we are all agreed on that."

The reason of excessive coast, he pointed out, was the lack of a market and intermittent production as a result. Alberta mines are only working up to fifty per cent. of their capacity, and while high wages are being paid, the gross total is small compared with what it might be. If the market is secured, said Mr. Stuchbury, the cost of production as a result immediately will be lessened.

The cost of distribution at the other end, says the Trade Commissioner is one that rests with the people of Ontario.

Week's Embargo Sends Grain to Vancouver.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 21.— With the Canadian National Railways' embargo in effect for one week at midnight to-night, the situation at the head of the lakes grain elevators is gradually improving and the excess stores are being taken east by rail as rapidly as possible, it was learned from officials to-day. Meantime interior elevators and elevators at Vancouver are taking care of the movement satisfactorily and there is no chnce of a congestion there, it was learned. One result of the embargo has been a heavy movement to the Pacific Coast it was reported. More than 200 cars a day are being routed over Canadian National against an average of 100 before the embargo.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 21.—Suspended from a sewer pipe by a set of dog harness, the lifeless body of Adolph Hares, aged 54 years, formerly a merchant of East Selkirk, Man., yas found in the basement of his home here to-day. ADDRESSED THE CANADIAN CLUB

Canada and League of Nations by Dr. Seager

Yesterday afternoon, in the Public Library Hall, the Women's Canadian Club was addressed by Dr. Seager Provost of Trinity College, Toronto on the subject of "Canada and the League of Nations."

Dr. Seager, who was introduced by the President, Miss A. M. Lancaster, said that Canada had a very serious responsibility toward the League of Nations, and that at the heart of the whole world there was a deep yearning desire to have peace among the nations.

"If the League of Nations is to live," declared Dr. Seager, "we will have to get behind it and help in every possible way." No one in Canada to-day, said the speaker, would think of fighting a duel with pistols, the winner getting the honor of victory, but internationally the World War and every other war is practically the same as a duel. An army is sent to fight another army, the winners getting the honors. The League of Nations is formed to prevent wars, which are the worst things that any nation can be ravaged with.

"War is an evil and utterly destructive things." No one gains by it and no one makes money by it. Fortunes are not made up of gold but of securities. Most of the fortunes made in the Great War were lost later. The laborer was making high wages but paid high for everything he bought. The manufacturers selling at high prices, paid their profits out in wages. Since the war, England has paid to the unemployed two hundred thousand billion dollars The claim that the United States had made money in the war was denied by the speaker, who said that if the Union had been in the war as long as other countries, they would be in the same financial condition.

During the war, Canada lost 60,000 men, and England lost millions of them. "Are these lives not worth anything?" There are also millions of disabled soldiers, worse than dead and millions of broken homes and broken-hearted relatives.

"We have read in history," said the speaker, "to war breeding wars," such as the Hundred Years War, ceasing occasionally to break out once more. The League of Nations intends to try and prevent this succession of wars in the future, if possible. The cost of the League, said Dr. Seager was annually about five million dollars, the cost of a single battleship. The cost to Canada annually was only two cents per head. If the League fails, declared the speaker, it will be because the great mass of the people have not understood and supported it. Canada should waken up and do as England was doing, support it actively.

A hearty vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Miss E. A. Murphy and seconded by Mrs. R. R. Hall.

REV. C. F. McINTOSH IN KINGSTON CHURCH

Cannot Save World if Christians Do Not Function.

(Special to the Examiner)

KINGSTON, Ont. Jan. 22.—"There is no hope of saving the word if Christians do not function," said Rev. C. F. MacIntosh, of Campbellford, in a forceful discourse at Chalmers Presbyterian church here on Sunday morning.

"Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost its savour, wherewith shall it be salted "

The above passage of scripture, from Matthew, 5th Chapter, 13th verse, formed the basis of the sermon and in dealing with his subject, Rev. Mr. MacIntosh stated that the people of the church were sometimes referred to as "kill joys," but he declared that this was a very unfair criticism; it was the aim of the church to make life better and worth living.

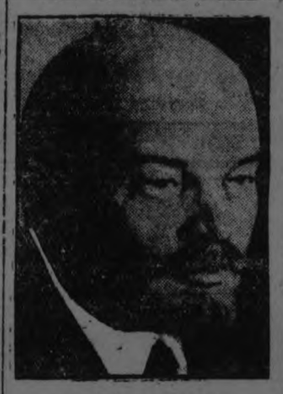
"If Christians do not function, how is the world to be saved?," asked the speaker. There is nothing to take the place of Christianity, here are some who say that if we just educate men and women this would serve the purpose. We cannot find anything else that will serve. We must have Christian faith or the world cannot be saved. Our missionaries in foreign lands tell us that no other religion will save. There is no hope of saving the world if Christians do not function.

Rev. Mr. MacIntosh preached at both services in Chalmers Church on Sunday and was heard with keen interest by large congregations.

Chalmers Church is at the present time without a pastor, due resignation of Rev. Dr. R. J. Wilson who resigned to take over the position of secretary of the work in connection with the promoting of church union.

Laborers from Belgium, Spain, Italy, Poland and Czechoslovakia are being imported into France, owing to shortage of help in practically every industry.

RED LEADER DEAD



PREMIER LENINE

Despatches this morning report the death of Nicolai Lenine, head of the Bolshevik Government in Russia.

Blow to Millions.

The death of Lenine came as a blow to his millions of followers, despite his two years' absence from the Kremlin. He was the first in the hearts of the Russians who rose behind him and overthrew the Romanoff dynasty. They had always looked forward to his return. Some few who knew the worst may have given up hope, but not the great majority of Russia. As this country's commercial relations with other nations improved the talk was always of "when Lenine is back to work." Now Lenine is dead of an illness, the exact nature of which was not at first disclosed. He lived, however, to see the state he dreamed of and fought for take its place among the nations of the world. A State not yet recognized by many governments, but standing on its own feet. Simultaneously with Lenine's death comes the passing from supreme power in Russia of the man who led with him, Leon Trotsky. Trotsky, Soviet War Minister, has been relegated to seventh place among the leaders of the less radical order of things in Russia. What the effect the death will have upon Trotsky's future, it is too early to predict. Many believe he will never return to the place he enjoyed when he and the late leader stood side by side at the head the Bolshevik affairs.

At half-past one this afternoon the physicians who had attended Lenine in his last illness issued a bulletin, describing the Soviet chieftain's death. His condition had greatly imroved, they said. Suddenly on Monday it took a turn for the worse. Lenine died within a few hours. Paralysis of the respiratory organs was apparently the cause. The body will be brought to Moscow to-morrow and will lie in State until Saturday. In death Lenine is to be made accessible to all those who followed him and who could not be with him in his illness. An official statement issued by the Russian Government said that the Soviet Government would continue to carry out the will of the workers and peasants in accord with Lenine's wishes.

TWENTY-FIVE FAMILIES HOMELESS AFTER FIRE

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—One woman was reported killed, many persons were burned and injured and twenty five families were driven from home in a fire that caused property damage of half a million dollars when it destroyed the business centre of Lyndonville, seven miles from here, early to-day.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB IS NOW IN CITY OF ESSEN

ESSEN, Jan. 22.—(United Press).—Charles M. Schwab, American capitalist, arrived here to-day, obviously for the purpose of negotiating with the German industrialists. Schwab refused to disclose the purpose of his visit to the occupied area, intimating it was merely for the purpose of informing himself on the conditions here.

CONSTRUCTION HYDRO UNIT AT CAMPBELLFORD RESUMES AFTER DELAY

Tail Race of New Power Plant Has Been Emptied of Water—Chimney Fires on Sunday — Funeral of Harry Burleigh.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 21.—Work on the tail race of the new Hydro power house, temporarily held up when the water in the river backed up and flowed over the dam into the excavation, has been resumed, the last of the overflow having been pumped out. A gang of men are now employed building the foundation for the power house, the excavation for which has been completed.

Two Chimney Fires.

The firemen were called Sunday night to a chimney fire in what is known as the Bonnycastle home on the west side. There was no damage.

The brigade had another run about 9 o'clock Monday morning when the chimney in the residence of Thomas Rowe on Front street took fire. In this case it was necessary to use the chemical to control the blaze. Some damage was done to the paper and woodwork near the burning chimney.

At Council Sessions.

Reeve Charles H. Davidson, Deputy-Reeve James Dorie and Alex. McGregor, representative of the Examiner, go to Cobourg to-day to attend the meeting of the Counties Council.

Meeting Adjourned.

Owing no doubt to the severe weather only five ministers showed up at the monthly meeting of the Ministerial Association Monday afternoon—Revs. Wesley Elliott, H. S. Bennett, J. E. Glover, G. C. Clarke and H .S. Hinton of Hastings, the latter being the lone member from out of town who braved the elements .The meeting was postponed for one week, when the programme arranged for Monday will be given. The paper of the day, on "Christianity and Progress,' 'a treatise on the book of that name, by Rev .H. E. Fosdick, an eminent divine of New York, was to have been read by Rev. Wesley Elliott. Rev. G. C. Clarke, the new rector of Christ church, was to have led in the discussion.

A Councillor with Experience

Not all of the new members of the Town Council lack experience in municipal work. Henry Redden, a resident of the west side, has lived over 40 years in Campbellford conducting several successful business enterprises, and has served several terms in council. It is 5 years since he council. It is five years since he held office but much is expected of him as he has always taken a keen interest in municipal affairs and is perfectly familiar with the situation. Mr. Redden has raised a family of seven children, three of whom are still prosperous residents of Campbellford.

At the Regent

Tom Mix in "Stepping Fast" was the feature picture at the Regent Theatre, Monday night, and the popular film actor proved a good drawing card. The thrill of the presentation was the leap from a racer keyed up to top speed. The picture goes from here direct to Toronto for a three weeks run so that local patrons need no other assurance that Capt. Hyland is providing them with the best entertainments on the market.

Thursday night the Twelve O'clock Club give their opening dance and on Friday and Saturday, the Bemersyde Chapter I.O.D.E. will have charge of the theatre when they will present "Little Lord Faunt elroy" with the usual Saturday matinee.

Having disposed of my business it is important that all accounts due me be paid by February 1st, otherwise they will pass from my hands for collection.—J. I. Adams.

TORONTO MAN DIES FROM ACCIDENTAL KNIFE GASH

TORONTO, January 22 (Canadian Press). — Frank Ferguson, of Dentonia Park Avenue, just outside the city limits, East Toronto, died in the General Hospital about one o'clock this morning from the results of a knife injury he accidentally sustained a few weeks ago in his home.

The accident occurred shortly after he had partaken of breakfast.

He approached his wife from behind, and flicked her with a towel when she, aware of his habits of fun, swung around to retaliate.

Unfortunately, she happened to have a table knife in her hand, and in turning, inflicted a deep and lengthy abdominal wound.

The police investigation revealed that the occurrence was an accident.

INDIGESTION GAS ON STOMACH PAINS AFTER MEALS

Many people suffer terribly from gas and pains in the stomach after every meal, and are kept in constant misery.

For the past 44 years Burdock Blood Bitters has been bringing hope and joy to thousands suffering from various forms of stomach trouble, helping them to eat three square meals a day; helping them to eat anything they wish, without having to suffer for it after.

Mr. Fred. Nielson, Moose Jaw, Sask., writes: "All last summer I was troubled with stomach trouble and indigestion, and also gas on the stomach. I could not eat anything except some light food and even then I would be bothered with pains after each meal. I could not work a whole day without being done out. I had tried everything; doctors, medicines and pills, until I read about Burdock Blood Bitters. I have taken four bottles and it has nearly, if not completely, restored me to health again."

THE PROPOSED EMBARGO OF CANADIAN PULPWOOD MAY CAUSE A MONOPOLY

NORTH BAY, January 22 (Canadian Press). — That the proposed embargo on pulpwood exports from Canada would tend to encourage a monopoly by the Canadian pulp empanies which would hit the small pulpwood producers, was the effect of testimony given before the Royal Commission on pulpwood yesterday afternoon by William Milne, Sr., and Patrick McCool, old North Bay men actively interested in the timber industry.

Both were against the embargo on principle, but admitted they would be in favour of it, providing there were a minimum pulpwood price in the home market set by law.

Women customs officers are now employed by the Canadian Department of Customs at nearly all the important points on the United States border.

MILLBROOK FAIR BOARD OFFICERS

One of the Charter Members Still Connected With Fair Board--Had Good Year.

MILLBROOK, January 22. — The annual meeting of the Millbrook Agricultural Society was held here yesterday. The attendance was good and a strong feeling of enthusiasm prevailed which spoke well for the success of the organization during the ensuing year. The society which originated in 1862 under the name of the "Cavan Township Agricultural Society," has grown from eight charter members to an organization having president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer, 22 directors, four honorary directors, executive, finance grounds, speeding, printing, entertainment and class committee, auditors, and superintendent of light and heavy horses, booths and stalls. The original membership fee of one dollar per annum still holds good, as does also the decision to have red, blue and white tickets, or ribbons, denoting first, second and third prizes respectively. The charter members were William Brown, James Eakins, John Morfield, Johnston Stewart, Thomas Dey.ll, Samuel Areno, George Berry and James Fitzgerald. One of these, George Berry, Sr., is still connected with society as an honorary director, and is a regular attendant at the fair each year. From the original record it would appear that no officers were elected in the first instance the members simply banding themselves together to further the agricultural interests of the township. The document is in the possession of W. W. Brown, 4th line, Cavan, his father's name, the late Mr. William Brown, heading the list.

The treasurer's report on Saturday was encouraging, showing total receipts for 1923 of $4292.10, with expenditures amounting to $4268.13, leaving a small balance on hand. Of the expenditures $1241.95 was paid in cash prizes at the fall fair, $200 at the winter horse show, and $360 in field crop competitions. The gate receipts las October of $982.15 was somewhat less than the directors had anticipated due no doubt to the disagreeable weather.

The number and quality of the exhibits was worthy of better patronage and large crowds would undoubtedly have been in attendance had the day been bright and sunny.

Mr. I. W. Larmer gave an interesting report of his attendance at the Fairs and Exhibitions convention held in Toronto last February.

Ex-Warden A. J. Henderson, chairman of the Grounds' Committee, was listened to with close attention as he reported that his committee, consisting of W. T. Donaldson, J. W. Hamilton. N. Belch, T. A. Kelly, R.J McKnight, I. W. Larmer, W. E. Ball and H. Tate, had met a committee appointed by the executive of the Old Boys' and Girls' Reunion, and had made arrangements with them, whereby they would turn over the surplus of $600.00 from the Reunion funds to the Society providing the fair grounds were put in shape for athletic purposes, and a suitable grand stand erected.

In pursuance of this arrangement work had been started last fall and by volunteer labor on the part of the directors and old wire fences had all been removed, the whole of the grounds inside the race-track poughed, levelled and rolled, and left in shape to be seeded as soon as weather would permit in the spring. Estimates were being obtained re material for grand stand, and work on this would be started as soon as possible. When completed the Millbrook Society will have one of the finest small exhibition and athletic parks in the province.

On motion it was decided to hold the annual Winter Horse Show the date being set for February 21st. his will be the twelth of these annual events and although not yet grown to any great proportions, it was felt by the directors that it with the annual Field Crop competitions, formed good connecting links joining one fall fair with the next. It keeps the name of the Society before the people, and is also a means of keeping the directors in touch with the exhibitors.

Field Crop competitions will be carried on as usual. Fall wheat in the standing field competition, and Banner oats in the combined standing field and threshed grain competition.

Six departmental judges will be applied for, and the dates for the 1924 Fall Fair were set as October 2nd and 3rd.

L. W. Smith was for the second time elected president, having served in that capacity last year. In a brief speech, Mr. Smith thanked those present for the honor conferred upon him, and for the hearty and enthusiastic support given by the officers and directors during the past year. Granted a continuance of the same, the Society is bound to meet with added success during the year upon which they were just entering.

Other officers elected are: 1st Vice-President, H. A. Fallis; 2nd Vice-President, H. Tate; Secretary-Treasurer, J. N. McGill; Honorary Directors: D. Sutton, John Tate, William Hannah, George Berry; Directors: W. T. Donaldson, W. H. Lough, T. A. Kelly, J. L. Fair, J. W. Hamilton, A. J. Henderson, G. A. Fair, N. Belch, L. H. Winslow, T. W. McCamus, O. Larmer, J. H. Paul, W. E. Ball, J. A. Vance, L. McNeil, J. L. McCamus, I. W. Larmer, Jas. Whittington, R. J. McKnight, P. Stinson, P. Seymour; Auditors: D. Hampton and T. H. Collins.

W. E. Ball and T. W. McCamus were appointed delegates to the Fairs and Exhibitions convention held in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on Feb. 5 and 6, 1924.

PAINTED BORDERS.

Painted borders are used most interestingly on the new frocks of chiffon or crepe. Embroidered borders too are very much in evidence.

CROWDED GALLERIES

tion of that policy by anyone, but was himself solely responsible. He insisted that whatever views they took upon the fiscal situation there were two new considerations since the war, which, if not solved, would bring about almost insurmountable difficulties—namely, restriction of the world markets through tariffs and general world impoverishment, and the necessity to continually increase exports of manufactured goods to defray imports of food and raw materials.

This problem was greatly aggravated by the need of paying 30,000,000 pounds yearly to the United States, which must ultimately be found in the shape of exports. He feared this might involve a strain greater than the country could bear.

Coming to the personal question, the Prime Minister said that he had no regrets, and when his party was in opposition it would offer no factious opposition to the new ministers.

After Mr. Baldwin had spoken the House adjourned for dinner. When it reassembled the galleries filled rapidly, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York being among the early arrivals in the peers' gallery. Diplomatic representatives and men distinguished in all ranks were present, and hundreds had to be turned away, the demand for tickets to witness the historic scene being unprecedented.

MacDonald Promises Reforms

MacDonald Promises.

With the approach of the hour for Ramsay MacDonald's speech the House grew more excited and there were prolonged Labor cheers when the Labor leader arose in his place. Mr. MacDonald remarked that the whole debate had been characterized by a Conservative attack on the Liberals. He wondered where Labor came in. Then expressing sorrow that the inquest on the Baldwin Administration had wasted so much time, he proceeded ironically to refer to Mr. Baldwins' stiaement that he had left only the reparations question unsolved .

That, said Mr. MacDonald, was precisely the problem which baffled the Prime Minister, while his effort to deal with unemployment smashed his government. Yet, Mr. Baldwin maintained that no outstanding problems had been left behind him.

Alluding to the suggestions for continuing the debate, he exclaimed in ringing tones: "May I appeal to the House, if this amendment is to be carried in decisive fashion, let us have the debate on the address ended, so that we may meet the new government."

Avoid Stalemate.

This being met with ministerial cries of "No! No!" the Labor leader again appealed to the government not to take a course which would degrade the House produce a stalemate and display incapacity to govern.

Passing to general questions of policy, Mr. MacDonald expressed the hope that when the Labor Government came to propose some of the social reforms mentioned in the speech from the throne, the Conservative Party would not oppose them simply because Labor sponsored them. He intended to utilize as much of the speech from the throne as he believed in, and to give the members opposite a chance of trudging into the lobby and supporting these measures. He asserted that the position abroad was already improving on the prospect of a change of government.

TAKE SALTS IF STOMACH ISN'T ACTING RIGHT

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyperacidity meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas; we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and drink it while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to help neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used for many stomach disorders with excellent results.

Captured Sloop and Liqnor Cargo

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 22.—Overpowering the crew of the 50-foot sloop Chichota, as she drew up along the Canal Dock late yesterday afternoon, police confiscated her cargo of approximately 350 cases of liquor and arrested four of the five men aboard. One man escaped when he jumped into the water, and waded ashore.

Those arrested are: William Phillips of 414 Carpenter St., Green Point, R.I.; John Talmadge, Edward Pearsons, and James Marvin, all of 25 South Street, New York City. The man who escaped is said to be of New Haven.

CHARLES COLLINS TO LEAD LIBERALS

Was Elected President of Association in Toronto

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Charles Collins was elected president of Toronto Men's Liberal Association at its annual meeting held here last night.

Mr. Collins succeeded in that office A. E. Kirkpatrick who guided destinies of association last year.

A. E. Kirkpatrick, reviewing work of association stated that through its activities there was markedly increasing interest among Liberals in that part of the province.

NOON HOUR MEANS MORE FIRE ALARMS

The Family Dinner Is Responsible For Many Chimney Fires and Overheated Pipes.

During last month the Fire Department have been busy answering calls to chimney fires and overheated pipes. Most of these alarms are received between eleven and twelve o'clock, when a large, quick fire has to be made in order to have the dinner cooked in time.

At this time of the day the firemen wait patiently for an alarm, for there is hardly a day passes at this time of the year that the fire fighting apparatus is not called out to a chimney fire around the noon hour.

On Sunday morning at 10.30, they were called out to a chimney fire at 438 Mark Street, and at 11.14 they answered a call to 249 Euclid Avenue (East City).

On Monday morning at 8.07 they were called out to a chimney fire at 110 Sophia Street. East City. No damage.

WOMAN JUMPED TO HER DEATH IN THE RIVER

DETROIT, Jan. 22. Canadian Press. —Calmly removing her coat and hat as two men approached, an unidentified woman climbed to the railing of the Belle Isle bridge, and jumped into the icy waters of the Detroit River to her death, last night.

There was no outcry as she hurtled through space, nor when she appeared above the water for a moment before disappearing beneath the ice.

The woman is described as about 35 years old, and dressed in a plush coat with coon collar and cuffs, and a peach-colored turban hat.

A Health Secret

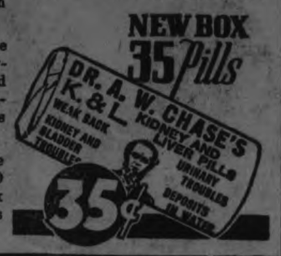
It is frequently claimed by physicians that nine-tenths of all human ills may be traced to neglect to keep the bowels regular and the liver and kidneys active.

The result is an accumulation of poisons in the system which cause pains and aches and give rise to such dreaded diseases as appendicitis, Bright's disease, diabetes, high blood pressure, etc.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the ideal regulators of these vital organs because they act directly on the liver, kidneys and bowels, and ensure a thorough cleansing of the system.

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has been increased to 35 cents, the box now contains 35 pills instead of 25 as formerly.

Likewise Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is 60 cents a box of 60 pills, instead of 50 cents a box of 50 pills. Edmanson, Bates & Co. Ltd., Toronto.



FOMENTED TROUBLE IN LUMBER CAMPS

Work Practically Abandoned in Alberta Districts Following I.W.W. Agitation.

CALGARY, Jan. 21.—That work awaits approximately 800 men in the lumbering camps in the Blairmore and Crow's Nest Pass districts, as a result of the labor troubles which have been fomented there by representatives of the I.W.W. was the statement of I. W. Poole of Nelson, secretary of the Mountain Lumber Manufacturers' Association at the annual convention of the association here to-day.

Mr. Poole declared that as a result of the agitation, the men have been practically forced to abandon work. He further explained that if the situation is not remedied immediately, it may result in higher lumber prices in the spring.

A HYDRO TRANSMISSION LINE MAY BE BUILT ON ST. JOHN RIVER SOON

FREDERICTON, N.B., Jan. 22. (Canadian Press).—Surveys for a hydro transmission line which would connect up the north shore counties from Campbellton south with the proposed hydro development at Grand Falls on the St. John River, and would also provide for construction of a highway across the northern counties of the province from Campbellton in Restiguoche county to St. Leonards or Edmundston in Madawaska county, are expected to be ordered following conferences here this week in which Premier Veniot and Hon. J. E. Michaud, members of the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission are expected to participate.

HASTINGS MATCH WAS CALLED OFF

Eighteen Below Zero Was Too Much for the Players and Fans.

HASTINGS, Jan. 22.—The weather yesterday was responsible for the postponment of the hockey game between Keene and Hastings. The thermometer registered eighteen below zero, and the Hastings rink was minus lights owing to the power plant being out of commission. The manager of the Keene team has picked up a good aggregation, and the Hastings fans are counting on a stiff game when the battle comes off.

The electric light plant was put out of commission at 12 o'clock Sunday evening owing to the high wind and the cold snap setting in, causing the ice to clog up the wheels. A gang of men were at work Monday all day, and in the evening the juice was turned on and Hastings again had lights.

A number of Percy friends gave Mr. and Mrs. W. Thomson a shower at their home on the Warkworth Road on Monday evening.

Some of the rural mail carriers did not brave the weather of Monday, while the others made their regular trips.

FOR YOUNG PETERBOROUGH.

The Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs of the city whose members have shown a personal willingness to assist financially and in other ways in making conditions more enjoyable for the under-privileged children of Peterborough and co-operating in an effort to interest the City Council in providing more rink and slide accomodation for the city's youngsters.

Business and professional men who appreciate the necessity of economy in the civic administration the Kiwanians and Rotarians are not asking the council to punge into any elaborate scheme catering for expenditure on a large scale.

They feel, however, that without the laying out of a large sum much can be done towards providing more facilities than at present exist.

As the Examiner has pointed out in several articles recently there is practically no safe accommodation for coasting in the city outside of Victoria Park and Armour's Hill, although other hills are being used at greater risk to the lives and limbs of the youngsters than the participants and their parents apparently realize.

Possibly the establishment of coasting zones and the barring of traffic from the streets in these zones at certain hours might solve the problem.

At all events the city's two luncheon clubs show they are alive to a pressing need in their efforts to do something for young Peterborough.

WHAT IS VALUE?

The old assessor of North Monaghan Township has resigned. His claim is that he has a conscience, and cannot sign the roll stating that he has assessed property at its full value, says the London Advertiser.

He has to deal largely with farm lands, and it would be a difficult task for him to say whether he had assessed at full value or not, for the very good reason that no one can state definitely what the value of a farm is.

"Value," acording to the best definition ever given, is the price arrived at between the least urgent buyer and the least urgent seller. When a man is very urgent in his desire to sell he will let go at a lower figure than the man who is not particular about selling. On the other hand a man keen to purchase for some special reason will probably pay a higher price by reason of his urgency.

Take it another way. There are farms around here on which loans were made during the war; they were valued at $18,000, and some of them have been sold since, on the basis of present-day returns from the farms, as low as $10,500. What we call "value" is in reality a fickle sort of thing, influenced by earning powers and the desire of the owner to dispose of his property.

The assessor in North Monaghan is no doubt a worthy man, but the man who succeeds him will have exactly the same problem to face.

MORE ACCOMODATION NEEDED.

Among the improvements most urgently required by the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is the providing of more accomodation for cattle and this pressing need should not be overlooked by the County Council when the request for a grant is before that body for consideration.

Although a new cattle barn was built some years ago, the growth in this department of the exhibition has been so great that at last year's show the accomodation was swamped and many fine cattle had to be picketed in the open, an experience that created an unfavourable impression on the part of the owners, although most of them were good fellows who appreciated the difficulty of the situation and made due allowances.

If the Exhibition were purely a city affair there would be no need to worry about the facilities for agricultural exhibits.

But the truth is that the big bulk of the prize money goes to rural residents and it is for the accomodation of their exhibits that a large amount of the expenditure on plant has to be expended.

The County Government should recognize that fact and should recognize also that a grant on the scale made last year is a meagre contribution towards an institution that is of very material assistance to the rural sections of this county.

If the benefits were confined to the four days of the exhibition a $175 grant would not be nearly large enough; when these benefits are spread over a whole year and take the form of a keener interest in good stock and above-the-average products, in better farming methods and in a renewed zeal and enterprise on the part of many individual farmes, a $175 grant appears almost as ingratitude.

THE TURN-OVER TAX-HO!

The Examiner is in receipt of a bulletin from the Citizens Research Institute that throws much light upon a subject that is often talked of but about which most people have at best but a hazy conception.

The reference is the term "turn-over tax" which is likely to be much before the public as it is advocated by many people as much preferable to the present sales tax.

Previous to the war the cost of National Government was defrayed largely by consumption taxes in the form of import duties and excise duties.

These fall in the final incidence, on the consumer, and the tax paid on any article was in direct proportion to the consumption of that article.

The taxpayer paid his taxes when he spent money, not when he saved it.

Then came the various forms of income and profits taxation, the excess profits tax being afterwards removed.

These taxes were not based on the amount of consumption but on the amount of gross income in the case of personal salaries; on net income in the case of business.

Personal income taxes vary roughly as the possibility of saving varies.

Then came the sales tax which throughout all its forms, has been in the nature of a consumption tax.

The turn-over tax is a variety of sales tax but whereas the sales tax as we have known it, is limited to the manufacturer, producer, importer, wholesaler and jobber, or as at present in Canada to that one of those who is the first in the chain to sell commodities in their most highly finished state, the turn-over taxe applied to its theoretical limit, is a tax upon the gross sale of commodities and services of all business, whether manufacturing, wholesaling, jobbing or retailing, and whether mercantile, financial or professional.

It is applied not only at the initial stage, not only at the final stages, but at all stages between the raw material and the consumer.

To this form of gross sales tax the term turn-over tax is thus aptly applied.

Tomorrow the Examiner will discuss the Institute's views on the difference between the sales tax as we know and the turn-over tax, proposed in some quarters for adoption in Canada.

WHY SO MUCH MONEY?

The outstanding feature about Federal financing—at least the feature that most forcibly strikes the average Canadian—is the immense amount of money that seems to be needed to carry on the ordinary affairs of the country.

It is announced that Canada's customs and excise revenue alone was nearly 40 millions greater in 1923 than in the previous year.

Canada collected from her people in duties and excise tax the huge sum of $801,478,818 and altogether there was a revenue of $126,684,825 collected, an excess of 30 millions over 1922.

And now a new sales tax has been clapped on.

Where are we going to stop—or when?

Other countries, United States, Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand seem to have found at least a partial solution of the problem.

Taxation is being reduced; in Canada it is increasing.

It is evident that we have not advanced as far along the path of economy as the other countries mentioned.

We preach saving but we don't practice it.

We talk of the necessity of a rigid and steadfast adherence to a programme of expenditure-reduction, but the use of the pruning knife is little more than a gesture.

Expenditures, only here and there, are not being trimmed down; vast sums are being needlessly used; departments are still over-staffed; overhead expenses are still two large; new works of doubtful importance are still too large; new works of doubtful importance

Such things cannot go on without a huge revenue being needed and so Canadians continue to pay through the nose while the peoples of other countries are beginning to feel the burden of taxation gradually eased from their shoulders.

Our politicians of every party must realize that it is only in a real policy of economy and not by an imitation that gets nowhere, can Canada find hope for a similar relaxation.

"RESIST THE BEGINNINGS".
(An Editorial for Young People)

A distresing scene was witnessed in the local police court this week when a number of girls appeared before the magistrate, having been found in a dance hall raided by the police. A keg of wine was on tap, and altogether the place was being conducted on anything but respectable lines, to judge from the evidence submitted. Many of these girls were quite young, and pleaded that they did not know what sort of a place they were visiting. They naturally felt their position very keenly indeed, and their mothers were painfully affected by their appearance in court. In dismissing the girls, the magistrate recommended them to go home and thank God they had had their eyes opened to the danger so early. It is to be supposed that they will never forget the lesson taught them by this experience. But their plight should be considered by others who, consciously or unconsciously, are running similar risks. This particular resort, which will now almost certainly be done away with, is not the only moral menace in the city. Such places are not recognized as danger spots by many, and that fact is a great aggravation of the evil.

Wrong-doing generally begins in this way—in apparently innocent amusement. It is pleasant to dance, to "have a good time," as the phrase goes, and there are always plenty of people who are willing to provide the occasion, with more or less evil-minded intentions. Here we have a hall run for profit, with a group of young people, lads and girls, supplied with liquor and given every freedom. Such license is very dangerous, and often corruptive of moral health and character. There is only one effective way of escaping the sordid influence of such places, and that is to avoid them. It may seem an easy thing to keep oneself safe from harm; but it is not so easy. The least that can happen is a very serious loss indeed.

In Philadelphia the police are carrying on a vigorous campaign against all "shady" places in that city. When the worst of them have been cleaned up, they are going to turn their attention to the poolrooms and suchlike resorts as breeding-places of crime and vice. They have their counterpart in Hamilton, though not, fortunately, on so large a scale. But the local police know, and have frequently declared, that some of the poolrooms of this city are a source of moral infection. If it is necessary to warn young girls away from disreputable dance halls, it is just as essential to warn young men away from low-class poolrooms. They should be avoided as the plague. They are often the school for the most degraded habits. Do our young readers ever stop to think how the wretched dope victims, for instance, first came to indulge their vicious craving? It was not, indeed, at first a cravng at all, but rather a repulsion. But the example was there, the temptation and the urging of depraved companions, and the final disastrous giving way. It would have been very easy to have resisted in the beginning, but it becomes less and less easy as time goes on. There is a Latin tag—many of our high school readers will recognize it—which in English means: "Resist the beginnings." It is a motto which all young people should make their own. If they did, they would be saved from much after-regret and disillusionment and possible shame.—Hamilton Spectator.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—Last week's experience brought fewer cattle to the Union Stock Yards yesterday. The receipts were 190 cars with 3,697 cattle, 230 calves, 1,642 hogs and 592 sheep and lambs. Heavy cattle were of a good average quality, but the butchers were not as high in quality. Salesmen priced the offerings at an advance from last week's close, but buyers were not inclined to pay any higher. The export buyers in face of the Old Country railroad strike refused to pay any advance, and offerings at $8 a cwt. were turned down.

Several loads were taken at $7.75 a cwt., and this appeared to be the limit for the best heavies. Some fat cows were also taken for export and the price for these was kept as close as possible to $5 a cwt. A load of medium weight butchers, good but not choice, was bought by Frank Hunnisett at $6.50 a cwt. The exporters bought about 200 steers and were open to take any good bulls at 4¼ to 4½ cents a pound.

The butchers made over $6.60 a cwt. during the morning. A few second rate babies sold at 7 cents. Good medium butchers were 6 cents a pound and mediums 5½ cents, common butchers were 4½ to 5 5 cents. Cows were firm and one extra choice sold at 6½ cents. Other choice cows went at 5½ cents, and good cows were 4½ to 5 cents a pound. Medium cows sold from 4 to 4¼ cents a pound.

Calves were not a heavy offering but the quality was not too good and the best sold during the morning at 12 cents a pound. Poor mediums brought 8 cents and some with beter finish sold at 10 cents.

There was a little firmer undertone in the lambs, and one bunch of ewes sold at $12.90 a cwt. Swifts paid $11 a cwt for a straight load of bucks. For a load of light black-faced lambs 13 cents was bid, but they were held at 13½ cents. The run is light and this favors the sellers. One small package of ewes wents at 13½ cents.

Packers are making no change in the bid on hogs of $7.25 a cwt. f.o.b., and say they will take none higher. Yesterday's shipment, however, is not too heavy and commission men are not eager to accept first bids.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, January 22 (Canadian Press). — Receipts in Eastern Canada continues to increase, but the demand has more than kept pace with the suoply, and fresh specials and extras are scarce on some markets. SPORT IS ACTIVE AROUND LAKEFIELD

First of District Hockey Games This Week — Curling Records.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 22.—On Saturday night the rink presented a gala aspect with its throng of happy skaters and interested spectators. Hendren's Orchestra stationed on a specially built platform in the center of the ice provided good music which added zest to the pleasure of skating. Boys and girls and adults of both sexes were making the best of every bar of the music and the ice was crowded all evening. Saturday night has always been an especially popular night at the rink and this season is no exception. From the spectators point of view it was an exceedingly fascinating spectacle and very pleasant to contemplate. Almost without exception everyone skated well and appeared to be thoroughly happy.

Lakefield Personals.

The fashion of the season for heavy sweaters and tuques for the lady skaters is a combination of common sense and attractiveness The preference seems for white sweaters and tuques though other colors were worn. As one tiny damsel was heard to say to her chum of the same age: "All the ladies are wearing caps like yours."

This "band night" was so successful that no doubt it will be repeated at an early date.

Hockey Up!

The first game in the Lakefield and District Hockey League will be played on Friday evening between Hull's team and Warsaw and a good game is assured as Warsaw put up good hockey last season and carried home the bacon in the shape of the Casement Cup. Unfortunately they have been unable to have any practice as they have no rink but they have arranged a practice game with the Grove for Monday evening. Competition will be keen and the hockey fans should encourage their favorite teams as much as possible.

Ladies Are Winners.

The Ladies' hockey team has been re-organized for the season and Rev. A. W. Mackenzie expects to arrange a game with Campbellford in the near future. The Ladies' games are always popular and it is expected that the 1924 team will be the best yet. Last year, although defeated by Campbellford, they won easily from the Peterboro aggregation.

Junior Schedule.

The schedule for Junior Hockey League has not yet been made up as to date only three teams have signified their intention of entering, viz: The Grove, Presbyterians and Rink Rats. Last year McFadden's team and Youngs' Point entered but this year do not feel that they are strong enough to compete against the first three mentioned. It is possible that a High School team will enter the League also and in thta case the interest would be greater. Rev. A. W. Mackenzie and "Dad" Morin are sponsors of this league and have given a great deal of time and trouble to the needs of junior hockey in the community.

Bantams Need Help.

The interest in hockey shown by the young men and older boys is shown in a marked degree also among the little chaps who are forming into teams and playing remarkably good hockey. They are keen observers at big games and are very particular as to form. Anyone with a little time and a public spirit would do well to encourage the Bantam League. "Dad" Morin, who is one ot the patrons and supporters of junior hockey has a kindly eye on the "bantams" and when possible gives them the chance of a game.

Annual 'Spiel.

The Lakefield Curling Club will hold their annual Bonspiel on February 5th beginning at 9.30. Dr. S. J. Gibson is the chairman of the Bonspiel committee. H. G. Fitzgerald is president of the Curling Club and Percy Spence the secretary.

Coasting in Swing.

The rain of Wednesday last has provided the hills with a glassy surface which is the delight of young Lakefield. Coasting parties for both morning and afternoon have been very popular and even though the re-opening of school on Thursday thinned out the youngsters there are a number, who though too small for school, are quite large enough to enjoy coasting.

Another Director.

In the report of the annual meeting of the Lakefield Agricultural Society the name of Timothy Garvey was inadvertantly omitted from the list of directors.

Week of Prayer

The week of prayer closed on Friday evening, the last service being in the Baptist Church with a good attendance in spite of the attraction of the hockey match. The attendance all through the two weeks' prayer services has been gratifying to those who have been responsible for them and who have given a great deal of thought to preparation.

FOUND GUILTY OF DYNAMITING

Four Railway Men Blew Up Trolley Tracks at Buffalo, Injuring 35 Passengers.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 22. — A verdict of guilty was returned last night in the cases of four former International Railway traction car men, indicted for blowing up trolley tracks near here on August 17, 1922.

The convicted men are Francis Reilly and Healy Breeze, of Buffalo, and William H. Smith and William L. Vandell, of Lockport.

Thirty-five persons were injured when a three-car train of Philadelphia excursionists ran into the blown-up tracks.

Two young women, companions of several defendants on numerous joy rides, were the last two witnesses called, according to the prosecutor, to clinch the evidence produced before.

Miss Anna Smith, a long-time friend of the chief defendant, Francis Reilly, told the jury that Reilly virtually had confessed his participation in the explosion that wrecked the train crowded with interstate tourists on August 17, 1922. Many women and children were injured.

Reilly's statement, Miss Simth said, was made at the scene of the exposion.

"When I asked him," said Miss Smith, "if he had considered that human beings were on the trains that ran along that railroad, and if he had thought that some of his own folks might be among them, his mother, for instance, he replied: 'I didn't give a damn'."

The woman's testimony was the most sensational produced by the Government. It had telling effect on Reilly. The man had shown little emotion when other witnesses testified, but when Miss Smith related the events of July 4, 1923, when, as members of a holiday party, including Healey Breeze and Virgil Jackson, he and Miss Smith stopped to talk near the scene of the explosion and he recited details of the dynamite plot to her, he squirmed uneasily in his chair and cast glances of hatred toward the wtiness.

BORIS OF BULGARIA HELPED IN TROUBLE.

Bulgarian King Is Democratic, Simple and Direct —Helped Repair Car.

SAMOKOV, Bulgaria, Jan. 19 (Associated Press).—When an American traveling abroad meets a king who is democratic , simple and direct, he glows with the experience, for his best concept of what a king should be has been justified.

Thus it was recently with John Stearns, of the American Collegiate Institute here. The Rev. Leroy F Ostrander, principal of the institute, likes from time to time to go driving in his American-built automobile over the fine mountain roads of Bulgaria. On such a trip, in company with Mrs. Ostrander and Mr. Stearns, the car broke down a few miles from Aofia. Mr. Stearns went to work to make repairs and was comfortably settled underneath the body of the car, with various and sundry tools within reach, and Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander sitting on the road side, when a powerful limousine drove up and stopped. A slight, rather pale young man advanced and asked in Bulgarian what was the matter....

Mrs. Ostrander recognized the king, but not so John Stearns. She tried to tell Stearns who had arrived, but he did not hear. Boris offered to help, and help he did, in spite of the dusty road, the cramped position, and the greasy fittings. In the meantime Boris' two sisters, Princess Evodkia and Princess Nadejda, had advanced from the car and stood chatting with Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander.

The two amateur mechanics finished their job, and the king's party drove on. Then Mrs. Ostrander told Mr. Stearns who had helped him.

"And I was just on the point," Mr. Stearns said, "of offering to pay that young man for his time and trouble."

Could Not Work a Whole Day

But Now He Praises Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Alfred Nadeau is enthusiastic over the remedy that brought him relief—Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Albertville, Que., Jan. 21.—(Special).—"It gives me great pleasure to tell you that I am feeling very well, since I started taking your Dodd's Kidney Pills. I was not able to work a whole day without severe pains in my kidneys.

"Your Dodd's Kidneys Pills are a wonderful remedy for weak kidneys. Kindly publish my testimonial, so that all those who suffer may know about Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Mr. Alfred Nadeau, who lives here, makes the above statement. He feels that he owes it to other sufferers with sore kidneys, to tell them how he found relief from his suffering.

All Mr. Nadeau's troubles came from diseassed kidneys. They speedily ceased when he commenced to use the one sure help for diseased kidneys—Dodd's Kidney Pills. There is no reason why anyone should continue to suffer when Dodd's Kidney Pills can be obtained from druggists everywhere, or The Dodd's Medicine Co., Ltd., Toronto.

And in Life's Evening Time

If a lamp could write its story, what a story that would be.

"I came when the home was young," it would say, "Under my rays he and she made their first family budget.

"I helped the youngsters with their lessons, smiling down at them; in a corner I twinkled over wedding gifts, and shed my blessing on the marriage of the daughter of the house.

"And now, when the children are gone, and the home is quiet once more I still am here. There are no regrets where books, and light and love abide.

"The afternoon of life has its own great compensations.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

PERSONAL RIGHTS OF M. D's.

January 18, 1923.

To the Editor of THE EXAMINER:

Sir: Ever since the advent of the O. T. A., we have had the pleasure of listening to a great deal of eloquence about the personal rights of the moderate drinkers, who, it is alleged, are being unjustly deprived of their rights. Your readers will recall the old story of the two knights who fought over the question of whether a certain shield was brass or iron, only to find subsequently that one side of the shield was brass, and the other side was iron. They had both been taking a one-sided view, and they were both wrong.

This illustrates the mistake that is being made by our anti-prohibition friends, who have allowed themselves to be completely carried off their feet by the spurious claims of the M. D's, while, if they had only looked at the other side of the shield they would have seen that there are other people besides the M. D's whose personal rights it is our duty to respect. In their zeal for personal rights they have denied personal rights. Some people think that all you have to do with the liquor traffic is to give it a pretty name such as High License or Government Control, and you thereby transform it from being a wolf into being a pet lamb. They entertain the idea that if you only call a tiger a pretty puss you may then allow it to play around the house. They fondly imagine that they can remove the spots from a leopard by simply calling it a cat.

Take for instance present conditions in Manitoba. It is true that there the M. D's can now obtain liquor. But, unfortunately, it is also true that there the liquor traffic will now proceed to do to poor little children and helpless women what it has always done to them. Giving the liquor traffic a pretty name does not change the nature of the business, which has always been the enemy of the home, and the terror of women and children. If women and children are well advised they will keep away from Manitoba. It is pitiable to see the people of a little struggling province, handicapped by a disproportionate number of foreign voters, and weighted with heavy liabilities, being persuaded that they can clear off those liabilities more readily with whisky than they could without whisky, and that they can get rich by the fantastic method of receiving a small amount and paying out large amounts, and that they can increase the prosperity of a province by bringing on the liquor traffic. Men who advocate such absurdities are entitled to rank as financiers with the bankers who wrecked the Merchants' Bank and the Home Bank. We appear at present to have a plethora of economic doctrinaires and financial fakers. Much boasting is being done about the profits on government sales.

But it should not be necessary to say that financial statements can be fixed up to show an apparent profit, when a strict and thorough accounting would reveal a loss. And men who accept the published statements of profits as indicating a genuine net gain to the province certainly have much to learn concerning financial statements.

Regarding the whole question of personal liberty I believe it to be one of the most precious things in life, and under the British flag a man enjoys the utmost limit of personal liberty. But he must remember that his fellow citizens have personal rights also which he must respect. It has been proved up to the hilt that we cannot have the liquor traffic in any form without women and children being abused.

But we are told that government control positively stops bootlegging. If so, it is quite clear that the R. C. Archbishop of Quebec, and also the Presbytery of Westminster were wrong in their recent complaints. How strange that Archbishops and Presbyters are not more careful to speak the truth! Here we have an admitted great evil. It is a serious financial drain. It is helping to hold Canada back. It is causing endless sorrow. It is our worst killjoy. And regarding it there is only one policy before the country that is worthy the name of a policy, namely, total prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicants. Any other policy that has been suggested is inadequate, and will surely lead to disappointment. I have never suggested that prohibition is a panacea, and I am fully aware that even if we had world-wide prohibition tomorrow, millennial conditions would still be in the future. But, of course, this assertion is a mere platitude, and is by no means an argument against prohibition.

It is possible that the politicians may force us to vote again on this question, as we have done so often before. There is a sound of going in the tops of the mulberry trees. So please watch out for what an old man called the 'reeferendum,' and here's hoping that when the 'reeferendum' does come along we will all be big enough to judge this whole question fairly, and broad-minded enough to give due consideration to the personal rights of all classes.

MUST WAIT FOR ORGAN

LONDON—He can enter a church only during services! Otherwise, he'll go to jail. The man, a laborer, has a penchant for hymn books, it seems. He always wants to know in advance just what the congregation will sing on Sunday. But witnesses told the magistrate in Chichester Police Court that the fellow forgets to bring back the books. So the judge decreed the songster must confine his church going to the Sabbath Day.

THEIR BODIES ARE SAFE

LONDON—Unclaimed bodies of ex-service men, dying in guardians' institutions while under treatment at the Health Ministry's cost, no longer will be sent to medical schools for dissection.

Since the beginning of the World War in 1914, the number of reigning houses in Europe has declined from forty-one to seventeen.

LONDON'S TRAFFIC DEATHS

LONDON—London's traffic death toll is appalling. Life after life is being sacrificed on the "altar of haste and recklessness." In three months, there were 19,263 street accidents, according to Scotland Yard In them, 158 persons were killed. All but 18 of the fatalities were attributed to automobiles. Yet there are fewer traffic policemen here today than 10 years ago.

Million a Week Spent Out West In Football Gambling Mania

Before the Law Stepped In and Stopped It, Tens of Thousands of People From Winnipeg to Vancouver Were Carried Away By Craze For Betting on Results of English Football Games—Scores of Competition Magazines.

By NEWTON McLENNAN

THEY are playing football as usual in England and Scotland this season, but nobody in western Canada is unduly excited over the fact.

Times have changed!

There has been a tremendous slump in football interest since the slow-moving arm of the law reached out and locked the doors of a number of establishments which, in stilted legal phraseology, were declared to be common gaming houses.

For five years or more, crowds gathered outside newspaper offices on Saturday afternoons, waiting for the result of the English league football games to be announced on the bulletins.

Once in a long, long while the announcements would make somebody in the crowd deliriously happy. Most of the time the game results brought nothing but disappointment—and the determination to try again.

The English football games were the basis of guessing contests which spread a gambling mania all the way from Winnipeg to the west coast of Vancouver island. Tens of thousands of men, women and children took part in these competitions every week, and at one time $1,000,000 a week was spent in buying coupons.

At the height of the craze there were perhaps forty or fifty football competition magazines in western Canada. A few of these were twelve-page sheets, which gave some general information, sporting news, and so on, in addition to printing guessing coupons, but the majority contained coupons only. These coupons were also printed separately, and distributed by thousands at cigar stores, fruit stands, and soft drink parlors. There were football competition agents in every little town in the four western provinces.

Some of the best-known football competition sheets were the B. C. Veterans' Weekly, a returned soldiers' paper, which started the craze; the Sportsman, the Western News, the Olympiad, the Campaigner, all of Vancouver; the Athletic Guide, of Vancouver, Calgary and parts unknown; th Joker, run by Percy Proverb, of Calgary; the Badge, the O. B. U. Bulletin, and the Western Argus, of Winnipeg.

In addition to these, there were small weeklies in Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Victoria, Medicine Hat, and other cities, but none of these lasted long enough to bring fortune to their owners. The bigger fellows gobbled the cream of the gambling business.

In the early stages of the football competition craze, a number of daily newspapers got into the contest field, but most of them got out again remarkably quick. It is no secret that merchants made it very plain that they would not advertise in papers conducting competitions which were diverting huge amounts from legitimate trade channels. The Calgary Albertan stayed with it for a long time, and the Moose Jaw News hung on to its bonanza until November, when amendments to the Criminal Code declared the contests illegal.

Guessing Winners and Scores

PRACTICALLY every newspaper of any size in western Canada has carried heavy football competition advertising for several years, the advertisements consisting mainly of guessing coupons.

In the summer baseball competitions took the place of the football competitions.

The football competitions had the lure of apparent simplicity. All one had to do was to guess which teams would win the league fixtures. Later, when this was declared illegal, one had to guess whether the home team would score "more, less or same" number of goals as in the corresponding match in the previous year.

The competitor who sent in a correct estimate for all the matches played on a Saturday won a first prize worth from $3,000 to $12,000. Second and third prizes might be as high as $6,000 and $3,000. In the event of a tie prizes were divided. Scores of competitors usually shared in the third prize. On one occasion, when the amount was comparatively small, each man's share was only thirty cents! Thousands of guesses were sent in weekly by hospital patients.

According to the promoters, these football competitions were games of skill, the theory being that a careful student of "the dope" could tell what a team (say, Aston Villa) would do when opposed to another (say, Sunderland).

To what extent skill entered into these contests may be shown by a little exercise in arithmetic. With only Aston Villa and Sunderland playing, there were three possibilities. Either team might win or lose or the game might be a draw.

With two matches being played, there were nine possible combinations.

With three matches 27 combinations could be arranged.

So it went on, each match multiplying the possible combinations, until by the time thirty teams were engaged the combinations ran well into the millions.

It was not at all uncommon for men and women earning small salaries to spend from five to ten dollars a week in football competitions, in the hope that they might be lucky enough to win the big prize. The mortgage might be falling due, the life insurance about to lapse, but football coupons had first call. Pitifully enough, many winners "invested" their gains in L. R. Steele and other wildcat stocks.

In the west scores of little tradesmen have been forced to the wall because they could not collect from customers who played the competitions to the limit. The little neighborhood grocer suffered perhaps most of all, for his is, to a large extent, a credit business.

A couple of years ago, when $60,000 a week was being distributed in prize money in Vancouver alone, the Retail Merchants association of British Columbia made a determined effort to have the competitions declared illegal. The co-operation of retail merchants' associations in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba was secured, and after a great deal of labor the mountain brought forth a mouse. The wording of the coupons was slightly changed; the gambling continued with as much vigor as ever.

Thousands obeyed that impulse to "Drop Coupons Here." Hungry men used to hang around on Fridays, begging for "two-bits to go with my coupon, please."

Imaginary Winners

WITH the temptation of thousands of dollars prize money before them, many contestants and others deliberately cheated. One man is now in the New Westminster penitentiary, having been caught tampering with the mail of a prize winner, intending to steal a cheque. Over a score of postal employes are reported to have got into serious difficulties for falsifying the cancellation date stamps, making it appear that "correct" coupons were mailed before, instead of after, the result of the games was known.

One man, running a fly-by-night competition in Vancouver which advertised big prizes, but never paid out any real money, conceived the brilliant idea of making a real clean-up. He arranged to get his estimates slipped into the B. C. Veteran's Weekly and the Sportsman mail stacks after the result of the games was known, but he over-reached himself. Not content with putting in a "fifteen-correct" coupon with each magazine, he also slipped in two "fourteen-correct" coupons, and half a dozen "thirteen-correct" coupons in each case. He would have made about $20,000 if the other promoters had not caught on. As it was, all he got was a hint to leave town. He acted on it in a hurry.

Envelopes containing winning coupons were always closely scrutinized to make sure there had been no tampering. Quite often envelopes and coupons were examined under a powerful magnifying glass, and dozens of "sure-thing gamblers" who stormed in to demand their prize have walked out very crestfallen when shown unmistakable evidence of their trickery.

Many of the smaller competitions were out-and-out frauds. In the case of the larger promoters, a big proportion of the winners could be traced, though not a few were said to be "friends of the family" who loaned their names for a percentage of the prize.

In the opinion of Inspector John Jackson, of the Vancouver police force, many of the so-called winners had no existence in fact. He said this quite openly, after the last sensational raid when thousands of dollars and much gambling paraphernalia were seized, as a result of which the promoters were fined $25 each.

Some Promoter's Tricks

SOMETIMES the so-called winners were real enough, but they knew nothing of their good fortune. As a specific instance there is the case of J. H. Laidlaw, 52 Bay street, Hamilton, Ontario, who was advertised as the winner of the $6,500 prize in the Athletic Guide competition in January, 1922. Mr. Laidlaw indignantly denies ever having sent in a coupon, or received any money.

"C. Halliday, 439 9th avenue east, Calgary," and "John Dacey, Central Park, B. C.", split the $3,500 second prize in the same competition. Neither man exists, as far as can be learned, and the Calgary "address" is part of the C. P. R. freight yards.

The Athletic Guide didn't last very long, but it made hay while the sun shone. It advertised $12,000 in prizes every week, but it was mighty hard for correct estimators to collect.

"The Olympiad" was another football competition sheet that didn't last very long in Vancouver, going out of business without paying the prize money. The man who had won $3,000 had played the competitions consistently for 150 weeks—and this was the first time he had anything coming to him!

So as to remain "within the law," all moneys sent in with coupons were supposed to be applied to subscription account. The magazines made this very clear when they advertised every week:

"There is no limit to the length of subscription and the number of coupons which may be sent in by any one person in any one week. 25 cents entitles you to five weeks' subscription and one coupon.....$1 entitles you to twenty-five weeks' subscription and ten coupons..... $5 entitles you to 60 coupons."

The sport who played the competitions regularly, at what may fairly be considered the minimum stake of a dollar a week, automatically paid his subscription for 25 years in advance every twelve months. There are a large number of cases in Winnipeg, Calgary, and Vancouver, where subscriptions have been paid in advance for hundreds of years. One man, who died of consumption, left as his total assets to his widow a paid-up subscription extending to the year 2642! The poor woman tried to get a rebate for canceling the subscription, but the best she could get was an offer of free guessing coupons.

It rather spoils the moral of this tale that she took these coupons, filled them in, and won a small prize.

The straight competition sheets made no provision whatever for continuing in business after the gambling stopped, as eventually it was bound to do. As a matter of fact, they had little or no value, in spite of their enormous circulation. With very few exceptions, they passed out of existence when the competitions were declared illegal.

A Fatalist?

A WOMAN with a very bad cold attended a dinner, and although she had a poor appetite on this occasion, she was pressed to have some food. "Oh do!" they said for the tenth time. "I couldn't," she replied; "I couldn't possibly eat any more." They continued to press her to eat this dish and that, and at last she said, "Oh, very well; if I bust I bust."—Bristol Times and Mirror.

Winter Magic of Canadian Woods Nature Dramas Written in Snow

A Winter Trip Has Delights That Summer Does Not Afford — Footprints Tell of Both Tragedies and Comedies of Animal Life.

By G. W. BARTLETT

WHILE it is quite true that in a winter in our northern woods one does not see such an abundance of animal, bird and insect life as in summer, there are delights the summer doesn't afford, and they must be felt to realize their charm. There are the snow-laden woods, the tracks of those animals that travel in winter, and the fact that you can go where you will over crisp snow, gliding in and out among the monarchs of the forests.

First the tiny track of the deer mouse crosses your trail, and you look with interest at the little path and think what a journey he made from one food supply to another, perhaps only a few strides for you on snowshoes, but a real journey for him. Then the footprints of the squirrels as they dart from tree to tree. Great little chaps they are, although hard things are said of them, and, alas, we know some of these are too true. Still, how we should miss his merry chatter from our winter woods! Then you cross the path of the porcupine, tracks almost like those of a baby's feet, as he goes from his den to the old hemlock to bask among its branches in the sun, and feed upon its shoots. Or yon maple, whose branches are so cleanly stripped of bark—you were wondering what did it, but Mr. Porcupine could tell you. Then a grand old buck springs across the path in front of you, giving that peculiar whistling note of alarm. You follow his track and come to a large pine tree blown down, looking to see where he bounded over it, but the foot or two of snow upon it has not been displaced, and with surprise you notice the big fellow went under, not over it, although it was only about eighteen inches from the ground. Incredible as it seems, the deer will always crawl under, going down on their knees and working under where it would seem impossible.

Now a track as if an unseen hand had drawn a single ski along attracts attention, and you follow to investigate. Coming to the end you find the footprints of the otter, and he makes a few bounds, and, throwing himself upon his belly, slides off over the snow for another twenty or thirty feet. You say: "What a jolly fellow he must be." It makes a chap think of his boyhood days when he ran and slid to school.

Now you cross a beaver pond and note where the beaver is cutting saplings and drawing them to a hole in the ice to be taken under for food. The tracks, too, of the fisher and martin interest you, the only difference being that the fisher track shows claw marks, while that of the martin is without them, resembling that of the domestic cat. Coming to a dam on the river where there is some open water, you see the otter ready to slide in and catch a fish for dinner.

Birds, too, are in evidence. The great pileated woodpecker, with his crimson head, flies from tree to tree and his rat-a-tat tells you the weather will turn milder. The chickadee, the arctic three-toed whiskey jack and many others are in evidence wherever you go. The grosbeak, too, even nests while snow is on the ground. Then, just when you are looking at the snow-covered trees, there is a flutter right at the point of your snowshoe, and a partridge springs out of the snow, where it has spent the night snugly. Then in camp at night after supper you drop the half-filled pipe to hasten out into the starlight to listen to the cry of a pack of wolves seeking their evening meal.

Yes, winter has a charm of its own that, once experienced, haunts you in the fall as the click of the reel does in spring.

Comedy-Drama of the Forest

IT was a grand morning in March, the snowshoeing perfect, and our dog-team in fine trim. We were on one of our long winter trips, Queen and Jack drawing our sleeping bags and provisions. They were a grand pair of dogs and had covered many miles with us. They were the particular care of Albair, my French-Canadian companion. Describing them, he said: "Queen he's good dog all the time, but that dog Jack she have some very bad plan on he's head."

It was one of those mornings that make one feel thankful for life and health. We were traveling through a hilly section covered with a grand forest of maple, beach and birch, with, here and there, like the spire of some church, a spruce with its dark green, slender, pointed top towering above the hardwood. We were on the top of one of these hills looking out over the stretch of country below. Albair had fastened a rope to the back of the sled to hold it back going down the mountains, the other end fastened round his waist to leave his hands free.

Just as this moment Jack, the lead dog, caught sight of a fisher darting across the path at the foot of the mountain, and with a bound both dogs were off after it. Albair was so taken by surprise that he had no alternative but to follow. He is an expert on snowshoes, but the pace was too much for him, and he made a good deal of the trip down the mountain on his back, till driver, sled and dogs all stopped in a mixed heap at the foot. I expected to hear something when he regained his feet, but he only rubbed his back, and, looking down at Jack and Queen all mixed up in the harness, remarked: "This some more your bad plan, you dog Jack."

The fisher had climbed a nearby tree and was calmly taking in the whole proceedings. After extricating the dogs and righting the load, we looked along the fisher's track and noticed tracks of blood, so followed it a short distance back and found the story of a tragedy. Mr. Porcupine had started out from his den among the rocks to have his breakfast from the nearby hemlock, but the fisher, too, was out for his. He is very fond of porcupine flesh, and is the only animal that can attack one with impunity. This is owing to the fact that under the fisher's skin is a double membrane. The quills penetrate the first, but instead of going through into the body as with other animals, they turn at the second and lie harmless between the two. I have taken them with hundreds of quills so located. Now the fisher, being so much more agile, Mr. Porcupine is soon overtaken. The fisher then dives under the snow, and, catching the porcupine with a bulldog grip upon the unprotected throat, never lets go till he has killed. He then turns the porcupine over upon its back and leisurely eats his fill, seldom leaving anything but the skin. Being a glutton, he eats till he can swallow no more, then goes off to seek a hollow log or tree, where he sleeps until hunger drives him out again.

In our trapping for this purely American animal and one of our most durable and handsome furs, we put out food till we get the fisher frequenting the place where we give him a generous meal, and follow his track till he lies up for a sleep. He is then easily taken.

But we are a good day from our next shelter house, so must jog along. After passing through a fine stretch of pine woods where the lumberjacks were hard at work, I secured three fine snaps of a giant of the forest coming down. The first was just as Louie was driving in the first wedge, the method of falling being to chop a notch on the front or falling side of the tree, then the saw is used for the back, and iron wedges are driven to force the tree over in the direction desired. The second snap was taken just as the tree started to fall, Louie giving the look-out call so that road cutters and skidders working near might be on their guard. The third was snapped as the tree was falling.

Noon found us at camp, and, as is always the custom, the foreman invited us to stay for dinner. Talk about hospitality! It is in the woods among the lumberjacks you find the genuine article prompted by the kindness of true hearts, due to a great extent to their constant contact with nature.

Queen and Jack, too, come in for a meal that gladdens their hearts. Albair, sitting on a log with pipe going, forgives even Jack for his bad plan of the morning. The foreman tells us of a fine buck that the wolves killed the night before, and as we cross a lake after dinner we see the remains. These cowardly creatures kill for the very lust of killing. They never give open battle, but by a few treacherous snaps so mutilate the deer's hind leg that it soon bleeds to death.

Their Example

THE inspector was paying his annual visit to the village school, and was putting the children of Class III. through their paces. He tried them with arithmetic and geography, and then came on to testing their knowledge of English words.

They did quite well until he asked them the meaning of the word "epidemic."

Nobody knew, and so he had to help them out.

"An epidemic," he explained, "is anything that spreads. Now, can anybody give me an example of an epidemic?"

There was a long silence.

"Can no one tell me?" asked the inspector at last. "Remember, anything that spreads."

They had it this time. Like one voice came the reply:

"Jam, sir."

Forward Child!

BROWN and Grey are both fathers.

"How's your baby getting on?" asked Brown. "Can he talk yet?"

"No, he's only just beginning to," replied Grey.

"He's a bit backward, surely?" said Brown. "He's older than ours, and ours can talk splendidly."

"Well, ours can walk across the room without being held," countered the other.

"My dear chap, ours toddles down the garden-path to meet me every evening. How about your baby's teeth?"

"Well, he's got a few."

"Ours has got them all but three, and he's—"

Here he was interrupted by the exasperated Grey.

"I say," he exclaimed, "does yours use a safety razor or an ordinary one?"—Pearson's Weekly.

DIET REGIMEN IS ADVOCATED

Early Care of the Teeth Discussed at Meeting Held in Collegiate Institute.

The paramount importance of early care of the teeth, in the child itself, and in the diet regimen of the expectant mother, were emphasized in the address on Dental Education, given at the Collegiate Institute Assembly Hall Friday evening by Prof. A. E. Webster, DD., S.M.D., of Toronto University, under the auspices of the Peterboro Dental Society. Prof. Webster was introduced by the president of the local organization, Dr. C. H. Fulford, and had an audience of about 150 people, including representatives of the medical, dental and nursing professions, and the Board of Education, and a goodly number of pupils from the higher classes of the various city schools. Preceding and following the programme, two splendidly sung musical numbers were rendered by Mr. M. H. Park, accompanied by Mrs. Park.

Dr. Webster

Dr. Webster's lecture, delivered in a pleasant, chatty fashion that made it very interesting, was interspersed with lantern slides showing enlarged X-Ray photographs of numerous form of dental caries and deformity. "Increased decay is one of the penalties we pay for civilization," said the speaker, who characterized dental trouble as coming under two the one in decay of the teeth, the other in loss of the supporting tissues around the teeth.

A brief history of the practise of dentristry was given. It was not until 1837 that dental practise was definitely separated from that of the medical practitioner. In England, so the speaker declared, American dentistry is regarded as on a lower plane to that of the Old Country, simply on account of the fact that the United States dentist practises without a license.

"Dental caries is primarily a disease of childhood and young adult life," said the Professor, speaking of the practically immune period between the ages of twenty and forty-five, when the gums begin to sag. Heredity with regard to teeth plays a part, insofar as children whose parents possessed good teeth will have a tendency to possess good teeth themselves.

Micro-Organisms

The theory with regard to dental caries was that micro-organisms developed on the surface of the teeth, and through fermentation, produced an acid that eventually led to decay. Irregular tooth surfaces were splendid breeding places for these germs, and, when it was realized that teeth often began to calcify before the child was born, it was of paramount importance that the expectant mother should take such nourishment as would contribute toward the production of healthy teeth in the child. Food rich in calcium and vitamins should be taken. Even a pig, declared the speaker, would become "crippled" and go lame if fed on improper food, and he alluded to the experience of a scientific friend who experimented with monkeys, and brought a certain specimen suffering from ulcerated eyes back to health by a change in the diet which had caused the trouble. With the monkey, orange juice and brown paper was the remedy, the juice to provide what its diet lacked, the brown paper to give the cellulose content necessary for proper elimination. Roughage in food, asserted the professor, was Nature's old-time remedy for tooth trouble, but modern foods, refined to the limit, had removed such necessary adjuncts from the diet regimen of the child.

Pictures of impacted teeth were shown, the speaker saying that such conditions were often responsible for incorrigible children who were restless and troublesome.

The various theories held by dentists for the eradication of oral sepsis, or tooth infection, were recounted. Mouth washes and germicides of all sorts had been gradually replaced by the era of the tooth brush and paste, which the speaker was not at all enthusiastic about, the 'placque' which forms on the teeth and covers the little, disease-breeding micro-organisms could be removed by a gentle rubbing, in his opinion, administered either by the dentist or the patient himself, and a brush of uneven bristles, rotated in such manner that the uneven surfaces and intersections of the teeth were reached as well as the surface, was recommended. Water, the speaker considered, made just as good a tooth wash as anything that could be used, and he was not especially in favor of using tooth powders. "Give a boy a good sound apple and he can clean his teeth pretty thoroughly," he said.

Cause of Disease

Cancer, rheumatism, and anaemia were in many cases aggravated, and often caused, by oral sepsis, the Professor said, remarking that cancer of the intestinal tract had in many cases been traced to tooth infection. In the case of five particular diseases, including tuberculosis, syphilis, rheumatism, anaemia and diabetes, an absolute cleaning up of the oral cavity was essential to recovery. In insane asylums and hospitals, it had been found that patients suffering from oral infection were often helped greatly by the proper treatment of the teeth.

Appreciation tendered

At the conclusion of Prof. Webster's address, a hearty appreciation of his interesting and informative lecture was voiced in a motion by A. Mowat, seconded by H. R. H. Kenner. J. M. Greene, chairman of the Board of Education, also recorded his pleasure at the instructive discourse. Prof. Webster, in reply, spoke of a lecture which he considered of great value, given on occasion by him, with regard to the Baby and Its Teeth, and was requested by Mrs. W. R. Morris to return to Peterboro at some future time to deliver it, which he promised to do.

Mary read this portion of the letter over twice, the serenity of her face routed by a frown. Of course she had expected to meet this man in the future, indeed had had a very definite idea of playing his cards immediately upon her return to Vienna. But that he should come here! Now. That was another matter. She had succeeded in dismissing the past, and she resented this dark reminder. Well, she could refuse to see him, and possibly he would not arrive until after her departure. And then she sighed again. The fultiity of attempting to travel through even one brief cross-section of life on a straight line!

Her luncheon was brought up to her and when it was finished she answered her letters and settled down to the latest novel of one of her new friends. But Gora Dwight was announced, and she put the book aside with a sensation of pleasant anticipation. She liked no one better, of her new American acquaintances, and made no objection when Clavering had asked her to let him confide his engagement to Gora Dwight alone. He felt that he owed her the compliment (how he was to obtain the forgiveness of Mrs. Oglethorpe was a thought he dared not dwell on), and Mary, little disposed as she was to intimacies, had felt a certain release in speaking of her engagement to another woman.

"'But I detest writing,' said Madame Zattiany. 'I like the activity of doing.'"

XLI

Gora was looking her best in a smart spring frock of brown tweed with a drooping red feather on her hat, whose pointed brim almost but not quite obscured one eye. The two women greeted each other with something like affection, and after the usual feminine preliminaries were over, Gora exclaimed with enthusiasm:

"I have come to tell you how really wonderful Lee's play is, and to say that I could have shaken him for not letting you hear it, but he seems determined that it shal burst upon you in the unmitigated glory of a first-night performance."

Madame Zattiany smiled, very slightly. "Yes, he made a great point of that. I could only let him have his way. He is very fond of having his way, is he not?"

"Well, we've spoiled him, you see. And those of us who have heard the play are more excited than we have been over anything for a long time. Those that haven't are not far behind. I believe there is a dinner or a party in his honor projected for every night for weeks to come."

Madame Zattiany raised her eyebrows in genuine surprise. "Isn't it rather unusual, that—to fete an author before he has made his debut?"

"It is, rather. But in this case it's different. We've waited so long for Clavey to do the big thing that we must let off steam at once."

"He certainly seems to be a tremendous favorite among you. Several of his friends were here at dinner the other night—I was so sorry you were unable to come—and really they seemed to be able to talk of nothing else. They are all very charming to me now, but I am wondering if they will be more than amiably interested in me when I am merely the wife of a famous playwright?"

"Oh, you must do something yourself," said Miss Dwight emphatically. "I am sure you could write. And equally sure that you will try, for you could not live constantly with such workers as we are without being stung by the same busy little bee. You have suggested genius to me from the first, and I am convinced it is not merely the genius of personality. Your life has stifled your talents, but now is the time to discover them and take your place in American letters."

"I had thought such talents as I possessed should be used in the attempt to play a humble part in the reconstruction of Europe," murmured Madame Zattiany; and one of her beautiful white hands moved toward the cigarette box with a curious tensing of the muscles that seemed to rob it subtly of its likeness to flesh. Nothing escaped Miss Dwight's observing eye, and she replied casually: "Oh, Europe isn't worth the effort, dear Madame Zattiany. It's too far gone. The future of the world lies here in the United States. New York is the brain and soul of the United States. Moreover, if you want to help Europe, you can write about it here, be the one to give us all a clearer understanding of that miserable chaos."

"But I detest writing," said Madame Zattiany, who was lying back and watching her smoke rings. "I like the activity of doing, and I have had an experience that particularly fits me for political intrigue. If this were Washington, now——"

"Washington! Washington is merely one of the islands outside of New York. So is Chicago, Boston, the rest of them. . . And don't imagine you would not become fascinated with writing as soon as you were in your stride. Here is a simple recipe to begin with. Get up every morning with the set intention of writing and go to your desk and sit there for three hours, whether you accomplish anything or not. Before long you will find that you are writing madly, not waiting for inspiration. And you will have Clavey to criticize you. The rest is only stern self-discipline. Here is another suggestion: when you have brain fag go to bed for two days and starve. The result is miraculous."

"So, that is the way American writers are made. There are so many of them—I had often wondered——"

"Oh, not at all!" Miss Dwight rushed to the defence of native American genius. "But all writers, no matter what their figts, often go through a period of torture while forming habits of regular work."

"It sounds like torture!" She gave Gora a glance of lazy amusement. "Really, Miss Dwight! Are you trying to frighten me off?"

But Gora did not blush. If she chose to concentrate her agile mind on acting, the accomplished actress opposite could give her few points. She replied with convincing emphasis: "Certainly not. What an odd idea. I have the most enormous respect for your abilities, and you should be famous for something besides beauty—and I should like to see you live down mere notoriety."

"I've loved the notoriety, and rather regret that it seems to have lost flavor with time. But I'll never make a writer, Miss Dwight, and have not the least intention of trying."

"But surely you'll not be content to be just Lee's wife? Why, practically every woman in our crowd does something. There used to be a superstitition that two brain-workers could not live comfortably under the same roof, but as a matter of fact we've proved that a woman keeps her husband far longer if her brain is as productive as his. Each inspires and interests the other. Another old cliche gone to the dust bin. Our sort of men want something more from a woman than good housekeeping. Not that men no longer want to be comfortable, but the clever women of today have learned to combine both."

"Marvellous age and marvellous America! Don't you think I could keep Lee interested without grinding away at my desk for three hours every morning and lying in hungry misery for days at a time?"

"You could keep any man interested. I wasn't thinking of him, but of you. He has more than a man's entitled to already. Men are selfish brutes, and I waste no sympathy on them. It's women who have the rotten deal in this world, the best of them. And men are as vain as they are selfish. It's an enormous advantage for a woman to have her own reputation and her own separate life. No man should be able to feel that he possesses a woman wholly. He simply can't stand it."

"Quite right. Discarding modesty, I may add that I am an old hand at that game."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

SAUERKRAUT DISHES

Many people enjoy a dinner of asuerkraut once in a while. If the dish is cooked in the oven the unpleasant odor is somewhat curtailed.

While raw cabbage is more easily digested and of greater food value than cooked cabbage, cabbage in any form is a wholesome, hearty food.

These recipes may be a bit out of the ordinary and may help solve the eternal problem of what to eat.

If wieners are not liked, spare-ribs can be substituted.

Sauerkraut and Dumplings

Two pounds of kraut, 8 wieners, 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, milk to make a soft dough.

Put kraut in a tightly covered kettle with water to cover. Cook slowly for two hours, adding water as necessary. Wash wieners and cut a tiny slice from each end. Add to kraut and cook an hour longer. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Cut in milk to make a soft dough. Drop by teaspoonsuls onto the kraut, cover tightly and cook 20 minutes. Serve at once.

This dish provides starch in the dumplings, mineral salts in the kraut, protein and fat in the meat and adds bulk to the meal. A nourishing cream soup and a substantial dessert round out the menu. Brown or entire wheat bread should be used.

Sauerkraut and Potatoes

One pound kraut, 4 potatoes, butter, salt and pepper, ¼ cup cracker crumbs.

Boil and mash potatoes. Season with salt, pepper and butter. Cook kraut for thirty minutes and drain. Put a layer of kraut in a buttered baking dish. Dot with bits of butter and cover with a layer of potatoes, continue alternating layers of kraut and potatoes until all is used. There should be equal parts of kraut and potato. Cover with cracker crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes.

This is another method for preparing kraut with potatoes. The potatoes rather alleviate the kraut flavor, making a really palatable dish.

Kraut and Potatoes II.

One tablespoon lard, 1 pint kraut, 2 cups seasoned mashed potatoes, buttered bread crumbs.

Melt lard in a deep kettle, add kraut and cook for 30 minutes. Put kraut in a buttered baking dish, dot with butter and add a layer of seasoned mashed potatoes. Continue layer for layer of kraut and potatoes until all is used. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

Plain Cooked Kraut

One tablespoon butter or lard, 1 quart sauerkraut, ½ cup vinegar, 1 pound pork, bacon, ham or sausage, water, flour.

Melt butter or lard in a kettle, add half the kraut, then the meat and cover with remaining kraut. Add vinegar and about the same amount of water, cover closely and cook slowly two and one-half hours. Remove meat and sift in from one to two tablespoons flour. Stir and cook half an hour longer. Return meat to kettle to be sure it's very hot and serve.

A few slives of onion are sometimes added to the karut during the cooking.

NURSING THE INFANT

(Article II)

If mothers follow the plan of carefully using a regular schedule for nursing periods, much better results, both in infant growth and contentment as well as the condition of the mother in well, nutritional breasts and normal milk supply, will follow. In many hospitals and community homes, where regular time period feedings have been carefully carried out, the following plan has been found most satisfactory:

In infants of eight pounds and above, five to six nursings in 24 hours.

In infants between seven and eight pounds, six nursings in 24 hours.

In infants between five and seven pounds, seven nursings in 24 hours.

In infants below five pounds, seven or eight nursings in 24 hours.

A well-developed, healthy, thriving nursing baby should, under ordinary condition, go through the night (from 10 p. m. to 6 a. m.) without being fed.

Nursing mothers will do well to try and put this program in use at the earliest possible time. Don't delay, as the longer you put it off the more difficult it will be to induce baby to think well of it. Of course, undeveloped, premature or delicate babies must have a more carefully determined nursing period under physician's orders.

Carefully comparing averages through a period of three years, I find that the average infant usually takes, while nursing in the first two or three weeks, from six to ten ounces a day. After this time, there is a marked increase. The rule seems fairly constant that the baby should receive of breast milk, in each 24 hours, two times as many ounces as his weight in pounds.

This will necessitate the weighing of the infant each day, to correctly determine the proper growth in weight. The well-being of your baby depends on the amount of food digested and assimilated, not on the amount fed.

Wean infants on the completion of the ninth month.

GAVE AN ADDRESS AT GEORGE STREET

Rev. Archie Wallace Gave Interesting Talk on the Next Generation.

"The Next Generation" was the subject of an extremely interesting address delivered at George Street Methodist Church last evening by Rev. Archie Wallace, of Toronto, associate editor of Sunday school periodicals in the Methodist Church. A good audience was assembled for Rev. Mr. Wallace's lecture, which was a happy combination of wit, pathos and common-sense. Preceding the address, two heartily-encored musical numbers, a violin selection by Master Arnold Spencer and a whistling solo by Mignon Mayneord, were given. Rev. W. H. Young acted as chairman.

Dividing his discourse into four headings, Rev. Mr. Wallace spoke first of the next generation as one which would express its religious aspirations in terms of everyday living. The present trend of the day, one which would come to a head, he thought, in the next generation, was to get away from orthodox jargon in spiritual manifestations, and put into everyday practice the underlying tenets of religious teaching. Religion expressed in concrete ways, such as the work done by the Rotary and Kiwanis organizations, was the aim of the growing youth.

More of the element of brotherhood and less of controversy would be stressed in the lives of the coming generation, said the speaker, who regarded the present-day discord between Fundamentalists and Modernists as the last spasm of a dying age, when minor things held men and women apart from consideration of the great major beliefs of life. Rev. Mr. Wallace considered the modern arguments over trivialities as a hangover from the Dark Ages when men went armed to the teeth to theological councils, determined to fight their way, if necessary, in upholding their own opinions.

More study and consideration of the importance of child life and its welfare would be noticed in the coming generation also. The clear tendency of the present day was to recognize the paramount necessity of so training and moulding the growing life of the age as to make the child of to-day the upright citizen of the morrow.

The next generation would be one when war would be done away with. The tremendous cost of war and the folly of it would be impressed on the youth of the age to such an extent that they would realize their obligations in seeing that disputes between nations should be solved by international adjustments rather than by the might of the sword. That the last war was a war to end all future wars had been ingrained in the fibre of the men who gave their lives to realize such an ideal. The speaker mentioned in scathing terms a certain Toronto newspaper, which went out of its way to sneer at the League of Nations, and said that, while it was possible that no human agency could be perfected that would be enabled to solve the problem of wars to satisfaction, yet any such agency that aimed at improved present conditions should receive loyal support.

BIG BUSINESS IN CHEESE

At a meeting of the executive of United Co-operative, Limited, held in Peterborough recently, the reports presented covering last year's work showed that the company had done the biggest business since its organization in 1920. At the company's new warehouse in Belleville, 33,560 boxes of cheese were sold last season, worth $583,355.00. These sales were in addition to the large quantities of cheese sold at Montreal. The total sales of the company for the year were $1,617,043.00. These sales were over $200,000.00 greater than for 1922.

The factories in the central Ontario district, which last year sold co-operatively, including some 10 factories in Peterborough county, have averaged about 1-2c. a lb. more for the season, than the factories which sold on the Madoc, Stirling, Campbellford and Peterborough Cheese Boards. Reports presented at the annual meetings of the different factories during the past couple of months have shown that the factories that sold on the cheese boards averaged from 18.50c to 19.12c a lb. for the season. The factories which sold co-operatively have averaged from 19.29 to 19.87c a lb.

Salesmen for a number of the cheese factories which sold on the cheese boards have been asking why the co-operative factories received so much better prices. One reason was because some 5,000 boxes sold co-operatively were graded as specials and sold for extra prices. Quite a few of the Peterborough factories that sold co-operatively had cheese that graded as specials. None of the factories which sold on the cheese boards had any cheese graded as specials. At meeting held in Stirling last week, salesman for one of the factories that sold on the Stirling Board, asked the Government Grader, Mr. Jas. Irwin, why the co-operative cheese had so many specials, while the factories which sold on the cheese boards did not. Mr. Irwin replied that it was largely because the cheese sold co-operatively were shipped into cold storage at Belleville and kept there at a low temperature from one to three days before they were graded. Because of this they were in the best possible condition when graded. He stated that a considerable quantity of the cheese sold on the cheese boards was graded in the cars or in warehouses lacking cold storage. They were, therefore, not in such condition for grading.

A considerable number of factories which sold on the cheese boards last year have voted to sell co-operatively this year. Last Saturday the patrons of two Peterborough county factories, Killarney, near Norwood, and Cedardale, of Lakehurst, voted to sell co-operatively this year. Both these factories sold on the Peterborough cheese board last year. The Killarney factory is one of the best in the province. It has a cold curing room and last year made 185,000 lbs. of cheese. It was the largest factory selling on the Peterborough Board last season.

MUCH MARRIED MAN SOUGHT BY POLICE

Bruce Chambers of Peterboro' is Wanted on Several Charges -- Eloped With Maid.

Bruce Chambers of Peterboro' is wanted by the police on charges of theft and forgery, with perhaps bigamy and wife desertion as additional grounds of complaint. Ten days ago the police claim, he left his wife in Peterboro and fled the city with another woman.

Chambers, it is said, was married in France while overseas with the Canadian forces, but did not bring his wife to Canada. In 1922 he was again married in Peterboro, his present wife, of course, being ignorant of the French marriage.

On Thursday, January 10, he left home with Edith Dibble, a maid in one of the city's leading houses. The report was received by the police, and a general call has now been sent out for apprehension.

Chambers is 25 years of age and well built. He is marked in the police description by a shrapnel wound on his left cheek and an accurate description of him has been forwarded to the principal centres.

Edith Dibble, with whom it is said he left the city, is 20 years of age and is two inches taller than Chambers. She wore a long fawn coat, a black coon collar and a large hat.

The alleged elopment was made on a Canadian National train 94, on leaving here at 9 o'clock for Port Hope. Single tickets were purchased and the trail is now being followed from Port Hope to any of the hundred places where the couple might have reached by a main line train from Port Hope at 3 o'clock in the morning.

ALL WORK AND NO PLAY MAKES JACK A DULL BOY

Not having seen any letters from this thistley section of the globe, and as I am a subscriber, I take the liberty to set down a few of my private views.

I have read the "Practical Discussions" pages with a good deal of interest and sometimes amusement. Optimist, in a late issue, seemed to have great confidence in his ability to make money of his farm. From all appearances he wrote that letter the day before he got married, or perhaps the day after he won sweepstakes for pumpkins at his village fair. However, if any young fellow just starting up on a farm put faith in everything Optimist said, his hopes will be somewhat shortlived.

Last night I read that "Grandfather" said his ten-year-old grandson plowed as fast as he did himself. But he is not the only man who makes the mistake of working a young boy too hard. I suppose he meant it was a sulky plow, but even then it is a man's job to drive one of them this time of year.

Many a boy only half through public school never knows what it is to have a half hour of spare time when he is at home. Give the boy a chance and let him have his proper growth. Let him do a certain amount of work, but don't keep him always at it. The pity of it is that the boy, not his task-master, has to suffer the consequences when he is older. Remember, it is not natural for a boy to be always working, like his father. I know of at least one man who has always made a slave of himself, and although only a comparatively young man, he has seen his best days. His two young boys are heading in the same direction, only a little faster, if possible.

Now, I would like to say an earful to my brother boys (as I am only seventeen) who are thinking of starting out for their own. Decide what trade you would like best to follow. If you like farming, why farm, whether there is much money in it or not. When you plan your career don't consider money at all. Everyone knows what sort of work he likes best to do. That is the work for him to do. Don't go at a trade you don't like just for the sake of big money. In my opinion, money is no good to one unless it has been fairly earned.

In these times most farmers do a lot more work than they get paid for. Almost any other tradesman gets pay for three times as much work as he does. Nowadays, it seems to be the natural thing for the farmer to stand the loss of the other fellow. If things continue in the way they are now I can't make out how the farmer is to keep things going. His claims for justice are ignored by those in authority. They put the price of his products down and keep them down. The price of what he has to buy goes up and continues to go up. But it doesn't come down, no matter how high it goes. At least it hasn't yet. But wait. All the people in the cities, including young men by hundreds who have left the farm, must be fed. That food comes from the farm. When the farm is done where does the food come from then? That's when the few farmers will have the chance to make their own terms, and if they don't make their own terms they'll be no further ahead. It is all right to tell the farmer not to let the other fellow bully him, but I can't yet see how he can do as he would best like to.

The Alterer of Habits

FRANK STOCKTON wrote a tale about a monarch who relied on an official called the "Discourager of Hesitancy." This officer's task was to prod folks who dallied over important decisions.

Modern advertising likewise fosters prompt and judicious decisions. But advertising might better be called the "Alterer of Habits." It brings many changes to pass. And these changes are for the better—always.

Advertising has revolutionized the personal habits as well as the buying habits of the nation. It has elevated our standards of living. It has made us eat better, sleep better and dress better. It has added countless comforts and conveniences to the daily life of each one of us.

Advertising has taught us how to find the best buys in almost everything imaginable without indulging in the needless habit of "shopping around." It tell us just where and when to go for what we want and how much to pay. It lets us compare prices and qualities without even stirring from our homes. It vouchafes our money's worth.

ANNUAL MEETING OF Y. M. C. A.

The annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association was held on Friday evening in connection with the regular Association Hour.

Supper was served at 6.30.

Mr. J. F. H. Wallace presided during supper and the first part of the evening, Mr. G. A. Gillespie, president, presided during the business meeting.

Report of Nominating Committee

The Nominating Committee recommended that the retiring directors be appointed for the customary term of three years.

The following are the Directors whose terms expire at the present time: Messrs. J. J. Turner, W. A. Richardson, J. Wearing, E. B. Fowler, H. R. H. Kenner, B. D. Hall.

Report of General Secretary, Annual Meeting, Jan. 18, 1924.

Mr. Chairman, Directors and Members:

The year that has just closed has proved to be in many ways the most difficult that we have experienced for some time. The Association has felt the result of the depression in business as well as the business organizations generally, however, there were many things accomplished which should be encouraging to us all, and viewing the year as a whole we should be grateful for the many things, for the loyal support of the directors, committee-men, members and friends.

This report will cover the following departments: Religious work, social activities, educational work, finance, Ladies' auxiliary finance. A report of the Physical and Boys' Department will be presented separately.

Organization

During the year two of the Directors resigned, Mr. H. B. Cowan and Mr. E. Worth. Mr. V. Eastwood and Mr. L. D. W. Magie were appointed by the Directors to succeed Mr. Cowan and Mr. Worth.

The janitor and the matron of the association resigned in July and Mr. and Mrs. George McKee were engaged. The efficient work of Mr. and Mrs. McKee is greatly appreciated by the staff and the Directors.

The Membership Committee which was formed in the fall of 1922 was materially assisted during the year under the leadership of Mr. G. D. Carlisle.

The Social Committee under the chairmanship of Mr. J. F. H. Wallace has rendered good service during the year.

An Educational Committee of which Mr. H. R. H. Kenner is chairman, was formed in the fall and was instrumental in starting a class in Junior Matriculation.

Religious Work

The Sunday afternoon meetings during the year has a total attendance of 798. The success of the Sunday evening meeting was greatly helped by the devoted service of Mr. Fred Chenhall and the orchestra.

The newly-organized Friday evening meeting at the supper-hour had a total attendance of 408, an average of 45 per meeting. The addresses at these meetings were either of a definite religious character or inspirational nature. The attendance for the Sunday afternoon meetings and Friday night meetings was 1106. The Boys' Bible Classes during the year had an attendance of 506, and the boys religious meetings had an attendance of 204 making a grand total for men boys at religious meetings of 1846.

Social Activities

The social committee undertook the raising of the budget asking for namely $200.00 and considerably helped the directors in the spring financial canvass with the result that considerable more than the amount of budget was raised by their co-operation. The committee was responsible for the purchasing of the moving picture machine which has proved to be a valuable help in the work of the association. Weekly moving picture shows during the spring and fall season were attractive features in both the men and the boys' departments. Three splendid feature pictures were put on during the year with a fine attendance.

A snowshoe party for seniors and one for the Collegiate Club was held. New Year's a program with music and refreshments was undertaken with an attendance of 150. A banquet was held for the educational classes at the conclusion of their season. It was attended by 25 students. The membership banquit was held in October for the championship baseball players were guests, was attended by 219. The Chicago baseball team was entertained during their recent visit, the total attendance at these various functions was 493.

Educational

The Salesmanship and Public Speaking classes organized late 1922 came to a successful conclusion last spring. Ten classes of each of these courses held total attendance of 45 in the salesmanship and 192 in the public speaking. Enrolled in the public speaking class was 22.

Mr. R. H. H. Kenner accepted the position of chairman of the newly-organized educational committee. This committee set up the program for the educational work for the winter session making a Junior Matriculation class the main feature. This course was well received and 17 enrolled in the classes, some of these students took one or two subjects, owing to difficult conditions a number of these students have discontinued the course, being owing to the nature of the work was to be expected, for such a course calls for a very considerable sacrifice and demands perseverence, on the part of the student. Classes in Public Speaking, Salesmanship and Business Letters and Reports were offered but not enough students were secured in o any of these to justify the conducting of classes. The Association, however is ready at any time to promote classes of any when justified by a demand for them.

Finance

At the beginning of 1923 the Association carried a deficit of between 500 and 600 dollars with some subscriptions outstanding, which were counted as assets. During the year there has been some shrinkage in these subscriptions so that a considerable handicap was placed upon the work of the Association for the year.

The fuel costs were higher than usual, partly owing to the practice of heating the swimming pool as well as owing to the cost of fuel being higher. The membership for the year practically remains constant while it was expected that the membership for the year would be increased.

The dormitories were not filled at all times during the year. Owing to these conditions therefore a deficit which was expected to be wiped out has not been reduced and in fact has increased to approximately $100. To offset this a permanent equipment and furnishing has been added at a cost of over $400.00.

The financial outlook for the year 1924 is encouraging. Every department will be made to operate the Association most economically and strenuous attempts will be made to increase revenue so that it is at the next annual meeting we will be confident that we may present a balanced budget. The experiences in two or three other Associations might be of interest. Toronto Associations during the last two years have accumulated a debt of $25,000i During their canvass during last week this was included in the amount to be raised and $130,000.00 was assured. This result should be a great encouragement to other Associations as an indication of returning confidence in business circles. Montreal, Guelph and Orillia have been forced to make drastic reductions in their staff and the Western Associations are at the present time in a very serious condition. In the face of these facts we should be encouraged when we think of our financial situation.

Ladies' Auxiliary

Ladies Auxiliary have served the Association throughout the year with splendid devotion and have assisted materially in the work of supplying needed equipment for the dormitories and kitchen as well as in the provision for the Friday evening supper. The service of the ladies is gratefully acknowledged.

In conclusion, as General Secretary, I would like to thank the other members of the staff for loyal co-operation and devoted service, especially in the promotion of the Friday evening supper hour has this been apparent. Mr. Loomis and Mr. McNeely have both taken the keenest interest and fullest responsibility in the outstanding feature of the work for this year. I also wish to express a deep sense of appreciation to the Board of Directors for their generous co-operation and their sympathetic attitude during the trying period through which we have just passed.

Let us look forward with optimism to the new year before us and, with faith, courage and hard work on the part of all seek to make 1924 a record year in the Association work in Peterborough.

Report of Boy's Work

The Board of Directors, Y. M. C. A., Peterborough, Ont.

Gentlemen: The report following is designed to convey to the board of directors and members of this association a survey covering all phases of activities carried on in the boys' division during the year 1923. Statistics are avoided except where they are necessary in order to ensure the proper idea of work being done by your boys' work committee in conjunction with the boys' work secretary.

At its best a report of this nature is wholly inadequate to properly carry a true impression of the work being done in the boys' division. Herein we may only list the program of events carried through, with perhaps the addition of some comment from the adult point of view. We cannot place a true value upon our contacts with boys in all parts of the city. No system has as yet been devised which can accurately record the results of the study with a boy of his own problems; the discipline enforced by the value he places upon his membership in the association; the friendly word to a boy as he passes in and out of the building and the direction of that boy's life into channels of useful citizenship. Without doubt the responsibility facing workers with boys is no small one.

The policy of the department remains unchanged. We have placed ourselves on record as being desirous of co-operating with every agency doing or attempting constructive work with boys. To this end we have been able to answer the call from certain city churches for help which experience enables us to render. We have provided special speakers and in one instance provided direct leadership in the reorganization of one of our Sunday schools. In other city-wide affairs we have played our part as one of the units. During the election to the Provincial Boys' Parliament the association acted as a clearing house prior to election day and was then the northern polling booth. To individual members of Rotary and Kiwanis who are entrusted with the oversight of a particular boy we have been happy to render assistance and advice where necessary. The association is one of the co-operating units of the newly-formed Peterboro' Boys' Work Board and as such will have a direct voice in community work, in addition to the programme carried on in our own building.

One phrase in the policy governing the work of your boys' section is worty of note. "No boy under the age of 17 years, who is at school will be permitted to make use of the association after 6.00 p. m., except on Friday or Saturday evenings. Exceptions may be made in favor of employed boys when the secretary has interviewed the parent or guardian of the boy." This clause is rigidly adhered to and as a result we have the confidence of the teaching staff of the city.

The membership of the boys' division embracing beginners, juniors and intermediates, at this time constitutes a tide mark for your present secretary's tenure of office and perhaps for the association's history. We have now 262 members divided as follows: Beginners 106, juniors 90, intermediates 66.

The report of the religious department will cover Bible study as carried on among the boys of the association. The report of the physical department will also cover the spring swimming campaign in which we have an integral part. Supplementing the former mentioned report it may here be noted that in our annual Bible study examinations held last spring nine boys received 70% or over. The boys are preparing now for a similar examination.

Two addresses, emphasizing the world-wide scope of the Y. M. C. A. were given in the department during the fall term by W. R. Cook, of the National Council, and Frank V. Slack, student secretary of India and Ceylon. To date the boys have responded to the appeal on behalf of the boys of other less favored lands by contributing $35 to the Foreign Work Budget of India.

Our boys' camp was conducted as usual during the early part of July at the Rotary camp on Clear Lake. Thirty-two boys were on hand this year. Report of this feature has been made in detail to the boys' committee.

We are making excellent use of the motion picture machine purchased in the appropriation of this year. Weekly programmes are given in the boys' department with an average of about 95 boys per week. In addition we have served certain churches with special programs and featured a lobby presentation of the sacred picture, "From the Manger to the Cross," on Sunday, January 30th. At the military camp you rsecretary, under the direction of Mr. Loomis, provided a movie program for the men under canvas.

In concluding this report it is desirous that we call again the attention of the members to the fact that this can only touch the work which goes on from day to day. Our contacts are with boys who are pulsating with energy and provide each one an interesting study. For another year we may be enabled to carry on this enterprise of moulding character in the youth of today.

Respectfully submitted,
J. E. SMITH,
Chairman Boys' Committee.
F. G. McNEELY,
Boys' Work Secretary.

Mr. Barrie moved a vote of thanks, seconded by Mr. J. E. Smith, to the staff. Mr. E. B. Fowler moved a vote of thanks to the ladies' auxiliary for their valued services to the association. There were 39 members present, including 12 directors. The meeting was closed with prayer by the general secretary.

Physical Department

The Hexathlon or Indoor Athletic Championship was trained for during classes of the winter term and was officially conducted uring March last. When the results were published Peterborough was found to have attained seventh place among associations of similar size in North America.

The Public School swimming campaign for all non-swimmers, irrespective of association membership, found 106 boys registered for instruction. These were divided into classes and in so far as possible individual instruction was given. A satisfactory proportion were able to swim at the conclusion of the course. At the same time a course of life saving was organized for seniors. Land drills were successfully carried through but lack of strength and depth of our plunge curtailed water instruction and practice.

At the military camp the physical director supervised physical and social programmes for the men under canvas.

City championships were conducted in track and field events by the physical department of the Y. M. C. A. who also provided shields for first and second place in each contest.

Our tennis courts had the most successful year in many. Schedules of doubles and singles were played off with 32 members in former and 28 in latter.

The physical committee and director co-operated with the P. A. A. A. in the conducting of the road race on Thanksgiving Day. The association building was used as headquarters before and during the race. Dressing-room and shower privileges were provided all runners.

As a part of our programme of community service the association provided a room for the meetings of the church hockey league executive, and had as a member of the executive your physical director.

The following statement of gymnasium attendance is published for the information of the board of directors and members of the association.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 12, 1924.
The Editor.

Dear Sir: It was with particular gratification I read in The Examiner of the manner in which the ratepayers endorsed the stand taken by those who were in favor of a combined school. After working for it for six years as I did while in Peterborough it is very pleasant to see that at last you have the people behind you. I do not like to single out individuals but Mrs. Morris is worthy of praise for the strenuous manner in which she kept the question before the people in all seasons.

The ratepayers are also to be praised for their choice in the office of mayor. They have got a man whose integrity is unquestioned and whose intellectual and social attainments are of the highest. They will be proud of him when he represents them at any great function.

The selection for the council was not great but the men that are there are a pretty levelheaded lot. Wishing the city all prosperity during the coming year, I am,

Yours truly,

DR. GANDIER AND CHURCH UNION.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir: Dr. Gandier has issued another pastoral letter on Church Union. May I note a few points.

1. The opening paragraph of that letter is a misstatement. Dr. Gandier in referring to somebody's request for another vote, says that the people voted "at the only time when, according to our Constitution, they could vote, viz., before action was taken by Presbyteries under the Barrier Act." That statement that the people voted before the question was sent to Presbyteries under the Barrier Act is simply not a fact. The question, in spite of protest, was sent down to Presbyteries under the Barrier Act before ever the people were given an opportunity to vote. See Assembly Minutes, 1910, 1911. And when it was finally sent down to the people, their vote was unfairly influenced and handicapped by the previous vote of the Presbyteries under the Barrier Act.

"According to our Constitution" there is no time when either Presbyteries or people have a right to vote the Presbyterian Church out of existence, or drive others out of it who wish to remain in it. The Constitution of the Church has no provision, either in the Barrier Act or any other Act, for its own extinction. The whole coercive procedure in re "Church Union" is unconstitutional and illegal.

2. Dr. Gandier repeats the time-worn fiction that three thousand congregations have already gone into Union on the faith that the Churches were pledged to Union. Where are these three thousand congregations? Who ever saw them? How many of them are known to any reader of these lines? Take up the Statistical Tables in the Assembly Minutes and see how many—or rather how few—of the congregations are now missing that were there a dozen or twenty years ago. In some districts one or other of the Denominations has withdrawn and needless overlapping has been eliminated. But Official Reports a few months since gave a total of only fifty-five Independent union charges in all Canada, and these fifty-five are free to remain independent, or to form any connection they may desire. This worn out fiction of "three thousand congregations" is a monstrous misrepresentation of the facts.

3. Dr. Gandier asks "whether our Church is to be untrue to covenants solemnly made with others"—and he states "There are some things the Presbyterian Church in Canada does not do, and one of them is to ask questions of herself or of any one else as to whether she is to keep faith or not."

The Presbyterian Church in Canada never pledged herself to any such covenants with others. A few men in Church Courts, Dr. Gandier and others, who had no manner of right to do so, and on a vote of less than one-third of the membership, attempted to rob the people of their freedom, called themselves the Church, resolved to wipe out the Church and drive its membership into a new Church or onto the street, and notified the other Churches of that resolve. But they had no more right to "resolve" others out of the Church than they had to resolve them out of house and home. If Dr. Gandier and others consider themselves pledged to other Churches, let them go and fulfill all they had a right to pledge and that is themselves.

But Dr. Gandier carefully omits to mention his own unkept faith and the breach of faith which he is attempting to force upon the Church, the failure to keep covenant with our own people, the disregard of the unanimous covenant of the Assembly and its declaration to the people in 1905 that Union "must carry the consent of the entire membership"; and the similar unanimous covenant and declaration in 1912 as to "practically unanimous action. These are the Covenants with which all are bound to "keep faith" and which Dr. Gandier, while discoursing on "keeping faith" treats as "scraps of paper."

4. Dr. Gandier's letter treats with thinly veiled contempt the many thousands who believe it their duty and have declared it their purpose to remain in their own Church. It says in substance and effect that their convictions of duty and right are not worth heeding and will soon disappear; that they will all fall in. This shows the Presbyterians' convictions and his estimate of themselves and their character as ready to give up their convictions.

Statements like those of Dr. Gandier given above and other similar statements in his letter, equally misleading and foreign to fact, while painful to think of and speak of in connection with the Church of Christ, show the nature of the obsession miscalled "Union" and the lengths and depths to which its advocates are sometimes led. No wonder the people in ever growing numbers are turning against it as they learn to know it for what it really is.

May this evil spirit of ambition for worldly bigness, and its twin spirit of illegal, unchristian coercion soon be cast out, and the Sister Churches of Canada be free as heretofore to go forward side by side, in their work for the Kingdom of God.

E. SCOTT.
Montreal, January 17, 1924.

To the Editor of THE EXAMINER.

Sir: Mr. Grierson has written a very readable letter against the germ-theory of disease and the prevailing treatment by vaccination, inoculation, etc. He contends that it is the disease that produces the germ and not the germ the disease. How could that be? Let us know.

If Mr. Grierson studied the blood under a high-powered microscope he would see for himself. He would see that what was not suspected until a German discovered it and until Pasteur applied it, that the micro-organisms called germs are in the air in some places and times sometimes more and sometimes less. He would see as in yellow fever that the yellow fever swamp mosquito carries poison and poison germs, and injects them into the human body. Then that body has yellow fever and not till then.

If Mr. G. is right he must deny a plain fact like that. Then take epidemics. Does he deny that people may catch diseases from others though not in contact? I hope not. What does nature do in these cases? She herself manufactures an anti-toxin or poison-killer, a neutraliser, a destroyer, and vaccinates the patient with it. If he is not taken by surprise with a perfect avalanche of these unwelcome poison-producers or germs she can manufacture enough anti-poison to kill the poison and save the patient.

It is to prevent nature's being taken by surprise that inoculation and vaccination (the same thing) are practised. Nature gets warning and if given a fair chance will beat off the poison-producers by her own anti-toxin. The microscope and chemistry show all that. There is no doubt about it at all. And when a new germ is discovered with its peculiar poison new anti-toxin is made to help nature or may get get hold of her. But I agree with Mr. G. about scares. I think they are not only overdone but very dangerous, and anti-toxins are sometimes impure and worse than the disease.

READER.

P.S.—If Mr. G. will get a culture medium he may demonstrate the whole drama for himself in his back kitchen instead of in his children.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Earton

MISTER SPRIGG GOES TO SLEEP

"Well, well, well!" he exclaimed.

"There is one person we must go to see before Mother Goose comes home, children," said Daddy Gander to the Twins, "and that is the Crooked Man."

"Where does he live?" asked Nick.

"At the corner of Crooked Land and Zig-Zag Street," answered Daddy "And his house is so crooked that when you enter the front door you can see yourself coming out of the back door."

"Oh, Daddy Gander, I don't believe that," laughed Nancy.

"Well!" Daddy Gander shook his head. "Maybe it isn't quite so bad, but it's almost. Anyway, we have to go and see him and help him to clean house before Mother Goose comes home. He spills so many ashes out of his pipe it's dreadful, and his porch rugs get so dusty you could plant corn in them."

Pretty soon they arrived at the Crooked Man's house and went tatt-tat-tat on his crooked front door.

"Well, well, well!" the Crooked Man exclaimed. "I'm just as glad to see you as if you were Santa Claus. Thomas Stout and I were just having an argument and perhaps you can help us out."

"What was it about?" asked Daddy Gander, hanging his high hat on the crooked hatrack.

Nancy and Nick sat down on crooked little stools to listen.

"Thomas here says that the Man in the Moon couldn't possibly burn his mouth on pease porridge if it was cold," said the Crooked Man.

"No more he could!" declared Mister Stout with a wag of his head. "It's ridiculous to speak of such a thing."

"Well, I argue," went on the Crooked Man, "that it could be stony cold and yet be full of pepper. And that would certainly burn his mouth. Or, he may have put mustard in it—or chili-sauce or—"

"Tush! Tush!" interrupted Thomas. "There you go again, my friend! Chili-sauce would only make it more chilly. How could he possibly burn his mouth on that?"

"Oh, pshaw! You can't argue at all!" said the Crooked Man.

"I know a riddle," said Nancy suddenly. "What can go down the chimney down and up the chimney down, but can't go up the chimney up or down the chimney up?"

Well, they guessed everything, but nobody could get the right answer.

"An umbrella!" declared Nancy.

Everybody had forgotten about the Man in the Moon and whether he could or couldn't burn his mouth.

"I guess we'll be going!" said Daddy Gander.

And do you know, it was half past nine that night before he remembered about helping the poor Crooked Man to clean his house.

"Gun Saved His Soul" Says Mother Despite Son's Arrest

For, though police are holding her son Deszo on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and attempted burglary—

She knows he is innocent—

Because last summer she shot him "to save his soul from a life of crime" and is positive he learned a lesson in righteousness from the experience.

Spartan Mother

It was Mrs. Simiz, who, as Chicago's Spartan mother, made first experiments in bullets as last-resort persuaders in turning back footsteps straying the primrose path.

Filial obedience she commanded through the crackle of gunplay, and with her son lying wounded at her feet, she received unshaken belief that never more would he venture into the byways or occasions of sin.

Today this confidence in a lesson well learned is so positive that the little woman excoriates officials who have Deszo booked for trial and persists in corroborating his allegations of a "frameup."

After he was shot the wound in the boy's body subsequently healed.

MRS. ROSE SIMIZ.

"Tough Kid," Police Say

But official observers in the local psychopathic hospital where he has been temporarily committed for observation judge Deszo simply an "average tough kid" who has relapsed once more with soul as seared as ever.

"The gun police found on him was given to Deszo in payment for a debt," the little woman in broken English still redolent of her native Hungary says.

"And he was waiting for a street car when they arrested him. So how could he have been planning a robbery?

"I know he is without guilt. Last summer he learned his lesson. I taught him—when it happened—when he was hurt.

"But there is nothing I can do. Not now. All my life I have tried. Nothing does any good.

"Except—" and here she faltered—"Deszo may keep strong and in the right if he sees us believing in him and trying to help him in his trouble."

This last reflection seemed to bring her happiness. And for just a brief moment the slightest suggestion of a weary smile crept over her face only to vanish a moment later as her courage waned and tears welled up in eyes that bespoke torture and blighted hope.

VERSES THAT WILL NEVER DIE

The following lines simply and forcibly put the power of fog to limit the highest human powers, and then apply the thought spiritually.

The mammoth liner raced ahead
To break the record of the deep
And reckless roared the furnace fires,
To force the engines' throb and leap.
And driven onwards through the waves
By might controlled by thought and skill,
The monster seemed an emblem fit
Of human enterprise and will.
But suddenly a fog descended,
And instantly its race was ended.
"Go slow! GO SLOW!"
The captain telegraphed below.

The sturdy climbers braved the heights
With alpenstock and mountain axe,
With guides that knew the safest path,
And food well stored in shouldered packs.
And climbing upwards from the plains,
With nerves of steel the risks to share,
These climbers seemed an emblem meet
Of hearts which anything would dare.
But suddenly a mist descended,
And instantly their climb was ended.
"Stand fast! STAND FAST!
For any step may be the last!"

It matters little what our powers
To overcome or undertake;
It matters little how we plan
Some record of our own to make.
Our planning may be skilled and wise,
Our courage greater than the rest,
Our headlong hurry to the end
Be urged with the supremest zest.
But when the fogs descend around us,
What better counsel can be found us?
"Go slow! GO SLOW!
Till clearer skies and scenes shall show."

Most headaches due to lack of internal cleanliness

WHEN you are constipated, poisons form in the accumulated food waste. These poisons, absorbed by the blood, are carried throughout the body. Headaches follow. Biliousness, sleepless nights, lack of energy, all result from constipation. Each of these takes away piecemeal something of your health and strength. In time, intestinal poisoning due to lack of internal cleanliness may cause the breakdown of some vital organ.

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

More Important Than Soap and Water

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Health and Happiness Reward Internal Cleanliness

Physicians Favor Lubrication

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

SURPRISE PARTY GIVEN TO NORTH MONAGHAN FOLKS

About Eighty of Their Friends and Neighbours Were Present at Gathering.

On Thursday evening last, a surprise party and miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James Finnie at their home in South Monaghan by about eighty of their friends and neighbors. The evening was spent in playing games and a short musical programme, which included an instrumental solo by Mrs. Jas. Lang, a vocal solo by L. Waterman and a duett by Mesdames Lang and Fisher, also several selections by the Bensfort Orchestra. At the close of the programme, Mr. Harold Beebee read the following address:

"Dear Jim and Delia.—We, your neighbors and friends, have gathered at your home this evening to offer our congratulations and best wishes for a long, useful and happy life. You will have the same ups and downs, joys and sorrows, that are common to all, but we know that through the long journey which you will travel together, the hand of God will sustain and direct you.

"It is a pleasure to us to gather once more in this hospitable home, to celebrate the founding of another new home.

"You have always enjoyed the affection, respect and esteem of the Monaghan people, the more so because of your early enlistment and your faithful and lengthy service for King and country in the Great War.

"We ask you to please accept these miscellaneous gifts as a slight token of our feeling for you."

Signed on behalf of the community: W. C. Wood, Lawrence Finnie, W. K. Huggins, G. L. Morrison.

KNIGHTS OF OLD WERE SMALL MEN.

Few Men Are Small Enough To-Day to Fit Into Armour of Middle Ages.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 22 (Associated Press).—Suits of armor worn by knights of old would fit tightly on the average high school lad of today. Few men now are small enough to squeeze into the coats of mail at the Museum of Art here.

Men of the Middle Ages must have averaged about 130 pounds in weight, believes William M. Milliken, curator of decorative arts, who also finds that rounded paunches did not thrive in the age of steel corselets—at least among the fighting men.

Workmen have just assembled the latest acquisition for the museum's armor room, a rare suit of mail for man and horse. It was worn by a gallant of the 16th century. Dents in the plates show the armor suffered lusty blows. Yet the wearer had a waist line of only 30 inches, collor 13 inches in circumference and would wear a No. 6 shoe in modern footwear.

"Virtually all medieval armor is correspondingly small," says Mr. Milliken. "In European galleries there is hardly a suit of mail that would fit the average sized man of today."

"Follies" Impresario Bans All Other Ad Media for Newspapers

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 21.—Value of newspaper advertising over any other form of publicity was emphasized by Flo Ziegfeld, of "Follies" fame, who declared that he has decided to abandon all forms of advertising except newspaper space.

"Years of experience in the show game have proven to me that newspaper advertising is the best medium," he declared. As a result, the "Zeigfeld Follies" will no more be advertised from bill-boards or other mediums so dear to the heart of the theatrical producer.

Her Quinsy Yields to Vicks

THE DIRECT ACTION OF A VAPORIZING SALVE IS BEST.

Mr. Joseph Haley of 199 West Milk Street, Brantford, Ont., says: "My wife has suffered with quinsy for years, but Vicks VapoRub must have prevented it for she got through the winter without a single attack. We sent part of a jar to a neighbor, whose boy was very sick with a cold or grip. He also got relief. Vicks surely should be in every home."

They used to treat cold troubles externally with tallow, goose grease and camphor. Recently, internal dosing has been the habit and people naturally doubt the value of a salve.

For this reason, Canadian druggists introduced Vicks VapoRub, the vaporizing salve for all cold troubles, by giving away dozens of samples to responsible families and every jar sold was on 30-day trial.

The above report is just one of the great many received from enthusiastic Canadian families. With such endorsement and a positive money-back guarantee, every household ought to give Vicks a thorough trial as the home remedy for croup, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, catarrh, neuralgia, cuts, burns, bruises and sores.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P. Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

Forty-six different boards and commissions have a right to tear up London's streets. One hundred and seventeen different authorities are responsible for the maintenance of the roads.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

There is a happy medium for the housewife to follow between costly "hand to mouth" buying and wasteful quantity purchasing.

For a small family, or if storage space is not of the best, it is poor policy to buy food products in large quantities. The loss in wastage is frequently more than the saving in the purchase price.

Not only will there be spoilage, but there may be more reckless use when a quantity of any product ie at hand. When there is a large amount of sugar, why save half a cupful?

Of course, for the family which has efficient storage space, a sale or other opportunity to buy produce cheaply at reduced prices is an opportunity to save money.

AMERICAN MINERS SEEK MORE WAGES.

Present Scale Expires on April 1—Demands Not Yet Formulated.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 22 (United Press).—Demands which will be presented at the conference to formulate the 1924 wage scale in the bituminous coal fields and plans for a concentrated effort to extend union power in the West Virginia fields were outstanding issues as John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, rapped the delegates to the miners' convention to order today.

That the miners will make a determined fight for a higher wage scale is regarded as certain. What their demands are to be depends on the attitude of the delegates as revealed on the floor of the convention.

The present wage scale expires April 1. Representatives chosen by the miners at the present convention will meet the operators of the bituminous fields at Jacksonville, Fla., on Feb. 11, to begin negotiations for the new scale.

The miners, with the threat of a strike as their greatest weapon in bargaining for better wages and working conditions, realize there is unusual power behind that weapon this year, with the presidential campaign just ahead and the knowledge that political expediency will urge a conciliatory attitude on the part of the administration in the veent of a strike.

Hope of the unions, however, as voiced by Ellis Searles, editor of the United Mine Workers' Journal, is for adoption of the new scale without resorting to a strike.

Union expansion, particularly in the West Virginia fields, was due for lengthy discussion by the convention.

The West Virginia mines with their huge tonnage produced by non-union labor, are a source of serious competition in normal times and the greatest point of weakness during a strike.

Coal dug by the non-union workers of West Virginia has underbid union coal in many sections of the country, it is admitted by union officials, because of the lower scale for which the non-union men labor.

The output of these mines during a walkout has been found by experience to be large enough to impair the effectiveness of the strike, at least temporarily.

Plans for a campaign to dominate the West Virginia fields are likely to be worked out at the present convention.

Word that Lewis and Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois district, had buried the hatchet indicated a greater degree of harmony than has marked some of the previous conventions, although insurgent factions always have formed in past conventions to challenge the power of Lewis.

The one issue in the convention so far as the general public is concerned, however, is the possibility of another strike or higher coal prices.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN THE MINERS' STRIKE

SYDNEY, Jan. 22. — (Canadian Press).—Marking time was the principal occupation of disputants in the Cape Breton coal situation this morning. Both seemed to expect some further action to come from Premier Armstrong, of the Federal authorities. There are no new developments.

Has Implicit Faith

Dreco's corrective properties make wonderful impression on Peterboro sufferer, convincing him of its true merit as a system builder. Health and strength return rapidly with Dreco's help.

Mr. Robert A. Bell, of 275 Sherwood street, Peterboro, gives his happy experience with Dreco, the famous herbal health builder. "My stomach, liver and bowels have given me no end of trouble during the past few years, and I could not get a thing that gave me any relief. My appetite was poor and my food would lie on my stomach like a lump of lead, making my stomach so sore that I could hardly stoop over. I would get such dizzy spells that some times I would have to catch hold of something to steady myself. I was also troubled with rheumatism across my shoulders and the shoulder blades

"Although I am only on my second bottle of Dreco, I am much improved already My appetite picked up from the very start until now I can eat most anything and very rarely do I feel any after effects The soreness has also gone from my stomach and those dizzy spells have ceased. The pains in my shoulders don't bother me nearly so much.

"Before taking Dreco my bowels seemed as though they were locked. I would have to take about four times the usual quantity of ordinary laxatives, but now I am regular every day.

"I am going to keep on with Dreco for a while as I feel I am now on the right road to recovery of my former good health."

Dreco will cleanse your system and strengthen all the vital organs of digestion. The action of its pure herb, root, bark and leaf juices assure this. Its work is accomplished in a natural, healthy way, because Dreco contains no mercury, potash, or habit forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge, and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you.

Dreco is also sold as follows:
Lakefield: E. H. Northey.
Campbellford: J. E Birks.
And by a good druggist everywhere.

Ontario Man's Pets Are Shot in South.

KINGSTON, N. C., Jan. 22 (United Press).—A certain amount of religion, an interesting experiment and a love for wild creatures are back of the wholesale banding of waterfowl's legs by a Kingston, Ontario, man who makes pets of geese and ducks and protects them on a private preserve near that place. Local persons are familiar with his hobby through the shooting of a number of the banded birds in Eastern California.

The bands carry inscriptions, giving the Canadian's postoffice address, box 48, Kingston, and scriptural quotations. Several ducks shot in the tidewater district of North Carolina in recent weeks have been identified as the pets of the Ontario man.

Millions of wild fowl come to this section from the north in the fall, and sportsmen declare it is impossible to detect the banded birds in the flocks around the edges of the sounds and rivers.

The Canadian provides an asylum for thousands of geese, ducks and brant in the summer months. There they breed and rear their young unmolested.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Jan. 21.—It was expected that Rev. W. R. McWilliams, returned missionary from Japan, would take charge of the classes on Foriegn Mission work at Bay of Quinte Winter School, but he was prevented from attending. His place was, however, very ably supplied by Rev. Mr. Albertson, Toronto, who went to a great deal of work by way of charts and other diagrams to make his addresses informative and also interesting. He was listened to with a great amount of interest and pleased attention, for Mr. Albertson put into his message inspiration and enthusiasm. He has spent seven useful years in the Mission fields of West China and is know home on furlough. In his addresses there was infused the invitation for youthful enthusiasts in the Master's service to take up the work and carry it on.

Home Missions

Each afternoon at the Winter School there was also an address on Home Missions, and this subject was ably taken up bnd treated by Rev. E. Harston, President of the School. With much excellence he showed the influence of Home Missions upon our national life and their part since pioneer days in building up a strong and good nation, and in helping to bind together the cosmopolitan life of the different nationalities that make up our fair Dominion. It is always a pleasure to hear Capt. Harston, and his treatment of the theme of Home Missions was marked by a practical knowledge of his subject.

Mr. Taylor Statten

Mr. Taylor Statten, the well-known boys' worker, is certainly an enthusiast in a good cause. His spirit of comradeship with the boys and young men makes him their hero, and they delight in his leadership. In C.S.E.T. and Tuxis work he led the boys and young men in excellent programs which they thoroughly enjoyed. Tonight, it is understood, he goes to Brighton to take part in "Boys Sunday" there, and is to address a union mass meeting in the Presbyterian church there tomorrow night.

Conference Representatives Speak

On Tuesday Rev. A. McLaughlin, Keene, Secretary of Bay of Quinte conference Young People's League, conveyed a message from that organization to the delegates of the Winter School.

On Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Ellis Snelgrove, Camborne, Vice-President of the Citizenship Department of the Bay of Quinte Conference League, gave an address on Citizenship.

On Thursday afternoon Miss Florence Hall, Wicklow, gave an address on Missionary Work, taking the place of the Conference Missionary Vice-President, Miss Hetherington, Millbrook, who was unable to be present.

On Friday afternoon Rev. W. H. Smith, Atherley, addressed the delegates,

President of Conference Here

Rev. R. A. Whattam, Colborne, President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, was here during the week to give his word of encouragement to the executive of the School and help on the good work.

Rev. C. C. Washington, Courtice, formerly of Baltimore, spent Wednesday here at the School.

Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, Brighton, spent the week in town, returning to Brighton tonight in order to take up his Sabbath duties there.

Rev. Manson Doyle

One of the most devoted and successful of the teachers at work among the students is Rev. Manson Doyle, to whom is assigned a practical subject, that of Young People's Leagues. During his hour the inspiration aroused and accentuated by the study of the Life of Christ, and his service in going about doing good, the study of religious education, etc., is crystallized and guided into useful avenues of service. Mr. Doyle's addresses are of much practical value to the young people.

A few of the delegates left for their homes today, but the majority are remaining until Monday so as to enjoy the special Sabbath services and the closing consecration service.

WORLD'S MOST EXCLUSIVE CLUB

LONDON, Jan. 22 (United Press).—London's most exclusive club was being organized.

Only those descended from kings are eligible for membership.

In a recent statement the organizing secretary, R. A. Bowers-Taylor, announced that applicants will be required to prove a royal descent from the Plantaganet line of kings, or from Scottish, Irish, or Welsh kings and princes.

The club is to be called the Plantaganet Club.

The Plantaganet dynasty ruled England for 300 years, but before the last member of the legitimate line was beheaded the family had a generally hard time. Numbers of them met violent deaths in the famous old Tower of London.

According to Mr. Bowers-Taylor, there are about 100,000 living descendants from the illigitimate children of the Mediaeval Plantaganets. Of this number about 100 have agreed to become members of the club.

"Some of the 100,000 may not be aware of their ancestry and even working as laborers," the secretary said. "Such persons are not desired as members of our club."

As soon as 850 members have been admitted headquarters, will be set up in London's exclusive West-end. The dining hall will be furnished, so far as possible, in the style of the Plantaganet period, with the club servants in the dress of the period.

Mr. Bowers-Taylor anticipates a rush for membership, seeing that nearly every Irishman is descended from a king, and that the family of Welsh kings and princes is large.

STEAL ASHES TO PREVENT FUNERAL.

Anarchist's Remains Had Position of Honor in the Labor Temple Until Stolen Under Muzzle of Gun.

TOKYO, Jan. 22 (United Press).—Radicalism in Japan was given a sharp impetus—although at present a suppressed one—many observers here believe, as a result of the Osugi affair.

Sakaye Osugi, anarchist, foremost Japanese radical, was choked to death, a couple of weeks after the earthquake, by a police captain named Amakasu. Osugi's wife and his 7-year-old nephew were strangled at the same time. The three were in jail, under Amakasu's charge. They had been arrested because Osugi was a "thinker of dangerous thoughts," as the police term here has it. Amakasu confessed that he murdered Osugi simply because he regarded it as a patriotic act to rid the country of radicals. The wife was murdered for the same reason. The child was choked—well, "just because," is about the only reason offered.

Amakasu was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment. Two non-commissioned officers assisted him in the murders. One was turned loose. The other was given three years' imprisonment.

When the sentence of ten years was pronounced upon Amakasu by the judge who, according to Japanese press reports, expressed sympathy with the defendant, a patriot in the audience threw his wooden "gets," or sandal, in the judge's face, shouting, "Bushido is dead!" "Bushido" was the code of honor of the knights of feudal Japan. Amakasu, according to this theory, had followed the code. He had simply stamped out an enemy of his social order.

The bodies of Osugi, his wife and the child were creamated, and the bones and ashes put into one big urn. That urn was taken to the Central Labor Headquarters in Tokyo, and placed upon a cheap, plain pine table, underneath a chromo of Karl Marx. This was the altar of Osugi the anarchist. There Japanese liberals and radicals came to memorialize his memory.

The Osugi followers and sympathizers had planned, a few days ago, to have a funeral for him. They intended taking the urn of bones and ashes from the Labor Headquarters to a memorial hall near Uyeno Park, there to have speeches and ceremonies and then to proceed to a cemetery and bury the remains.

But—somebody stole the bones. Naturally, that interferes somewhat with a funeral. The radicals made speeches, anyhow—many of them. There are some who think that the indignation of the liberals, now suppressed, will ultimately be manifested in stronger form.

On the morning of the funeral, three Japanese entered the Labor Headquarters' room, where friends of Osugi were kneeling before the urn of his bones and ashes. The leader asked permission to pay tribute to Isugi's memory. He advanced to the "altar," seized the urn, wheeled and whipped a revolver from his kimona. Brandishing the gun he shouted that he would shoot anyone who interfered. He passed the urn to one of the coolies, and retreated from the room, holding the liberals at bay with his pistol. Before he left he took a fancy shot at the picture of Karl Marx. Then the three got into a waiting automobile and escaped. They haven't been found—nor have the bones and ashes of Osugi.

LEFT SIDE OF ROAD SAID TO BE SAFER

Pedestrians on Country Highways Should Walk on Left Side.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22 (Associated Press).—Pedestrians on country highways will find greater safety by staying on their left-hand side, according to Percy E. Towne, chairman of the public safety committee of the California State Automobile Association. He is urging them to adopt this method of walking.

Mr. Towne sees the necessity for this in the increasing number of accidentsby vehicles approaching from the rear. The right side of the road is particularly dangerous at night, in his opinion, as motorists often are blinded temporarily by approaching headlights and fail to see pedestrians. The pedestrians, on the other hand, frequently assume that they are visible and do not look behind them. By walking on the left side, Mr. Towne points out, they face the approaching traffic and can stay out of its way.

At Mr. Towne's request Will C. Wood, state superintendent of schools, has issued a bulletin to public school principals asking them to instruct their pupils accordingly.

BLESSED ARE YE POOR

There is plenty of room for pessimism when we look on the man-ward side of things, but there is none when we look on the God-ward side. for wisdom and power and love are His and these things are there for us when we are earnest enough and desperate enough to lay hold of them, the best things are not to be won cheaply, we have to prove ourselves worthy by knowing ourselves to be unworthy and by one faith and importunity. Grace is for the humble, the weak, the needy, all God's promises are for such. Blessed are ye poor in spirit, ye that mourn, ye that are meek and who hunger and thirst after righteousness for ye shall be filled, and ye shall be comforted, and have within you the Kingdom of Heaven.

BOARD HEALTH GIVES ORDERS FOR CLEAN-UP

Sewage From Factories and Dwellings on River Front Must Be Disposed of in Sanitary Manner —G. H. Duncan Again Chairman.

MILK IS PURE

George H. Duncan was re-appointed Chairman of the City Board of Health at this morning's regular mecting with all the members present. The proposal was made by James Lynch and Claude Rogers.

Mr. Duncan welcomed His Worship Mayor Turner and Claude Rogers as new members of the Board.

The most important business this morning was the passing of a motion respecting the disposal of sewage in manufacturing plants and other places which now flood the waste matter into the river. Mayor Turner proposed, seconded by J. Lynch, that these firms and persons be informed that the flooding of sewage into the Otonabee must be discontinued and the sewage otherwise disposed of in a sanitary manner.

The question was raised by a communication from Dr. N. H. Sutton District Officer of Health, in which he mentioned the danger to swimmers and through contamination of the ice supply. C. Rogers brought up the question of the Quaker Oats plant. "Why is the Quaker Oats plant any different from the houses where we are making the people put in sewer connections?" he asked." The situation is absolutely disgusting" he added, referring to the condition of the eddies along the river bank.

Dr. Young said the condition at the Auburn factory would turn a visitor sick.

Isolation Hospital

Dr. Young said sewer connection is very necessary at the Isolation hospital. The city had been asked some time ago to open a street from the Protestant Home to the hospital and lay sewer connection, but the report of the City Engineer, that project would cost $2,000 was considered prohibitive. On motion of Messrs. Rogers and Young the City Engineer will be asked to report on the cost of a sewer connection at the present time.

Dr. Young reported that the following earthen closets have been done away with in the last five years, leaving about 1,000 in existence: 1919, 38; 1920, 52; 1921, 83; 1922, 125; and 1923 124.

More of these unsanitary closets would have been done away with, Dr Young said, if the Boards recommendations had gone through. "We have not sent any recommendations to the City Council without looking into them fully," he said, asking Mayor Turner not to turn down any more requests for sewer connection than he can help. In places where sewer connection is impossible because of the location septic tanks should be installed.

Mayor Turner promised he would help in every possible way.

Ice Reported Pure

Regarding contamination through the ice cut from Little Lake, Dr. Young said samples of the ice had been sent to the Provincial Laboratory in Toronto for test and had been reported to him, absolutely pure.

None of the wells tested in the city last year were found impure, the Medical Officer reported. Anyone owning a private well and desiring to satisfy himself as to the purity of the water may have it tested by notifying the Board of Health. A sample will be collected in special bottles by the Board and tested in the Provincial Laboratory free of charge.

Milk is also pure, Dr. Young said, and none dangerous to health has been delivered in the past year or possibly two.

Mayor Turner suggested that the milk test be taken monthly just previous to the meeting of the Board so that the report will be up-to-date. This will be attended to by Dr. Young.

Queen Mary Hospital

The report from the Isolation hospital shows that on January 1 there were 7 cases of scarlet fever in the institution. During 1923 there were 37 cases admitted, including 16 cases of scarlet fever, 13 of diphtheria, 1 of spinal meningitis, 6 of measles and 1 of erysipelas. Of these, 32 were city cases and 5 were country. Two deaths occurred during the year. One of these patients had been in the hospital only an hour and a half and the other had been there four days.

The Board of Health will meet at 10 a.m. on the third Tuesday in each month.

There were present: Chairman G. H. Duncan; Mayor J. J. Turner; James Lynch; Dr. T. W. H. Young; Claude Rogers and A. G. Metheral.

THE USE FOR A MAN

BY OWEN OLIVER

ILLUSTRATED BY CHAS. ARCIERI

The Scene an English Residency in a Far East Port—The Actors, an Englishman, a Prisoner Accused of Murder and Other Wild Adventures, Another Englishman in Whom Jealousy Burns Disastrously—and a Wonderful Girl.

FRANKLAND had knocked about the reckless parts of the English-speaking world till the age of thirty-five.

Then he took refuge in Morrocco over a matter of man-killing. True, the man deserved to be killed, but the English law against murder is not appeased by such considerations.

It would never have caught him in Morocco, however, but for a matter of a super-sheik's sister or wife. Frankland did not know which. The super-sheik sought for him diligently enough, and would have caught him in Morocco. So Frankland came down to Hajaba, the queer little port. Tunis way, and gave himself up at the English residency, to be sent home for trial for his prior offense. Orderly hanging was, he reasoned, the lesser of the evils which threatened him.

The Resident was greatly embarrassed by the presence of the huge, Moorish-clad fugitive within his gates and of the super-sheik and his wild followers and the snarling local mob without.

"It is touch and go whether they'll respect the Residency," he told the prisoner. "I don't care for myself, but—dash it all!—I've my sister here."

"If they threaten to attack your place," Frankland said, "I'll give myself up, of course; but I think they'll respect the old flag."

They did respect it, and merely urged legal and diplomatic reasons for the surrender of the prisoner to them. The consul resisted these arguments firmly. The man was a British subject, he stated, and he held him for trial for a British offense—a capital offense—and he had already Marconigraphed for the liner Armadillo to call and take him home.

"But in England," the super-sheik protested, almost tearfully, "they only hang."

"That is about the size of his deserts," the Resident retorted. He said as much to his sister, who had come out to Hajaba to keep house for him, and to one Davis, who had come out after the sister.

Davis agreed, but his sister demurred. "He was ready to give himself up rather than endanger us," she protested. "There ought to be a better use than hanging of a man like that."

"Perhaps," Davis sneered, "those big, fair ruffians have an extraordinary attraction for women." Davis was only five feet seven.

"Naturally," she said calmly. "He is big and fair; a very handsome man, and brave. From what I hear from Lucy Green, he only did what a man would do, a real man. He is that, I think."

"Anyhow," Davis snarled, "he will hang."

That was when the Resident's sister made up her mind that Frankland should not hang, if she could prevent it.

A Desperate Expedient

SHE spoke to her brother first about the subject.

"After all," she observed, "he's a fellow Englishman; and Lucy Green wrote that it was a fair duel, and with a man who said things about his mother; and they do fight in the colonies—the wild parts of them."

"It wasn't in a sufficiently wild part," the Resident commented. "That was his mistake. I'm damned if I blame the beggar much; but I don't make the law, Beatrice."

"I suppose you wouldn't be sorry if he escaped?" she inquired.

"Nowhere to escape to," the Resident observed. "He isn't such a fool as to leave sanctuary. Don't you be a fool."

She spoke next to her most trusted Moorish handmaiden. The handmaiden considered it a woeful pity that such a fine man should hang; but that, she thought, was better than falling into the hands of the super-sheik. There was certainly no escape from Hajaba, she assured her mistress. The sheik and his friends were watching everywhere. There was a cordon around the Residency, no less real because unobtrusive.

Then it was that the consul's sister resolved upon a desperate expedient—an appeal to Davis, whom she always expected to manage.

"I am sorry I hit you on the raw upon the matter of height, Ivor," she said with a friendly laugh; "but you're too big to bear malice. I look upon your chivalrous stature as seven feet! Really, that chap is a fellow Englishman, you know. Don't you think—?"

Davis looked at her; and thought: A wild-minded woman; possibly capable of throwing him over for this wicked fair giant, but the giant couldn't get away. So he might as well preserve Beatrice's idea of his chivalry by assisting him to try!

"If it's a matter of disguises, or anything of that sort," he said slowly, "I'll speak to him, if you like."

"No," she said. "I will."

"You ought not to have anything to do with him," Davis objected. "They'll be watching. Most of those dirty beggars hanging about outside the garden will be spies of the sheik. If they see you talking to him, they'll watch you."

"It will be a good thing to draw suspicion to me, if you are going to be the one to do it," she countered. "Obviously you mustn't talk to him. So I must, because there's no one else."

The talk occurred that afternoon. They had put the fugitive in an outhouse in the Residency gardens, unguarded, because it meant capture by the sheik to step outside. The Resident's sister walked in the garden while her brother and Davis were having their siesta, passed down the walk between the giant cactuses and enormous plantains, into the little grove which stood before the outcast's hut; stalked on past it, with her haughty little head in the air, ready to be spoken to and to snub. He did not speak, just rose and bowed and sat down again and went on with his cigaret, leaning against the door post of the hut, and gazing through half-closed eyes at the blue bay and the blue waters beyond, which merged into the blue sky. It was a day, he was thinking, most repugnant to hanging — and the Resident's sister looked like a goddess against the sky. A woman with a burning volcano under that cool white drill!

She walked back presently; looked at him; half passed; stopped. "How did you come to this?" she asked abruptly.

"You probably know as well as I," he suggested. "No doubt your brother has told you the sheik's account. I expect you may take that as pretty correct."

"I think he kept some back," she remarked shrewdly. "That wasn't what I referred to, however. What precisely, are you going to be sent to England for?"

Planning Escape

FRANKLAND set his teeth and looked up at her then; and she had a little thrill of fear of him. In her ideal of six-foot manhood there had always been a thrill like that! Davis was a good man and well-to-do, but he did not make her feel like that. "I have not," Frankland said quietly, "many days to look at the blue sea, and the blue sky, or to bask in the sun. Soon it will be a prison cell, and afterwards another, or, anyway— 'Left the warm precincts of the cheerful days.' You learned that at school, I suppose. One doesn't appreciate it, until it is interpreted by circumstances. Why should your curiosity disturb one of my measured moments by raking up bad memories?"

"Because, perhaps," she told him, "it isn't only curiosity." He looked very hard at her then.

"If," he said, "you have a kindly thought that I might escape—? Disguises and all that—? Kind lady, it is no use. The place is closely watched. I probably shouldn't go fifty yards before being seized. Even if I did, a stranger in any of the villages round here would be noted and detected at once. There is no escape; but I thank you for the thought."

"You assume that I had the thought," she remarked. She fanned her face with her handkerchief. He picked a fanlike plantain leaf and gave it to her.

"You had," he said. "Hadn't you?"

"I could have found you disguises," she murmured. "If that had been any use."

"Again I thank you," he acknowledged. "They would not be of use and ten to one those who furnished them to you would at once warn my friend, the sheik. Do you know, I am very grateful—very grateful."

"And you won't tell me about—it?" she asked.

"Oh!" he said. "That! I met a man out from England, who said things of my mother, in years past. It was a fair fight; and I killed him. That is all."

"They won't hang you for that," she declared.

"Penal servitude is worse," he commented. "If I have the chance on the voyage, I shall go overboard."

"You will try to swim to shore?" she asked eagerly.

"Shore? Oh, we shan't be near that; except when we go through the Straits of Gibraltar. If I could get out there—I don't suppose I can get out at all;—and if it were at night—it probably won't be;—and I were not noticed—"

"Wait!" she cried. "Wait! The wireless said that the Armadillo would be here at four. Yes. It should go through the straits at night. It is just over thirty hours' journey; and she will leave here at about six in the evening. Can you swim for several miles?"

"Probably. If we were near the Moorish coast—Ape's Hill and all that—I might do it. They wouldn't know of me up there. Make a slave of me probably. I'd get away some day, with luck. But they'll hug the Spanish side. I'd rave to land at Gibraltar, if at all. There they'll know of me; or make inquiries."

"What you want," the resident's sister reflected, "is a boat to pick you up and land you in Spain."

"Or an airplane," he laughed, "or a large-sized dove to catch me up in its talons and bear me to an ark or a Mount Ararat. Nothing else is of any use, kind lady. Don't worry about me. I get my deserts."

"I—don't—know," she murmured. "I don't think you quite deserve—the trial in England. You do deserve to be caught by the sheik, of course. Why did you do it?"

The Badger Game

"WELL," he said, reflectively, "I suppose a man must do something!"

"He ought," the resident's sister told him severely, "to be of some use in the world."

"Use? Use means use to somebody," Frankland said thoughtfully. "When there isn't a 'somebody'—"

"That," she cried, "is no reason why there should be 'anybodies'! If I did find a way of helping you to escape, I should expect you to become very different."

"The leopard doesn't change his spots," he said. "Some men are born with a devil in them—"

"And some women," murmured the resident's sister. "Women like the sheik's sister, I mean. Well, I hope she was only his sister."

"What an exciting picture you must have of me in a super-sheik's tent with a beautiful Oriental!" Frankland interrupted. "Ah well, I saw only her garden, into which her slave enticed me, the little hussy.

"You know I am a bad egg. I tell you this for the humor of it. It was a Moorish variant of what the Americans call the badger game—and played on me—with all I've seen. It's really funny. The methods of Lime House or the Tenderloin in Morocco!

"I love lapis. While I was haggling for some in the bazaar comes this slave, pluckling by bournouse, Lapis she said. A great store of it for sale cheap. What cared I if it had been stolen. I agreed to bring gold.

"I'd not reckoned on so pretentious a garden. But I slipped through the door when the slave led me that night. Nor had I reckoned on a woman there. Obviously the sheik's sister or wife. She was in the game. Perhaps his nibs was and is stingy—and fleecing the Nasrini runs in the blood.

"There was no lapis. And briefly they demanded my gold—or they would scream and summon the sheik. I laughed—and into the garden ran the sheik. They hadn't reckoned on him! They thought he was away! I was over the wall—but his honor—a Nasrini with his wife, or sister, was really compromised. He recognized me. He immediately decided that he must kill me, slowly. So here I am."

He rose and towered above her earnestly. "The memory of your wish to help me will be one of the pleasant things I'll have all my life. At the end, if—"

"Ssh!" She stopped him. "You must try to escape."

"There is no escape," he declared; "and very probably that's best for the world. I seem to be a man who isn't very much use to anybody."

"But you might be if you tried," she mused. "I wish I could think of a way— I must go in now. They will look for me when they wake up."

Beatrice's Plan

"THEY?" Frankland questioned; but she did not answer. She went indoors and sat reflecting, with her chin on her hand, till Davis came from his siesta and found her.

"He says it's not the slightest use trying to escape in a disguise," she stated. "They'd find out. I suppose they would. Ivor, I can't stick the idea of the man's being hanged; a great heavy fellow like that. Be a big chap and help me to find a way of escape for the poor devil."

"What is he to you?" Davis wanted to know, almost fiercely.

"Just an Englishman," she declared. "He is rather—rather a type that I idealized, I think."

"A warning to give up idealizing and settle down to—er—practical life," he told her. "Look here, Beatrice. You've known for four years that I—"

"Yes, yes. I'll think of it, Ivor—I have an idea how it could be done. Listen—"

"Well," said Davis slowly, when she had finished, "I tell you candidly that I'd just as soon the fellow was hanged or drowned. I wouldn't run any risk for him; but since you want my services for your whim I can't refuse them. I'll try to arrange it; and if I do— If I do this thing for you— Well, Well, I won't bargain. I'll do it for you!"

"You are bigger than I thought. I suppose I shall end by—doing what you want."

The next morning the Resident's sister strolled down by the hut.

"Good morning. I must not be seen talking to you for long. Mr. Davis has made a plan for you. The second night out you will pass the Straits of Gibraltar. You must try to get overboard then. Just when you are opposite the light on Europa Point— You knew it?"

"I know it."

"Try to slip overboard just then. I will bring you some tools that might help you break out. There will be a boat sailing about to pick you up. Mr. Davis is sending the men—three of them—in the local steamer to Gibraltar this afternoon."

"Men from here," said Frankland slowly. "Do you think they can be relied upon?"

"We can't get any other. He says they are reliable. Are you going to do it?"

"Yes," he agreed. "Of course, Davis is the man you were singing with yesterday evening, isn't he? Why is he helping me?"

"Oh! because you are a fellow Englishman, I suppose. I may have influenced him a little— I must go now. I can tell him you'll do it?"

"Of course. Thank—"

"That's all right. I must go." She ran back to the house. Frankland stared after her, stared at the doorway long after she had gone in. "I wonder," he muttered, "where he got those men from? Anyhow, the project is something to bring her here to talk to me. I wonder if she'll come this afternoon."

"Are You Engaged?"

THE Resident's sister did come that afternoon and the conversation was mostly about the need of reformation, if he had another chance in life. He must let her know that he was making good.

"Because," she declared, "you have promised to try; and you will owe it to me—if you escape."

"There doesn't seem to be any need for me," he said. "To be of use, one must be of use to somebody. There's nobody. I wish I could do something, just for knight-service to you!"

"Well," she said, "if I enable you to escape, what you do afterwards will stand to my account; the good and the bad! So you've got to be more good than bad—to give me a balance!" She laughed a little; touched his arm as if in appeal.

"Are you engaged to Davis?" he asked.

"No. He wants me to be. He is—very worthy—"

He saw her three times afterward, before he left on the Armadillo. That evening she passed like a flash, just muttering. "The men have gone to Club." On the following morning she brought him an iron case-opener and a few small tools. She informed him that the boat would lie near the track of the steamer and show a blue light. In the afternoon she came for about half an hour; to wish him Godspeed, she said. "And you have to be good, you know, because it will count to me."

About five o'clock the guard came to take him aboard. The consul had obtained a considerable armed party from the local authorities, as the feeling of the populace ran high; not so much against the prisoner in himself as against his being taken away from the judgment of the law. There was hissing and cursing and spitting as the party passed through the narrow streets; but the super-sheik and the other sheiks sat at the Customs by the quay with folded arms. When the crowd had passed them they looked at each other.

"Allah is great," the super-sheik murmured. "Among the guards of the infidel on the ship is Muley, the son of Hassen of mine. He will see to it that the prisoner is free to cast himself into the sea of the Straits, after he has seen the blue light of the vessel of the Englishman Davis."

"The Englishman Davis, is he to trust? Says not the prophet: 'He who betrays his own blood will betray the stranger.'"

"The man," said the super-sheik, "has cast his eye upon Davis's woman. She would have Davis contrive his escape. And so he came to me!"

As the Armadillo neared the Straits of Gibraltar, Muley came softly into the cabin. "I am the man of the worshipful Sir Davis," he whispered, "and am sworn to aid you. I will watch for the boat and the light, and warn you, all in good time. It is but to drop lightly and swim; and the rest is to Allah."

"Did the worshipful Sir Davis come aboard your ship and arrange this with you?" Frankland asked.

"Truly so," the man declared.

"I mean did he come himself?"

"Very truly himself," Muley asserted. "I tell you it is but to drop softly; and I will be singing at the time lest any should notice a sound. Float for a while and do not swim until the ship is past sight. Be sure the boat will search very diligently for you."

"I am sure," Frankland said. "Go now, lest any should suspect; and come again when it is time." When he had loosened the bars, he put the iron case-opener inside his vest—a strange thing to swim with, but he knew that Davis had not been aboard the Armadillo.

"So," he muttered now, "that's it! The sheik has outwitted Davis, or Davis has outwitted her. The boat—if there is a boat—is to take me to the sheik. Well, I'm going over anyhow. I'd risk my life for the bare chance of being able to save her from him!"

Presently Muley entered softly again. "The boat is just ahead," he whispered. "We are catching up to it fast. Count two minutes by your watch, then go. I will be singing—Allah is great!"

Frankland waited the two minutes, then pushed the bars aside; stood on the bunk with his head and shoulders out of the porthole. A man above—that would be Muley—began chanting some weird thing. It was what they sang at Moorish funerals, he thought.

The Song of Death

THERE was a boat; a big lateen-sailed craft of thirty feet or more—three men: Moors apparently. They had a bluish antern in the stern. Frankland looked at his watch. Five seconds overtime. He replaced it, squeezed through the porthole and dropped. He heard Muley's voice rise in a great wail then. It was the song for the dead. When he rose he lay still and floated. The boat was keeping its course. But he must not call or signal yet. Presently the boat was level with him—perhaps a hundred yards away. It still did not turn. Was this a refinement of cruelty—to pass him and not to pick him up? Gibraltar was several miles distant, he thought. He doubted if he could swim it. Perhaps he might wave now. The steamer must be half a mile away— Ah! The boat was turning toward him! He struck out for it; at first strongly; then decided that he had better pretend to be exhausted. For, if his suspicions were right, it was not a rescue, but a capture. He sank limply on the seat when they pulled him in.

"To Spain," he stuttered then.

"To Spain!" The gigantic helmsman laughed. The two great negroes who sat amidship laughed.

"We take you to Sir Davis," the helmsman said, "and to his friend the illustrious sheik—" The case-opener descended upon his head just then! He dropped like a log across the gunwale. The two negroes drew pistols.

"Drop them!" Frankland roared. "Or—" He sprang toward them with the case-opener. They dropped the pistols and he took those and their daggers and sent them forward, and went to the tiller. In a few minutes he was sailing for the coast of Spain. It was perhaps two o'clock when he found a sandy stretch under some cliffs. He went close in, and made the negroes swim and wade the few yards to the shore, dragging with them the Moorish helmsman, who was just conscious now, but unable to swim. Then he sailed along the coast in a favorable breeze, until half past five, when he thought he must be twenty miles from them, and landed at a little fishing village.

He professed to be a yachtsman from Gibraltar, who had damaged his boat and gave it over for repairs while he went to see the famous cathedral and a bull fight at Malaga. He never returned for the boat, but made his way to Barcelona in a coasting vessel. At Barcelona he found a trader going to Marseilles. In that cosmopolitan city he became a spectacled and bearded professor; and, as such, he took his passage in a little schooner to Hajaba.

But on his arrival there was rioting going on, the ship's agent at the port advised the passengers, and they would be well advised not to land—especially the English. It was an anti-English disturbance, so far as it was more than an individual matter. There had been trouble for some weeks over the question of a notorious desperado named Frankland. It appeared that he had been held by the British resident from the Moorish law on the pretense of being sent to England for trial upon a capital charge; and that on the voyage home he had been put overboard to a boat chartered by the resident's friend, Mr. Davis, and escaped. The people wanted Davis' blood; and the sheiks, while professing to try to quiet them, were fomenting the agitation secretly.

"The mob want Davis' head, and the resident won't give him up," said the agent. "He's engaged to his sister. It's one of their feasts to-day, and they're worked up to a frenzy."

"That Traitor"

"COULD we get up to them, and help them fight out?" the sturdy old captain asked. "I could muster a dozen stout chaps, seeing that there's an Englishwoman in it."

"Say, thirteen," the big, spectacled professor suggested mildly.

"Madness," the agent told him. "There are thousands of the Moors, all more or less armed. I've Marconigraphed to Gib., and they're sending a gunboat or so; but they won't be in time."

"I'm going ashore," the professor announced, "and to the residency."

"It means your life," the agent warned.

"Well," the professor observed, "it's mine!" The captain accepted this view and allowed him to go.

"He'll never reach the residency," the agent predicted as he went off; "much less get inside."

In half an hour, however, he had done both; partly because he had assumed Spanish costume; partly because no one dreamed that anyone would wish to enter the doomed place. He just mingled with the crowd outside the front gardens. Then leapt the low wall and walked in. The mob howled and yelled, but did not follow or shoot. The resident opened the door and waved him back. "You're a stranger," he said. "They haven't told you. Get away if you can. Make as if you came here by mistake. They'll attack the place before the morning is out. We're all doomed."

"That," said the professor, "is why I have come!" He stepped inside; bowed to the resident and to his sister, and to Davis; took off his spectacles and beard. "I'm Frankland, you can throw me to the wolves and pacify them."

"Frankland!" the resident's sister cried. "Frankland!"

"My God!" cried the resident. "You're a man! I can't give you over to them, Frankland. I—"

"There's no particular use for me," said Frankland. "Except one—to put a spoke in that blackguard's wheel!" He pointed to Davis. "I suppose he gave out the yarn that he contrived my escape? What he contrived was my capture by the sheik's men. They were going to bring me back to Morocco for death and torture! They were the men of 'Sir Davis' and his friend Mr. Sheik. They told me so. Well, this Compassionate Lady gave me a case-opener!" He laughed. "That traitor—! Giving me up may stop them but—"

"Some Use"

"OH!" cried the resident's sister. "Don't give him up, Henry. Let us fight and die together! You and I and he! I don't want even to die near him! Go—! Go!" She shrank back from Davis.

"Ssh!" said her brother. "We haven't long. Better go away from her, Davis, and—from me!" He pointed to a doorway. Davis went slowly out. "To think that any man—any Englishman—"

There was a sudden uproar. They ran to the window and saw Davis running down the path and through the gates. The mob outside closed round him.

"God forgive him," the resident said hoarsely. "He has died for us, like a man. It shows how great errors can be repaired, while life is left. Perhaps you—?"

"Please God," Frankland said. "I—I'll try to be—some use in the world." He concluded that his first good deed should be to place the wide seas between the consul's sister and himself; but she would not have it so: came and stood beside him on the deck of the steamer that night—for they left Hajaba, as the riots seemed likely to break out again—and spoke to him frankly.

"You say you are going away"

"And you know why," he replied.

"But suppose," she whispered, "that I have—use for you?"

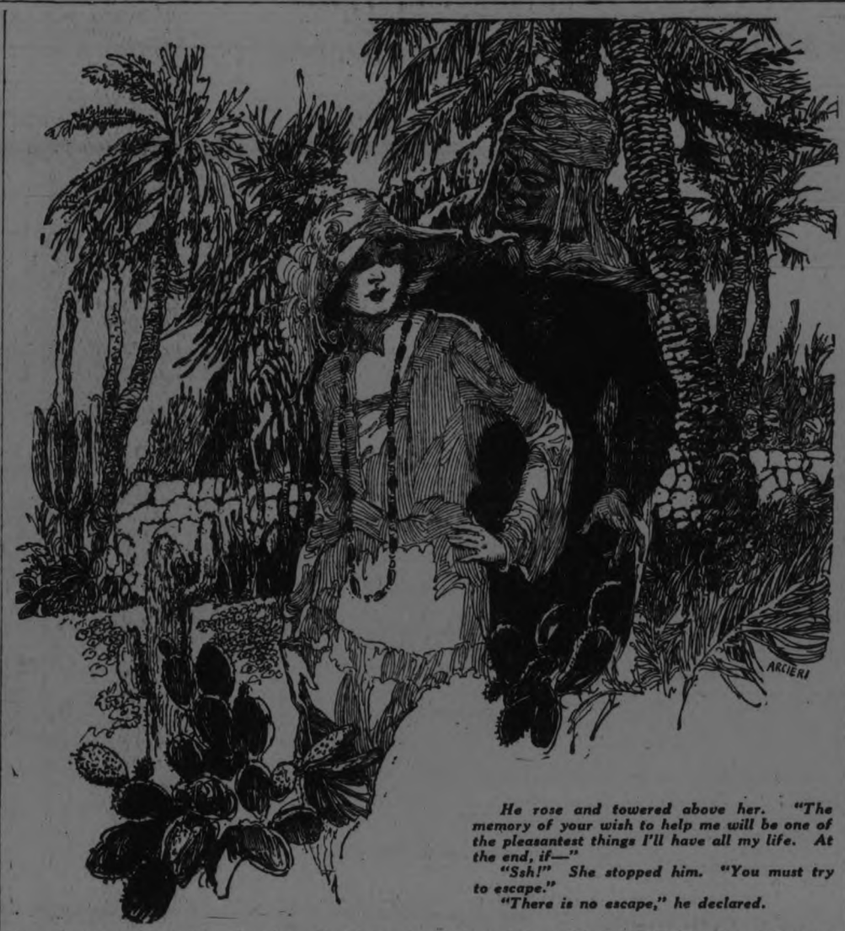
"Dear lady," he said, "very dear lady! You see, I must go—somewhere abroad, under another me—a broken man, trying to put the pieces together. I'll try. But it must be far away from—all the things in life that you hold dear, and—and—from you!" He bowed his head.

"But suppose," she whispered. "Suppose I wanted to come, too? Suppose that I could not find happiness any other way? Suppose that I, too, want to be of some use in the world—use to you!"

"My God!" he cried. "If I can make you happy—live for you——!"

There are two people now—no, five!—who call themselves Smith, and live overseas on a great ranch, which touches civilization at one end, and at the other the wild. The two are happy together, and they bring up happy, sturdy children. The use of a woman and a man!

(Copyright, 1924.)



He rose and towered above her. "The memory of your wish to help me will be one of the pleasantest things I'll have all my life. At the end, if—"

"Ssh!" She stopped him. "You must try to escape."

"There is no escape," he declared.

Most Curious Way To Make a Living

Rabbinical Law Gives Strange Occupation of "Fire-Poking" to London Men, Women

THE trades of London are many and some of them seem very strange to a Canadian. One occupation by which a score of Britishers are said to earn their livelihood is that of "poking fires."

By the rabbinical law no Jew is allowed to kindle or mend any fire on the Sabbath, and in certain places in England where Jews are very numerous this prohibition makes it necessary that persons shall be employed from sunset on Friday to the same hour on Saturday in going from house to house lighting fires and lamps and attending to them.

One woman in the East End of London often has as many as fifty houses to attend to and draws small fees from each of them. It is not long since a "fire-keeper" died worth more than $2,500, which he had saved out of his earnings.

It often happens that in the East End a strict Jew goes out into the street and says to some Christian passerby: "Would you be so kind as to come indoors and light my lamp? The 'fire poker' has failed me."

400-Mile Speed in Air is Foreseen, Human Body's Limit Will Come

Human Limit, Though, Is Not Yet Reached—Experts Say Brain Can Be Trained to Act More Swiftly With Increased Demands—Blood Seems to Rush to the Feet at Turns.

LIEUTENANTS A. J. WILLIAMS and Harold Brow, who have broken all airplane speed records in the last week, believe that the human body is quite capable of withstanding the physical strain of flying at 300 miles an hour, or even more. Thus far, they say, the only effects from fast flying appear to be cramped muscles and an all-round tired feeling, which they attribute to the constant work of handling the machines while in flight. Aside from the severe strain on their bodies while making short turns they have found no other ill-effects. They consider the risks to be of a mechanical nature only.

At the national air races in St. Louis last month the two naval aviators sent their tiny planes whizzing over a triangular course at more than 240 miles an hour, breaking all world's records. While the airplane designers said the limit in which planes could be made to fly had not been reached, they doubted if the pilots could stand much greater speeds. And medical men asserted that the human body could not survive much greater strains because of the stress placed upon the blood vessels and the entire nervous system.

And yet Williams and Brow a few days ago spent several hours racing each other across the three-kilometer course at Mitchel Field, L. I., one after the other, surpassing their former record, until they had added to it more than twenty miles an hour. Williams finally held the record with an average speed of 266.68 miles an hour. Brow was about a mile behind him, though at one time he was hurtling through space at 274.2 miles an hour. For many minutes, however, both pilots maintained the average of 266.68. They traveled four and a half miles a minute. Only a bullet or a projectile from a big gun can better that speed for any distance. Had they continued, they could have crossed this continent in fifteen hours or less, or flown from New York to Washington in thirty minutes.

Blood Rushes From Head

"IT seems to be a matter of training," Lieutenant Williams said. "There is little difference between 150 and 250 miles an hour on the straight flying. Your controls are set and you travel very smoothly. In making the turns at maximum speed it is vastly different. Everything seems to be leaving your head and rushing to your feet. Sometimes it seems as though I would push the seat right through the bottom of the machine. In the races at St. Louis I 'went out cold' on the turns, though I was able to recover almost immediately on each occasion."

This is explained by physicians, who say that it is the same sensation as that dizzy feeling caused by being whirled around suddenly. The blood is rushed away from the head and brain by the centrifugal motion in turning a corner sharply. In the fast planes this motion is very sudden, and the action is so swift that the pilot feels all his blood rushing toward the lower part of his body. That feeling of semi-consciousness lasts but a moment, however, and then the circulation rapidly adjusts itself to its new condition.

A French surgeon recently experimented with dogs, rotating them on a wheel at speeds of from four to six turns a second. It is said that some of the dogs showed injuries to the brain after it had been pressed against the skull by the centrifugal motion; others underwent an enlargement of the blood vessels in the stomach caused by the rush of blood.

Physically Lieutenants Williams and Brow offer an interesting comparison. Williams has an unusually powerful physique and weighs more than 200 pounds. Brow is rather slight of build. Yet they experience the same sensation flying, though, due to his lighter weight, Brow does not undergo the extreme sensation of losing consciousness momentarily while making short turns in the races.

All Matter of Training

THE moment their motors are started they are subjected to the most rigid concentration. They have a 500 horsepower engine with twelve cylinders. The propeller is twirling 2,300 revolutions a minute, and the noise from the exhaust drowns out everything else. This terrific power must be kept under strict control. The machines are only about 22 feet wide and the narrow tapering bodies some 19 feet long. There is everything to watch—the water in the radiator; the fuel, a 50 per cent. mixture of gasoline and benzol; lubricating oil, the pressure of which is 100 pounds, or the same as that required for a railroad locomotive. The entire machine loaded weighs about 2,000 pounds. All this the pilot must watch and guard constantly from the moment he takes off until he comes to earth. Every one of his senses must be on the alert. He uses both hands and both feet. His eyes and ears are strained to the limit, catching every sound that may convey some hint of impending trouble. If he falters for as much as an instant it may mean death.

"Of course, we do feel some effects from fast flying, but they are hardly worth mentioning," said Lieutenant Brow. "It all depends upon the machine. I feel no differently flying at 269 than I do at 150. I know I should feel the same if I could make 300. After that, there's no telling.

"I have never heard of a pilot undergoing an experience which would indicate that there is a limit to the speed which the human body can attain and live. Of course, there must be a limit; but I do not believe we have approached it. There is a sort of exhilaration in fast flying which leads one on.

"The numerous controls and gauges one must watch make fast flying arduous. The position in which we must sit in the machines tires our bodies and cramps our muscles. We are sheltered by windshields and the construction of the machine itself from the terrific force exerted by tearing through the air at four and a half miles a minute. If we put out an arm at this rate we probably should have it torn off completely. Some pilots have had their helmets split and ripped from their heads by being caught in the blast that is kicked back of the air screw. And yet we are able to peer over the sides and, in fact, all around us."

BILL WHITTEY KNOCKED OUT IN TWEED CONTEST

Veteran Star of the Trent Valley League Hit On the Head But Finished Game With Blood Trickling.

STIRLING DEFEATED.

TWEED, Jan. 22.— Last night's biting wind made the fireside more enticing than the unsheltered sidelines of the outdoor rink, where Tweed added another victory to their string, defeating Stirling by the score of 4-1. It was a close-checking game ,with both teams going at top pace all the way. The players have rounded into condition and from now on the brand of hockey will undoubtedly show a big improvement. The teams were as follows

Stirling —Goal, Hulin; defence, Whittey and Tullock; centre, Jack Akers; right wing, Wallace; left wing, H. Akers; sub, Fletcher.

Referee, Tom Beatty, Tweed.

Bart Cummins and Brown, the two defence men, scored for Tweed in the first period and Houston shot in another in the second. In the third Brown made the count 4-0, but H. Akers saved Stirling form the kalsomine just before the game ended. The only casualty of the game was the veteran Bill Whittey, who was knocked out by a blow on the head and carried off the ice. He later returned and finished the game with a trickle of blood frozen on his face. Opinion was divided as to whether the injury was caused intentionally or not. At any rate the referee did not rule anyone off the ice for it.

PORT HOPE WON GAME IN OSHAWA

Victory Gives Port Hope the Lead in O. H. A. Intermediate Croup Three

OSHAWA, January 22 (Special to The Examiner). — Port Hope stepped into Oshawa yesterday evening and carried off a strangle hold on the championship of the O.H.A. Intermediate Group No. 3 before the largest crowd that has entered Bradley's Arena since the Collingwood-Oshawa play-off in the finals some years ago.

For this game, Manager Defald of the locals trotted out a different line-up to that in the first home game with Bowmanville, Kip Rowan making his first appearance of the season as right wing, while Whitfield, the Owen Sound boy, worked along with Hefferman on the defence.

Sandy Lockington's Port Hope crew, with the same team that Oshawa eliminated last year, turned the tables on the Donald crew in last night's game by better team play and the defence work of Carter, Jex and Micks in goal.

For the first twenty minutes neither team found the nets, while in the second period Oshawa hit the twine for three and Port Hope for two, Lowe and Williams being responsible for the locals, while Carter and Finigan Hills were the sharpshooters from the East.

In the third period Lowe got one for Oshawa, Carter and Ware for Port Hope, and full time ended with the score 4-4.

In the first ten minutes of overtime no scoring was done, while in the first four minutes of the second extra time Port Hope scored in four minutes, and the game ended 5-4 in favour of Port Hope.

The line-ups were:

EXCITING GAME ENDED IN WIN FOR SENATORS

MONTREAL, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Memories of last season's play off between Ottawa and Canadiens were recalled last night, when the same two teams met in a postponed fixture. As on that memorable occasion, Ottawa were returne victors by 3 to 2 after a fast thrilling struggle that teemed with excitemen from first to last.

It was a gripping battle despite some lapses from good hockey in the first and final periods. Canadiens could not get going in the opening session while Senators started strong and the result was that they were leading two to nothing when the second period started. Then the local team showed their ability. They took Senators off their feet for a time and in that interim Morenz evened the count.

It was from this last period that Clancy of Senators emerged the hero of the struggle and scored the winning goal.

PRESTON WON FROM KITCHENER BY 4-3

PRESTON, January 22 (Canadian Press). — Preston won the right to second place in the "Big Four" O.H.A. Senior race when the locals defeated the Greenshirts of Kitchener by 4 to 3 in one of the best games of hockey played at the local arena this season.

The visitors were without Suher, their regular goaler, but Woods who replaced him, turned in an excellent game.

Schmaltz was in goal for Preston, and gave a great performance.

Kitchener, with two goals down in the final period, and with only six minutes to go, tried hard to even the count and scored once.

MARMORA JUNIORS TRUDGED TO GAME

And After Four-Mile Hike They Defeated Deloro's Youngsters By 7-2.

MARMORA, January 22. — Some of the youngsters about town banded themselves together and quickly organised another hockey team on Saturday. Carrying out their plans more quickly than their older brothers do, in preparing for the hockey season, these wee lads immediately tackled their first game by going to Deloro and defeating another impromptu team by a score of 7-2. The junior club naturally had no funds on hand, so they took the cheapest mode of transportation available—that of walking.

In spite of their walk of four miles, the team proved themselves superior to the Deloro team, as the score will testify.

The youngsters are to be congratulated on the proper spirit of sport they show, and it would be well for their older brethren to take a lesson from them.

Knee Injured.

Master Arthur Murray sustained a very painful wrench of his knee on Saturday when his leg slipped through the rack of a sleigh while the horses were moving rapidly.

Personal Mention.

Mr. James Parker, Toronto, was in town on Friday.

Miss Bessie Holsely. Belleville, visited her sister, Mrs. Archie Jones, for a few days last week.

Deplete Wood Piles.

Judging from the buzz of the sawing machines about town these short winter days, the citizens of the village can carry on the battle against Jack Frost regardless of whether coal can be procured or not.

Yankees List 21 Games on Spring Training Trip.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. — Twenty-one exhibition games will be played by the New York American League Club on its spring training trip, according to the schedule announced to-day.

The Yankees will open their tour in New Orleans on March 9 with the New Orleans Club and close in the Yankee Stadium on April 12 and 13 with the Brooklyn National League Club.

De Laval Lost Rough Game Against Omemee.

OMEMEE, Jan. 21.—The De Laval hockey team from Peterborough and the local team here met on Friday evening. There was a big crowd of citizens to cheer for the home team, who with very little practice, managed to defeat the visitors by a score of 8 to 4. The game was exciting all through and much rough hockey was evidenced, with the result of two of the locals being badly disfigured.

GOLFER ENGAGED AS 'PRO' AT NEW COUNTRY CLUB

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. — Joe Kirkwood, Australian trick golfer, to-day signed a contract as golf professional of Rockwood Hall, the new country club which has acquired the estate of the late William Rockefeller, near Tarrytown, N.Y.

DUNDEE MATCHED WITH LUMBARDO

Will Meet the Panama Featherweight February 22 in Titular Engagement

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—James J. Johnston, manager of Johnny Dundee, featherweight and junior lightweight champion, to-day confirmed cable reports that he had closed negotiations for a match in Panama on February 22 with Jose Lombardo, Panama featherweight champion. Dundee's 130-pound title will be the only one at stake.

The match was closed, Johnston said, when Panama promoters met his financial conditions, which call for advance payment of $10,000 of the $15,000 guarantee offered Dundee.

Dundee is matched to fight Pal Moran of New Orleans, at Madison Square Garden, February 1, in another of the lightweight elimination series. He plans to sail for Panama on February 7.

NORTHUMBERLAND BASEBALL TROPHY.

Warkworth Team Has Received the Silver Cup For 1923.

WARKWORTH, Jan. 22.—The championship trophy, the handsome silver cup that was presented by Sam Clarke, M.P.P. of Cobourg for competition among the baseball teams of the Northumberland League, has been received at Warkworth and is now on exhibition in the store window of A. C. Twiddy.

The winner of the championship in the league last year was the Trenton team but as that town is outside the county of Northumberland the trustees of the cup decided to award the trophy to the Warkworth team who finished second. In 1921 and 1922 the cup was won won by Colborne. The names of the winners are inscribed on the trophy year after year.

That Warkworth has been awarded the cup is likely to be gratifying to the other Northumberland teams and the fans throughout the district; as that team, made up almost entirely of veterans of the late war, won favorable comment wherever they played. If there is any one man who is entitled to credit for the winning of the trophy it is Beatty, the active right fielder whose phenomenal catch of Jack Nesbitt's long drive in the game at Orland when Warkworth and Campbellford played to break the tie for second place. Had Beatty missed that fly the drive would have meant a home run and the Clarke Cup would now be adorning the office of Manager Davidson in Campbellford.

All the Warkworth boys who played on the team last year are still here and will likely be seen in the lineup next season.

Lack Of Hockeyists.

Warkworth last winter had a good hockey team, which was not affiliated with any league, but the members were able to hold their own exhibition games with teams in the Trent Valley and other leagues. There will, however, be no hockey team this year on account of lack of players. Neil Thompson is laid up with a broken arm, Gladstone Angus has joined the exodus to the United States and Jack Drewery has gone to Toronto to reside. These were among the most promising hockeyists in the village.

O'HEARN GETS INTO ACTION.

CHARLEY O'HEARN.

Forced to the sidelines in football with a cracked ankle, Charley O'Hearn, Yale's most versatile athlete, is now back in harness leading the Blue hockey team.

O'Hearn got into competitive action for the first time this season in a recent match against the Cleveland collegians and gave a brilliant performance.

O'Hearn probably would have been an outstanding star in the Yale backfield last fall if he hadn't suffered a serious physical mishap.

BIG GAME IN THE MERCANTILE TONIGHT

Tonight at Solomon's Alleys, the Wm. Hamilton and Examiner aggregations meet in what promises to be the best game of the Mercantile Five Pin League. These two teams will fight it out tonight for first half honors. A loss of two games by the Examiner will likely create a four team tie for first place. On the other hand if the Examiner wins two out of their three games they will cinch the first half honors. There will most likely be a large crowd out tonight to witness these two teams in what promises to be the best game of the Mercantile League.

MERCANTILE LEAGUE

Last night in the Mercantile Five Pin League at Solomon's Alleys, the Red Ferns took two out of three from the Lockworks. Had it not been for Rattenbury of the Red Ferns stepping into the last game as a pinch hitter, the Lockworks might have won two. Rattenbury stepped into the last game and rolled 221 which practically gave the Red Ferns their second victory. McPhail was high man of the evening rolling 606 for his three games and also copped the high single of 264. Thomas of the losers rolled 524 for his three games. Following are the scores:

We suppose it's perfectly proper to refer to bathing girls in the films as comic strip artists.

After all the trouble they've gone to it would be rather disconcerting if the explorers found a note on King Tut's tomb reading: "Out to lunch. Back at 2 p.m."

There is some consolation in the knowledge that when the boys finally do get to King Tut he may be in a mood to discuss the stymie controversy.

Despite the fact that Tilden has led the tennis players for four

Famous Swimmer Perfects New Racing Dive Which May Lower Short Distance Records

(By A. H. FREDERICK)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—Height plus forcible speed will equal new world records.

This is the theory upon which Gus Peterson, local swimming coach and trainer of international note, has perfected a new racing dive after months of study and experimentation.

"Pete" should know, for he has trained or assisted in training many swimmers from novitiate to championship, among them being Frances Cowles and Ludy Langer.

"By actual experiments I have found that my present pupils are able to make much quicker time on short distances when they use the new dive," says Pete.

"If swimmers of the champion class make a proportionate gain on time—and there's no reason to believe they won't—you can expect to see the 25 yards done in less than 10 seconds, and other short-distance records smashed."

Gain Diving Distance

Racers using Peterson's dive do not hit the water as soon as do crouch divers. Instead they gain diving distance, greater gravity force, and an added momentum from as upward arm swing.

First position of the new dive is erect, with arms extended to the sides on a line running slightly downward from the shoulders, fists clenched.

At the starter's "ready" the fists and arms are brought forcibly back in a circular motion, scarcely rising above the shoulders at any point. At the same time the elbows are bent until the hands reach a point forward of the shoulders and slightly above their level.

The arms and hands continue then upward without any break in the motion until they are extended above the head in correct diving position.

May Better Records

Peterson has calculated the time nedessary for these movements so that it concides with the elapsed time between the starter's "ready" and "go.?? Thus the racer, without hesitation in the motion, slightly bends or relaxes the knees as his arms approach full extension, and dives forward coincidentally with the word "go," but without waiting for it This retains the full force added through the upward arm motion.

The diver enters the water at a distance of some seven to nine feet from the starting spot and can, in races where desirable, stay under for a distance of approximately 30 feet, the momentum of the dive supplying most of the power for that distance.

Also, declares Peterson, a little practice will give perfection in regulating the depth or shallowness of the dive.

Local swimmers are watching Pete's experiments with interest, seeing in them only short-distance records, but also materially bettering the time in relay events.

OTTAWA GUNNERS LOST.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Ottawa Gunners lost to the Brockville Intermediate O. H. A. team here last night in a hard fought, yet clean, exhibition game which ended 7 to 6. Entering upon the last period leading by 5 to 3, the Gunners added another inside of two minutes' play. Then they adopted the defence game, which the locals solved, Kingborn scoring four goals to win the game. Bob Giddens, the youthful centre for the Gunners, was one of the best performers on the ice, while McMorrow, in goal for the visitors, gave a finished exhibition, despite the big score against him.

AN EASY VICTORY.

GUELPH, Jan. 22. — (Canadian Press).—Guelph Intremediates walked away with an easy victory over Georgetown in a scheduled O.H.A. group game last night, winning by 7 goals to 1. Although the visitors set a fast clip in the opening period and held the locals to one goal lead, they were unable to keep the pace with the homesters in the last two periods, Guelph having things pretty well all their own way for the balance of the game. Although the ice was very keen, the match was only a fair exhibition. Fifteen penalties were handed out by Referee George Hiller, nine going to the Georgetown players.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce team, last year's Bank League champions, started the season by a victory over the Bank of Montreal last evening at Brock Street Rink. It was a closely contested fixture throughout, the score standing 4.3 as the final bell was sounded. "Mickey" McNeill, in goal for the Commerce, was the most effective man on the ice, while Mulholland for the losers turned in a nice game. Phelan, for the Montreal, was very effective with his body and hickory, cutting down the Commerce players like he did the police department estimate.

SOCCER NOTES

Mr. W. Cooke, presided over the P. and D. F. A. meeting held last evening in Chamber of Commerce Rooms. Considerable time was spent in debating the laws of the game, which was very instructive, also ways and means to build up the League.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Football Association will be held in Hamilton next Saturday, Jan. 26th. Peterboro will be represented by Fred. Sutcliffe, the C. F. A. Council member. Mr. Alex. Dick was appointed as delegate to attend on behalf of P. and D. F. A., and Mr. Orville White, as alternative delegate. The prospects of running a second division was also discussed at last night's meeting.

Mr. A. Dick, while in Toronto last week, was in conversation with Mr. Tillet, the president of the Davenport Albion Club, one of the best inter-city league teams in Toronto, and they are anxious to make a trip to Peterboro during the coming season.

A SLUGGING MATCH.

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—Heralded as a logical holder of Canadian Middleweight championship and in possession of a number of testimonials endorsing his claim, Jack Reddick, of Winnipeg, landed in Toronto some time around Christmas and began preparing himself for local bout.

He was matched with Homer Robinson, Pittsburgh colored middleweight, and last night stopped him in the sixth round of a bout that was scheduled to go ten. Reddick looks a champion in every part.

In the semi-final, Joe Bassada, of Norfolk, Va., and Jack Macfarlane, of New York, staged a toe-to-toe slugging fest in which both gave and received with the latter doing most of the receiving.

Bassara of course, obtained the decision.

Tommy Mitchell was given a draw after eight rounds with Chris. Newton. Both are lightweights.

Scene From D.W. GRIFFITH'S "THE WHITE ROSE"

AT THE GRAND THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"The days of old, the days of gold, the days of '49," form the background for the story of "The Girl of the Golden West," picturized from the famous Belasco success, and now showing at the Capitol Theatre. An entertaining melodrama, it is, built around the love story of Minnie Smith, the proprietor of the Polka saloon, and Ramerrez, the outlaw, coming to rob the lady of her gold, and staying to fall in love with her. Sylvia Breamer has the role of the pretty heroine, who rules The Polka with an iron hand, and J. Warren Kerrigen is a romantic figure as the bandit, with a price of $5000 on his head. He robs a stagecoach and acts the beau cavalier to the enraged lady passenger, who melts to his winning smile and then flouts the tempestous Micheltorena, the dancer of La Hacienda, in love with the dashing road agent. The role of Nina, who proves to be the villainess of the piece, later delivering her fickle lover into the hands of the sheriff, is played in splendid fashion by Rosemary Theby.

Out of the ordinary are the situations that surround the unfolding tale. When "The Girl" learns that her lover is a thief, she turns him out into the night, where the sheriff waits for him with a gun. Staggering back to the shelter of the cabin, a bullet through his arm, the outlaw becomes the prize for which the two, the sheriff and "The Girl," match their wits over a game of cards. The Girl wins and then Nina steps into the picture and betrays her former lover to the Vigilantes. With a rope about his neck, after a mad chase on horseback, Ramerrez seems about to step out of the picture for good, but the sheriff's promise intervenes, and all ends happily.

The mountains of California make many of the brilliant scenes in the picture, and the life of the gold days is duplicated in its story. At La Hacienda, the outlaws' retreat, gather the half breed followers of Ramerrez, while The Polka saloon is the headquarters for the men of the sheriff, Jack Rance, who is a faithful suitor for the hand of The Girl, and sticks to his given word when he gives her up to his rival. With a little less posing the sheriff would be the big man of a big picture.

Snub Pollard is the main actor in the comedy, as "the coldest man in the world," in "A Tough Winter," a shivery extravaganza woven about the adventures of the volatile Snub his lady friend, and her fat brother, which involves some unique ideas with regard to existence in the Polar regions.

An addition to the programme that evoked much applause was the playing of several gramophone records from "The Girl of the Golden West," that included solos by Edward Johnston and Henry Burr, and a beautiful rendition of one of the Caruso records, "O Solo Mio."

AT THE GRAND.

NEW GRIFFITH FILM "BIG" IN SIMPLICITY.

Mob and Spectacle Scenes Forsaken in "The White Rose" For Characterization.

Probably the most delightfully artistic and by far the greatest heart-appealing story yet to come from that master of the motion picture, D. W. Griffith, is his newest offering, "The White Rose," a United Artists Corporation release coming to the Grand Theatre next Thursday for 3 days.

It tells a story old in theme, simple and direct, but in such a manner as to make it possibly the one "big" outstanding picture production of the present season. Mr. Griffith has forsaken mobs and huge ensembles for direct and careful characterization in this new screen offering and has succeeded to such a degree that experts predict he again has shown the way for better pictures in the future.

The tale has to do with an orphan girl and a young divinity student who meet when the latter is making a walking tour to learn of the world and its ways. What transpires results in a denouement of compelling power and tender beauty.

Griffith journeyed with his company to the famous Bayou Teche country of western Louisiana for his scenes and they are recognized as the most strikingly charming yet shown on any screen.

Mae Marsh, after a long absence from the screen, returns with the most notable effort of her remarkable career. Her characterization of the orphan girl will long stand as one of the great things in the way of screen acting. Ivor Novello, a handsome young English actor, has won immediate recognition as the young preacher in this new story. Carol Dempster, so popular in several previous Griffith successes, essays the part of a girl of high Southern family and as only one of her distinguished refinement and intelligence might. Critical reviewers declare it the finest thing she has yet done. Neil Hamilton, a newcomer to the screen, is now heralded as a "Griffith find" as a result of his characterization of the lowly grocery boy who makes a name for himself. Porter Strong and Lucille La Verne, without equals in the portrayal of delightful negro types, are happily cast as the dusky lovers and afford no end of merriment for the audiences. Others in the cast of principals are Kate Bruce, Jane Thomas, Charles Emmett Mack, Erville Alderson, Herbert Sutch, Joseph Burke and the real Southern darkies and other supernumeraries are a positive delight in their naturalness.

LEADING ACTORS OF BRITAIN COMING HERE TO PLAY "SWEET LAVENDER."

All that the name might lead one to expect is to be found in Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's delightfully fragrant comedy, "Sweet Lavender," as presented by Anthony Gordon's company of leading English actors and actresses, and which will be presented at the Grand Opera House Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 28 and 29. This company met with great success at the Ambassador Theatre, London, where Mr. Gordon presented the comedy last season, and later on toured throughout England. The play centres around the character of Dick Phenyl, an old toper, who smooths the courses of three love affairs and sees that all ends happily, at considerable personal inconvenience, but not acutely so, since in England of the 80's, when the play was first produced, as now, there was the withdrawal to drown all sorrows. Anthony Gordon acts this character, and is credited by the London press with giving the best performance of the part seen since the inimitable Edward Terry created it. Prominent in the support of Mr. Gordon are Viva Birkett, whose anguish is convincingly pictured as Ruth, the woman who had lived; Ambrose Manning, as the genial Dr. Delaney, who might well have been the grandfather of Pollyanna; Leslie Stiles in the part of the broken banker, Mr. Wedderburn; Ormonde Wynne plays Mrs. Gillilian Alice Moffat, and Joseph Bell will be seen as Minnie and the breezy young American, Horace Bream; Dorothy Fletcher essays the role of Sweet Lavender, whose sweetheart is interpreted by H. Tyrrell Davis.

AT THE REGENT.

HUMOROUS WESTERN LIFE IN 'DEUCE OF SPADES"

Playing both ends against the middle has a new demonstration in "The Deuce of Spades," Charles Ray's current attraction, at the Regent Theatre. Revolving around the humorous life of a small western mining town, the story presents Elkhorn Jenkins, the typical man who owns the whole city. In addition to running the hotel and most of the other businesses in the town, the energetic merchant also owns the hardware store.

Every once in a while when the boys feel like cutting up they use the lamp in front of the hotel as a target. As soon as the sound of falling glass gives warning that the damage has been done, Elkhorn runs around to his hardware store and replaces the lamp with a new globe. Inasmuch as the boys always come around after and pay him for the damage, he wins both ways.

"The Deouce of Spades" ranks high among Charles Ray's recent First National releases. He plays the role of an immature New Englander in the west, giving numerous comedy touches to a part that has a serious and sentimental side and involves an unusual story.

AT THE ROYAL.

EXCELLENT VAUDEVILLE AT THE ROYAL

A very good vaudeville program accompanies the De Mille production "Don't Call it Love" at the Royal for the three days commencing yesterday. To our way of thinking "Little Blanch" a clever child artist is the outstanding feature. Her songs are all new several, we understand, has been written especially for her. The audiences last night could not get enough and did not want to let the little tot leave the stage. Her mother accompanies her and also gives several piano selections worthy of more than passing mention. McMahon and Adelaide have on interesting bag punching and dancing offering The punching of five bags at once was cleverly done. This act is finely staged and was well liked McKay and Earl closed this portion of program with a singing an talking act and received a good many laughs. The songs "Let's all be pals together" and Flipity, Flapity, Flappers' being especially well received 'Don't Call it Love' a Wm. de Mille production is a good picure with a great cast including Jack Holt, Agnes Ayres, Nita Naldi, Rod La Rocque, Robert Edison, etc. It is reviewed elsewhere.

SCREEN ENTERTAINMENT

The William de Mille Paramount production of "Don't Call it Love," featuring Agnes Ayres, Jack Holt, Nita Naldi, Theodore Kosloff and Rod La Rocque, which opened at the Royal theatre last night, is the story of a man of the world who takes a flyer in holiday ove, only to find that it is not the enduring kind.

Mr. Holt is ideal as the man-about-town while Miss Ayres has the sympathetic role of the neglected Alice Meldrum. Miss Naldi, as the vivid, teperamental prima donna cannot find an equal anywhere in the picture world.

Mr. de Mille has produced this picture in his usual high-class artistic way, with a keen eye for dramatic values and truthful characterizations. "Don't Call it Love" is a combination of all the comedy and punch of a previous William de Mille productions. It is the last word in screen entertainment— a drama of life and love with a supporting cast worthy of the story.

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Ma kets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. — (United Press). — Sensational testimony offered Monday in the Teapot Dome Oil investigation at Washington induced the selling of Sinclair Oil, and that issue provided the feature of the opening of the stock market to-day, starting 1 3-8 down at 25, and shortly afterward selling at 24 3-4.

The weakness in this issue failed to affect the other oil stocks, which sold around their last closing levels. The industrials generally were irregular.

Steels gave a show of strength, United States Steel opening 5-8 up at 100 3-4, while Republic and Bethlehem both made fractional gains. General Electric achieved a new high at 213½, up 2½ points.

Foreign exchanges were higher.

Stocks displayed a generally strong tone through the first hour, further sizeable advances taking place in various sections of the list. American Can. scored a sharp comeback to 108¾, against Monday's low of 104 7-8, while General Electric went into new high ground on the movement at 214 7-8.

Sinclair continued under pressure, holding the rest of the oil list.

Studebaker also failed to rally.

This is the off season for the automobile industry, which accounts for the lagging disposition of stocks of this class. If wages are high and labor fully employed when spring is ushered in some very optimistic news on the automobile industry may be forthcoming. In the meantime traders are shifting to other issues.

WHITE RIVER IS AFTER RECORDS

The Mercury Rose Sixty-two Degrees Within Twenty-four Hours.

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—White River's famous thermometer is out after new laurels, this time as a lightning charge artist Distinguishing itself yesterday with near a record dive to 58 below zero, the mercury came up for air last night, and at 8 o'clock this morning stood at 4 above zero.

While generally higher temperatures prevail throughout Ontario, strong south-westerly winds with snowflurries serve as reminders that our winters are still inclined to be a bit old-fashioned, the extreme cold waves of yesterday has moved eastward, and the temperatures of well below zero are recorded from Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. Ontario's respite from low temperatures is only temporary, however, according to meteorological officials here, and within twenty-four hours White River and Doucet will be at it again, with keen competition promised from Western Canada, where "very cold" weather is in prospect.

WARWHOOP STILL HEARD ON PLAINS.

Indians of Argentina Have Turned to Outlawry Under Slavery of Land Owners.

(By A. M. EASTERLING)

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 22 (United Press).—The Indians of Argentina are facing the absolute certainty of extinction within the next few years, when the last tribe must be swallowed up by the ever-increasing Spanish population or fall before the bullet and the sword.

The government will not recognize them as people apart and gradually is breaking their remaining tribal barriers, forcing them to adopt civilization, virtually as slaves of huge landowners, or live the lives of outcasts.

Rebelling against the abject misery in which they have been forced to live many families of Indians have turned to outlawry and are being hunted down by police and posses of citizens, while a few tribes hang together in the extreme northern part of the republic or in the fog-swept reaches of Patagonia and steadfastly refuse to be taken into the folds of the white man's laws.

Fifty years ago the power of the great Pampa tribes was broken in a battle that was destined to be the last important fight between the invaders and the aborigines. Since then the Pampa Indians have disappeared, absorbed by the peon population of the plains.

Always at War

In the north, in the wide stretches of the Chaco, wandering tribes still are at war, fighting to regain the hundreds of thousands of acres of land of which uncommon for a settler in the isolated sections of the Chaco to hear the war-whoop of the red man and the shine of a well-aimed arrow. Sometimes it is a bullet, but generally the Indians, clad in loin-cloths only, use the bow and arrow and tye knife.

They ride in bands, their women riding and fighting with them. If they are successful in an attack they plunder and burn and mutilate and retreat. Many a rancher has succeeded in beating off his assailants to find among the victims of his markmanship women and girls, with rifles or bows in their hands.

Indians Broken

In the south the spirit as well as the power of the Indians has been broken. The Patagonia Indians have become a pitiful reminder of the stock from which they came, ragged, hungry, degenerate, half-wild, eaters of fish, or helpless charges of the whites. They shiver through the long, cold and stormy Patagonian winters half-naked, wrapped in shaggy skins, and the spring finds them fewer than in the autumn.

And it will be only a few years until the Indians in the north cease to be a state problem or a threat to the land-hungry whites. Their days are numbered.

BURNS RELIC IN AMERICA

Clock That Ticked In Burns' Cottage.

We cull the following from a newspaper published in Jersey, U.S.A.:—

A clock that ticked in the cottage of Robert Burns, Scotland's beloved poet, is registering time in East Orange. The timepiece, its mechanism working with a precision that belies its 163 years of existence, is at the home of Mrs. James Paterson, of 241 South Clinton Street, the suburban city. It stands seven feet and its shining mahogany veils its antiquity. The clock's appearance is not ancient except for the fact that the dial is of steel and brass.

The hands are large, but their dimensions are not out of proportion to the broad face of the heirloom. The clock was owned originally by James Nesbit, who occupied the poet's abode in Alloway, Ayr, after Burns forsook it for a more pretentious dwelling.

Burns, when he revisited the ancient cottage, saw the clock and often commented upon its value, which was estimated to be about 2,500 dollars in American money five years ago when it was purchased by Mrs. Paterson's late husband.

Mrs. Paterson's neighbours do not have to rely on their clock for the time. The huge contrivance has a bell, the sound of which resembles a gong on a bobsled. In the quiet neighbourhood the striking of the bell at each hour is clearly discernible in the homes adjacent to Mrs. Paterson's apartment.

The clock was brought to East Orange a year ago. It had been in storage following Mr. Paterson's death When the widow prepared to take up her residence in the suburban city the aged timepiece was polished. Its mechanism needed little attention.

Present day experts Mrs. Paterson has consulted, have been baffled by one phase of the clock's construction.

At the top of the dial there is a small ship with a number of passengers. The maker, Stirrat, Kilwinning, intended that the ship should ride the miniature waves painted in the small space near the steel and brass on the clock. The boat was supposed to be rocked by the swinging of the pendulum.

This part of the works got out of order and Mrs. Paterson has tried unsuccessfully to have it adjusted. But the clock repairers she has consulted have been unable to master the intricacy of this part of the mechanism.

There also is an arrangement that was intended to have the clock record each day of the week. This also is out of order. It is an eight-day clock and it s main works rarely, if ever, give any trouble.

Little of the works are visible. The clock has the appearance of a narrow closet. There is a door at the bottom that reveals the solidness of the mahogany when it is opened.

The pendulum sways between two bars of solid and well-evened stone that have the shape of large biscuits.

Efficient Housekeeping

The modern idea of economy extends into the household as well as into every branch of business. Most housewives pride themselves upon the fact that their homes are conducted in an efficient, business-like manner.

Every housewife knows, too, that the business of running a house, providing for the wants and needs of the different members of the family and meeting the almost daily emergencies is second to none.

The Want Ads. in the Examiner are a great boon to the efficient housewife. In securing helpers, in purchasing various articles of household equipment, disposing of discarded furniture, in fact in countless ways, the Want Ads. are the housewife's most valuable assistant.

ROYAL COMMISSIONER SHOWS UP GRATUITIES AMOUNTING TO $190,000

Howard G. Kelley, Former President, and Frank Scott, Treasurer, of Old G. T. R., Particularly Singled Out in Report to the Federal Government

DIRECTORS' POSITION.

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—(Canadian Press).—F. S. Honeywell, Commissioner appointed by the Government in May, 1923 to investigate circumstances surrounding payment of gratuities to directors and officials of the Grand Trunk Railway System and interest disbursements believed to have been made out of funds intended by Parliament for operation of the road has submitted his report to Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals.

The Commissioner criticizes the action of Howard G. Kelley, president of the road, and Frank Scott, vice- president and treasurer for their part in granting gratuities to officials of the system totalling $190,000. He places most of the responsibility for this transaction upon th, two officials mentioned and expresses the view that the other executives who benfitted could not be expected to refuse the gift when assured by the president that it was a recognition from the shareholders of faithful service.

Willing to Refund

Mr. Honeywell states that several of the gratuitants are still in the employ of the company and that they have signified their willingness to return the money granted to them Th, Commissioner does not discuss the legal aspect of the case, leaving that to the Department of Justice, but touching upon the moral side he suggests that if the Government decides to mak, the gratuitants still in the road's employ return their grants in should be done in such a way as not to subject them to pecuniary embarrassment. This, he argues would be in the interests of executive efficiency.

Regarding the 37,500 pounds sterling which was distributed amongst directors of the road before it passed eto Government control the Commissioner finds that the transaction was based upon a minute entered at a meeting held by the board in London at which it was decided that in compensation for loss of office each director should receive a sum equivalent to fiv, years' remuneration to be paid out of funds contributed by holders of the debentures and guaranteed stock. This transaction the Commissioner believes is a matter for the directors and the security holders to thrash out and in no way affects the company's assets as acquired by the Government.

The Commissioner proceeds to investigate under thre, heads, namely Payment of Gratuities to Directors; Payment of Gratuities to Officials, and Payment of Interest to Stockholders.

In announcing the results of his probe into the payment of gratuities to officials of the Grand Trunk, the Commissioner finds that President Kelley and Frank Scott, treasurer of the road, proceeded under authority of a minute entered in the record of a meeting of the directors in London on Dec. 12, 1919.

For Long Service

At this meeting the suggestion was made that in view of the long service rendered by certain officials of the road they should each be granted a gratuity equal to one year's salary, the money to be taken from a surplus of $223,957 which had accrued to the insurance fund of the system. The Commissioner explains

Montreal Store Wrecked By Fire

MONTREAL, Jan. 23.—(Canadian Press).—The four-storey establishment of J. & A. Normandin, drygoods merchants, in the east end of the city, was attacked by fire about 7.30 last evening and at 8.40 two storeys were blazing and there was little hope of saving the building.

Premises in the rear were also menaced by the flames.

About eighteen families from neighboring houses had to leave their homes but no injuries have been reported.

The fire was brought under control about 9.15. The top storey was let in tenements and a young girl living in one of them is missing, but it s thought she will be accounted for later.

RAIL DISPUTE IN RHINELAND

Cologne Almost Isolated By French and Belgian Traffic Administration, British Allege.

PARIS, January 23 (Canadian Press). — The controversy between Great Britain and France concerning the operation of the railroads in the Rhineland appears to be reaching an acute stage.

The British complain that the French and Belgians are operating the lines of the railway administration in a manner which leaves Cologne practically isolated and does not permit of the necessary traffic for provisioning the British area of occupation.

The French reply that if traffic to Cologne is restricted, it is because the British will not receive trains of the railway administration.

The French and Belgians point out that they have nothing but trains of the administration to send to Cologne, and that if the British are not willing to have them operate on the lines in the British area, the fault is entirely with the British.

In diplomatic circles yesterday, the theory was advanced that the British are using the blockade argument in attempting to force the French and Belgians to abandon the administration trains, and that the French and Belgians are endeavouring to compel the British to come in with them in operating the lines throughout the Rhineland.

Conversations on the points in dispute are continuing between the Paris and London Governments.

Railway Branch Lines Pressing Need in West.

MONTREAL, January 23 (Canadian Press). — Addressing the Rotary Club here yesterday, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, portrayed Western Canada's need of railway branch lines, and declared that a wide impression prevailed in the West that the failure of the Branch Lines Bill to become law last summer was due to Eastern Canada influence.

He stated that Western farmers had been waiting for these branch lines for the last ten or fifteen years.

Last summer he had travelled 700 miles through the territory affected, and had obtained opinions from those concerned. He claimed that Canada was losing immigrants through the want of these facilities.

LABOR CHEERED LEADER LEAVING COMMONS ARENA

Ramsay MacDonald Vacated the Opposition Benches Victorious After Twenty Years' Battling Britain's Old Political Parties—Returns on Feb. 12.

HOUSE ADJOURNED.

LONDON, Jan 23 — When the House of Commons adjourned yesterday the Labor members stood on their seats and shouted lusty farewells as Ramsay MacDonald, after 20 years of intermittent political battling from Opposition benches, left the Commons whither, he will return on February 12 as the head of His Majesty's Government.

The rank and file of the Laborites remained standing until Mr. MacDonald had made his exit; likewise on the other side of the House the long rank of ministers whose resignations had just been announced stood silently and respectfully while Stanley Baldwin, the retiring premier, walked into the shadows of the lobby.

Th, floor of the Commons and the visitors' galleries were crowded in tense expectancy for the climax of the recent history-making political developments. The members crowded the gangways and the open space near the Speaker's chair, and a few even sat on th, floor.

Mr. MacDonald, wearing a frock coat,—the correct garb for visitors to Buckingham Palace—sat on the Opposition bench with legs crossed on th, desk in front of him, in the best ministerial pose. But those who came for stirring scenes were disappointed.

WANT SPECIAL AIRCRAFT FOR FOREST PATROL

Recommendation of Forest Engineer to Government —Frank Barrigum Seeks Chance to Prove Need of Pulp Embargo—Hurts Employment.

BLAMES POLITICIANS.

MONTREAL, Jan. 23.—Resolved that th, Canadian Society of Forest Engineers recommend to the Dominion Government, having in view the value of aircraft in forest conservation, work that steps be taken to hasten the design and construction of aircraft specially suitable for such work in Canada.

This resolution was adopted following a day's discussion at the annual conference of the Canadian Society of Forest Engineers held here yesterday. The resolution called for a flying boat and a float type seaplane for the work in question.

Barnjum's Pledge

Concluding an address in which he reiterated his long-continued advocacy of an embargo on Canadian pulpwood export, F. J. D. Barnjum Canadian lumber man, gave the following "definite and serious" pledge

"If the heads of Canada's three largest banking institutions will select an unbiased and acceptable com mittee of thre, men of good judgment whom I cannot convince that Canada's entire available wood supply will become exhausted within a period of less than ten years, unless drastic and immediate measures are taken to prevent such a calamity, I will agree never to mention forest conservation in Canada again."

Legislation, said Mr. Barnjum, which had given the Government power to prohibit the export of unmanufactured wood had been nullified by a "secret order-in-council." This proved beyond doubt, he said, "that Canada's natural resources are being used as a pawn by our politicians."

Mr. Barnjum said it was not the American people as a whole opposed an embargo and spent vast sums of money to thwart the will of the Canadian people, but rather "a few American paper manufacturers."

TOBOGGAN SLIDES IN PETERBORO DECIDED BY BOARD OF WORKS

Sites to Be Selected By Mayor and Engineer — Deputation to County Council to Consider the Norwood Road Alternatives.

MONAGHAN SEWER.

In a fatherly mood last night, the Board of Works planned an open air rink for the west end of the city and toboggan slides at at least two places with East City named in the discussion as a possible third. The skating rink was proposed by residents of the district and the slides were suggested by His Worship Mayor Turner.

City Engineer Parsons was instructed, on motion of Aldermen Jones and Stocker, to construct a rink at the corner of Homewood avenue and the boundary, in spite of his objection that the bottom was very bad there.

Mayor Turner opened the discussion of toboggan slides and suggested having someone in control from 3 o'clock in the afternoon. "We might try it in one place," His Worship said, "and perhaps extend it next year."

Alderman Maher proposed as a suitable location Monaghan road from Cedar street to Homewood avenue.

On a motion by Aldermen Maher and Crowe the Mayor and the City Engineer were appointed to set apart certain streets in the city for coasting zones and to provide supervision. Their investigation of the most suitable streets will commence today.

Suburban Roads.

The main debate of the evening was on the subject of suburban roads, and arose out of a report that a deputation would wait upon the County Council which is now in session with the object of having grants toward the building of the Norwood road withheld until an independent engineer has reported on the relative merits of alternate routes. The subject was broached by Mayor Turner, who suggested that the City Council be represented before the County Council when the deputation makes its proposals. This, in the Mayor's opinion, is necessitated by the fact that those through whose lands the roads lie are doubtful of the project now under way.

Alderman McIntyre: "Is the Commission satisfied it is doing the work on the right road?"

Alderman Morrison, who is the city's representative on the Suburban Roads Commission: "Yes, or I wouldn't sanction it."

Alderman Morrison said when he took over the position as representative of the City Council on the Commission the work had just come around to the "block" road. "The duty of the Commission," he said, "is to take over roads that have already been worked. The road referred to as the block road has not been opened at all only to a point. Now it is wanted to run it through the Knox farm. There is a large hill there and the road is carried to the left to Salem church. It might be good business, but why was it not good business for the county? We (the Commission) are there to take roads when delivered from the county as provincial roads, not to break new roads. I see no reason why we should have anything to do with it. We have done work on the Norwood road which served the people in Otonabee and other sections. The government surveyor did not consider the block road. There is a bog hole there filled with water the year round and there is no way of draining it.

Some years ago a council had this as their platform if elected, and they went down to defeat."

Mayor Turner: "I am not suggesting to take it over, but o , to call a halt if there is any doubt. Obviously there is doubt and we have no money to waste. I would rather wait for a report."

Alderman Morrison: "I am working for the city's interests on the Commission, and I don't see why we should go three or four miles through a ny man's property and spend money there when the township has already turned it down. We have spent the money to our best judgment and in the interests of all concerned."

Alderman Crowe: "When is this likely to stop? Is it to be continued year after year?"

Alderman Morrison could not answer the question.

Action Warranted.

Mayor Turner suggested that since the doubt has been raised the City Council should hear the argument before the County Council and decide on the merits of the case.

Alderman Morrison remarked that

LIBERAL PARTY DECLARE TERMS

Will Maintain the Labor Government So Long As Its Policies Accord With Liberal Traditions.

LONDON, Jan. 23. — (Canadian Press).—A fully attended meeting of Liberal members of the House of Commons, including Mr. Asquith and Mr. Lloyd George, yesterday unanimously passed a resolution thanking Asquith "for his wise and courageous leadership" of the party and also expressing "gratification at the defeat of Protection and the fall of the incompetent Tory Government." The resolution also affirmed the party's "steadfast determination to resist every attempt to destroy private enterprise or establish the socialization of industry, to continue to work for international peace on the basis of the League of Nations, to remove social evils and injustices, to decrease unemployment and to raise the standard of life of the mass of the people."

It is understood that the future attitude of the party towards the new Labor Government was discussed and the feeling expressed was that it should receive cordial support and that so long as the measures introduced were in harmony with Liberal traditions and Liberal policy and do not raise controversial issues of Socialism, the Liberals would keep the Labor Government in power.

FARM LIFE CAUSE OF BOY'S SUICIDE

Jury Finds That Young Bulpitt Hanged Himself Because of Loneliness and Punishment

GODERICH, Jan. 23—(Canadian Press).—Public interest in the coroner's inquest into the death of Charles Bulpitt, sixteen year old English "Home" boy continued unabated last night in the court room being crowded to the doors for the sixth sitting of the inquiry. After deliberation of two hours and a half the jury brought in the following verdict;

"That Charles Bulpitt came to his death at Lot 3, Concession 6, west division of Colborne, by hanging, which was of his own act.

"We find that a chain of circumstances led up to the boy's death, commencing in his being sent out as a farm immigrant and being misplaced on a farm instead of in an office for which his education and desire fitted him. Loneliness among strangers, unaccustomed and uncongenial work and unwarranted punishment, he received for misconduct, all combined to prompt him to take his life."

Charcoal Gas Used In Automobile Test.

LYONS, France, January 23 (Canadian Press). — An automobile propelled by gas generated from the combustion of charcoal was given what was pronounced a successful test here yesterday in the preence of a large number of Government officials and technical experts.

The machine travelled 60 miles on 33 pounds of charcoal, costing 25 cents, or less than one-fourth the cost of gasoline had it been used.

The charcoal gas is generated in a compartment built into the rear of the body of the car.

The process is that of an Alsatian engineer named Imbert.

STATE FUNERAL FOR BOLSHEVIK PRIME MINISTER

Arranged Prior to Announcement of Lenine's Death--Autopsy Revealed Ruptured Blood Vessels of the Brain — Public to See Body.

BURIAL SATURDAY.

MOSCOW, January 23 (Canadian Press). — Nikolai Lenine, Russia's great Bolshevik leader, died suddenly on Monday evening at his country villa in the village of Gorky, 20 miles from Moscow.

The public announcement of the Premier's death was withheld until the All-Russian Soviet Congress met on Tuesday morning, and only last night did the wires carry to all the corners of the Soviet Federation the word of the event, which even Lenine's political opponents declare saddens the nation.

In the interest of science an autopsy was performed yesterday afternoon by eleven doctors, including the German specialist, Professor Foerster. It disclosed, according to the official bulletin, marked changes in the blood vessels of the brain, and fresh ruptures of these vessels, which were the direct cause of death.

The death certificate was signed by four professors, four doctors, and Health Commissar Semashko.

Funeral on Saturday.

The Government is arranging for an impressive funeral at Moscow on Saturday. Even before the public generally knew of the Premier's death, all arrangements for a great ceremony were completed.

There will be nation-wide mourning for the head of the Bolshevists, and meanwhile, party differences will be submerged.

Felix Djerjinsky, Commissar for the Interior, is chairman of the committee on funeral arrangements, which comprises many other prominent Communists. Trotzky is not among those named.

From six o'clock this evening the public will be permitted to view the body.

Soon after the funeral the Federal Congress of Soviets, the supreme legislative and elective body of the Federation, will meet. This Congress was to have met to-day, after the meeting of the All-Russian Soviets.

Theatres Closed.

All theatres and places of amusement in Moscow have been ordered closed until after Saturday, and last night great crowds gathered in the neighbourhood of the Pravda office, awaiting extra editions which might contain further information respecting the passing of the Premier and the political situation generally.

REEVE M. P. COUGHLIN OF DOURO IS WARDEN PETERBORO COUNTY

Acclamation Accorded the First Warden in Many Years From This Township — County Council Opened First Session of 1924.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

Martin P. Coughlin, reeve of Douro, was yesterday elected by acclamation to the position of Warden of the County of Peterboro at the first meeting of the 1924 County Council.

His sponsors were Councillors John Scott and J. F. Breckenridge.

Having been initiated to the position and donned his robes of office, Warden Coughlin ascended the dais and thanked the County Council for the honor paid him. It was an honor, he said, that he had not expected.

"It is proof of the fairmindedness of the County Council. There are numbers of the members who have greater ability to fill the position, but Douro has only had the honor of supplying the warden once to my knowledge, and your returning me today is evidence of your fairness.

"There are a few of the pioneers of this County Council missing as we gather here for the opening session of 1924. While we cannot help but feel sorry, yet we are safe in feeling that those who succeed to the positions will fill them honorably and in accordance with the traditions and practise of this Council."

On behalf of the County Council which by virtue of his office he now represented, Warden Coughlin welcomed the new members.

Newly elected councillors, who took their seats yesterday were: J. Hawthorne, reeve of Dummer; A. Wilson, reeve of Harvey; M. Smithson, reeve of Otonabee; W. Packenham, reeve of Norwood, and W. T. Curtis, reeve of Havelock.

Last year's members who returned were: J. Scott, reeve of Asphodel; J. F. Breckenridge, reeve of Belmont and Methuen; D. Brown, reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther; R. Scott, reeve of Chandos; M. P. Coughlin, reeve of Douro; E. Corkery, reeve of Ennismore; J. Clark, reeve of Galway and Cavendish; H. B. Rye, reeve of North Monaghan; R. T. Lillico, deputy-reeve of North Monaghan; W. A. Anderson, deputy reeve of Otonabee; Bert Middleton, reeve of Smith; W. Brown, deputy-reeve of Smith, and J. C. Strickland, reeve of Lakefield.

House of Refuge

The County House of Refuge was reported on by Bert Middleton, chairman of the Board charged with its administration. His report read:

"At this the first session of the County Council for the year 1924, it becomes the duty of the Board for 1923 to report the condition of affairs as they existed during 1923.

"The Statute requires that a quarterly visitation be made by the Board for the purpose of auditing the accounts of the preceeding quarter and authorizing their payment together with attending to all matters concerning the Institution.

"These visits were made, together with other attendance necessitated by actual urgency.

Your Board has endeavored to carry into effect the object for which the Institution was established, namely: The providing for the deserving citizens of the County otherwise unprovided for. It has been asserted by some extreme parties that the Institution having 96 acres of land attached, should be self-sustaining, but I think as time passes such ideas have almost faded out when consideration of the matter reveals the fact that, from 30 to 40 old and helpless people require too much attention and expense for the returns from 96 acres to cover.

"The cash payments were $9,371.84 for general account, deducting cash receipts of $869.69, reduces the amount to that extent, then there was at the end of 1923 $1,118.40 due by the Provincial government.

"The heating system is not satisfactory and your Board desires an inspection of this in order to effect a remedy if possible. The fuel bill seems abnormal, being for the year $2,382.55, with ten tons of coal and 25 cords of wood on hand on Dec. 31. Deducting the amount unused in 1923, leaves a net cost of $1,917.55.

There is every evidence that former Boards have been endeavoring to cope with the heat problem and did to a great extent succeed, but we respectfully court the co-operation of the Council as a whole in providing for more economical and efficient service not only in the heating system but the exclusion of cold by window improvement.

"The staff have, to the best of our knowledge, endeavored to perform their duties consistent with the regulations.

"Six o the inmates passed away

ALBERTA HELIUM GAS IS WASTED

Only Known Source of Supply in the Empire Located in the Western Province--Bubbles Away Unused.

LONDON, Jan. 23. — (Canadian Press).—Lecturing before the Colonial Institute, Commander F. L. M. Boothby, the well-known airship expert and commander at different times of naval airships and airship stations, said there were indications that a beginning would shortly be made with an airship service between Great Britain and Australia which could be developed in stages possibly by way of Egypt, Delhi and Singapore to Port Darwin. The establishment of a big bi-weekly service to Australia would require capital of £6,000,000.

Commander Boothby pointed to the fact that the only known Helium gas supply in the Empire was located in Alberta. Professor McLennan of Toronto University had informed him that ten million cubic feet of helium was bubbling to waste annually and that there might be other supplies in the territory still unexplored. An airship filled with helium was the most formidable weapon in war, said Commander Boothby, as the gas could not be set afire by any possible means known to science. If Canada erected a big airship base in Alberta she would be in a position to transfer her air power to the Pacific or the Atlantic as required inside of 48 hours. In normal times an airship fleet could be used to develop traffic in a northerly and southerly direction where transport facilities are at present inferior.

At the moment, said Commander Boothby, there was nothing in the British Empire to compare with the United States navy's helium - filled Shenandoah. "We must look to Canada to redress the balance in the immediate future," he concluded.

Another Payment From Wheat Pool

CALGARY, Jan. 23.—(Canadian Press).—It is quite likely that an interim payment will be made to members of the Alberta Co-operative Wheat producers Limited, before Spring work commences, R. O. Gorman, secretary of the pool, informed the Canadian Press, on Tuesday. This matter has been considered by the trustees but no definite action has as yet been taken, but with a good surplus on hand over and above the initial payment which is made on delivery of the wheat, there is every prospect that a second payment will be made.

Woman Drives Dogs To Montreal Sports

PORT HENRY, N.Y., Jan. 23.—(Canadian Press).—"Whistling Lyl" Hutchinson, Idaho woman dog team driver, left here yesterday behind a team of seven huskies with a sled load of provisions and fur robes, bound overland, for the winter sports carnival at Montreal. She refused to permit anyone to accompany her, saying her huskies, road maps and an electric torch would serve to bring her safely into Plattsburgh sometime during today.

Although the temperature has dropped to twenty and twenty-five below zero in this section, she said she expected to continue on through the night without stopping until she reaches Plattsburg. Upon her arrival at Montreal, Miss Hutchinson plans to select a team of huskies to compete in the February 22 dog team race at Ashton Idaho. She said last night she expected to reach Montreal Thursday if the trails have snow enough to carry the sled.

ADMITS HE KILLED WIFE

BUT CAN THE LAW PROVE IT?

AURORA, Ill., Jan. 23.—With confession of murder on his lips, Warren J. Lincoln, come back as from the dead to astound a nation with his weird story of killing and destruction, may yet, by the slender thread of a legal technicality, be acquitted of all guilt.

Despite his admission that he is a slayer, despite the evidence supporting his statements, the ponderous machinery of law may find itself hopelessly baffled when it tries to convict him of a crime he freely admits.

Corpus delicti—legal phrase for "the body dead by unlawful means"—must be established before there is, legally, a murder. The law won't take a man's own word that he snuffed out the life of a fellow man.

Bodies Cremated

Assuming Lincoln's story is true, he slew his wife a year ago with a stove poker after she had shot her brother, and then he coolly dismembered both bodies with a hacksaw and incinerated them in his greenhouse furnace. The authorities go farther and charge him with murdering the two of them.

But the bodies have not been produced—the corpus delicti has not been established—and upon that fact many here are basing their belief that Lincoln will never pay the penalty of murder.

Nothing but wonder comes from trying to fathom the mental processes of a man who would do the things Lincoln says he has done and still remain so serene after admission.

"Now I can sleep at night," he says.

And there's a smile on his lips as he sleeps in the jail cell—this enigmatic, baldheaded ex-lawyer and florist of 45, who claims to be a distant cousin of Abraham Lincoln.

What is the meaning of his smile? Is it mere relief at shuffling off a load of guilt and dread? Or is it the smile of his subconscious legal mind still at work, chucking at the tangle of traditional law which may provide a defense instead of punishment?

The Lincoln case is strangely reminiscent of an astounding paralel—the Eulo case in Chicago. Michael Eulo, self-confessed slayer of Samuel Sperling, got off scot free, although he says he shot Sperling because of attentions to his wife. Furthermore, there were witnesses who swore they saw Eulo kill Sperling.

But suddenly in the legal proceedings there was an objection by the defense and a ruling from the court. The state had not shown that the man mentioned in the indictment had been killed. Was there one present who could say of his perfect and personal knowledge that the dead man was Sperling and none other?

There was not. Eulo's wife had disappeared. So had Sperling's brother. And Eulo was acquitted.

Does Lincoln reflect in his cell that the legal posturings in a murder trial are all vain and useless until the first and fundamental step in a murder prosecution has been taken? Does his legal knowledge assure him that the corpus delicti will never be established?

Maybe. But notwithstanding the apparent legal security of his position, he himself has had little mind to smile.

Assuming again the truth of his story, there is revealed a fugitive from an indwelling terror. But for that haunting desire to tell his secret, to be assured that he was safe, he might today be planting a new garden in the sunshine of some distant state.

Bloody Evidence

Over-elaborate plans to build up his alibi made him suspected.

He got out of sight, first making his cottage grewsome with splashed chicken's blook and torn linen in an effort to make himself believed dead at the hands of Shoup and Mrs. Lincoln. But he couldn't stay away. Last summer he returned with a yarn about kidnapping and bondage under a dope ring, and in the fall he fled again.

Meanwhile, he kept providing explanations for the disappearance of his wife and Shoup. He wrote letter after letter to his wife's family, using his own green-ribboned typewriter, and signed her name to them.

When he was at length arrested he blurted out his statement before anyone suggested the missing pair to him.

In his confession, with all its gaudy background of incredible conduct and unproved assertion, his shrewd lawyer mind undoubtedly shaped his case for self-defense.

SOLVED?

The strange disappearance of Mrs. Warren J. Lincoln (above) from Aurora, Ill., last summer has just been explained by Warren J. Lincoln, her husband (below), who the police say has confessed killing the woman and her brother and burning their dismembered bodies in a furnace. Lincoln also disapeared and it was believed at first that he had been killed. He is a lawyer and horticulturist and claims kinship to Abraham Lincoln.

Rush to California Is Over and Many Would Like to Return—Banquet to the Lakefield Fire Brigade Was a Big Event—W. H. Barry May Return to Peterboro.

LFAKEIELD, Jan. 23.—The members of the Lakefield Fire Brigade were the guests of honor at a banquet given by the Lakefield business men on Monday evening in the Hotel Lakefield. The rotunda and dining room were decorated with flags and bunting and presented a gala appearance. Tables were set to accomodate more than one hundred guests and nearly all the places were filled. Several of the prominent citizens were prevented by illness from appearing and regret was expressed at their absence. Hendren's orchestra supplied music during the supper hour, which added to the pleasure of the gentlemen.

The question of honoring the fire brigade is, in the opinion of every ratepayer, worth dubbing a citizen, only a case of giving honor where it is due, and the response of the citizens at the complimentary banmen are backed up by the citizens of the village and must prove an encouragement in their voluntarily assumed service.

The banquet which was served by Mine Host Lawless, assisted by a corps of efficient helpers, was appetizing and heartily enjoyed by all who forgot the bitter nor'wester raging without, in the warmth and good cheer inside.

The menu consisted of chicken soup, roast chicken with dressing, potato and cabbage salad, apple pie and ice cream, and coffee.

When the cigars were passed and all who wished to do so had settled down to enjoy them, the H. G. Fitzgerald, the chairman, rose and in a witty little speech informed the audience that the rule for 1924 called for extreme brevity in the chairman's address, so without delay he proposed the first toast that of His Majesty the King.

After this toast was duly honored, Rev. A. W. Mackenzie proposed the toast to "Our Guests." Mr. Mackenzie deems it an honor to propose the health of the guests, the firemen; whatever they do they do their best and the village is proud of them. They have been present at all the fires in Lakefield in the past years and great credit is due to them as, without all the necessary apparatus and just making the best of what they had, they have a splendid record. By giving pleasure to others in their dances in the Town Hall they have raised money to purchase much of their equipment and they deserve credit for it. The speaker remembers the dear old fire engine, made in Brantford, which used to prance up to every fire, a little late, but always there, though it never put out a fire to any one's knowledge, but the speaker recalled seeing it take a cow out of a well supposedly by hydraulic pressure.

Fire Chief, W. L. Webster, replied to the toast, thanking the business men for honoring the brigade and assuring them that the occasion would always be a pleasant memory to them all. The Lakefield Fire Brigade was organized three years ago and as luckily fires are few, it has become rather a social club for the purpose of keeping the boys together, hence the dances which have provided money for new equipment. In the past year the receipts of the dances amounted to $457.20, and the expenses to $217. During that time $192.80 was expended on equipment which included a new set of ladders, hose and ladder straps, axes, coats and boots, 100 feet of chemical hose, hose nozzle, electric lantern and other smaller items. In thanking the citizens for the banquet the Chief said the only way the boys could prove their gratitude was by service.

Fire Chief Geo. Gimblett, of Peterboro, replied also to the toast. He was pleased at the appreciation of the efficiency of the Fire Department. It is the duty of every citizen to get behind the volunteer brigade. The fire hall is very nice but it is not large enough, there should be a place for the men to congregate and where they can be ready for their call to service. It is the duty of the citizens to provide proper equipment so that the men can do their work properly, for, though the expense looks big, the fire will pay for it. If there was a room for the men to meet it might save a house as they would be convenient if the alarm sounded. This is the hardest weather to fight fire for the cold makes every branch of the work difficult. Last year's fire loss of $1,900.00 was topped by the one fire loss of 1924, which was in no way the fault of the brigade, but in the lack of proper equipment. These things can be secured by the Council working in conjunction with the brigade. These men do their work as a duty and they are the kind of citizens every one should be, always ready for the call to service.

J. Clayton Ridpath proposed the toast to "The Ladies" by saying that, while they all were united in their praise of the ladies on such occasions as these, they were most appreciated by their absence.

W. H. Casement replied by saying that he felt honored at being asked to speak for the ladies, who really made the firemen's dances a success, we would have a dull time without them. The ladies are to be found in the halls of learning, editing newspapers and in many prominent places and he would say "God bless the ladies."

Dr. J. C. Smith sang in good voice "Are You Working?" being rapturously encored, sang "Oh Gee, Oh Gosh, Oh Golly, I'm in Love."

The toast to the Manufacturing and Mercantile Interests was proposed by Reeve J. C. Strickland.

Mr. Strickland spoke, first of all, of the appreciation of himself and the Council for the fire brigade, who are all boys of our own town who voluntarily organized themselves and pluckily have worked for increased equipment, we hope they realize that the citizens are behind them.

The absence of Messrs. E. W. Bailey and E. R. Tate, through illness, was regretted as they were among those who were expected to reply to this toast. The Council is trying to secure more industries for the town which is handicapped by the lack of transportation. In talking with four of the leading officials of the C.N.R. the speaker was practically assured that a gasoline car will be put on this line in the near future. Some people regard this as a menace to local business but it would not be so, but would help the village as a number of Peterboro people would move here to live if they could go back and forward each day to business.

Lakefield is, in the opinion of the speaker, the prettiest village in Ontario. Our chief manufacturing industry is the Canada Cement Company's plant which, while rather slow in construction, is a great asset. There are five stores in Lakefield where one can get practically everything they require. A public meeting is called for February 4th for the purpose of organizing a band when Mr. Clarke and others interested will explain the project. The citizens, who are not being asked for money, should turn out to the meeting and get behind the enterprise. Regarding the much needed new bridge the speaker is most anxious to see a cement structure and as there is practically a natural foundation the cost of construction would be materially reduced. It is Lakefield's opportunity to get a bridge at a reasonable cost.

H. R. Wagar replied on behalf of the Canada Cement Co.

After congratulating the firemen on their brigade and efficiency, Mr. Wagar spoke on the development of the plant of the company at present under construction. The local plant which has one of the best quarries of any of the plants controlled by the Company, will, when completed, be one of the most up-to-date cement factories in Ontario. The limestone and shale from what is known as a natural mix similar to that found at

SETTLERS AND JOBBERS OPPOSE PULP EMBARGO

Believe They Would Be Forced to Accept Prices of Canadian Mills If the American Market Was Closed to Them — The Commission Moves to Cochrane.

NORTH BAY, Jan. 23. — Testimony strongly adverse to the principle of an embargo on pulpwood exports from Canada, was given before the Royal Commission on pulpwood on Monday and Tuesday, in the town hall. The commission commenced a two days session here on Monday morning and proceed to Cochrane to-day.

The evidence of A. L. Perkins, of the A. L. Perkins Co., of Powassan, at the hearing yesterday morning was stated by the commissioners as having been among the most important evidence given during the course of the inquiry in Ontario. Mr. Perkins, who was on the stand all the morning, was decidedly against the embargo on the ground that it would stifle competition, and force the small jobbers and settlers to accept low prices from the big Canadian companies. He also scored an important point in bringing to the attention of the commission the fact that when a Canadian jobber contracts to supply pulpwood to a Canadian mill, his wood is automatically hypothecated to any bank or banks to which the mill may have hypothecated its holdings, even before delivery. An embargo would cut off the foreign market, he claimed, would leave the settlers and jobbers in a serious situation. They would be forced to accept the companies own prices, and even then their pulpwood would be liable to seizure in the event of the failure of the company.

There is little local demand for pulpwood and the jobbers depend largely on the American market.

Stock up in the Spring.

"The marvel is that Canadian mills let all this wood go past their doors," he said. "I cannot see why they would not put it into groundwood, and dispose of it to the American mills, as they are well stocked up in these months and the price was 50c a cord less than what might be obtained later on."

Canadian mills, he said, offer $7 a cord at certain Ontario shipping points, but the American mills offer $9.50 a cord.

Mr. Perkins chiefly stressed the fact that there is a clause in the Bank Act providing for hypothecation of wood consigned to a Canadian mill, and urged that the commission bring this to the attention of the government, as he claimed that it entailed too great a risk upon settlers and jobbers. This risk would become an actual menace in the event of an embargo.

Opinion Adverse

"Sentiment throughout the Province in general seems to be against the pulpwood embargo," stated D. D. McPherson, K.C., of Toronto, to the "Nugget" last night. Mr. McPherson, who represents the interest of a number of Canadian producers and jobbers at the Commission hearings, stated that in his opinion the commission had not been very fairly dealt with by certain sections of the press. It has been alleged that the commission was instituted for anti-embargo purposes, and largely influenced by American interests, but the nature of the evidence taken so far, he felt, had shown that allegation to be false.

As an observer at the sessions to date he found the commission ready and willing to listen to all witnesses caring to appear before cross-examination and the testimony of each witness was taken as it was given.

"The vast majority of the evidence to date," he said, "has been against the embargo, in practically all sections of the province. More particularly have we found this sentiment to exist strongly among the settlers and jobbers, all of whom feel that if foreign competition is removed they can expect little lucrative revenue from marketing their pulpwood. They feel that it will be a case of taking just what the big companies, with their own large timber limits already at their disposal, care to give them."

INQUIRY UNDER O.T.A. ENDS IN RESIGNATION

TORONTO, Jan. 23.—(Canadian Press).— A dramatic sequel to an inquiry held by Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., attorney general, into the official acts of an officer charged with the enforcement of the Ontario temperance act, is a request from an officer concerned to be allowed to tender his resignation.

The officer whose acts came under the notice of attorney general is a member of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Provincial Police Officers spoken to last night refused to discuss the inquiry or results thereof. It was stated that among those who attended the inquiry was James Hales K. C. chairman of the Ontario License Board.

THE NEW WARDEN

WARDEN W. M. FOWLDS.

At Cobourg last evening, Reeve W. M. Fowlds of Hastings, was elected Warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham by a vote of 34 to 6. A reception is being planned in Hastings when the new Warden returns home Friday evening.

Fifty years ago, before Hastings was an incorporated village and when it was a part of Percy township, Mr. Jas. Fowlds was elected Warden of the United Counties.

Mr. Fowlds was a councillor in Hastings for four years, and has been Reeve for seven years. Besides being a member of the County Council for seven years he has chairman of almost every committee.

REEVES DID NOT ARRIVE IN TIME

Opening Session of the Cobourg County Council Adjourned Until Evening

COBOURG, Jan. 23. — When Counties Clerk N. F. Machachtan called the Counties Council to order at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, going through the form prescribed by the Statute, only two members were present and the session was adjourned until 7.30 in the evening when the Council will be organized by the election of the Warden for 1924.

There are 12 new faces in the Council this year out of a membership of 40, at least there are 12 who were not here in 1923. Of this number several were members in former years and have demonstrated their ability to come back, many of them stronger than ever after a municipal vacation. Reeve Charles H. Davidson of Campbellford, was out last year, but is now serving his fifth term as representative of his town. Reeve Davidson was a strong candidate for the wardenship in 1921 being runner up in the three cornered contest in which Reeve Van Volkenburg of Seymour also figured. By every precedent Reeve Davidson should be in the race again this year but several days ago he announced that he would place the name of Reeve Fowlds of Hastings in nomination. Deputy Reeve Dorie of Campbellford, is here for the first time and he enjoys the distinction of being the member who at the recent election was given the largest majority,—328.

Reeve John McCubbin of Percy Township is back again after a two years' previous experience.

The other new reeves are W. J. Corbett of Cobourg and H. B. Law son of Hope Township. The deputy reeves who are strangers, either entirely or after an absence, are, J. L. Dorie of Campbellford, W. J. Jibb of Hamilton, A. R. McKenzie of Haldimand, Thomas Patterson of Clarke, David Robinson of Cavan, W. H. Thickson of Bowmanville and Montford Wilson of Hope. Hope, Port Hope, Campbellford, Cobourg and Bowmanville and the only municipalities that have made an entire change of representatives.

Reeve Van Volkenburg of Seymour is on his eighth consecutive term and this places him among the veteran members. Every time he faced his constituents he was elected by acclamation, a record seldom equalled. Among the other veteran war horses are Reeve Fowlds of Hastings, Reeve McCamus of Cavan Reeve Wood of Millbrook and Reeve Staples of Manvers.

The corridor of the New Durham House was packed all afternoon Tuesday with the various candidates for the wardenship and their supporters. Lobbying was more in evidence than for years as the four announced candidates were supposed to be evenly matched with Reeve Fowlds of Hastings slightly in the lead. The latter reached here Tuesday at noon accompanied by a number of friends and supporters from Hastings, including . A. Coughlan, a member of the Council in that village, J. J. Masterson and J. F. McCarthy, every man of them animated with civic pride, anxious to see the honor of the wardenship come to their village which plans for next summer an old boys' reunion.

Among the ex-wardens of the United Counties who arrived in Cobourg, Tuesday to watch the fight in which they had participated were Harry B. Phillips of Brighton and F. W. Bowen of Newcastle, who has since graduated as Federal representative from East Durham. The wardenship of Northumberland and Durham is prized in itself as a high honor and is besides, in the light of precedent regarded as a stepping stone to a place in Parliament or Legislature. The latest example of such a promotion is M. E. Maybee, M.P. of Northumberland, who was warden, as Reeve of Murray township in 1920, retiring from office to be elected to his present position less than a year later.

DO WEDDING PRESENTS BELONG TO THE WIFE?

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.— (Canadian Press.) — Judge Sabath must decide whether a bride's wedding presents belong to her or her husband. Isabelle Gentile has brought a suit for separate maintenance and alimony against Francis Gentile, charging cruelty .They were married in April, 1922 and, according to the Italian custom, all male guests danced with the bride, each giving her a sum of money for the privilege.

She received $900 in all as a result of this. As soon as the guests departed, she charges, her husband snatched the money away from her. Judge Sabath ordered the husband to pay his wife $12 weekly and told him not to spend the $900 as he would rule on that later.

during 1923 and all or nearly all had reached beyond the allotted three score and ten years.

"Generally speaking the inmates appear happy and contented.

"We respectfully appeal to the Council to get behind the 1924 Board and assist in providing for God's old poor as former Councils have done."

Maintenance Cost .6,698

The Chairman reported, with John Clark and Robert Scott, committee men, that the maintenance of the House of Refuge for the year was $6,698.95. There were 34 persons in residence on January 1, 1923; three entered, three left and six died during the year, leaving 28 in residence at December 31. The average number in the House during the year was 23.28.

County Treasurer E. Elliott presented his report for the year, which was adopted on motion of Councillors Clarke and Corkery. "Your standing today," the treasurer said, "is about $2,290 current surplus."

Communications

Communications were read and referred to the various committees:

From James Grant, applying for the position of caretaker at Chemong bridge.

From Miss Annie E. M. Hall, thanking the County Council for floral tokens on the death of her father, the late Sheriff J. A. Hall.

From Norwood High School, asking for a grant of $1,000 for the carrying on of higher education. The including of this work in the curriculum did away with the necessity, it was said, of children going elsewhere at great expense.

From the Department of Highways, advising the County Council that any by-laws passed by municipalities governing highway traffic shall be deemed repealed by the provincial legislation which came into effect on January 1. Hereafter, all proposed by-laws of this nature must be submitted to the Department in order to contribute to uniformity of traffic regulations.

From the Department of Highways, informing the County Council that proposed work on the Provincial Highways through Peterboro' county this year will cost $11,280, twenty per cent of which is payable by the County. In 1923 there was $14,679.46 spent on these highways, twenty per cent of which is due from the County Council and payable this year.

From the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, asking a grant and referring to the failure of the County Council to grant the $300 asked for last year.

From H. G. Fitzgerald, representing the Lakefield business men, urging the necessity of rebuilding the Lakefield bridge of concrete throughout and pointing out the danger of the present structure.

From G. A. Brethen, Norwood, asking the bonus for a newly-erected wire fence.

The Council went into committee at 4 o'clock to strike the standing committees for the year.

DEPUTATION TO THE GOVERNMENT

Northern Ontario Wants Attention From Ferguson Administration.

TORONTO, January 23 (Canadian Press). — Northern Ontario interjected a personal touch into its legislative aspirations yesterday when some fifty of its foremost residents waited upon Premier Ferguson, Hon. C. C. McCrea, and the Hon. James Lyons, in the interests of projects which they desired to have assured.

Their mission, for one which required Government to embrace important expenditures was attended by conspicuous success. Notable in connection with it was the fact that no proposals were espoused with which Northern Ontario members of the Ferguson Cabinet are not already in touch, and an answer of definiteness not usually accorded to deputation was possible.

In consequence, the deputation was informed that the Government was substantially in accord with its views. It was promised attention in the matter of colonisation roads such as it has not had hitherto, an aggressive policy of bounties and encouragement necessary to foster the iron industry of Algoma as pledged, and re-organisation of forest fire protection service, such as will make it more efficient and economical was declared to be impending.

GETS VANCOUVER JOB.

CALGARY, January 23 (Canadian Press). — Mayor Webster announced yesterday morning that Police Chief David Ritchie had been offered and had accepted the post of Chief of Police at Vancouver.

Chief Ritchie left for Vancouver last night.

THE NEW WARDEN.

The election of Reeve Martin P. Coughlin of Douro Township as Warden of the County of Peterboro will be favourably received in all sections of the county, and will give especial pleasure to the citizens of Douro which township has but seldom in the history of the municipality furnished a chief executive officer for the county body.

Mr. Coughlin has given excellent service as a member of the County Council and the regard and esteem in which he is held by his fellow legislators is indicated by the fact that his election to the Wardenship was unanimous, no name being placed in opposition to Mr. Coughlin's.

Most of the members of the council this year have had previous experience so that the new Warden starts out upon his term of office with the assistance of a seasoned council, with the members of which he is deservedly popular.

Mr. Coughlin should have a very successful term in the Warden's chair.

A FORWARD STEP.

The decision of the Board of Health that the pollution of the Otonabee River within the city limits must be stopped, is a forward step toward a healthier and better city.

There has been no particular reason, except the indifference of the authorities, why this practice of using the river as a sewer has been allowed to exist so long.

Nobody has bothered very much about it and naturally there has been no attempt on the part of the manufacturing firms which come under the Board's order to seek another outlet for their sewage and waste products.

The river was there close at hand, the health authorities or the city council did not give voice to any objections and under the circumstances it was but natural that the easiest way should be followed.

True, no epidemics have resulted, but the possibilities are always present, so long as the waters of the river are used as a sewer.

It is a beautiful stream, the Otonabee, and each summer more and more citizens are patronizing the civic bathing places and enjoying the healthful and enjoyable recreation of swimming.

Because of that fact it is essential that the waters of the Otonabee shall be kept as free as possible from contamination.

The firms affected by the order will doubtless see the matter from that viewpoint and will co-operate with the health authorities in bringing about better sanitary conditions.

THE "WHITE ELEPHANT" NO LONGER.

The announcement that the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario is to entertain at luncheon at Government House next week between 300 and 400 representative farmers of the province is just another proof of the fact that Col. Harry Cockshutt believes that his position is not merely a nominal one but that it offers a field of service on behalf of the people of Ontario.

He has succeeded in driving out almost altogether the old impression of his high office and the prejudice that used to exist against Government House.

Not long ago the Lieutenant-Governor's official residence was held up to ridicule by political speakers and newspapers as a "white elephant", kept up by the money of the people of this province for the benefit of a few Toronto "society folks."

There is none of that kind of talk now, for Col. Cockshutt has demonstrated that a Lieutenant-Governor with vision and judgment can act as a connecting link between all classes, and that Government House, instead of a society gathering place can be utilized in the best interests of the province as a rallying point where the common welfare can be discussed.

During his term of office there have been numerous conferences around his hospitable board, municipal representatives, manufacturers, merchants, school teachers, professional men have rubbed shoulders and discussed their problems.

The farmers from all over Ontario who will come together next week, it is safe to say, will not only throughly enjoy themselves and develop a greater interest in each other's viewpoint but they will carry away with them a very different impression of Government House than they did a short time ago.

THE TURN-OVER TAX—NO. 2.

There are some outstanding differences between the sales tax as we know it is Canada and the turn-over tax, the adoption of which is being urged as a more suitable policy for this country.

In the first place the percentage to be applied under the turn-over tax is usually placed at 1 per cent. at each stage, instead of 6 per cent. at the most highly finished stage only, or varying percentages at one or more stages.

Secondly, the turn-over tax would apply to the sale of all commodities at all stages and not simply at one stage.

The third difference is that while the present sales tax is applied to every individual sale at the time of the sale and involves a tremendous amount of calculation and adjustment, the, turnover tax wiuld be applied on the amount of the gross sales of commodities or services at the end of each month and would involve simply the determination of one per cent. of the gross sales for the period specificied.

Anyone keeping even single entry books or even a cash register could easily fill out the necessary form and calculate the size of the government's cheque.

In the fourth place the number of businesses subject to the turn-over tax would naturally be much greater than that now subject to the sales tax.

This would in one sense increase the work of the tax department in so far as it would compel it to deal with more people but would decrease the work on account of the greater simplicity of the turn-over tax and making investigations where these are proved necessary.

It would increase the number of those who have to make reports but would reduce, for the average taxpayer, the difficulty of making out such a report.

The general turn-over tax would also differ from the present sales tax that it would be applied to the sale of service as well as commodities.

The number paying the turn-over tax could be considerably reduced by the exemption of turn-over out of proportion to the proceeds to the government.

In this connection practically all proponents of the turn-over tax recommend the exemption of turn-over up to $5,000 or $6,000.

CANNOT MINIMIZE PULPWOOD EXPORTS.

An effort is being made in the United States to minimize the heavy increase in the volume of imports of pulp wood from Canada by that country during the past year, says the Financial Times. While the total for the 12 months ending November 30th, 1923, was 1,416,558 cords as compared with 971,967 in 1922, the statement is made by the American Paper & Pulp Association that "the higher imports for the latter year (1923) were merely sufficient to compensate for the abnormally low imports of 1922." It is further stated that the 1923 figures show an increase of only 200,000 cords above the average in the past four years.

While this is true as far as it goes, it is equally true that as between 1922 and 1923 there was an increase in the pulpwood sen tout of Canada to feed the United States Mills of over 444,000 cords, or close to 50 per cent. advance for 1923 over the previous year. It is also true that the United States took some 400,000 cords in 1923 over and above the average for the past ten years or so. Part of the increase during 1923 was due to threatened embargo to the export of pulpwood from Canada, as indicated by the fact that in the latter part of the year, when the Canadain Government was good enough to allay about 99 per cent. of the fears of United States mills over such an embargo, imports dropped considerably.

It remains true, however, that sufficient wood went over to the United States from Canada in 1923 to enable the mills in that country to produce well over 900,000 tons of newsprint, and that the average for the past four years produced in the United States from Canadian pulpwood exceeded 800,000 tons of newsprint. Thus, Canadian pulpwood sent over to the United States in 1923 produced about 75 per cent. of the total amount of newsprint manufactured in the same year in all the paper mills of Canada. It is futile, therefore, for any attempt to be made to suggest that the volume of export of pulp wood from Canada can in any sense be disregarded as unimportant, either in relation to the total amount of wood still available in this country, or to the amount that is being utilized by Canadian mills for their own purposes.

PYRAMIDING TAXES.

Ordinary safety matches can be bought in Detroit stores, twelve boxes for ten cents. In Canada, a similar article is sold at the rate of two boxes for five cents. In other words, safety matches cost here just three times as much as they do in the United States. And it stands to reason that they are not three times as expensive to manufacture, or to market, for it is just as likely as not that some of Canada's good white pine timber enters into the matches they sell on the other side so cheaply.

The difference lies in one-half cent excise tax, paid by the manufacturer on each small box of matches. This tax is pyramided. In other words, for every half cent that reaches the Dominion treasury, the match user is paying pretty close to three times that much. Such a calculation would allow the match maker considerable leeway in the cost of each box, to compensate for higher manufacturing cost here.

The difference is not much on a few boxes of matches. Perhaps it does not bear very heavily on the ordinary Canadian. But the illustration does show how taxes are pyramided, and one reason why it is up to the nation's representatives in Parliament to give the whole question of taxation attention which will result in considerably lightening the burden the country is at present bearing.

Sir Joseph Flavelle says that our income tax ought to be cut in half. That may look like an attempt to relieve the burden of those who have incomes big enough to pay taxes on, and pass it on to the other fellow, but it is not. Some way is usually found of passing on the taxes, and when they are shifted to the ultimate consumer it is always a case of a little more plus.

Mr. Andrew Mellon, secretary of the United States treasury, is one of the richest men in the world. But that does not detract from the common sense arguments he puts forward for reducing income taxation, particularly supertaxes, in his own country. The effect of these levies, which run up to 58 per cent. in the United States, has not been to make the big incomes pay a larger share of the expenses of the country. Revenue is actually being lost, to say nothing of the burden the levies place on business. If they are paid, they are passed on, plus. If they are not paid, by the simple process of investing in tax exempt securities, the burden is on business just the same, for it is denied that much capital, and must pay that much more for what it uses, following the inexorable law of supply and demand.

Such is the way the income tax deal stands in the United States. And Congress, sensible of the temper of the people, is going to revise it, and revise it downward. Republicans may fight with Democrats about how it is to be done, but it will be done. The United States has a surplus of revenue and Canada hasn't. But the moral is obvious to the Dominion, just the same. The tax burden must be lightened.

The income levy, while undoubtedly necessary up to a certain point, has been a terrific drain on the business of the Dominion. Business men have paid out millions that would otherwise have gone into the development of their enterprises and therefore of the country as a whole. It is obvious that every reduction made in the income tax will result in a greater expansion of business with proportionate increases in employment and therefore general prosperity. — Border Cities Star.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 22.—(United Press).—A small tin box, much like the ordinary 'strong box" was recently presented to the Nebraska Historical Society here by Homer M. McKay, Seward, Neb. It was the first ballot box ever used in the State. The father of McKay was a member of the city election board here during the year of 1868, and became the possessor of the tin ballot box when larger boxes were installed. Light heifers less than 800 lbs. each sold at 4¼ cents, and some skips at 3¾ cents. Cows were steady, but with few good enough to reach 5 cents.

Another light run of lambs made this market firmer again, and a small bunch of nice weight lambs sold yesterday morning at 14 cents. Heavy ewe lambs are selling at 12½ cents. Heavy sheep are going at 4½ to 5 cents a pound.

Recent small runs of hogs have upset the packers' programmen, and the price edged up to $7.75 a cwt. f.o.b. yesterday. Monday's hogs sold generally at $7.50 f.o.b., and $8 fed and watered.

The Crow of Croup A Warning To All Mothers
Croup starts with a dry cough and rattling in the throat; after which the croup crow gives warning of the disease. The child, after tossing restlessly about, will start up with a flushed face, protuding eyeballs, and a distressing look of terror and anxiety. There is a struggle for breath, and the expectoration of the mucous matter is so difficult to get rid of that the effort appears to threaten strangulation.
On the first sign of the "croupy crow" mothers should administer Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and thus give the child prompt and permanent relief, and perhaps the life saved by taking this precaution.
Mrs. H. A. Langhorn, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"My little boy was very bad with the croup and I could not get anything to relieve him until I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I cannot praise it too highly for the relief it gave him."
Price 35c. a bottle; the large family size 60c; put up only by the The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ROYAL COMMISSIONER

that there was an understanding that the maximum figure to be attained by the Insurance Fund was $1,000,000 and that the $223,957 in excess of that figure was the surplus referred to.

In accordance with this decision one years salary was granted to President Kelley, J. W. Dalrymple, W. D. Robb and R. B. Logan, vice-presidents of the road; to J. M. Rosevear, comptroller to D. E. Galloway, assistant to the president; W. P. Hinton, vice-president and general manager of the G. T. P.; H. H. Harkard, solicitor G.T.P. and S. P. Porter, executive agent of the G. P. In addition to these gratuities $5,000 was granted to G. T. Bell passenger and traffic manager. It was also decided to grant Frank Scott, vice-president and treasurer of the company under whose supervision the insurance fund had developed $25,000 and $12,500 to H. H. Norman, secretary and $10,500 to H. Deere, assistant secretary.

Suggested by Scott

Mr. Honeywell finds that Mr. Scott urged upon President Kelley the need of tangible recognition because of his supervision over the insurance fund. The Commissioner believes that the whole question of gratuities arose out of this suggestion by Mr. Scott.

"I find," says the Commissioner, "that no payments other than $190,400 and certain interest payments were made out of the funds of the company."

In commenting upon the action of the railway officials the Commissioner says: "The legal remedies if any, relative to the payment of gratuities can be dealt with by the Department of Justice and it only remains for me to deal with the moral aspect.

"Kelly and Scott, as president and treasurer, were thoroughly familiar with the financial difficulties of their company and had knowledge of the pending acquisition of the system by the Government and the propriety of their recommending to Sir Alfred Smithers, either jointly or severally, the payment of a large sum in gratuities, may very properly be questioned."

Continuing, the report points out that the gratuitants other than the Kelley and Scott deny any part in arranging for the payment. Most of them were entitled to some form of superannuation of pension in the natural order of events.

Grants Confidential

"It is evident from the method of payments," says the Commissioner, "that it was the president's wish that the grants should be treated as confidential."

Mr. Kelley's explanation of this circumstances is given in the report as a desire to prevent ill-feeling amongst employees who had not been considered entitled to a gratuity. The Commissioner feels that this explanation is open to criticism.

He concludes with a recommendation that the Government should deal leniently with gratuitants still in the road's employ if it is decided to call for repayment of the gratuities.

RADIO NEWS

In place of the single inductance coil or variometer used for the primary inductance in the single circuit tuner two inductance coils may be used, in which case the receiver is placed in the two-circuit class. A common form of inductance used is the receiving transformer, commonly called a "loose coupler," in which the primary and secondary consist of turns of wire wound on insulated tubes. The secondary slides inside the primary coil for varying the coupling between the two coils. Both the primary and secondary are tuned by taps brought out from the windings.

The variocoupler forms another popular inductance for the two circuit tuner. The primary winding is usually on an insulated tube varied by taps, and the secondary is wound on a ball which is rotated with respect to the primary, and can be tuned by a variable condenser connected across the coil.

In the two-circuit tuner the primary inductance is connected between the aerial and ground. The secondary inductance is then connected to the remainder of the set in the same manner as the inductance in the single circuit. The incoming radio frequency impulses are transferred from the primary inductance to the secondary inductance by the process of induction, there being no direct connection to the detector tube from the aerial as in the case of the single circuit tuner.

The primary circuit is tuned approximately to the wavelength of the station to be received and the secondary coil is tuned in resonance with the primary. This permits greater selection in tuning and will enable you to tune one station in and eliminate other stations as well as the greater percentage of code interference which may be present.

You Can Eat Anything You Like And Not Have HEARTBURN

TOBOGGAN SLIDES

the government has not raised any objection to the work. The city pays 30 per cent., the county 30 per cent and the provincial government pays 40 per cent. Everything has been done under the supervision of a government engineer in order to qualify for the 40 per cent. grant.

Alderman Maher remarked that the difference seems to be a quarrel between sections of the country that had been settled and was cropping up again.

Alderman Morrison said the road in question had never been opened as a county road or by anyone and could not become a provincial road.

Alderman Crowe proposed that in view of the fact that doubt has been raised as to which road should be adopted as a suburban road to be developed east from Peterborough, as many as can of the Board of Works be a deputation to attend the County Council to hear the discussion.

Alderman Meyers: I cannot understand why we should be asked to take over these roads if they must be township roads and county roads first.

Several members of the Board: "Thats' what we all want to find out."

Reoprt Wanted.

The fact that a report of the activities of the Suburban Roads Commission, to which the city must necessarily contribute, has been asked for several times and not received was the basis of a hot controversy On mtion of Aldermen Stocker and Morrison took part, the former saying he has been on the council three years and has never seen a report, and the latter saying the report is available whenever it is asked for. On motion of Aledrmen Stocker and Meyers the secretary of the Commission will be asked to supply the City Council with a copy of the report.

North Monaghan Sewers.

A report was read from Engineer R. H. Parsons on the basis on which the township of North Monaghan should be given service through the city's trunk sewers. On motion by the Mayor copies of the report will be made and distributed to the members of the Council for their consideration.

City Engineer Parsons told the Board that the district requesting the service is a difficult one in which to construct sewers, on account of the sand, quicksand and water. If poorly constructed these tributaries could easily stop the flow in the city's trunk sewer, he said.

A request from North Monaghan for a statement as to progress in the discussion will be replied to saying a conference is hoped for at an early date.

Miscellaneous Business.

Re-numbering of houses on Crescent, Lock, Aylmer and Park streets where needed was left to the City Engineer.

A request from Joseph Ronco for sewer connection on Donegal street was referred to the engineer.

City Solicitor Joseph Wearing warned the city council in a communication that the city appears liable for ordinary negligence from slippery sidewalks, following a recent court case. He advised the City Engineer and staff to "take no chances."

A communication was read from D. W. Dumble, asking permission to open a thirty foot lane to reach his property where he wishes to build. Council had previously refused to allow this.

Aldermen Stocker, Maher and Fife said they would approve of any that could consistently be found to permit the opening of the road. On motion of Aldermen McIntyre and Meyers the letter was received.

Aldermen Fife and Stocker proposed that the attention of Canadian National Railway be called to the condition of the fence on the south side of Wescott street, the rail being broken.

There were present: Chairman R. Morrison; Mayor J. J. Turner, Aldermen Walter Stocker, J. O. Fife, J. W. Meyers, R. N. Jones, M. McIntyre, M. J. Maher and J. Crowe. Engineer R. H. Parson and Street Commissioner Harry Evans.

An Uxbridge (Eng.) bowls match was finished by candlelight, and the winner's name was Knight.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy
Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $3. Easily and quickly prepared.
If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.
Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and saves easily $2. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.
This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.
A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.
Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.
To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

BACK OF THE FRANC'S FALL

Germany Had Defaulted Payments to Which She Was Pledged.

Over the world and in France the value of the franc has fallen; and in France the price of bread, meats, shoes, wine, everything, has risen. There has begun a flight from the franc like that from the mark, but for vastly different reasons. The cause may be summed up very simply.

German reparations were to restore French war-ruined areas and war pensions. Germany, as the world knows, defaulted deliberately and with malice aforethought. France has been paying the bill Germany should have paid and was pledged to pay.

Back of the German default is a sordid, ugly chapter of allied defaults. By the Treaty of Versailles the Allies were pledged to see that Germany paid. They have evaded that solemn contract, broken faith and repudiated these pledges.

France, bled white physically and financially by the war, took the word of her twenty-seven allies and associates that Germany would be forced to pay. At that time these Powers stood shoulder to shoulder. Germany was amply able to pay, for her money was sound and her industrial structure untouched by war. Assured of final payment, France went about the work of changing shell-holes into fields and heaps of ruins into villages.

She has made good 85 per cent of the damage, and in so doing has advanced 118,000,000,000 francs on the account of Germany; but her courage and her reliance on the pledged word of her allies have brought her to the ragged rim of financial ruin. She can go no further in raising money the Germans should raise.

Since 1918 France has had two budgets. One is her normal, or ordinary budget, balanced in 1923 for the first time since the war. It showed receipts of 23,430,000,000 francs, according to the French Bureau of Information in the United States, and expenditures of 23,400,000,000. This is an excellent showing, when it is considered that this includes running expenses of the Government and the interest on about 300,000,000,000 francs borrowed in France during the war.

The other budget represents exactly what France has advanced on the German account for pensions and restorations. It is called the "Recoverable Budget," since France expects to recover its 100,000,000,000 francs from Germany. This is the pyramided burden that has unbalanced the French financial situation, dragged down the franc and forced up the cost of living.

The French are clear-eyed realists and will face the thing as it is. They propose to add 20 per cent to all taxes and 5,000,000,000 francs to the revenues. Abandoning proposals for increased expenditures in the ruined areas, they will save 3,000,000,000 francs more and finally will refund the "recoverable" billions into the general budget.

The French Government may be insolvent, but the French people are solvent. France has no unemployment, is virtually self-supporting, her trade balances are not alarming and economically she is strong. Courage and decision can check the fall of the franc, and the French never had been lacking in either.

Had allied unity continued, France would not be in difficulties. France and her franc would not be victims of allied broken faith. Germany would have paid and there would never have been a "recoverable budget," with its billions of francs, that stand today as an evil monument to allied disunity and German perfidy.—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE PRINCE PASSES

U. S. TO DEPORT AMERICAN HICK FOR BLOOD TOO BLUE

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—If you had been born in a hick town in Illinois, and had been dubbed a "no-account" by your fellow townsmen, and you had left your home town, got to London and acquired a foreign accent, and come back home and duped a lot of swell soceity people by making them think you were a Russian prince If you had done all these things, and then had been taken to Ellis Island and ordered deported to France—wouldn't it make you sore?

"Prince Obolenski," once the hick Harvey Ferguson, of Hillsboro, Ill., has these reasons for being "sore" today. He is going to be deported to France. The order was issued yesterday in Washington.

But, peeved as he may be, the "Prince" has had one satisfaction—that is food. For the "Prince" had less than 25 cents in his pockets when he was picked up by the police in New York, after an adventuresome "farewell" tour of the country. And you can't eat long on two bits in New York.

A Matter of Courage

It takes a lot of hard work and courage and ambition to transform one's self from a small town rube into a Russian prince. It isn't an overnight job; and there must have been something to Harvey, after all, for, during his stay in London he picked up a nice, deliciously nice, Russian accent, grew a typical British mustache, taught himself how to swing a cane, wear spats and smoke a British briar pipe.

It takes courage to plunge into the icy Atlantic and swim from Ellis Island to the Battery, towing a heavy cane by a string to make his entry into the country of one's birth. But Harvey did it.

And it takes courage to face a battery of newspaper men and get away with a pose of nobility. But Harvey did this.

Harvey didn't dare stage too much of a show in New York, for there are a lot of people here who know that the family of the Russian Prince Obolenski was wiped out years ago; but Harvey managed to get by until he could get funds to enable him to reach the more gullible society people of the interior. He tried his stunt at Harvard, was found out and left for the West. There he had various success, sometimes being feted, at others taking advantage of opportunities to become floor walker in a Kansas City store, and "accepting" employment between times in Oklahoma City and Wichita, Kan.

Managed To Live

Sometimes Harvey had a hard time convincing folks of his blue blood connections, and then maybe he spent a few days in jail, until some friend, with more money than anything else, got him out. But, on the whole, he managed to live, and his occasional maneuverings, in social rings where the Russian pose was accepted, gave him a pleasure which compensated for the unpleasantness.

On the whole, however, Harvey's career as Prince offered little more than adventure. When he was found out here, he had reached the end of the string, financially and every way. So it was not an entirely unwelcome greeting that the officers gave him.

Harvey might, perhaps, have saved himself from deportation if he had claimed his right as an American But to do so meant imprisonment for fraud. His tales of life abroad, colored by a bright imagination, offered excuse enough for deportation, and the immigration officers accepted him at his own word as a foreigner who had at one time killed a man in a student bawl at Heidelburg, Germany, and hence was undesirable.

REVENGE IS SWEET

"What will you do?" asked his mother.

"I'll name my boy after papa. And oh!—how I'll spank him."—Progressive Grocer.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

THE GRAND COLLAPSE

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER:

Sir,—I hope everyone will read the words following containing the remarks of Professor Sayce of Oxford University, the greatest Orientalist in the world. His caustic observations regarding the "ignorance" of those who presume to say that discoveries of science in Babylonia, Egypt, etc., have shown that the Bible is untenable and frequently in error, may well precede an ignominous retreat of that wretched army of "ministers of the gospel" who abandoned the Bible as the Word of God. The position of these "higher critics" in view of Prof. Sayce's words and of the tendency of all recent discoveries of Science is as humiliating as it is disgraceful. What new fad will they lead their abject followers amongst the people into now that their new and highly-paid propaganda is doomed? Will the scepticism of those also who abandoned "God in the world" go likewise or will it still flourish in its soil of self-righteousness and "ignorance?"

For the benefit of those who may not have followed the course of the clerical and lay rebellion it may be as well to say that before the "fundamentalists," or those loyal to the old faith, were called by that name they were called "traditionalists." The name still adhered to in Britain and used by Professor Sayce below.

J. H. BURNHAM.

What Professor Sayce says:

A great meeting was recently held in the Albert Hall, London, England, for the purpose of bearing united testimony to the belief of the Evangelical Churches in the accuracy of Divine authority of Scripture. It was a gathering of nearly, if not quite ten thousand people, representative of all sections of the Christian Church. Among the testimonies given was a letter from Professor Sayce of Oxford, the eminent archaeologist. This is what he said:

There is no better way of impressing upon the general public the fact that the sceptical attitude toward the records of the Old and New Testaments is today usually the mark of ignorance or semi-knowledge. The leading scientists have returned in great measure to what may be termed the traditional views on the subject, and nowhere is this more strikingly the case than as regards the historical records of Scripture. Archaeology based on scientific excavation has demolished the assumptions and conclusions of subjective criticism, and it is not going too far to say that the remarkable discoveries of the last thirty years have, with hardly an exception, been dead against the most confident decisions of the merely literary critic, and in favor of the trustworthiness of our records. The early use of writing for literary purposes in the Near East, the high state of culture and sea communication in the Abrahamic and Mosaic ages, and the accuracy of details in the Babylonian narratives have all alike been demonstrated, and the field of Old Testament history is as complete as it has been in the field of early Greek history.
